To Each Of You At Sandy Springs High

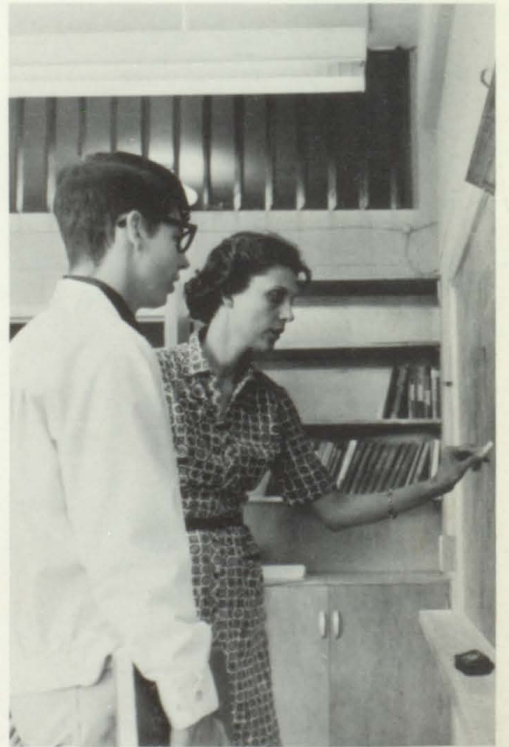

WE PRESENT THE 1967 CONCOLOR.

Some memories fade quickly; others last forever. The CONCOLOR has its purpose in prolonging many of them. Its pages fold back to help recount many of the experiences you have had at S.S.H.S. Its staff has striven to bring to you a reminder of your classmates, teachers, and the grand traditions which you identify with Sandy Springs High.

To each individual the tradition of the CONCOLOR is held dear. It records the activities of the school year and reveals the personality of that year. The CONCOLOR is classrooms, organizations, the football team, pep rallies, personalities, and achievements. But most of all it is the student.

And so to you we dedicate this CONCOLOR.

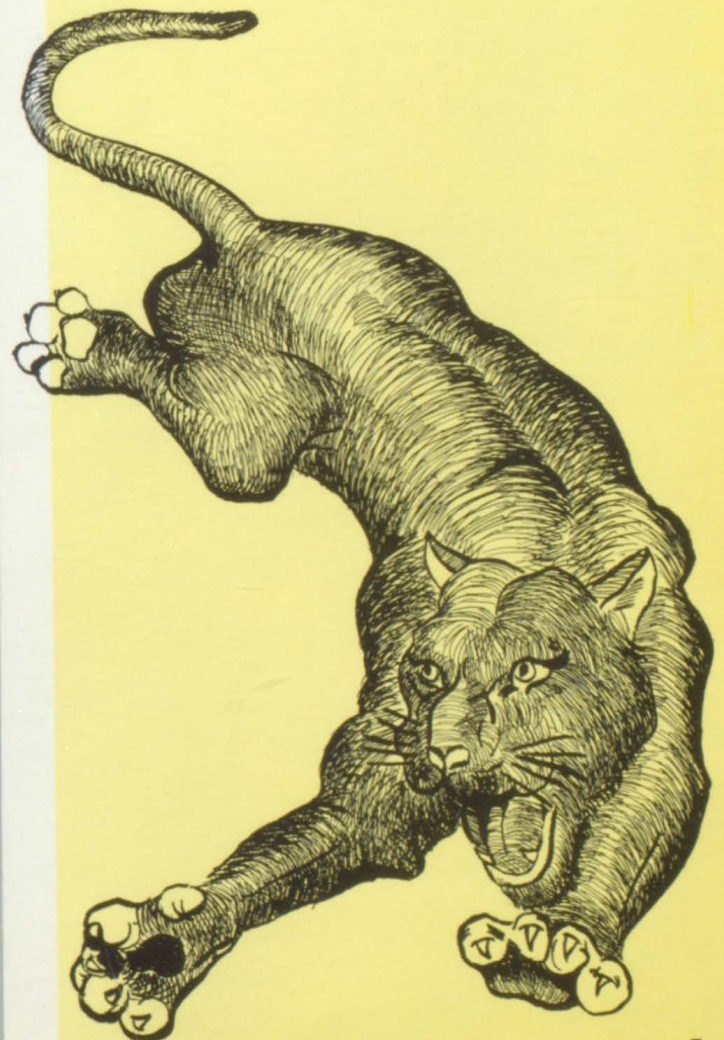

The Sandy Springs Panther . . . A Symbol

The panther, symbolizing unity in the student body, has been the traditional symbol since the construction of Sandy Springs High in 1957. The visible strength of the panther represents each individual who has contributed his talents to the creation of Sandy Springs' image.

School spirit is promoted, and learning is encouraged as homage is paid to the well-loved symbol. Each teacher and student strives to live within the code of honor and scholarship set before him.

The Teacher, The Student, The Group —
Each Is An Integral Part Of S.S.H.S.

"Each individual has a place to fill in the world and is important in some respect . . ."

Nathaniel Hawthorne

Self-Discipline Becomes A Part Of Life

"Self-discipline is not inherited. It is acquired by the acceptance of small responsibilities every step of the way. It is only when all the small responsibilities, accepted and discharged, are totaled up that we realize that small things are important things, and that they are the stuff of which character is made."

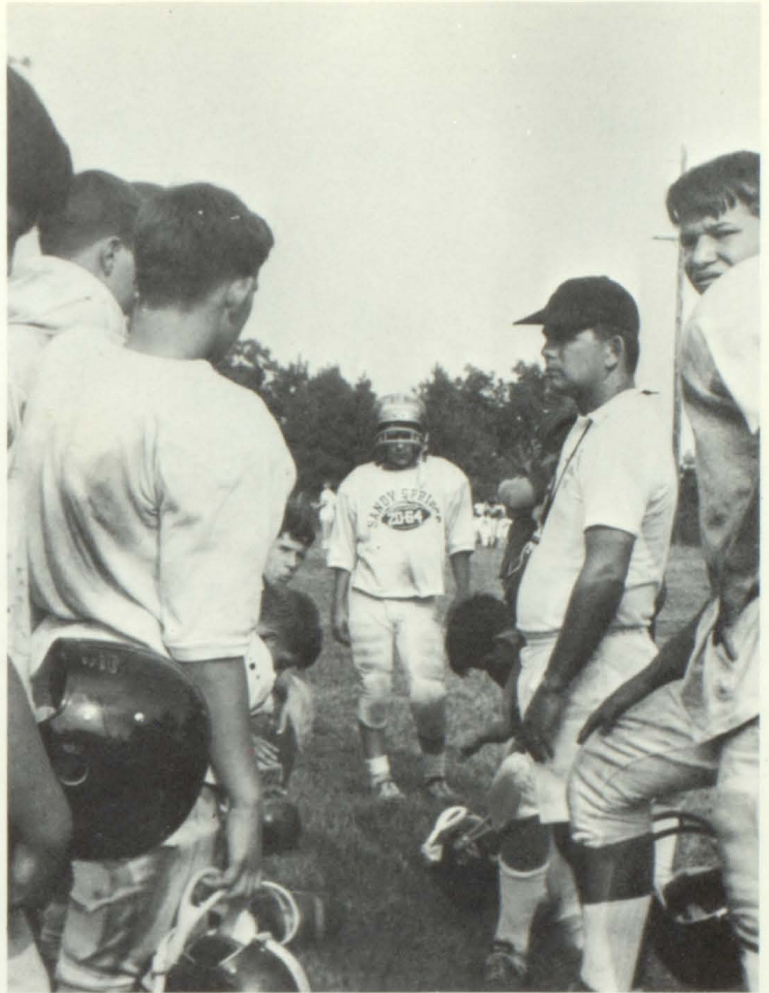

Dr. Noah Langdale, Jr.

Teamwork Builds Successes

When John Stuart Mill said, "The worth of a state, in the long run, is the worth of the individuals composing it," he might well have been speaking of Sandy Springs High. The combined efforts of students and teachers have achieved many successes this year. Athletic teams, the pep squad, the student council, and others have all brought honor to the school through their spirited team efforts.

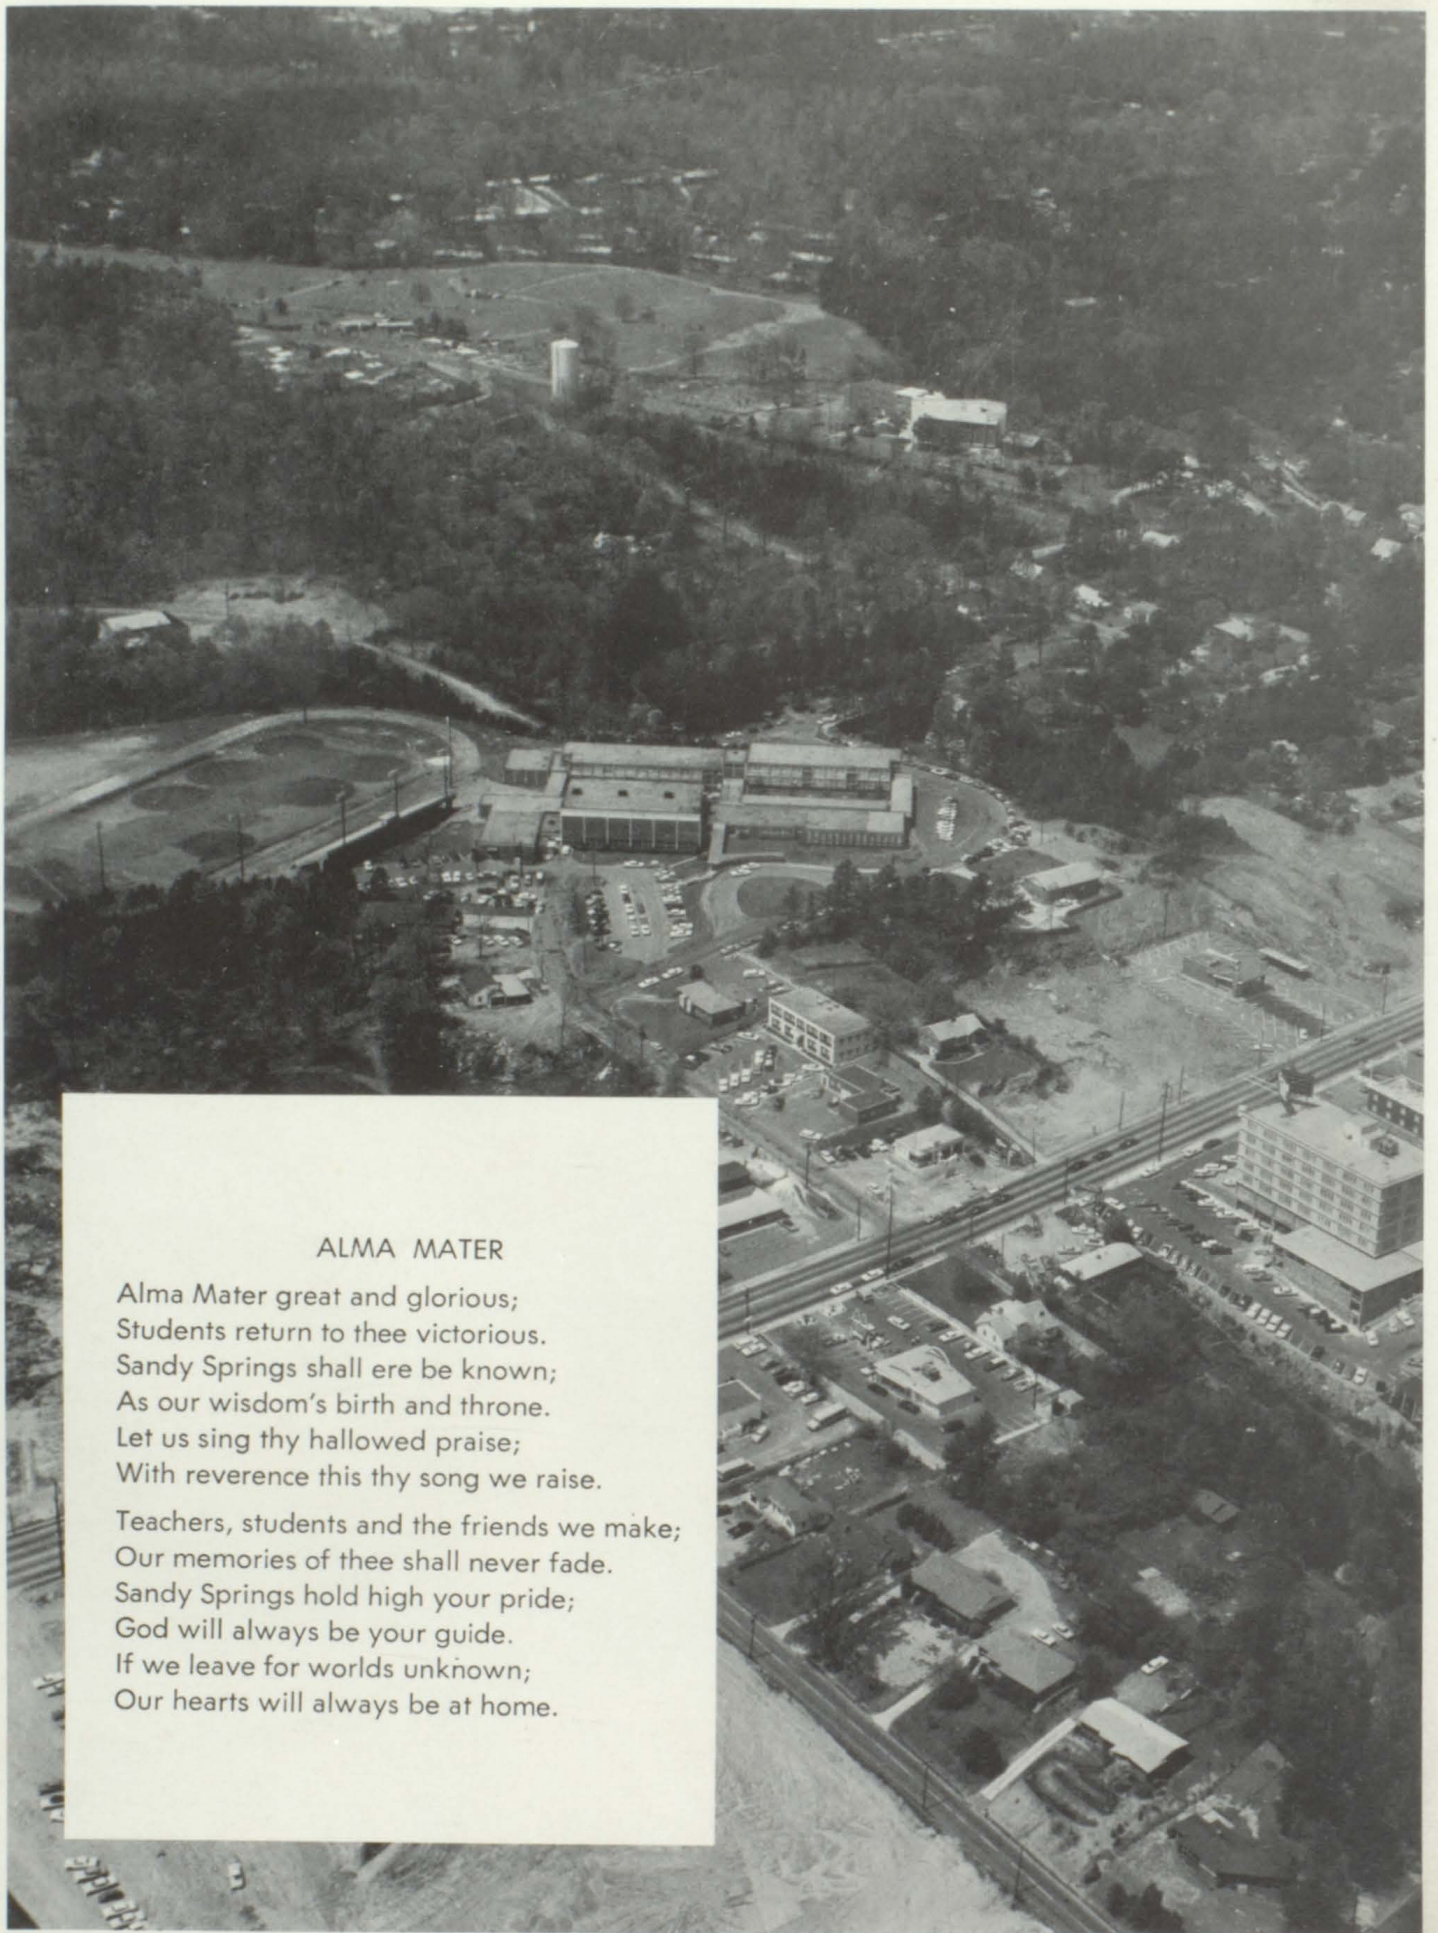

Glimpses of a Passing Year

Sandy Springs is more than classrooms and books. There are hours filled with excitement generated by a well-played ball game, with joy from associations with fellow students, and pride in accomplishment. Each experience will build a lasting memory for the future.

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater great and glorious;
Students return to thee victorious.
Sandy Springs shall ere be known;
As our wisdom's birth and throne.
Let us sing thy hallowed praise;
With reverence this thy song we raise.

Teachers, students and the friends we make;
Our memories of thee shall never fade.
Sandy Springs hold high your pride;
God will always be your guide.
If we leave for worlds unknown;
Our hearts will always be at home.

We Proudly Honor . . .

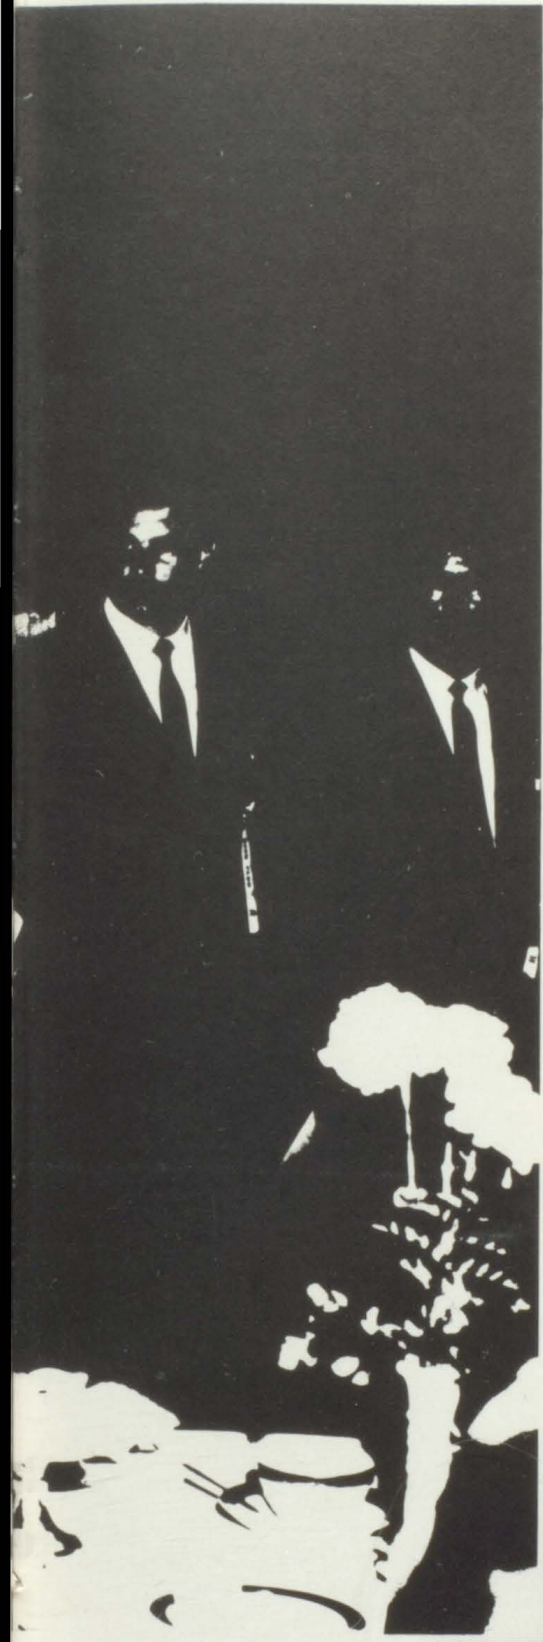

Amid the numerous perspectives of campus life stands an individual whose world consists of countless gyrating realms of classrooms and school activities. Promoting conscientious study or new interest in literature, stressing class unity, seeking new facts or closer fellowship, she portrays the ideal teacher and friend.

Hard-earned respect is hers without asking. Honor she has achieved through superior service to Sandy Springs High School. Dedicated, a word synonymous with her name, well-describes her. Of her time she gives most freely and without second thought. Carefully formulated plans, closely-guarded secrets, and clicking camera shutters and typewriter keys echo the depth and range of her eagerness to serve others and her tireless energy.

For all the outstanding qualities and services she signifies to S.S.H.S., the 1967 Concolor salutes their advisor, Miss Bertie Gross.

ACADEMICS

Interrelations of administration, faculty and students dominate the process of learning at Sandy Springs H. S. Students acquire knowledge not only from books and lectures, but also through individual research and conferences with their respective teachers, thus widening the perspective of their intellect and appreciation.

Glimpses into typical daily scenes of S.S.H.S. life portray many faces of learning. The delighted smile on the face of a math student as the solution of a problem comes to him, the satisfied expression of a coach as he watches his boys execute new football plays, the rapt attention displayed by students as they relive great events in American History, and the exclamation of a science student when his experiment succeeds reveal the continuous realization of the pleasure attainment of knowledge gives to students and teachers alike.

Sandy Springs High School was guided through four years by Principal Reid Gillis. In his years as chief administrator, he helped the student body to reach new heights of accomplishment.

Mr. Gillis received his B.S. degree at Florida State University and his Masters of Education degree in Counseling at Georgia Southern. He also received his Masters in Administration.

Mr. Gillis served his military duty in the Navy. He had his basic training at Bainbridge, Maryland, and then served on the U.S.S. Absecon AVP 23.

Afterwards, Mr. Gillis went into the field of education. He devoted his entire career to Sandy Springs High School, where he started as an eighth grade history teacher. After three years of teaching, he became our counselor; and following three years of counseling, he was appointed principal.

Throughout his career, Mr. Gillis has been active in various organizations. In the Georgia Education Association, he served as chairman of the legislative and credential committees. In conjunction with the National Education Association, he attended the Southeastern National Planning conferences. He is president of the 5AA region and has been Secretary-Treasurer of the Metropolitan Principal Association.

Outside of school associations, Mr. Gillis is a Deacon of the Austell Presbyterian Church.

To each student and teacher, Mr. Gillis gave understanding and wise leadership. Always he was ready to listen, counsel, praise, and find ways of improving Sandy Springs High School.

This is the former Sandy Springs principal—a man of devotion, experience, capability, and leadership.

REID GILLIS

Mr. Gillis And Mr. Jackson . . . Our Principals For 1966-'67

Mr. Cecil Jackson became Sandy Springs High School's principal January 10, 1967.

Mr. Jackson comes to Sandy Springs following a year as principal of College Park High School. Mr. Jackson first came to Fulton County thirty years ago. He taught at Russell High School in East Point for twenty-six years, the last ten of which he served as assistant principal. He was transferred to Hapeville High School in 1963 and served there as assistant principal for two years before going to College Park in 1965.

Welcome to Sandy Springs, Mr. Jackson.

MRS. HARLOW AUTRY

The smooth and efficient operation of Sandy Springs is due to the efforts of the administrative heads. Together they guide the student body through the mechanics of school life. Mrs. Autry, assistant principal, serves as registrar for the school and handles withdrawals and bus transportation reports. She also assists the principal with discipline problems and any other assigned duties, acting as principal in the absence of the regular principal. Transcripts and recommendations for seniors entering college or employment are under her supervision. In addition, she secures and directs supply teachers.

Administrators Are Eager To Aid Students

Mrs. Baader, administrative assistant, is in charge of schedules and the student record system. She works closely with the teachers in planning the curriculum and solving classroom problems. Students also receive help from her in planning their schedules.

Counselors Guide Students

Guidance counselors are available to the students to provide help and direction through the high school years. Each person can consult them about class schedules and be guided into academic areas that will best suit his capabilities. He can receive information on colleges and be advised on available scholarships.

The counseling office conducts standardized tests of achievement and mental maturity. From the results of these tests, each student can be helped to evaluate himself and be given vocational guidance for the future.

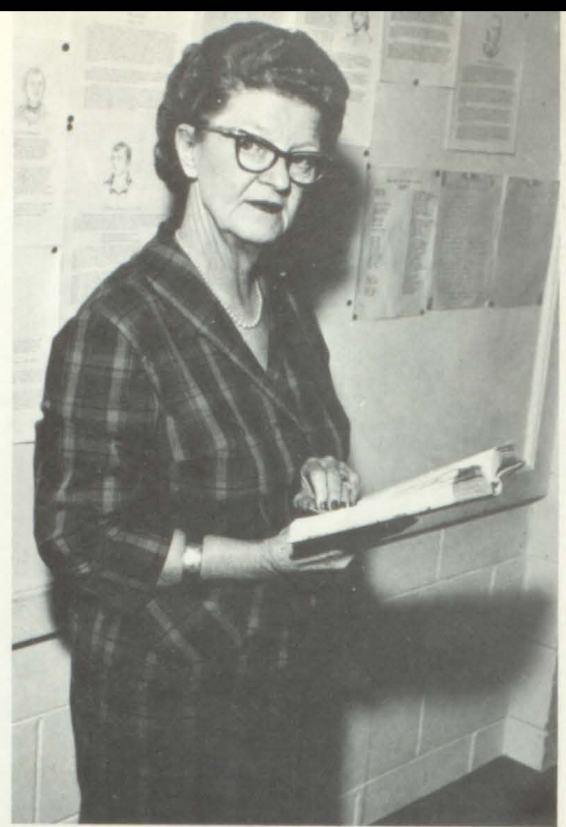

Language Arts . . . A Tool For Higher Learning

Expression of one's ideas and the interpretation of the ideas of others are taught through studies in English usage and great literature. Students are encouraged to master the principles of grammar and to express themselves creatively with the pen. Reading is proved a source of pleasure and wisdom with the studies of American and English literature. David Copperfield and Julius Caesar, Our Town, and Macbeth highlight the four years in that order.

French and Latin are offered to students on first, second, third, and fourth year levels. Spanish is taught through the third year level. Courses of this nature help a person to become more universal by learning about foreign people and their lives through the knowledge of their language.

Journalism encourages growth through writing clear and original ideas. Reporters and editors alike work hard together to publish a bi-monthly paper for the students.

Miss Gross explains the works of famous authors while displaying their pictures on the bulletin board.

Mrs. O'Quinn loves her math.

Several different types of math and science are offered at Sandy Springs. General science provides a broad general knowledge of all the sciences. Biology involves the study of plant and animal life. Chemistry and physics are both physical sciences dealing with the composition of matter.

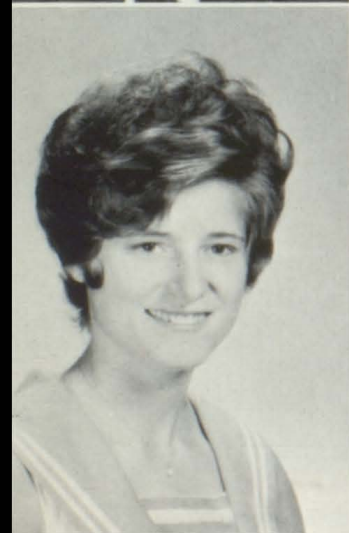

Mathematics is the language of the sciences. There are two main fields of math, analytical and practical. Geometry Algebra I and II, and advanced math are considered analytical because they are preparation for future work in college. Practical courses like business and general math provide necessary knowledge to begin work immediately after high school.

Ever since the beginning, when man scratched pictures on cave walls and hummed coarse tunes, he has strived endlessly to perfect his musical and artistic abilities. Sandy Springs High School's art and musical departments offer to anyone interested, an excellent program designed to develop the student's abilities and to create his own style and technique.

The art courses may be taken at sub-freshman through senior year levels of study. They vary from water-color and oil painting to pottery making and the history of art.

Marching and concert bands, orchestras, and choruses make up the music curriculum. Performance, skill and appreciation of good music are developed in these courses.

Students looking ahead often participate in subjects that will be of great value in their chosen profession.

Home economics, a study of the practical arts, is enjoyed by girls and boys interested in learning crafts to be applied in future life. Instruction is given in sewing and cooking.

Human relations, another division of the home economics department, helps in personality development and everyday problems.

Thumbing through a current magazine, Mrs. Morris seeks new fashion ideas.

Students planning to enter the business world find the commercial courses a valuable asset. Courses include shorthand, typing, bookkeeping, business arithmetic, and clerical practice. Typing is chosen by a large percentage of the student body because of its wide usefulness. Upon graduation, a business student should be able to take on full responsibility of a permanent job. Students planning to major in business administration in college find that they receive a concrete foundation through these courses.

Top Physical Condition Is The Purpose Of The P.E. Department

The accents of the physical education program are individual skills and teamwork. For the girls there are activities such as basketball, volleyball, archery, and softball. Football, baseball, volleyball, track, and basketball are some of the activities composing the boy's program.

Library . . . A Center of Learning

This is the Pepsi Generation.

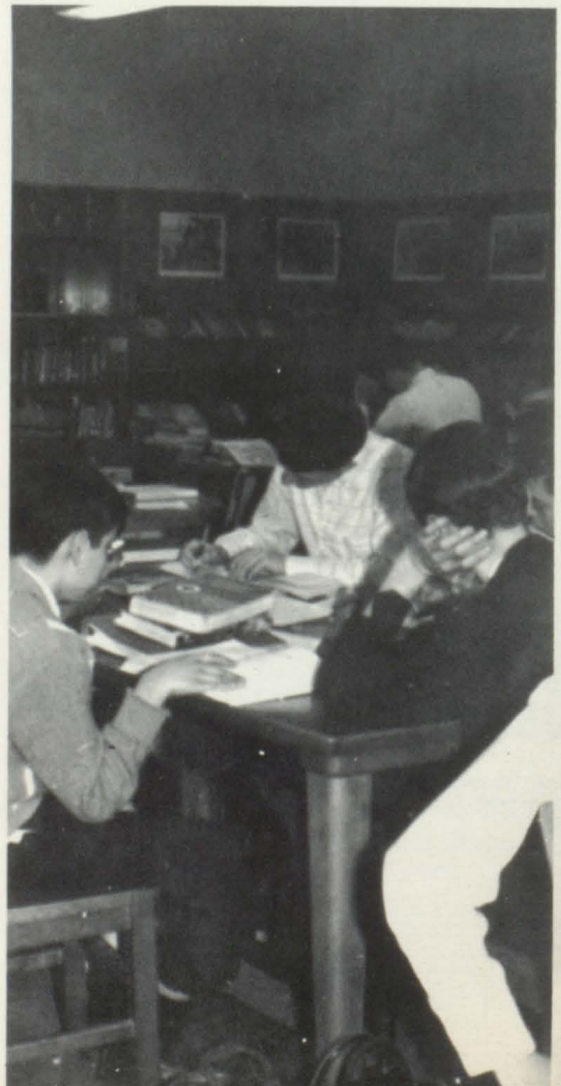

Containing over twelve thousand books, the Sandy Springs Library is considered to be one of the finest in Fulton County. It provides a quiet place for reading enjoyment and thoughtful study. Reading material includes fiction, nonfiction, reference books, encyclopedias, a magazine and newspaper section, and a profession section. The library also offers the opportunity to the student for night study.

Office . . . A Center of Administration

A center of administration and operations, the office is vital to Sandy Springs High. Every student finds a cheerful welcome here. Mrs. White and Miss Chester handle the many problems of the students quietly and efficiently, keeping things moving and in order. CLASSES

A final lap in the high school race, a top rung on another ladder of experience, and a last coat of polish on an annual order of new adults and a Senior year is over. Opening their eyes on the vast world of study and activity, Juniors plunge forward, gaining momentum with each backward swing. Excellence becomes a standard by which they perform as is evident in all they undertake. To the young Sophomores and Freshmen, the glittering vision of high school life mellows into a long-awaited reality. New subjects, different teachers, and more activities become routine as the short days fly into weeks. Having just slipped into the whirlpool of high school life, their feet still wet; but, dauntless, they wade in, soon to become a part of life at S.S.H.S.—these are the Sub-freshmen.

Appreciation

Because he made life more pleasant, because he was so interested in school activities, because he stood for student rights, because he was a friend when a friend was needed, we the Staff and Senior Class of 1967 wish to show our appreciation to MR. MARION SLOAN for his outstanding contributions to Sandy Springs High.

ACTIVITIES

A great number of organizations appear when Sandy Springs High's activities are broken up in the manner of a spectrum. Like so many squares on a checkerboard, they combine to add more enjoyment to the game of learning. Clubs of many different types and proportions abound, and a student of any academic subject may obey his gregarious instinct and take part in the activities offered by the club in that field. Budding young artists, actors, musicians, and writers seeking security and encouragement in numbers band together to form various organizations. Entertainment and supplementary information gained from school clubs add a special flavor not received in class to academic and elective subjects. Each S.S.H.S. club functions independently but, like all construction lines in a good plan, is necessary to complete the perspective.

National Honor Society Recognizes Scholarship

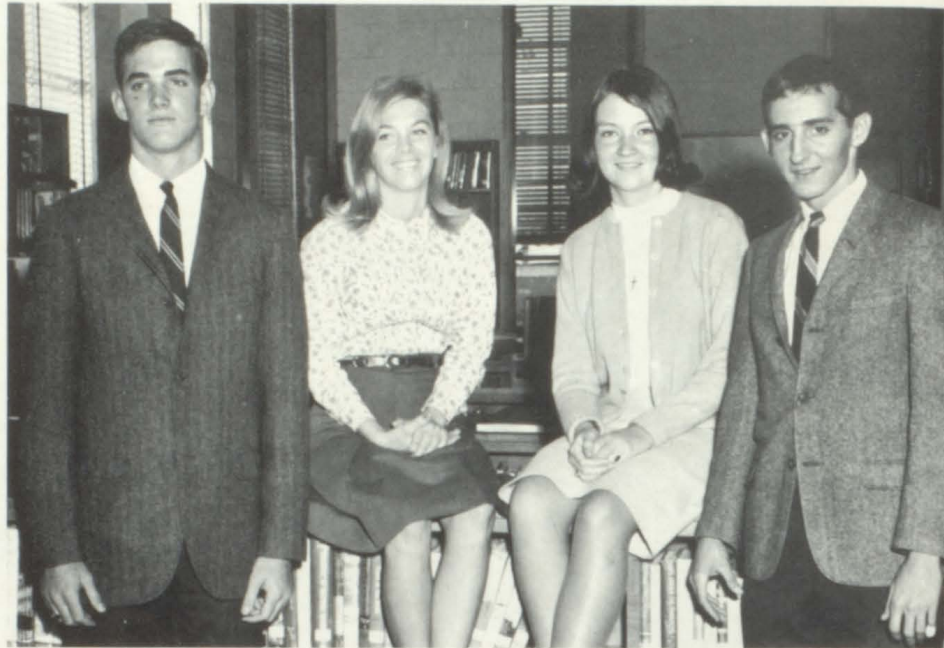

The Sandy Springs High School Chapter of the National Honor Society is composed of Juniors and seniors who have had a 4.5 average for all their years in high school, and an honor roll average for the semester before they are inducted. The National Honor Society of Sandy Springs has many purposes:

An enthusiasm for good scholarship throughout the school.

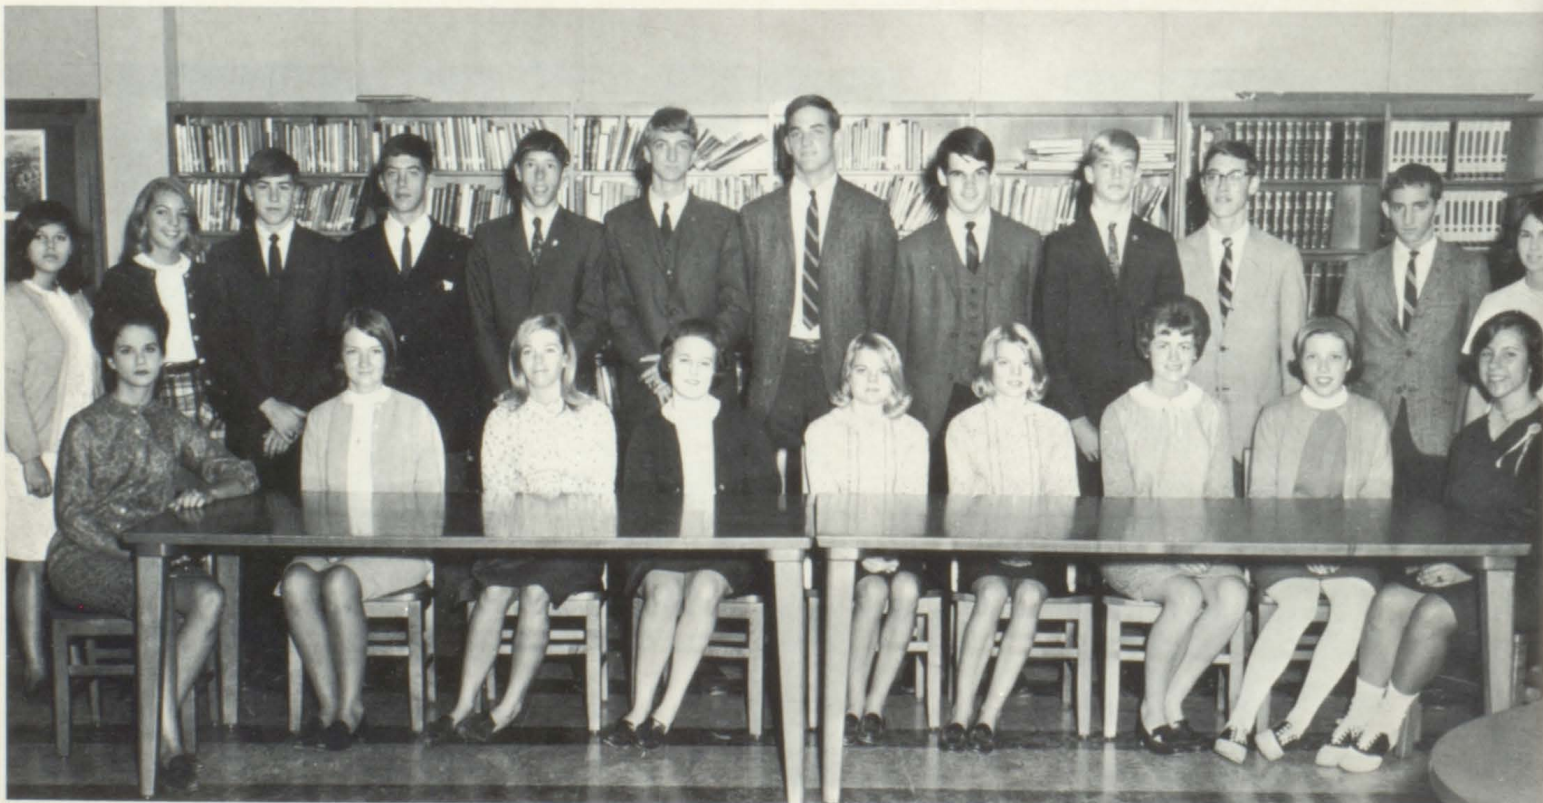

An encouragement of a desire for students to render service to the school and the community.

A plan for self evaluation of the student of the potential elements of qualities within him.

A stimulus to the student to observe and practice those acts of others that develop strength of character.

Winds

Because of the difficulty with which excellence on a stringed instrument is attained, SSHS takes special pride in its fine orchestra. Through the hard work of the members and director, it has become one of the best in Georgia. Highlights of its year include performing at several school concerts and at the annual music festival.

ATHLETICS

Sometimes in the world of athletics, things get out of focus. Often people put too much emphasis on meaningless achievement. They notice the cold hard statistics; they regale those who make the touchdowns, those who make the baskets, those who hit the homeruns, and those who finish first in the race. This outlook is only natural, but one should have a proper perspective when looking at the world of athletics. He should see the blood and sweat, the pain and hunger, and the mental as well as physical exhaustion that go into it. He should know that when victory does come, it is a team victory no matter who gets the headlines. He should see the courage, determination, and desire that, when added to ability, produce champions but should know that ability alone is not enough. When athletics are viewed in this perspective, then and only then will its objectives be completely fulfilled.

Jody Gray Crowned S.S.H.S.'S Homecoming Queen For 1967

With the full support of the student body, the fifth annual Panther Homecoming emerged a huge success. The theme of the festivities "The Roaring 20's", was carried out even to the cars of the court.

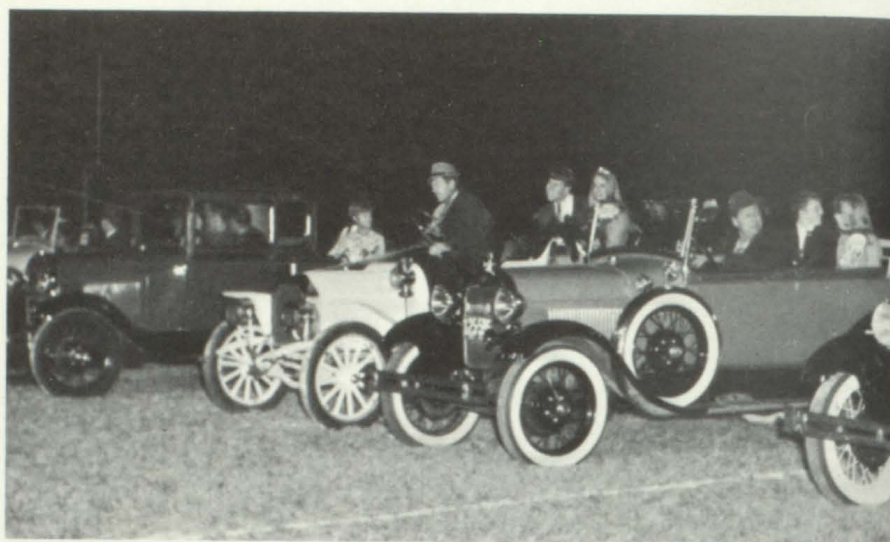

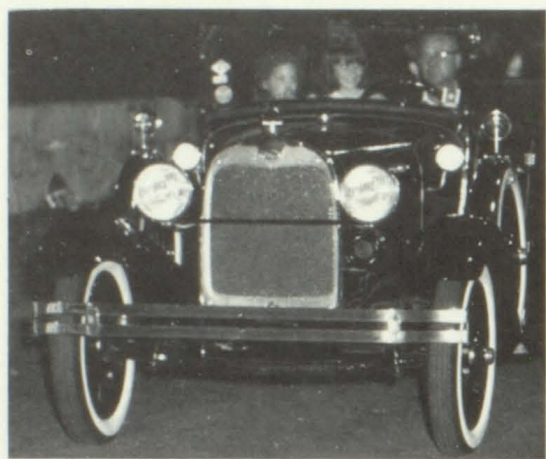

The Homecoming committee, under the direction of Fred White, undertook the arduous task of preparing for the massive ceremony. Under Fred's direction, the various committees combined their efforts to make the night an evening to remember.

The activities were highlighted with the crowning of Jody Gray, the 1967 Panther Homecoming Queen, and the release of 100 helium-filled balloons.

Following the football game there was a dance with music by the Majestics. During the evening, 1000 multicolored balloons and confetti floated down upon the crowd climaxing a wonderful evening.

MR. GILLIS

A final farewell and thanks to two men who served Sandy Springs well. We all owe a lot to the football coach who brought the Panthers from the bottom to a winning team and to the principal who made our school, particularly our spirit, what it is today.

Thanks To . . .

To Mr. Jackson for his cooperation with this year's staff;

To the faculty for its patience and understanding;

To Mrs. Howell and Mrs. Persells for putting up with us;

To Mrs. Mae Oliver and Olan Mills Studios for its excellent service;

To Mr. Bill Burks for outstanding photography;

To Mr. Duke Riner of Taylor Publishing Company for his guidance and help in planning the yearbook;

To Miss Bertie Gross for her sincere efforts in making this yearbook possible.
