

Greene County Fairest Of The

Angela Campbell

(This is the first in a series of articles about the Greene County Fairest of the Fair Contest winners since the pageant began in 1958. — Eds.)

Greene County's reigning Fairest of the Fair is Angela Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Ford of 113 Idletime Drive and Kenneth Campbell of Greeneville.

Crowned when she was 19 years old, Angela was a sophomore at East Tennessee State University, majoring in psychology. She has since changed psychology to her minor and is majoring in communications.

When in Greeneville she attends Friendship Baptist Church, where she previously served as chairman of the youth. She also works at her father's business, Ford's Package Store.

During the pageant last year, Angela remembers an incident in which one of the girls dropped her dress in the mud and everyone was in a panic trying to find another dress for her. As it turned out the girl was in the top five in the contest.

"When you compete in a pageant, you have to have fun doing it. It's not the end of the world if you don't win. Just remember that you may not be the prettiest — but that doesn't mean you'll lose — too many things are considered, like personality and your ability to speak to people... Never consider yourself too ugly to enter a pageant."

Angela will relinquish her fair crown to a new queen this year, but she has another crown to wear for a while. She is also the reigning Cosby Ramp Festival queen, a title she won just this past spring as she represented Greeneville and Greene County.

e Fair In 1985

The Reig

airest Of The Fair

bell

the Greene County
regant began in 1958.

air is Angela Camp-
of 113 Idletime Drive

was a sophomore at psychology. She has
s majoring in com-

hip Baptist Church,
the youth. She also Store.

members an incident in e mud and everyone
ner. As it turned out to have fun doing it.

remember that you
an you'll lose — too
and your ability to oo ugly to enter a

ew queen this year,
She is also the reign-
just this past spring
ty.

The Reigning Queen