Sharing, Growing Mark 1970-71

For the 500+ Hornets attending Hapeville High School during the 1970-71 academic year, learning was a special, personal, individual experience. To each, the classroom information, the activities, the fun, the triumphs, the failures, the laughter and tears, were felt in a unique way, influencing everyone's life a little differently. Still, despite this uniqueness, there was a constant sharing — of ideas, gossip, and sometimes even homework.

Tina Ferrel agonizes as Hornets struggle.

Dale Pierce and Pam Stephenson find pants a new experience in school life.

Homecoming float feature dominates parking lot.

"Is that one of our riders?" one donkey seems to be asking the other.

"Set 'em up!" say George Walden and Doug Jordan.

Possibly, it is sharing and learning to expand the capacity to share and to take a real part in the lives of others as well that truly makes human beings of us all. Is someone really alive who has so little depth of feeling that he cannot walk awhile in someone else's shoes? Hopefully 1970-71 at Hapeville High School in some way helped students and faculty to realize in their own individual, special ways, that before they "accuse, criticize and abuse" they should try to share the other person's view, to walk around in his shoes.

Daily Routines Mean Both Familiar And New

For the average student at Hapeville, the normal daily routine usually consisted of such things as going to lockers, sharpening pencils, making a bee-line to classes, cramming at the last minute for tests, gathering with friends, standing in lines, and laughing with other students. The average day also underwent some changes, though. A girl in a tailored pant suit, maxi or midi was not an unusual sight.

Terri Trundle Crowned 1970-71 Homecoming Queen

Homecoming '70 approached with Hornets' excitement building. The football squad's 3-3 record was going to change in this game with St. Joseph. The mighty Hornets were out to win!

Half time brought the announcement of Terri Trundle as 1970 Homecoming Queen. Tears and congratulations were abundant as Perry Hudson, Mayor of Hapeville, crowned a very happy Terri. With her court, she reigned as a radiant queen over the Homecoming dance, which the Green & White fans celebrated after their hard-won, happy victory over the Hawks.

Cathy Welch, with escort Harry Mobley, gracefully steps onto the field as she is announced as the eighth-grade representative.

Homecoming contestant Mindy Haynie, with Billy Gillis as her escort, represents the sophomore class in the festivities.

To ninth-grade representative Jan Sudderth and her escort, Gary Hinesley, being in the "queen's court" can be full of tension and excitement.

Homecoming Activities

Rouse Spirit

A Homecoming parade was sponsored by Student Council, which helped boost school spirit. Clubs and homerooms entered the parade and students put their heads together to create winning floats for it.

The highlight of the festivities was Friday night as the senior football sponsors were introduced. Kick-off found Hapeville's stands packed with happy and excited fans.

Exciting action filled the Hornet-Hawks grid contest. Fair-weather fans missed the best part of the game, especially if they left before the last 12 seconds, when Hapeville clenched a surprising victory.

Spirit Week Features Antics, Banners, Skits

Hoyt laughs at seniors' efforts to master their final year of grammar and literature.

Students at Hapeville High prepared vigorously for Spirit Week. Activities began with each class holding brainstorming sessions to create the best spirit poster put up in the auditorium Monday. Tuesday, "spirit juice" was served during the lunch hour. Classes got off to a roaring start Wednesday, when some senior boys zoomed into the school parking lot on mini-bikes decorated in green and white. On Green and White Day, Hornets wore the school colors and were urged to attend the B-team game. Climaxing the week's fun were the spirit skits presented before the students on Friday morning. The winning skit was presented by the seniors, and the winning poster was done by the sub-freshmen. A Friday afternoon highlight was a tricycle race with the seniors leading the way. The week was concluded with the Hornets winning the region football game against Stockbridge and capturing the region crown.

The answer is: a first place banner winner.

Eighth-graders put their heads together to show the spirit of '75.

H.H.S. Students Look To Future

College night was held October 14 at Hapeville High School for all schools on the south end of Fulton County. Approximately 300 people attended and 81 colleges were represented. Mr. Purdie, Emily George, Mrs. Betty Drukenmiller and Dr. Douglas MacRae officiated at the opening assembly. Guests and students then spent the rest of the evening attending three sessions being held by colleges they were most interested in.

Dramatizing the scope of careers open to tomorrow's blue and white collar workers was a Career Carnival, on October 27. Sponsored by the Junior Engineering Technical Search program, the Carnival hosted 30 industries and their displays. A festival of career films, job displays and exhibits, and explanations by business representatives about specific careers were among the features of the day, which began with an address by Dr. Beverly Johnson. Dr. Johnson, director of the Occupational Information Center for Education-Industry for the Metropolitan Atlanta area, cautioned students to give considerable thought to their career choices because their decisions will have such long lasting consequences. Student of all grade levels were invited to attend and explore the different fields available to them upon graduating from college or high school.

Hapeville Dances To The Music

Not having enough dances is something that Hapeville students don't have to worry about. Hapeville High traditionally holds more than any other school in the area. Sponsored by different school clubs or organizations on Friday or Saturday nights, this year's dances featured such groups as "The Us," "Hydra," "Isotopic," and "Phaze III."

English Sets Hornets Buzzing

Everything from the fundamentals of good grammar and good taste to the fine points of a romantic ballad are reflected in the spectrum of the H. H. S. English department courses. Looked on as a necessary evil by some students, and thoroughly enjoyed by others, English classes give students many chances to improve their language skills and powers of creative thought through a wide variety of reading and writing assignments.

HHS Students Explore Social Studies

Students look over material in social studies book after watching film.

Six areas of study about man's behavior are offered in Hapeville's social studies department: history, anthropology, sociology, economics, political science, and geography. Taken by students in grades eight through twelve, these courses are often enlivened with audio visual aids from the school or county library. Projects also play an important part in helping the students to get a better grasp of the material being taught. A helpful option offered by the department to seniors is that they can specialize, during their final year, in one of the six areas which make up the social studies curriculum.

Mrs. Wilson gives student "subtle" suggestions for improving paper.

Math Stresses Reasoning

While not every student enjoys his high school math classes, few would dispute the importance of being able to work with numbers. Among the courses offered in Hornet country to develop students' mathematical skills are pre-algebra, algebra, geometry, and analysis. To insure that the needs of all students can be met, the department offers programs geared to three different achievement levels: the college-bound, the job-oriented, and the weaker math students. A major overall objective of the department, headed by Emanuel J. Ellinas, is to encourage pupils to sharpen their ability to reason soundly and accurately.

HHS Scientists Probe Mysteries Of Life

Eighth grade science and general science are a must for students at Hapeville. For further knowledge in science, biology, chemistry, or physics may be taken. Chemistry should be taken by students who plan to enter college. Study of chemistry gives a fundamental knowledge of basic chemistry and math and also provides laboratory know-how for advanced courses.

Biology includes the study of the structure of the body and the study of plants and animals. Modern physics is the basic course in the form of electronics. It also deals with the fundamentals of laboratory experiments.

Among the new developments in the science department this year was the addition of a wave making machine and audio oscillators that go with the oscilloscope. A new stock room was set up for the electronic equipment, which the students found very interesting.

Students Learn Understanding

Spanish students found that learning this mysterious language can be fun. Sharing the customs and language helped them understand all the joys and sorrows of other people. Walking along with others, they bridged the communication gap of two different peoples. They did walk awhile in someone else's shoes.

Colorful Books Share Ideas

Thousands of books line the walls of Hapeville High's library. In these many books, students can find romance, mystery, or just plain facts. Colorful books and magazines provide students and teachers alike entertainment and also help with their work. Books can share the ideas of others.

Lavanda Ivie completes her weekly assignment for a good grade.

Mrs. Morgan checks shelves for misplaced books.

Business Students Benefit From New Equipment

Business courses such as typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping prepared students for their future in the job world. To assist them in developing these skills, business English and business math are also offered. By studying these courses students gain the experience needed to land and succeed in post-graduate employment or in college.

Angela Beck gets in extra practice in the typing room.

Mrs. Thomas dictates drill sentences to her beginner typists.

G. Doolittle, L. Walden, and L. Hulsey type advanced lessons in Miss Taylor's fifth period.

Home Economics Teaches Domestic Arts

D. Fleenor and C. Cosmato measure a cup of milk before continuing with the recipe.

Industrial Arts Peeks Into World Of Work

Providing the students with a variety of constructive atmospheres, industrial arts offered manual courses in both general and technical skills. Wood shop, drafting and electronics gave pupils a background to help them fit into the world of work. Being a co-ed subject, industrial arts helps even those students who do not plan to work in industries or in craft shops to have a better understanding of industrial fields and to appreciate products produced.

Art Encourages Development Of Artistic Ability

Discovering and developing natural talents is an important achievement for mankind. Students at Hapeville were offered the facilities and guidance to cultivate all forms of ability. Under the supervision of Mrs. Janet Bouldin, the art department was equipped with a variety of supplies which helped to simplify the tedious process of learning to express oneself in art. Many projects were carried out during the year. Some of these were rug weaving, print making, ceramics, batik, and tie dying.

Music Department Strives For Quality

The music department of Hapeville offers various types of programs. Known for stressing high accomplishment, the department has produced many All-State and Governor's Honors Program participants. By playing in the stands at the football games, the band helps to keep spirits high. They also supply entertainment during half-time. The orchestra adds a bit of culture to Hapeville during concert season.

Assistant Drum Major, R. McPhail, conducts before chair tryouts.

ROTC Program Develops Character

The issuing of demerits helps to remind cadets of responsibilities.

In the ROTC program, besides learning personal honor and strengthening patriotism, the cadets learn about rifles and how to use them properly. They watch many films on how to maneuver safely on the battle-field. Twice weekly the ranks have full inspection. This helps to instill discipline and respect for authority.

Rifle skills are learned during classroom movies.

Regular morning rifle practice boosts marksmanship.

Physical Education, Driver Training Give Students Book Break

Physical education classes are designed to build strong and healthy bodies and to promote team cooperation, as well as individual skills. Headed by Miss Molly Teer and Mr. Jack Teague, these classes consist of a varied range of sports and games. Some of the various divisions included basketball, volleyball, softball, wrestling, gymnastics, soccer, and tennis. P. E. classes compose a vital, valuable, and enjoyable part of the school day for energetic students.

Drivers training prepares students for the responsibility of that important piece of paper — a driver's license. In order to develop skill behind the wheel, student drivers weave through cones, practice parking techniques, and interpret road signs.

Students Gain Experience Through DCT

Juniors and seniors employed under the Diversified Cooperative Training program were able to work and gain experience at the occupation which they intended to pursue after graduation. Invaluable on-the-job training proved beneficial for students in making a smooth transition from school to a business establishment. Wages commensurate to those paid other beginning employees in the same occupation were received by D.C.T. students. Students planning to attend college were aided financially by employment under the program.

PVT Fosters Creative Leadership

Pre-vocational training is a project designed to assist public schools in meeting major educational needs of slow learners. The curriculum provides a flexible structure upon which the school can construct experience based upon each pupil's needs and demands.

The main objectives of P.V.T. students are learning to maintain a state of physical well being, learning to live safely, learning to earn a living, and learning to be a responsible citizen. Students in P.V.T. are required to take math, English, and science. A number of students are involved in a "work-out" station program in which they attend three classes a day and then work at a job in the afternoon or evening.

This program began at Russell High School and is now in its second year at Hapeville.

CVE Develops Vocational And Industrial Skills.

Mr. Osbourne's class takes a break, hoping the bell will ring.

The term "Cooperative Vocational Academic Education Program" refers to a program of vocational education designed to correlate cooperative classroom instruction with academic instruction. The program is flexible enough to offer unemployable individuals the same type of work-experience opportunities in relationship to cooperative and classroom activities as those that are employable.

The main objectives of CVE are to prepare the student for full time employment, to enable the student to know some of the methods and functions of business and industry, to aid the student in making social adjustments, and to create a normal, healthy, and sincere attitude on the part of students toward work.

GETTIN'

TOGETHER

Work Was Student Council's Business

The Student Council represents every student at Hapeville High School and is his voice in the school's administration. Activities for 1970-71 included spirit week, football and basketball Homecomings, regularly scheduled dances, the winter ball, Twerp week, the Sadi Hawkins Day dance, and the publishing of an eighth-grade handbook. Also, the Student Council, by working with the administration, succeeded in changing the dress code by allowing the girls to wear slacks.

ICC Co-ordinates Club Activities

The Interclub Council consists of two representatives, the president and vice president, from each organization in the school. The main objective of ICC is to regulate activities sponsored by clubs to raise money for their projects. A newly organized club, ICC is thought to have the potential to be a great asset to HHS.

FBLA Readies Students For Leadership In Business World

The Future Business Leaders of America, Chapter 83, has the oldest charter in the state of Georgia. The club has won many state and national awards throughout the years. Service is the primary function of the club; the secretarial pool of the club makes available free secretarial work to the other clubs, the school administration, the faculty, the PTA, and community. The club promotes excellence in business education by its awards for outstanding performance. The club activities are designed to help its members develop leadership that will carry over to adult leadership in the world of business. This year's FBLA officers are: president, Gwen Doolittle; vice-president, Brenda Bettis; secretary, Fay Milton; and treasurer, Linda Walden.

FTA Gives Students More Opportunities For Future

Nationally and locally, the Future Teachers of America are striving to create a situation of better understanding and knowledge of today's educational processes. The Hapeville High School Chapter of FTA has grown to a membership of about fifty-three. The 1970-71 officers are Debbie St. John, president; Christa McGinnis, vice-president; Ruth Braley, secretary; and Diane Hilton, treasurer. Among FTA's activities are assemblies for the students, helping with the student Council's Christmas baskets, painting the Little Red School House, and giving a scholarship to a senior to further his education.

Senior Y-Teens And Co-Ed Hi-Y Students Become Involved

Standing: L. Folds, Mrs. Chamberlain, K. McKee, J. Hinesley, C. Pharr, T. Landrum, C. Landrum, J. Spindler, T. Trundle, J. Dokey, E. Timmerman, P. Lovern, V. Ray, L. Southwell, D. Hicks, D. To grow as individuals in the knowledge and love of God is the aim of H.H.S. Senior Y-Teens, sponsored by Mrs. Joyce A. Chamberlain. This year the Senior Y-Teens took candy to a children's ward at South Fulton Hospital on Halloween, and they decorated a Christmas tree in a ward at Highview Nursing Home. Something new was added, in that the Senior Y-Teens had sponsors this year. They were juniors Barry Morgan, Doug Mazur, and Johnny Chappell. The senior sponsors were Larry Folds, Charlie Knight, and Darryl Hilton. Senior Y-Teen officers were president, Pat Tittle; vice president, Betty Mitchell; secretary, Claudia Melton; and treasurer, Brenda Tatum.

Co-Ed Hi-Y, sponsored by Mr. Terry Thompson, encourages Christian living — in the home and church as well as in school activities. This year the club bought towels for the athletic department with money derived from the sale of candy, the sponsoring of a Ugly Boy and Girl Contest, and a dance. During the spring, members from various Co-Ed Hi-Y clubs attended the Youth Assembly held at the state capitol. The officers of Co-Ed Hi-Y were: president, Donna Hicks; vice president, Kyle Hallman; secretary, Kym Payne; and treasurer, Zoe Weldon.

Sponsored by Mrs. Rosa Wilson, Junior Y-Teens is to build a fellowship of young women devoted to realizing those ideals of personal and social living to which they are committed by their Christian faith.

The group this year won first place in the Homecoming float competition, and they bought supplies and linens for the school clinic. The money for this project came from a bake sale, car wash, and candy sales. Junior Y-Teens also gave a Christmas party for children at Sheltering Arms Day Nursery and participated in the March of Dimes and Greater Atlanta Y.W.C.A. bake sale. The 1970-71 officers were: president, Robin Smith; vice president, Teresa Dailey; secretary, Anita Barfield; treasurer, Peggy Powers; and project chairman, Marcia Terry. Sponsors of Junior Y-Teens were Carl Dawkins and Gene Kelley.

FHA Preps For Domestic Arts

"Toward New Horizons," the motto of the Future Homemakers of America, is an ever present reminder to each member of her responsibility to strive for the best at home, in school, and around the community. The Hapeville Chapter of the FHA has such service projects as hosting faculty teas, entertaining school guests, and preparing food for Christmas time activities. The club also sponsors recreational projects for its members. The officers are: president, Delorese Ochiltree; vice-president, Juanita Denby; secretary, Melinda Mathews; and treasurer, Dale Watts.

Science, Drama Groups Expand Hornets' Horizons

The Science Club aims to acquaint the student with the various fields of science and to provide them observation of these fields in actual operation. Club activities include assemblies, films, demonstrations, and opportunities to hear outstanding speakers.

The Drama Club's purpose is to stimulate interest and understanding of the theater arts in the minds of its members. Although most students are not inclined to seek a career in drama, they do find in it a means of self-expression and an understanding that others share this same need.

Hornet Staff Specializes In News Articles

The Hornet Staff, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Jo Foster, turned once again to the task of writing and organizing the school newspaper. The eleven members of the newspaper staff spent their time in the practical application of newspaper work, writing features, news, sports, and editorials. In order to meet each deadline, the staff worked day by day to complete the paper. There were ten editions published with the senior last will and testaments published in the last issue.

Hilltop Staff Aims At Perfection

The 1971 Hilltop, edited by Emily George, proved to be an exciting, if tedious, project for students on this year's staff. To meet deadlines, sell advertisements, and raise $$$$ to finance the book, staff members frequently worked before and after school hours, as well as during the day. The fourteen budding journalists were initiated into the ins and outs of cropping pictures, writing copy and headlines, and drawing layouts — in triplicate!

In reward for the tears and turmoil, the staff members enjoyed a trip to New York City to attend the annual year-book convention sponsored by Columbia University.

100+ Marches Mile After Mile

Hapeville High School's "Marching 100+" band, comprised of 110 students, has been called one of the finest marching units in Georgia. Even though the band lost some of its members from last year, it still maintains a high standard. Led by director Mitchell Henson, drum major Chris Padgett, asst. drum major Roy McPhail, and captain Darryl Hilton, the band performed many half-time shows, and represented the school at numerous outside activities. The group was highlighted this year by a twirling corps consisting of Capt. Donna Hicks, Elaine Timmerman, and Babe Samra.

Choral Entertainment Flavors Year

Baritones, altos, sopranos, tenors, and basses combined to make the mixed chorus. Performing for the students of H.H.S. as well as the citizens of Hapeville kept the musicians busy throughout the year. The Christmas season was accented by a concert presented through the combined efforts of mixed chorus and varsity chorus. Because of the variety of techniques used, the 1970-71 year was a favorable one for the mixed chorus.

VICA Establishes Vocational Goals

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America have held monthly meetings to unite students in the DCT and CVE programs. The club is to help establish realistic vocational goals and to foster a deep respect for the dignity of work. VICA's motto is "preparing for leadership in the world of work." A fund-raising barbeque was this year, as in the past, one of the club's projects. Other annual activities are a banquet and a camping trip.

Military Promotes Leadership In Cadets

The ROTC program at Hapeville gives instruction in military science and helps cadets learn the meaning of discipline. A part of the U.S. Army, the H.H.S. ROTC group performs the function of training young men for further ROTC in college. A student who uses this instruction and completes the three year program can expect, upon entering the Army, higher pay and earlier promotions.

The primary reasons for the rewarding season for varsity football this year were practice and dedication. First of all came practice. Each player worked an average of 14 hours on the practice field to every 48 minutes in actual game time. These many hours do not include the countless hours spent by the players lifting weights and studying plays and films. Through the broiling sun of summer and the below freezing temperatures in November the players came to understand the grim realities of practice. All of the 25 players on the 1970 Hornet team† withstood the same physical demands. Each member contributed his time, his talent, and worked for one goal — a winning season with a region championship.

“Green Machine” Finishes 10th in State

The work paid off. After two games the Hornets had two decisive shutout victories and were ranked at the lofty position of #3 in the state. Then the Hornets faltered. A strong class AA Perry team took advantage of a high snap on a punt and several missed assignments on pass coverage to dash the hopes of the determined men from Hapeville. This defeat may have shaken the team, for the next week they dropped another contest with Class A Fayette County. Once again the main cause of defeat was missed assignments on pass coverage. After an open week the team regrouped and claimed a shutout victory over Westwood, but fell once again to #7 ranked, Class A South Gwinnett. During this time the successful season hung in balance. Victories over region opponents would secure the goal. Any more losses could lead to a dismal season.

At West Point the coaches grew a little grayer as the Hornets once again waited until the last seconds to win the game.

With the possibility of another bad season, the Hornets responded as a true champion will. They came back from what appeared to be a hopeless situation to gain victory over St. Joe. The next week, in the mud, the 7-B Region championship was taken by Hapeville in a tie game with Stockbridge. Following that game the Hornets traveled to West Point. The West Point team was big and well coached and the Hornets fell behind early; but through the solid pass blocking by the line, the Thomas to Rast pass combination with crucial receptions by other receivers, and stout defense the Hapeville team came back to win in the closing seconds.

Even though a loss to Lovett, who later became state champions, ended the season abruptly and perhaps put a damper on its final moments, the Hornets undoubtedly achieved their goal. It was the first winning season since 1962 and the first region championship in the history of Hapeville High School.

B-Team Wins Region 7-B

After three disappointing contests against strong AA schools the B-team Hornets gelled into the best team in Region 7-B. The B-teamers showed impressive power against opponents of equal caliber.

The day of reckoning came with the final game of the season against Stockbridge. It was "do or die" for winning season and the region championship. B-team Hornets withstood the challenge and responded with their best performance of the year.

Much credit must be given to coaches Ed Daniel and Terry Thompson for their hard work, but the making of the successful season was decided by the players themselves.

Spirit Is Their Game

The 1970-71 varsity cheerleaders, sponsored by Mrs. Pickelsimer, have worked hard to raise money for uniforms, favors, and posters by selling doughnuts, and toys, and having car washes, dances, and bake sales. They have boosted spirit at games with pep rallies where they presented spirit contests, skits, cheers, and a tricycle race.

Varsity Team Builds For Future

The boys' varsity basketball team started the year with high hopes despite a lack of practice resulting from the football playoff. Spirit soared even higher after the Hornets gunned down two of their first three opponents. However, this success did not last. Taller, faster cage quintets downed the Hornets with painful regularity. Regular season play ended with a 4-16 record. State powers such as Fayette County and Pike County were hard on Hapeville, hanging a total of five losses on "The Green."

Coach Daniel summed up his team: "The boys worked hard and played well especially on defense with the help of Kyle Hallman and Elijah Weldon. Offensive leaders were Hank Rast, Ben Jackson and Johnny Ellinas. Ben Jackson and Elijah Weldon were the high rebounders. Many of our games were close, being lost by only a few points."

With many experienced veterans returning next year such as Ben Jackson, Barry Morgan, Clinton Cheely, Frankie Clay, and boys up from the B-team, a winning team could be produced, Coach Daniel felt.

Throughout the season, defeat followed the varsity girls. Inexperience seemed to plague the Hornets on the hard-floor. The spirit of the team, which accounted for one win, many near wins and losses in overtime, never slumped throughout the season. Losses from the varsity lineup due to graduating seniors should prove to be only a temporary setback; a powerful reserve of potential talent seems to be emerging for next year.

B-Team Strides After Success

The Hapeville B-team's practice hours were rewarded in a highly successful season. With first year Coach Jack Teague at the controls, the quintet won a total of 11 games, the best since the region champs of the 66-67 campaign. The young Hornets opened with Westwood after only three days' practice and fell 37-34 after a hard fight. After a succeeding loss to Briarwood they perfected their offense and began to roll up victories, exploding against Stockbridge and Arlington.

J. C. Ellis was the important baseline defender in a 1-3-1 zone, which smothered the opposition throughout the year. Another key figure in the baby Hornets' success was the rise of Wayne Futch at center. His improvement and that of other starters — Tim Purcell, Pat Cox and Curtis Allen — could pay off in successful varsity years in the near future.

Gloom Fills Eighth Grade Season

Coach Thompson's eighth grade team had a disappointing season but gained experience which should help school them in their B-team and varsity basketball years. The squad suffered greatly from a lack of height and quickness, which hindered them in rebounding. Helped by the addition of Perry Woods in mid-season, the sub-fresh began to play much better ball. Coach Thompson's team fought hard to stay close in several games. Reward came finally with a win over Lakeshore, 40-38, that gave at least one bright spot to an otherwise dismal season.

Grapplers Rise To #2 Slot In State

In 1971, wrestling at Hapeville reached its highest level of success since the program started. The Hilltop grapplers were consistently ranked as one of the top teams in class A and B. Throughout the season the team vied for the #1 ranking in the state.

Individuals such as Eddie Coggin, Doug Jordan, Steve Buice, and Rodney Davenport provided the margin of victory in many matches. These young men formed the core of the Hapeville team and developed a sense of pride of achievement in the matmen which sparked other team members to their best performances.

Experienced Pitchers Guide Team

With five of last year's starting lineup (of nine) returning for this season's competition, the baseball team's greatest asset was experience. The pitching corps proved to be one of the team's strong points, since the three pitchers had a combined total of 11 years on the mound, and a combined E.R.A. of 2.50. This good pitching coupled with good defense backing in the other positions made it hard for the opposition in the "runs department." The seniors returning to the team this year were Randy Thomas (4 years) Richard O'Neil (2 years) Hank Rast (4 years) and Johnny Ellinas (4 years)

Cindermen Scamper After Success

The track team of 1971 proved successful, due greatly to the efforts of Coach Watts, in his first year as track coach. The team took advantage of the new B classification which placed the Hornets in competition with other schools of the same size. One of the outstanding members of the team was George Walden, who always seemed to contribute a number of points in the hurdles. H.H.S. Presents Strong Tennis And Golf Teams

The performance of this year's tennis team proved that tennis has become an integral part of the sports program at Hapeville. Composed solely of girls, the netters endeavored to gain a higher status in sports.

H.H.S. did well not only in tennis but in golf. All members of the golf team exhibited patience, great concentration, and sportsmanship to place in competition.

Purdie Administration Closes; Watkins Steps Into Principal's Shoes

Principal Douglas H. Purdie stunned the Hornet faculty and student body in mid-January with the unexpected announcement that he would be immediately succeeded in his post by Garland Watkins, assistant principal of College Park High School. The administrative switch allowed Mr. Purdie to assume the duties of coordinator of federal programs for the entire Fulton County School System.

Prior to being named to the H.H.S. head executive post in 1965, Mr. Purdie had served as a science teacher and guidance counselor at Hapeville for ten years. The degrees he holds include a B.C.S. from Georgia State University and an M.Ed., awarded by Emory University. He has also completed graduate work at the Universities of Hawaii and Georgia.

A professional-minded "joiner," Mr. Purdie is a member of many educational and civic organizations. They include the National and Georgia Education Associations, the Fulton County Teachers Association, and the National Association of Secondary School Principals. He is also a member of the Little Red School House and Annewakee Foundation Boards of Trustees.

Following Mr. Purdie's farewell announcement, he was saluted by a standing ovation from Hapeville students and teachers.

The new principal, who hails from College Park, had served as assistant principal there for four and one-half years. A native of Atlanta, he received both his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Georgia. Before becoming an administrator at C.P.H.S., Mr. Watkins was an English instructor at Woodward Academy.

New Teachers Receive New Education

New teachers joining the Hapeville faculty were sometimes amused with the reactions of their students to the new subjects. English teachers were questioned, artists created new masterpieces, and basketballs bounced as a new coach was broken in by the students. But they emerged in June, well-rounded Hapeville teachers with added education.

Custodial Staff Keeps H.H.S. "Clean On Clean"

Spitballs, bubblegum stuck on the floor, forgotten Hornets, chewing gum wrappers, football stickers, undesired love notes, rubberbands . . . The job of a custodian never ends. Mr. Thompson and his staff stay busy making sure everything is "clean on clean." The custodians do everything from rearranging rooms and waxing floors to locking and unlocking the buildings. They have a hard, and most of the time, an unnoticed job.

A familiar scene at Hapeville is Mrs. Odessa Perry sweeping.

Lunches Served With A Smile

During lunch, Hapeville's cafeteria buzzes with noise and confusion. Students rush to stand in line, and this year they rushed in three directions to claim their choice of: the hot lunch, cold lunch, or the weight watcher's. Mrs. Terry Martin and her staff worked continuously planning meals, preparing food, and cleaning up. Who will not remember, long after he's graduated from Hapeville, the delicious smell of homemade rolls drifting along the halls throughout the morning?

The custodial staff receives their annual Christmas basket, by which the students show their appreciation for a clean school.

Mrs. Annie Bell Jester can make washing dishes look fun.

Subfreshmen Adjust And Contribute

Becoming a subfreshman is a point of transition in the life of every eighth grade student at Hapeville High School. He is thrust into an exciting and educational world when he steps into the life of a Hapeville Hornet, and the class of '75 have gained as true Hornets. One outstanding accomplishment was the winning of the Spirit Week Banner Contest, and second place in the spinner skit contest. The sub-freshmen have displayed a sincere interest in the affairs and conditions of the school and have played an active part in the student government.

Freshmen Prepare For Upperclass Responsibilities

Freshmen prepared for the up-coming time when they will be "upperclassmen." They excelled in B-team football and basketball, and showed ability in track as well. During spirit week, the ninth-graders competed in the spirit skits, while during the rest of the year many freshmen were in clubs and helped with charity projects.

This year, freshmen were allowed to choose their course of study, a change which helped them learn to make decisions that will be long lasting. Freshmen kept up their spot in the school in both academic and extracurricular activities.

Sophomores Reach "Almost There" Point

Sophomores enjoyed a year of "inbetweenness." They felt like upperclassmen, but juniors and seniors still looked down on them. It really made them wonder just what their position in school was. However, sophomores took a giant step forward to attain their immediate goal of being upperclassmen.

The year was not all fun and games, unfortunately. Theorems in geometry and dissection in biology created some tedious moments. Of course, there was history and P.E. and numerous electives. English was ever present in sophomore curriculum, highlighted by the study of human character and emotion in "The Scarlet Letter" and "Julius Caesar."

Activities were a major part of sophomore lives. It was participation in B-team sports and cheer-leading; and for many, a beginning in varsity. Sophomores began to hold major offices in clubs. Military became an activity that was enjoyed or despised. Sophomores also participated in band and chorus, plus other activities such as representing Student Council in homeroom.

Sophomores made a name for themselves this year. What some people called them is unprintable; however, if enthusiasm is any indication of leadership potential, this year's tenth-graders will smoothly assume upperclass responsibilities in their remaining years as Hornets.

The Winter Ball was one (a ball, dummy!) for tenth-graders.

Juniors Step Up to Year Ahead

The junior year of high school is perhaps one of the most important. More events occur during that year than in any other year, with the exception of the senior year. The juniors order their senior rings early in the year; then comes preparation for the Junior-Senior Prom. A magazine sale to raise money. Planning and work sessions for the prom. And, just before the important day, their senior rings arrive. And last, but by NO means least, the Prom.

Members of the class got off to an early start this year. They had completed their successful magazine sale by November. The money received from the sale financed the Junior-Senior Prom, which is annually sponsored by the junior class.

Seniors Set Sights On May, 1971

"May, 1971" held a magnetic power over H.H.S. seniors. For some, it meant college and a chance for a better life. For others, it was the start of a career. No matter what, each of the seniors looked forward to graduation.

Just like every other class before them, they had produced, over those five long years, a number of outstanding students. The class of '71 had six students inducted into the National Honor Society. They also had twenty-one inducted into the National Beta Club. Some of the seniors were elected to be first or second chair in the All-State Orchestra or the All-State Chorus. A number of other '71 grads were named WSB Young Americans. The year of 1971 might have been just another year for some, but for the seniors of Hapeville High School, it was a "completely unique" experience.

Despite tough schedules, seniors still found time to relieve the tension of school. Seniors' Actions Reflect Various Moods

The actions of the senior class reflected the various moods it had experienced. Elation was often felt by seniors. The Spirit Skits of the class reflected this. Everyday "performances" of the seniors showed carefreeness. However seniors obviously had to be serious once in a while. High academic averages and participation in Governor's Honors Program and All-State Orchestra and Chorus proved this. Everything added up to the seniors' efforts to learn and to enjoy school at the same time.

Seniors Do It Again

Thanks to the undying effort put into the skit by the seniors, especially Brenda Bettis and Bub Attaway, the class of '71 captured first place in the annual spirit skit competition. This was the second year in a row they had done it. Cast and crew members strived for two weeks to prepare the elaborate costumes and staging used during the skit. Under the direction of Miss Wells, the skit showed the seniors' interpretation of lost soul as spiritless seniors went to the devil. However, they were saved by the Blue Angels (spirit revival), and cries of "Oh thank heaven for senior spirit!" rang throughout the auditorium.

Seniors worked, aside from the skit, promoting school spirit during the week. They made signs, posters, and spirit badges. As far as financing this project was concerned, it was amazing how far "two bits" from each class member went.

Happy expressions on senior faces make it obvious they were glad to win the spirit skit for the second year in a row.

Seniors Involved In Different Aspects Of Curriculum

Seniors desperately struggled to fit into their schedules the necessary subjects for graduation. Scheduling was a complicated process requiring great understanding on the part of both students and teachers. The requirement of human development caused many scheduling problems.

Many subjects, such as analysis and human physiology were created especially for seniors. Journalism provided experience for the future of some. A new course offered in history gave seniors an extra subject for which to receive much needed credit. A curriculum highlight for all seniors was, naturally, English.

J. Brooks and D. Williams argue over style of personal cards.

Homeroom tardies must be legal, says Teach.

The Seniors of E-3 have something very special that no one else has — Coach Brewer for their homeroom teacher. What other class is allowed to display their “71” with green and white tape in a frequently used room? The students are always entertained by their funny and factual teacher. He tells them everything from ham radio operations to stories about the war. These seniors are also allowed certain “special” privileges. Even though these seniors spend only a few minutes each day with Coach Brewer, it’s a very nice way to start the day.

Hapeville United Methodist Youth

The friendliness, happiness, togetherness, and spirit of E-2 show through in the happy faces of the Seniors in that homeroom. How many homeroom teachers greet their students for the first time with open arms and Tootsie Roll Pops? E-2 is probably the only homeroom in the school in which the age of chivalry is returned. When a lady walks in, the gentlemanly boys stand up.

1970-71 Strides To Close

Cathy McGinnis takes an active interest in the biographies of historical people.

Perhaps she should use Colgate 100, mouthwash for lovers???

Tony Doolittle and Will Brantley were among the cast members in the Drama Club's first production, "Three Pills in a Bottle."

Peace is often found in solitude at H.H.S.

Miss Taylor adds to the faculty take-off practices with her own humor and impressions of the teachers.

Darlene Gilley and David Barnett find "parting is such sweet sorrow."

Mrs. Foster and Mrs. Anderson rejoice as their year of journalism comes to a close!

1970-1971 brought to Hapeville the annual event of a basketball Homecoming.

Mr. Watkins ponders the responsibilities of the H.H.S. principalship.

Mr. Purdie says, for the last time, "Everyone report to your first period class."

The 1970-71 Hilltop Staff expresses its appreciation to all the "soles" who made this book possible.

Looking back. Thinking it over. In some ways, 1970-71 at Hapeville High was just another year. Facts were learned; tests were given, failed and passed.

But, surely, there was more to the year than that – something extra to make those past days especially valuable. Could the something special be learning just a little bit better what it means to look at things through someone else's eyes, to get inside another's shoes and to feel as they feel?
