Congressman Happy Camp
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

Dear Congressman:

I wish to thank you for the fine job that you are doing in the House of Representatives. I believe the vast majority of the people in our area feel the same way.

I sent Senator Mansfield the following telegram:

"I am a life long democrat and former Chairman of the Oklahoma State Board of Affairs. I am extremely disappointed in the leadership you are exhibiting.

Why don't you and your democratic colleagues try to agree? There is much more to this country than Watergate."

Happy, I personally feel that we need much more constructive government and less investigations.

Sincerely,

Walter

Clintonites Against Move To Impeach President

By Hugh Jones

Not many people know what to do about the condition the government of the United States is in right now. But most have an opinion about it anyway.

Citizens of Clinton are no different from the rest of the nation in their concern over current national events.

A poll was conducted through 40 residents of Clinton giving them a chance to express their opinion. The poll was an attempt to touch on different segments of the population including 10 business or professional people, 10 housewives, 10 farmers and 10 clerks or office personnel.

Also, a high school history class that has just drafted a letter opposing an impeachment of the President and plans to send it to representatives in Washington, was interviewed to get a sampling of how the "voters-to-be" feel.

Perhaps the most important question asked on the poll was should President Nixon be impeached. Here the dominant sentiment is opposed to such a move at this time with 26 saying no, seven saying yes and four having no opinion. All four groups were fairly closely aligned on this one with only two clerks, two housewives three business men and no farmers saying yes.

Four other questions were asked. They were: 1. Should Nixon have fired Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox and Deputy Attorney General William French? 2. Should the tapes concerning the White House tapes be destroyed? 3. Should the tapes having anything to do with the Watergate case be turned over? 4. Should Congress confirm Rep.

Gerald Ford (R-Mich.) as vice president. 5. Should former Vice President Spiro Agnew have resigned.

Only one unanimous answer was given on one question by one group. That was No. 4 where all 10 clerks agreed on Agnew's resignation.

Overall, the results were overwhelming in favor of Agnew's resignation with 30 yes, six no and four no opinions. This was the largest margin of yes votes and the very same amount was recorded under all three answers in favor of Ford's confirmation.

There was more variation on the second question concerning the tapes which are presently at the bottom of much of the controversy.

In response to this question 26 said the tapes should be turned over while four said they shouldn't and seven couldn't decide.

The most no's came on the first question where 26 said they believed Nixon should have fired Cox and Ruckelshaus. Seven said yes and four had no opinion.

One group is doing something about the current turmoil. They aren't old enough to have voted for the man but the 21 juniors in Louise Meacham's history class feel sufficiently riled by the threat of impeachment to put their views in writing and send them to Washington.

"The class wanted to know what they could do," said Mrs. Meacham. "I suggested that all they can do is write to their representatives."

And that's just what they did in a class letter signed by all of the students.

These kids know exactly where they stand and aren't afraid to express it.

Among some of their comments in the interviews were: "The people behind impeachment say the President's reasons for firing Cox hurt the nation. It seems to me an impeachment would do much more harm to the country."

"Watergate is serious but there are too many other things to worry about right now."

"We're losing our influence with other countries and this would make it even worse."

"Certain people are trying to tear our government apart and they're doing a good job of it. The country is in bad shape and now it's the time when we must stand behind the President."
