Local historian Richard Lounghy, center, celebrated his birthday on
