Dear Representative Camp,

What has happened to the government that promised us law and order? I wonder if the American people have ever felt as cheated and heartbroken as they do at this time. Their faith in representative constitutional government seems to be at an all time low.

Please do what you can to let us know that the system can be revived. I think this has to include an honest evaluation of our President's conduct even if that leads to impeachment. Don't let us down by being another politician who closes his eyes to wrongdoing. Thank you,
Nancy Carter

Dear Miss Carter:

You chose an appropriate day, November 11, to write to me and express yourself as you have. May I make my expression to you and say that I do not think that our government has dropped to an all-time low. We have a news media that seems to want to tear down everything that we do in this great country of ours. I fail to find any positive reporting from them; it is all negative.

I can assure you that if we find any charges against the President that would bring about impeachment, this will happen, but in talking to one of the Members who serves on the Judiciary Committee which is doing the investigating, I was told that in the two weeks they have been hearing witnesses, he has seen nothing which would find the President guilty of any wrongdoing. I am completing twenty-five years as a member of a legislative body, and I assure you that I am one legislator who has never closed his eyes to wrongdoing.

I wish for you a Happy Holiday Season.

Sincerely,

Happy Camp
Member of Congress
