

Senator Paul Tsongas

Dear Friend:

In the dark days following Ronald Reagan's election, when a wave of reaction seemed to be sweeping the country, Senator Kennedy and I were among the few who stood in opposition to Reaganomics and a military build-up that was leading to a dangerous escalation of world tensions. Since then we have steadily gained strength and support and we now see the worst of Reagan's excesses curbed; we are beginning to restore fairness to the budget and rationality to our foreign policy.

Equality and justice and peace are the great issues of American politics. With your generous support, I will continue to work for those ideals for the next six years in the United States Senate.

Sincerely

PAUL TSONGAS
United States Senator
