

THE CITADEL

ARCHIVES AND MUSEUM

Jan. 25, 1919.

Lt. Col. R. R. Stogsdall,
Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Col. Stogsdall:-

I am in hopes that if you have not already received orders for The Citadel, that you will get them in a few days. Several weeks ago I received a telegram asking me if Major Snyder would be acceptable as Professor of Military Science & Tactics. I telegraphed back that I expected you to return. A few days ago I received another telegram from the Committee, signed by Dannemiller, asking if your detail would be acceptable. I immediately replied to this that we requested your detail. So that I am in hopes that at last the matter will be settled and that you and Mrs. Stogsdall will soon be back in your quarters on Meeting Street.

We are still very much disturbed in our internal affairs. We have over 40 boys with Influenza, although only a very few are at all seriously sick. Most of the cases are very slight. A number of the Professors have been ailing at odd times, and Major Moore is not back from the Army, so that classes are not going with full steam as they ought to. At his request I also relieved Major Freeman of all duties so that the military work is being conducted as usual by the cadet officers, and there is no theoretical work.

I am pleased with the outlook for the R.O.T.C. and believe that we are going to have some successful work done when we get started.

With kind regards for yourself and Mrs. Stogsdall, in which Mrs. Bond joins me, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

Superintendent.

P.S. It was a great pleasure for us to have Nelle Blossom with us.
