

May 31, 1949

My darling husband,

Hello honey -- How are you?

I hope just fine. As for me, I'm feeling as fine as can be expected except that I'm terribly lonesome for you. The mail man didn't pass today so I mailed your letter at a mail box, I hope you'll get it on time.

I slept quite a bit today even though it was very warm. I'm very lucky cause I don't have to do anything at home and I get my personal work done sometimes, too. Like my ironing & washing of fuzzy things. As you see dear, you need not worry that I won't Get enough rest.

I had a very good supper, Ravioli & Chicken. I was too full so I left before they cut the ~~water~~ watermelon for fear I'd be tempted to eat that, too.
I'm not trying to kid you honey, but isn't that what you did in one of your recent letters to me!!

Frances went to Bellain tonight or her sister one-year old baby died of the measles. Waint that terrible?

You always said you liked me to get fat, honey, and I'm really getting fat now, and I'm afraid the doctor will bow me out again but 3 I really don't know what to do about it, unless I stop eating. I'm not disguised yet (in the front I mean) but just seem to be getting fat and I have quite a time trying to get into my clothes.

I wrote to Kay tonight. Have you written to them yet? I sure do hope so.

Oh, honey, I sure would like to see you. I hope the time flies between now and your furlough and then I hope the time will just be in a stand-still so I could have you always.

Just think, dear, someday soon we'll be living in our own place and I'll be yours old ragging wife and you'll beat me every other day. Won't we have fun, though. No kidding, though, dearest, I always think of all the things we're going to do together you and I. And you, don't forget you're going to do the cooking and nurse the baby, too, 'cause you're an expert at that. And don't give me any of that retiring business <sup>stuff</sup> either!! You know I still want a career and my ambition is to make you a very good wife. I hope with all my heart I can make the grade.

I haven't much more to say so I'd better close. Please take care of yourself. I love you ever so much. God Bless you
With love
Kind I am
Your loving wife
Love