Lakeshore High School College Park, Georgia Volume VIII

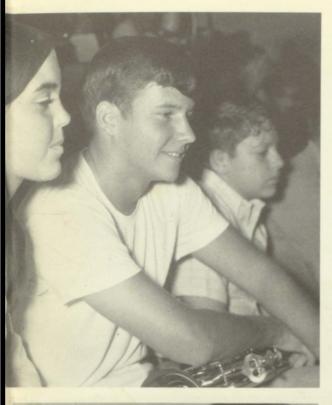

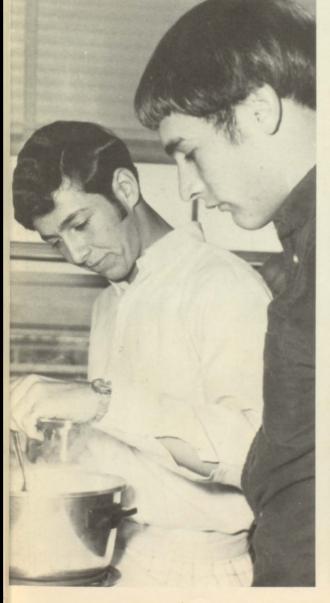

From the moment of my birth To the instant of my death There are patterns I must follow

Just as I must breathe each breath.

Like the color of my skin
Or the day that I grow old
My life is made of patterns
That can scarcely be controlled.

Impaled on my wall
My eyes can dimly see
The pattern of my life
And the puzzle that is me.

S. & G.

Many events invaded the secure world of Lakeshore this year, some altering its course more than others. The new decade found man conquering space and transplanting human hearts, proving that the impossible was indeed possible. As the year progressed, the changes 1970 brought with it began to mold the futures of all, whether they liked it or not.

The times challenged old ideas and proposed new ones. Even the conservative atmosphere of Lakeshore could not escape some influence. As school opened, girls' skirts had risen noticeably, while boys' sideburns had crept longer down their faces. Registration showed that the faculty had been playing musical schools over the summer, and many new faces were behind the teachers' desks, among those of the seemingly immortal "old reliables."

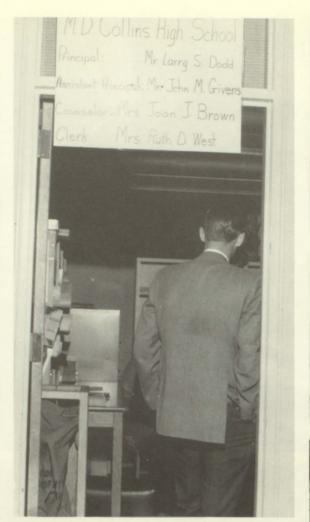

666 666

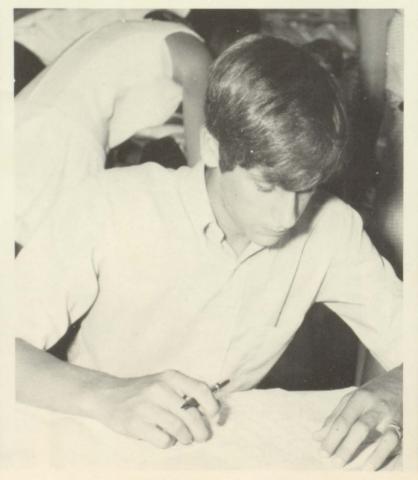

For the first quarter, the walls of Lakeshore enclosed an overflowing student body. An increase in suburban growth, the delayed completion of the new neighborhood high school, and the federal court's orders of integration caused Lancers to return to the confusion of double sessions. The planned opening of M. D. Collins High School and the unscheduled one of Eva Thomas relieved the population problem and Lakeshore went about the business of getting back to normal.

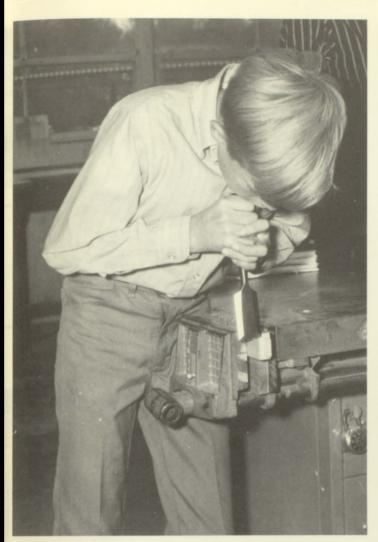

In the classrooms, students were taught unchanging Shakespeare and mathematical equations along with the history that was being made every day. Each person looked differently at the task of learning. Most accepted the requirements unquestioningly because they knew of nothing else to do. A few rebelled at the systematized knowledge and tried to get around the long established rules. Others crammed at the last minutes before graduation, as the ABC's of the new draft lottery glared on nearby horizons.

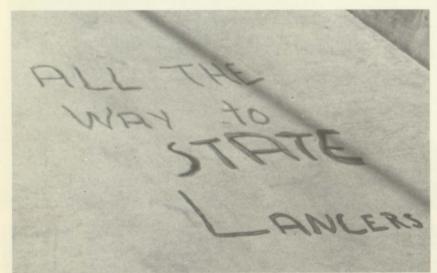

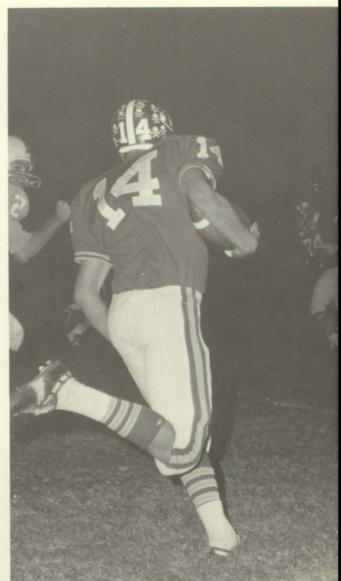

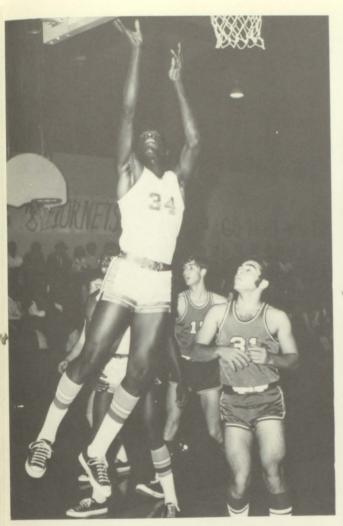

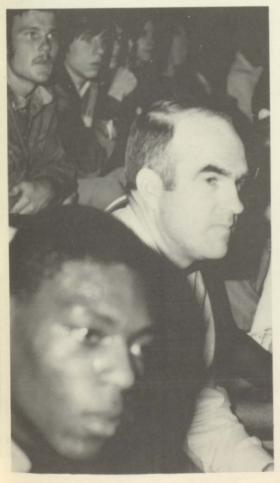

Politics were by far not the only concern of Lakeshore. While the President worried about Viet Nam, the Lancers waged their own war as they cheered their boys on to the 2-AA football championship, and won long awaited revenge over Headland. The basketball team was not to be outdone, and 1970 saw them winning games in an almost monotonous fashion.

People and their beliefs changed radically during the past decade. Technology found its way into all phases of everyday life, as old standards were outdated and tossed aside. The recent years defined the course of everyone's life through increased progress and inescapable change. But as the patterns of our lives became more evident, as individuals we grew more and more complex.

The 1969 Homecoming was much the same as any previous homecoming. There was the usual preceding pep rally and bonfire, the traditional halftime show, a Lakeshore football victory, and the following dance. For those who were new to Lakeshore, the spectacle was an exciting experience. For Lakeshore alumni, Homecoming was a chance to see old friends and recall similar memories. But for most Lancers, the 1969 Homecoming was an expected event which was very much a part of Lakeshore.

The one unusual characteristic of this year's homecoming was the Homecoming Queen. By her victory, the Queen proved her place in Lakeshore despite the fact that this was her first year as a Lancer. The girl who did the unexpected? Lakeshore's 1969 Homecoming Queen — KIP PHILLIPS!

Sweetheart Ball

A loud band and a crowded gym made the Sweetheart Ball seem like a big success. The gym was hot, the dancing was fast, and everyone sweated among the hearts that decorated the walls. The introduction of the Sweetheart Court provided a welcome relief from the action. Climaxing the Valentine theme of the dance was the announcement of the King and Queen of Hearts — BRETT FRENCH and KIP PHILLIPS.

Even after the excitement of football and basketball, loyal Lancers still supported spring's most popular sport, baseball, through 7 wins and 8 losses. Lakeshore lost some close ones and was never beaten by more than 5 runs. Daryl Sudduth was the Most Valuable Player and had the best batting average with .395.

Berrien County

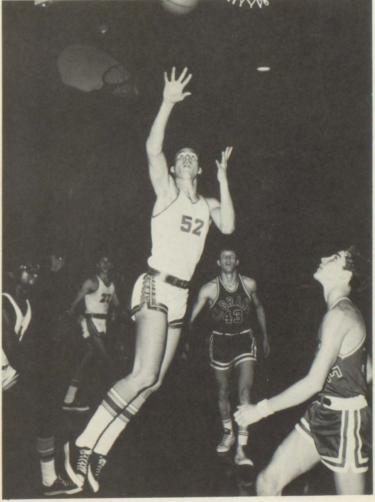

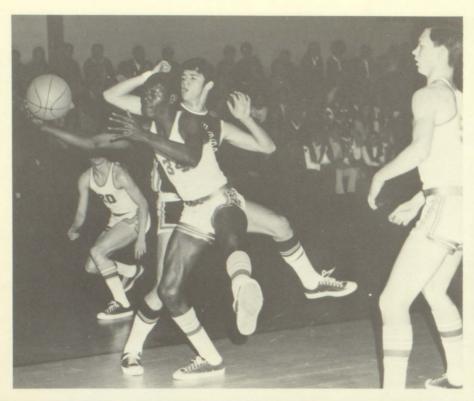

The '70 Lancers stepped on the basket ball court to prove last year's success was not a fluke. The team not only proved this fact but also made a name for Lakeshore as having one of the best basketball teams in the state. A total season record of 19-4 was capped off by a one point single-overtime loss to Central of Newnan. The squad won the Tri-Cities Christmas Tournament with the rebounding help of Steve Foster, Johnny Lowe, and Willie Reeves. Chuck Fowke, Trip Lanham, and Jerry Cooke added some great outside shooting, while Charlie Flemming put on several dribbling exhibitions and showed overall great ballhandling. Steve Shaws helped win many games by making key passes to the big men under the basket. Backed by tremendous Lakeshore support, every Lancer on the team contributed to the greatest single roundball season Lakeshore has ever had.

Varsity Girls

Coach Joe Pittman, in his first year with the Lakeshore Varsity Girls, disciplined them to win nine games. The desire to excel showed on the girls' faces at every pivot, and the team exemplified Lancer-like style even in the most embarrassing defeats. The girls seemed to feel the heartbeat of every spectator as they battled against opponent and time in each game. Some of the games were close, and they were hard for everyone to take.

The twelve and five record that the B-Team Boys now boast is a fit reward for many weeks of practice. Of course, consistent winning takes more than just practice. Dedication, desire, and hustle are important, too.

The '69 Lancers upheld the tradition of a good track team at Lakeshore. In the standings the team was somewhat disappointing, finishing seventh in region and sixth in the Tri-Cities area. The season was highlighted with the individual efforts of Tim Duke in the hurdles, Mike Owens in the hundred, Steve Field in the field events. The Most Valuable Player, David Cochran, was Lakeshore's ace-in-the-hole in several long running events.

Although definitely not contenders for Wimbledon, the Lakeshore Varsity Girls' Tennis Team put in long hours of practice which culminated in a 5-2 season record. Eugenia Overton and Kathy Polenek led the playing and exemplified teamwork at its best.

I began to walk up and down the halls, alone. I wandered aimlessly and by curious circumstance I found myself at last in a room of Spanish students. I asked them what they were doing; they replied that they were learning to speak Spanish.

"And what will you do with this knowledge?" I asked gently.

"Knowledge is useful," they replied. "We will need it for college."

"Do you understand what you are learning, though?"

"Of course. At all times we endeavor to speak clearly and fluently."

"Yes, but do you know the signs and reasons behind what you learn?"

"Go to the math department! Doubtless they will have signs aplenty for you."

The class was busy as I approached. Several students were engaged in supplying steps for a proof on the board and it was to these people that I addressed my queries. "Your reasoning seems sound up there," I remarked.

The group selected a spokesman to deal with what they considered a busybody, "Thanks."

"I suppose so."

"Not directly."

"Haven't you ever been taught to?"

"Then you can't use it, can you?"

"Of course we can, but no one goes

This was good advice, I thought, so I walked over to a biology class. This time I spoke with a teacher who would surely answer my questions.

"Tell me, ma'am, your students can think, can't they?"

"I teach them the scientific method. That shows them how to think."

"To be sure. But that only applies to science, doesn't it?"

"Not necessarily."

"U-m-m. But not all of us can be scientists, can we? Will your method solve the problems of the world?"

"If it's world philosophy you are after, why not see the social sciences?"

"Yes, you identify the problem, form a hypothesis, and test — "

A. Mrs. Helen Richardson, Chairman

"Thank-you, but does it work?"

"You know, I haven't really thought about it. Still it's better than any other method."

"I wonder if it is. You don't think that way at home, do you?"

"Of course not! Problems aren't that big at home. Don't be silly."

- "They look like pretty healthy boys, coach."
- "We keep 'em in shape," he responded.
- "Must take skill and co-ordination," I ventured.
 - "A certain amount."
 - "Yes. Will it stay with them?"

The painting was pretty good, I thought. So did the crowd of onlookers. I decided to make an attempt at drawing them out. I managed to reach one rather shy person; we fell to talking.

"I wish I could paint like that!" he declared.

"Not all of us are painters."

"Yeah. I'm going to be a writer."

"So you're taking art."

"Well, you've got to be well-rounded."

"Why? It'll never do you any good."

"Why not? It can't hurt."

It can't hurt. That stuck with me. I couldn't answer his last question; he knew it, I knew it, the whole crowd knew it. After all was said and done, I couldn't think. But I had given them something to think about. So I felt good.

"Pardon me," I spoke politely.

"I hope so. This is an average class, isn't it?"

"Why, yes, it is."

"Can they handle the subject matter?"

"Relatively speaking, yes," the teacher replied with great firmness.

"Do they think about it? No, I'll ask them. How about it, students, do you think a course like this will help you in years ahead?"

I received many different answers to this one. But one voice stood out; gave a really good answer. Someone was finally thinking about life. Maybe that answered my question, too.

"Faster! Faster! Don't try to talk!" cried the Red Queen. "Faster!"

"Are we nearly there?" Alice managed to pant.

"Nearly there!" the Queen repeated. "Why we passed it ten minutes ago! Faster!" And they ran so fast they seemed to skim through the air; hardly touching the ground, till suddenly, they stopped. "You may rest a little now," the Queen said kindly.

"Why, I do believe we've been under this tree the whole time. Everything's just as it was!"

"Of course it is," said the Queen. "What would you have it?"

"Well, in our country," said Alice, "you'd generally get somewhere else — if you ran very fast for a long time as we've been doing."

"A slow sort of country! Now, here it takes all the running you can do to stay in the same place. If you want to get somewhere else, you must run at least twice as fast as that!"

Adding to this fall's confusion, one hundred seventy awed eighth graders arrived at Lakeshore. The A and B schedule during the first quarter added even more chaos to the muddled situation. Frequently, small subfreshmen turned up in the senior calculus class or wandered desperately through the halls looking for the gym. Despite these mistakes, underclassmen deserve credit for their efforts to become full-fledged Lakeshore Lancers.

This year, the class of '73 became a part of the moving machinery of high school. After thinking eighth grade would last forever, they finally moved up one step. And this is a giant step, as only a freshman knows. This is a year of conflicts. One day a freshman can feel like a mature, responsible person, while the next day he is treated like a child. But, as he is learning in algebra, somehow, all variables go toward making the final product.

The sophomores are the "middlemen" of Lakeshore. Too old to associate with the underclassmen, yet too young for the upper-classmen to notice them, they embark on the difficult task of finding their places at Lakeshore and in life outside of school. New responsibilities become theirs as they come of age. Sophomores sometimes meet these challenges but sometimes ignore them. In the tenth grade, students begin to feel the need for strong leadership, class unity, and school improvements as they open their eyes to the characteristics of Lakeshore.

"Did you ever have to make up your mind and pick up on one and leave the other behind?

It's not often easy and not often kind. Did you ever have to make up your mind?

Did you ever have to finally decide to say yes to one and let the other one ride? There's so many changes and tears you must hide.

Did you ever have to finally decide?"

Upon reaching the magic age of sixteen, the Juniors are no longer content with the dull routines of home and school. Interests vary, ranging from the rock of the Chicago Transit Authority to the weekly Lakeshore football games. The annual Junior candy sale was a success and for weeks empty Stuckey's boxes decorated the floors of the school. Junior class spirit became a Lakeshore tradition, as the Class of '71 captured the "spirit stick" both times during class competition. This year was one of anticipation and regret, as Juniors received senior rings and watched friends depart.

Editor's Note

1970 has made us see that textbooks and old ideas alone cannot provide the answers to our questions. No longer can we fight new problems with yesterday's rules or live according to outdated traditions. Our life demands that we change or be strangled in our own short-sighted convictions. Only during times like these could man possess enough knowledge to conquer the moon yet live next door to starving children or stage peace demonstrations which end in violence. Contrast and change — the dilemmas of today and the keys to tomorrow.
