Dear Representative Camp:

I am writing you this letter to state my opinion that I have been both ashamed and appalled at the course of the Watergate investigation and at the actions of many of the representatives of the people of our country. I feel like many other Americans that our congressmen should remember that he who serves his country best serves his party best. It would seem that my party, the Democratic party, has produced a great witch hunt which has caused other important measures to be set by the wayside. Please note that I and other voters are watching not only who is being investigated, but also who is doing the investigating.

Sincerely,

Paul E. Donat, M.D.

Dear Dr. Donat:

I appreciate greatly your expressing yourself to me as you have in your letter of November 12.

It is my belief that it is time for all Americans, and particularly the Congress, to get on with the many vital issues facing our great country today. Be assured that many of us in Washington want to put Watergate behind us, just as you do, and are doing everything we can to get the country back on an even keel.

Again, thank you for writing. Your further comments will be most welcome at any time.

With kind regards, I am

Sincerely,

Happy Capp
Member of Congress
