SOMEBODY threw a tear gas bomb into the colored dance hall in "Black Bottom" while a dance was in progress about one o'clock Tuesday morning. The dance hall is not far from the Bristol, Va., jail and when the dancers emerged in panic stricken fashion one of the Virginia police officers told them not to rub their eyes. "It will make it worse," he warned. "Don't matter," one of the men replied, tears streaming down his face, "it shore feels good while you're rubbing them."
