

What Will It Take To Prevent Nuclear War?

You are invited to respond to the question, "What Will It Take to Prevent Nuclear War?" for a book in preparation which will consist of brief contributions from a wide variety of persons.

Since no one seems to have "the" answer to that vital question of human survival, perhaps everyone has the answer. That is, perhaps collectively we can discover how to prevent nuclear war.

The deadline for responses is ~~November~~<sup>Dec.</sup> 1, 1981. Responses should not exceed 300 words, or the equivalent of one page. Contributions may be prose, poetry, photograph, line drawing or other form of expression. Contributors should include a one-sentence biographical note. All responses will be acknowledged; responses accompanied by return postage will be returned.

There will be a special section of responses from children.

Facts, feelings, ideas and outcries are solicited, as are the voices of those who are discouraged about prospects for the survival of the human race.

Don't hesitate to speak out. Each person is an expert in the art of living and wanting to preserve life. What set of circumstances or forces or people or incantations will be sufficient to turn us from the brink of nuclear holocaust; or is it, in your view, virtually too late?

Send your response to Pat Farren, 2161 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, MA 02140.
