MADE IN ATLANTA, GEORGIA

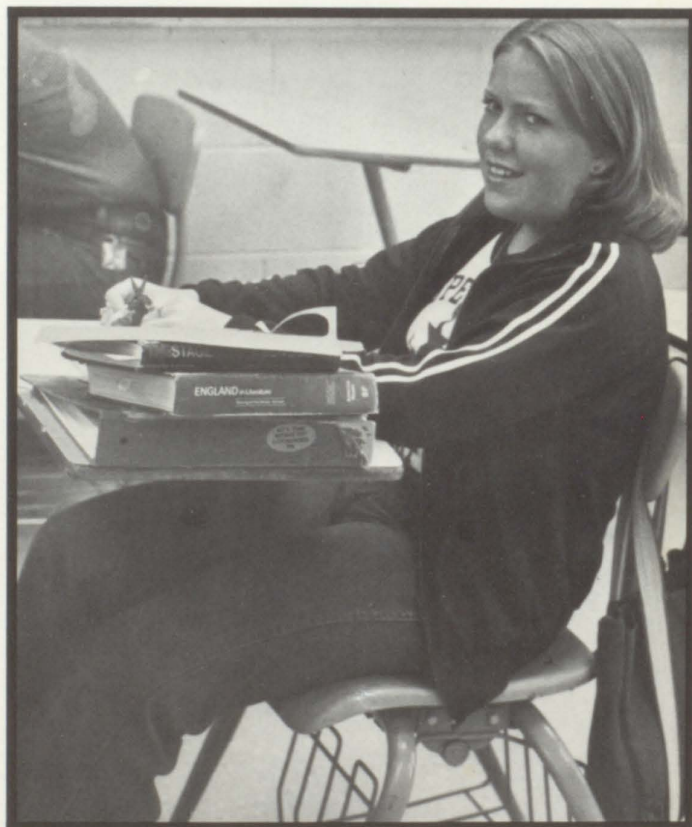

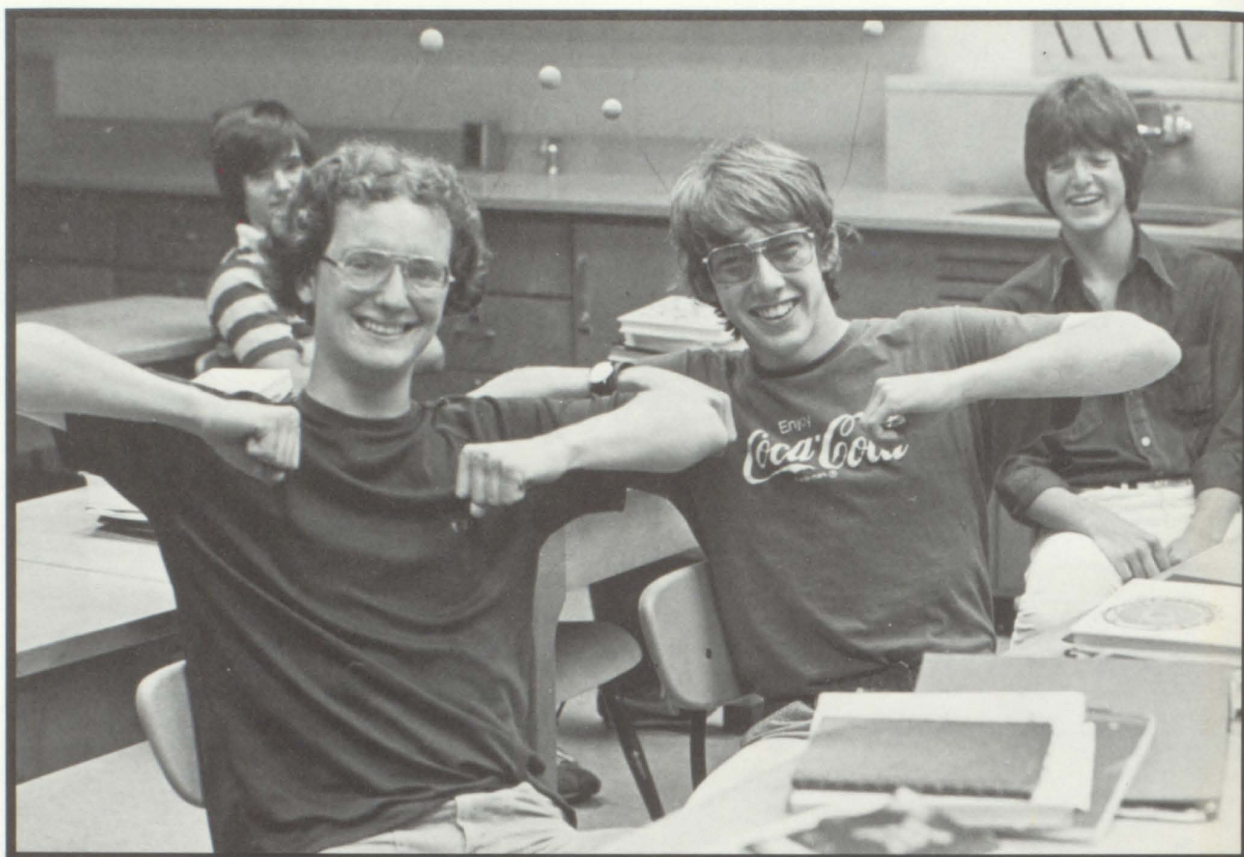

The year . . . 1978. It was going to be . . . and then it happened . . . and now it was. How can we recapture what has already sped past?

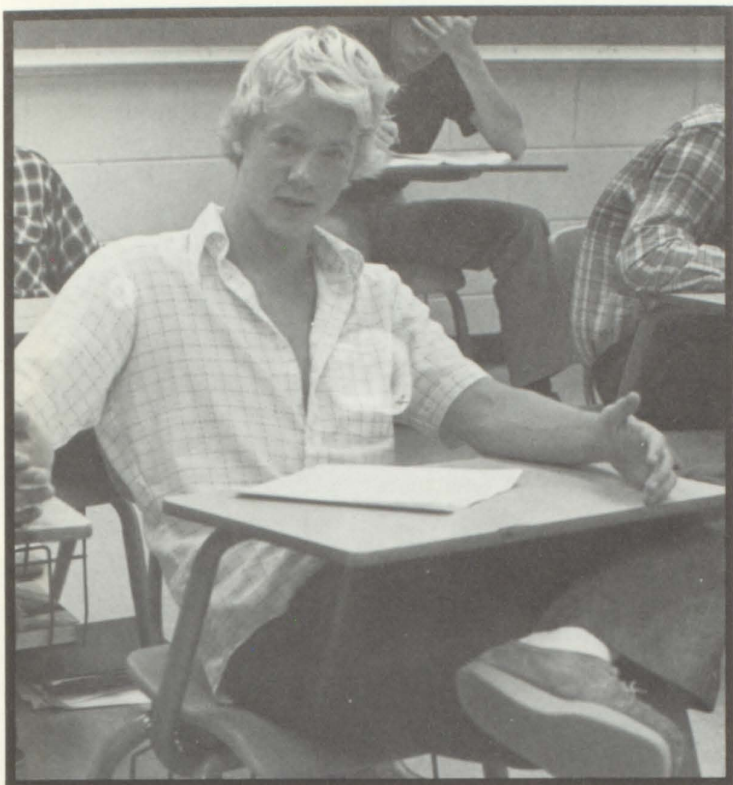

Musing, the lens of the mind's unconscious eye becomes clouded. Fog rolls in around the edges of the memories.

Isolating one event blends it into another . . . and another . . . and yet another. What will bring each memory back into focus?

The year . . . 1978. New York blacked out for a day, while Anita Bryant, basking in Florida's sunshine, protested the rights of the dormant political volcano, the gay community. However, the sun failed to shine on Bert Lance, President Carter's Federal Budget Director who resigned after his personal finances were attacked by politicians and press alike. The frenzy of the press was not limited to political reporting. Another example of press hysteria was Son of Sam, the most publicized criminal of the year, a ruthless and rancorous compulsive killer.

The press reported just a spot of news about His Royal Highness Prince Charles, Prince of Wales, who paid Atlanta a visit and attended a performance of Gladys Knight and the Pips at the historic Fox Theater. Also on the sovereign scene, Charles' sister, Princess Ann, provided for a royal baby, and Monaco's royalty, Princess Caroline, prepared for a wedding.

As much a part of life as birth and marriage . . . death claimed several celebrities in 1978. "You Bet Your Life" Groucho Marx, who brought so much laughter into so many lives, died. And so did Bing Crosby, who warmed every winter of our childhood with "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas." And killed in a plane crash in Mississippi were three members of the well-loved band, Lynyrd Skynyrd. But the most shocking death of the year was that of the King of Rock and Roll, Elvis Presley.

A sampling of other news morsels show that the Food and Drug Administration threatened to take saccharin off the market; and as Americans were bombarded with advice concerning what to eat from doctor, television, and government, Uganda's abominable Idi Amin admitted to eating people.

In a local overview, Maynard Jackson was re-elected and remarried. His old antagonist Lester Maddox gave up antagonizing in favor of singing, and later survived a heart attack.

Of technological interest, 1978 was the 20th anniversary of the Russian Sputnik . . . of considerable importance since it was the spark which ignited the American space program. Other fly-able technology included the Space Shuttle, making its debut, and the Concorde jet, stirring up controversy. And adding to the controversy were the neutron bomb, the proliferation of atomic energy plants, and the swelling Energy Crisis.

But 1978 was comprised of more than just serious events.

In the sports headlines the famous soccer player Pele retired, moving out of the spotlight, while the famous tennis player, Dr. Renee Richards moved into it (for mostly non-sports reasons). And for sports reasons, namely for winning the U.S. Open in tennis, Chris Evert was the spotlight figure in women's sports.

1978 witnessed several noteworthy victories, both probable and improbable. The Falcons played strongly despite the fact that Steve Bartkowski was out, having suffered a serious knee injury and a divorce. And Atlanta's own Ted Turner, "Captain Outrageous," successfully defended the America's Cup. Even the Atlanta Braves won a commendable game or two.

Seattle Slew reigned, winning the Triple Crown. The Yankees won the World Series in a spectacularly showy last game as Reggie Jackson hit three home runs, a feat accomplished before only by Babe Ruth. Muhammed Ali continued to proclaim himself "The Greatest" although he showed signs of age in a few unimpressive matches. Tom Watson proved that he possessed golf's hottest putter by mastering Jack Nicklaus in Augusta, then winning the British Open in Scotland.

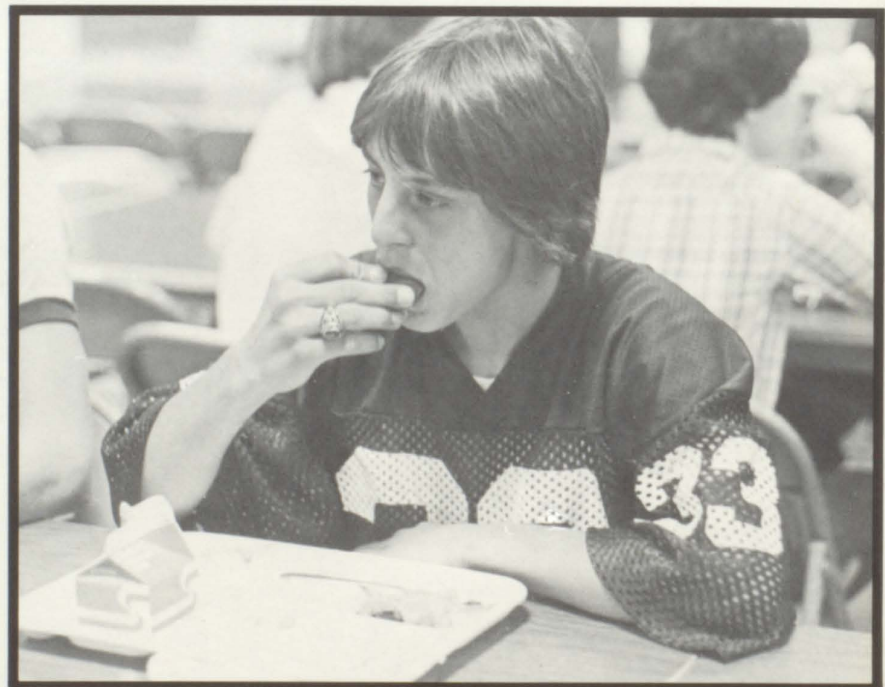

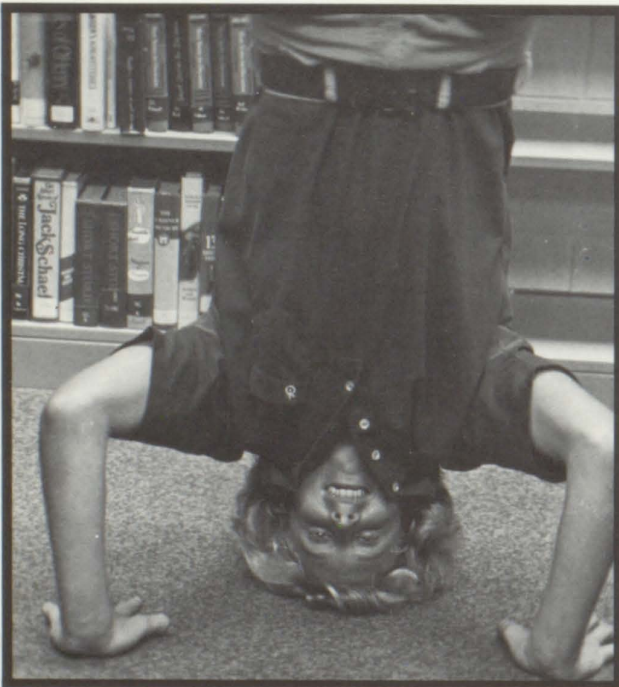

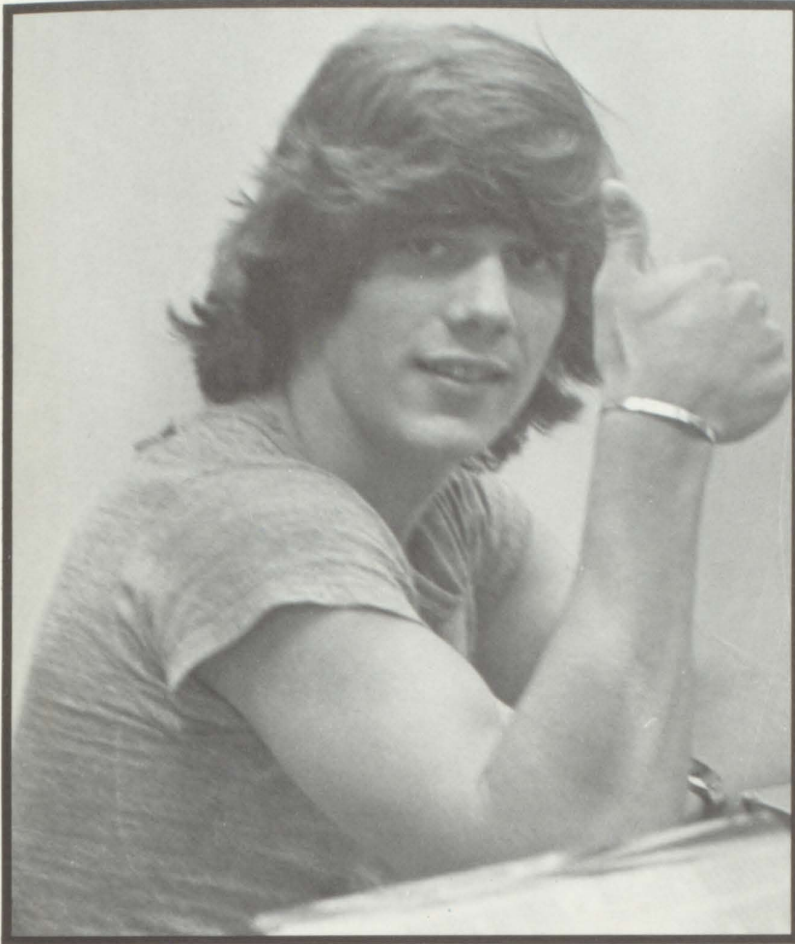

In 1978 the camera certainly picked up on Farrah Fawcett, an ex-Charlie's angel who appeared with millions of guys on their T-shirts, and in their bedrooms in multi-million selling posters. To the delight of millions of viewers, Cheryl Ladd was the replacement angel.

While some of us were watching "Charlie's Angels," others of us preferred to tune in to "Fernwood 2-Night," a cooky, mock-talk show, or "Soap," a shockingly candid serial. "Washington Behind Closed Doors" created a small sensation.

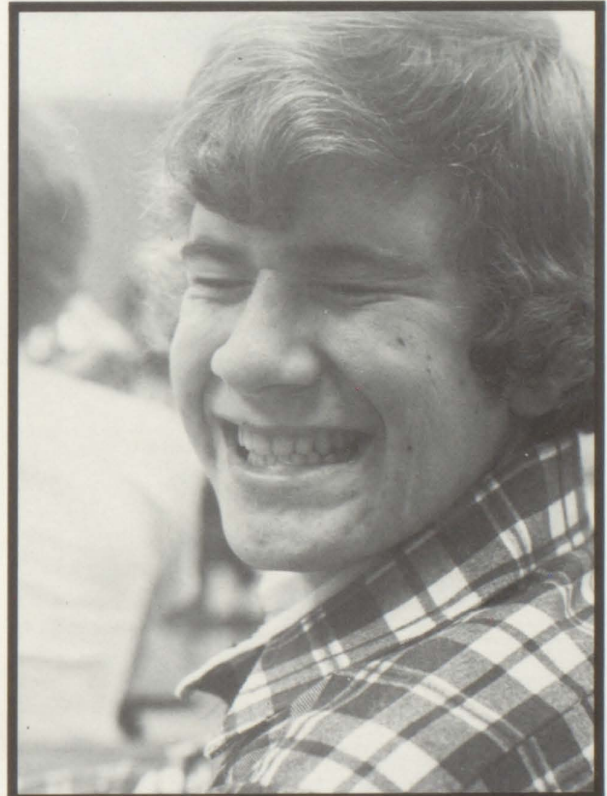

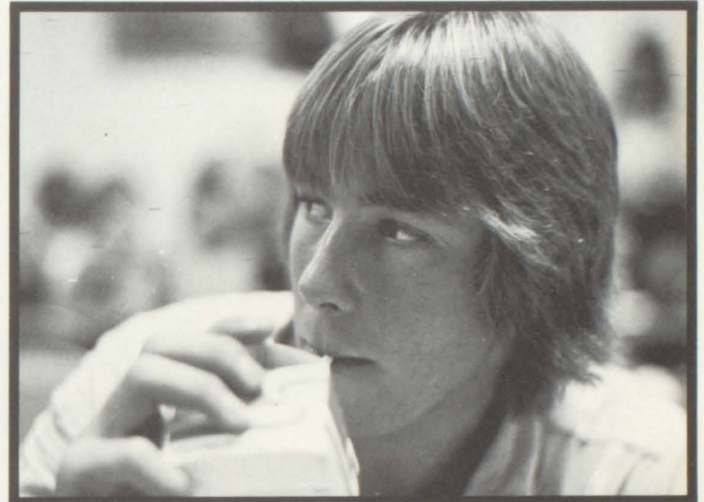

However, the most talked about television entertainment consistently remained "Saturday Night Live" and never failed to offer amusing dialogue, music, and a variety of comic characters from Baba Wawa to the coneheads.

One of the most spectacular entertainment events of the year hit Atlanta when Heart, The Atlanta Rhythm Section, Bob Seger, and others boogied away on Grant Field and produced the Dog Day Rock Fest. Governor Busbee proclaimed an Atlanta Rhythm Section Day.

Bad Company put on a show, and lots of people were flying high with the Eagles. Atlanta also saw Stevie "Guitar" Miller begin his 1978 tour in a flash of green laser beams. Crosby, Stills, and Nash appeared less Young. Peter Frampton was still "Live" as ever playing "I'm in You." Emerson, Lake, and Palmer did positively "Work."

Among albums to hit the top, Fleetwood Mac's RUMOURS shone out. J.T. was pretty handy.

A combination of LITTLE QUEEN by Heart, ANYTIME ANYWHERE by Rita Coolidge, and the hit single "Nobody Does It Better" by Carly Simon boosted female rock vocalists back into popularity. Ted Nugent got CAT SCRATCH FEVER, and Dave Mason LET IT FLOW, while Dan Fogelberg was off in the NETHERLANDS writing "songs that the darkness composes to worship the light."

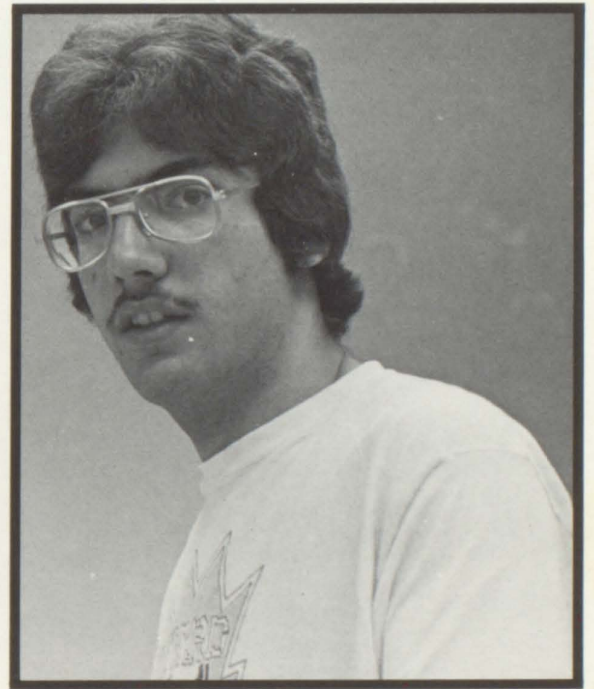

On the radio, the competition between the local stations Z-93, 94-Q, and 96-Rock was evident as each appeared on belt buckles, bumper stickers, and billboards.

James Bond made a daring return in THE SPY WHO LOVED ME. A BRIDGE TOO FAR might have been an hour too long, but it attracted many movie goers. STAR WARS, a science-fiction fairy tale entailing the age old theme of good versus evil, was the most sensational box office knock-out. But, Diane Keaton, star of LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR and Woody Allen's witty ANNIE HALL was a pretty big knock-out herself.

1978 was characterized by hundreds of fads and fancies. Among them ladies' hair combs and decorative flowers made a well-timed comeback from the thirties. And from the fifties, dock sider moccasins and clutch purses returned. Innovations included western style boots and leg warmers, rainbow sandals and bracelets, khaki fatigues, gym shorts, cowl neck shirts, and cable knit sweaters.

Guys were wearing argyle socks and oxford shirts, and they finally decided to shed their inhibitions (and their clothes) and wear racing suits, a modest way of saying "bikinis".

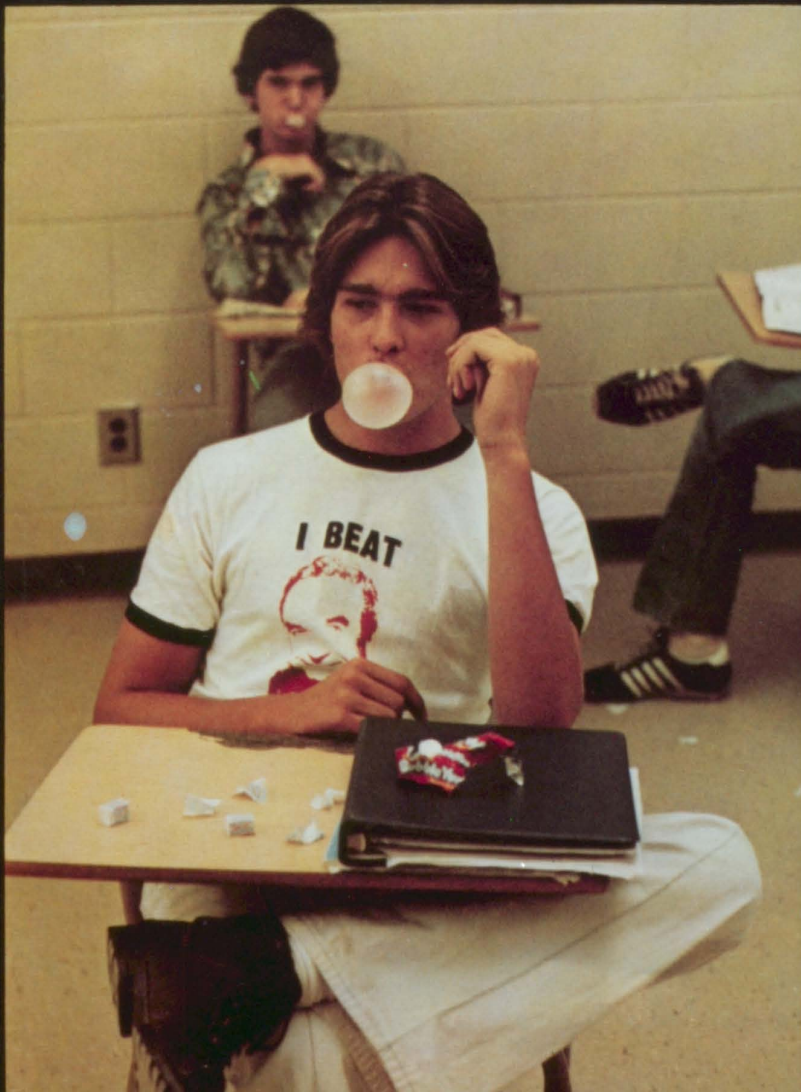

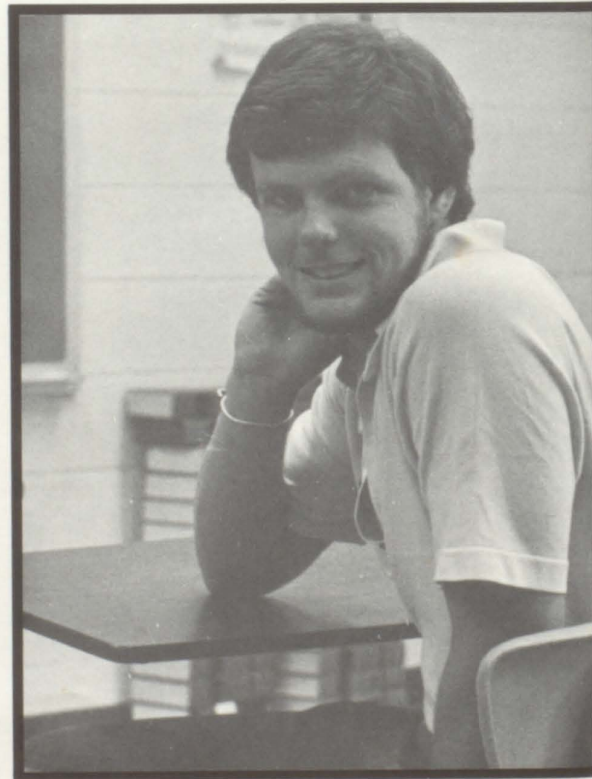

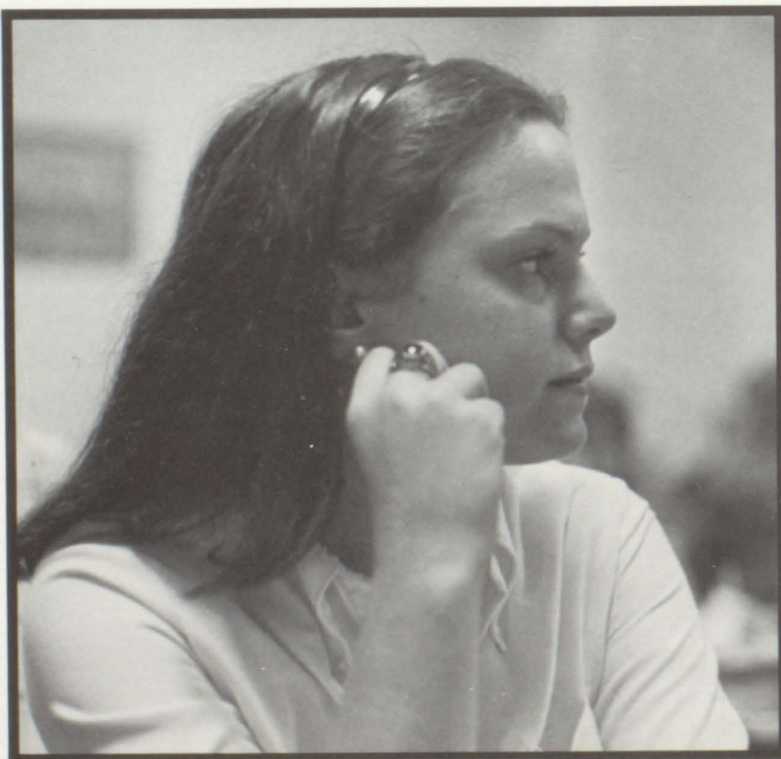

For commuting, Mopeds (little bicycle-like, peddle-able motorcycles) became increasingly more dangerous and popular as did skateboards.

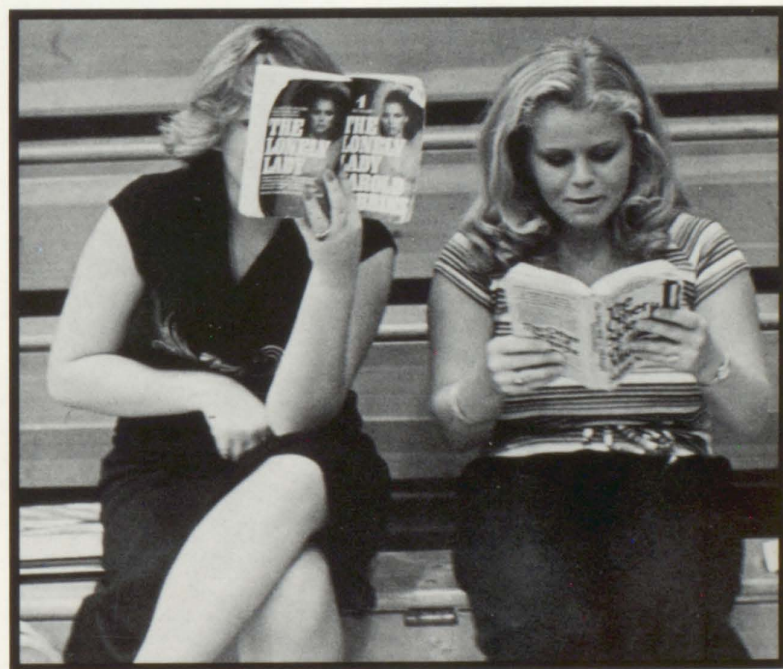

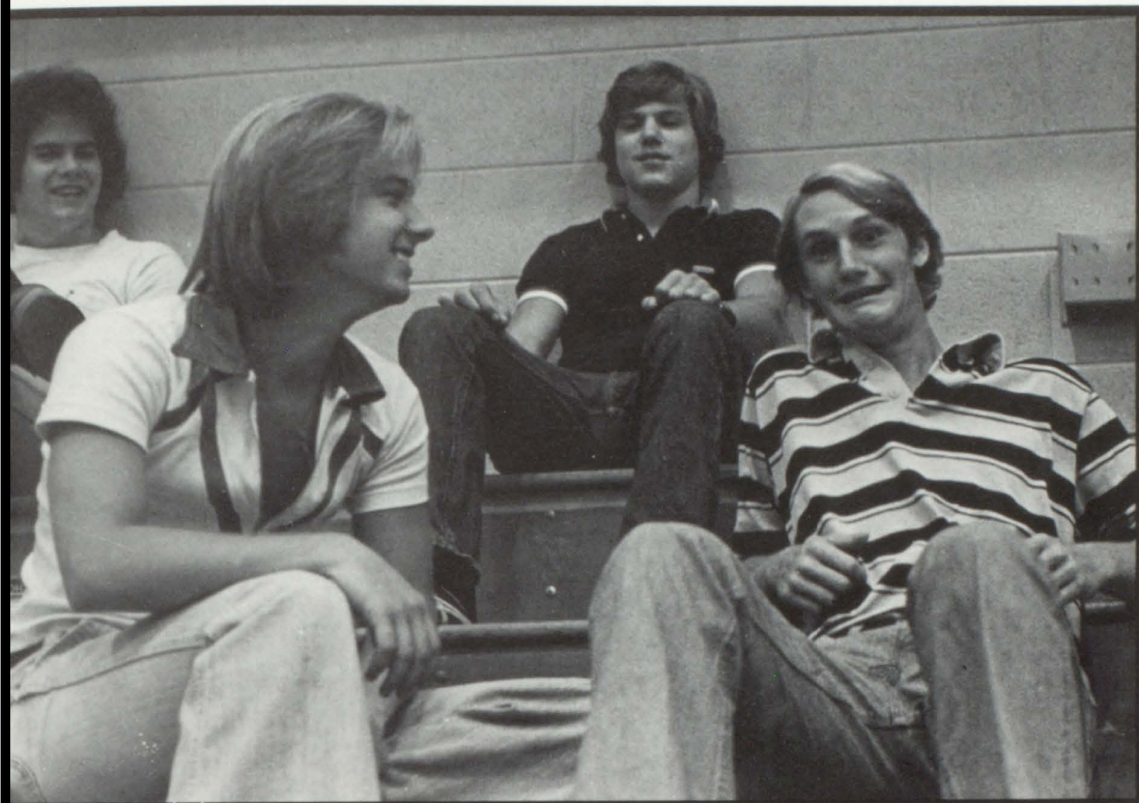

Edible fads included Bubble Yum, frozen yogurt . . . which also answered to the name of Fro Yo or Frogurt . . . and variations on the tune of chocolate chip cookies from the Factory. Noble Roman's substituted satisfactorily for Steverino's and the now extinct Jocko's as a hang-out.

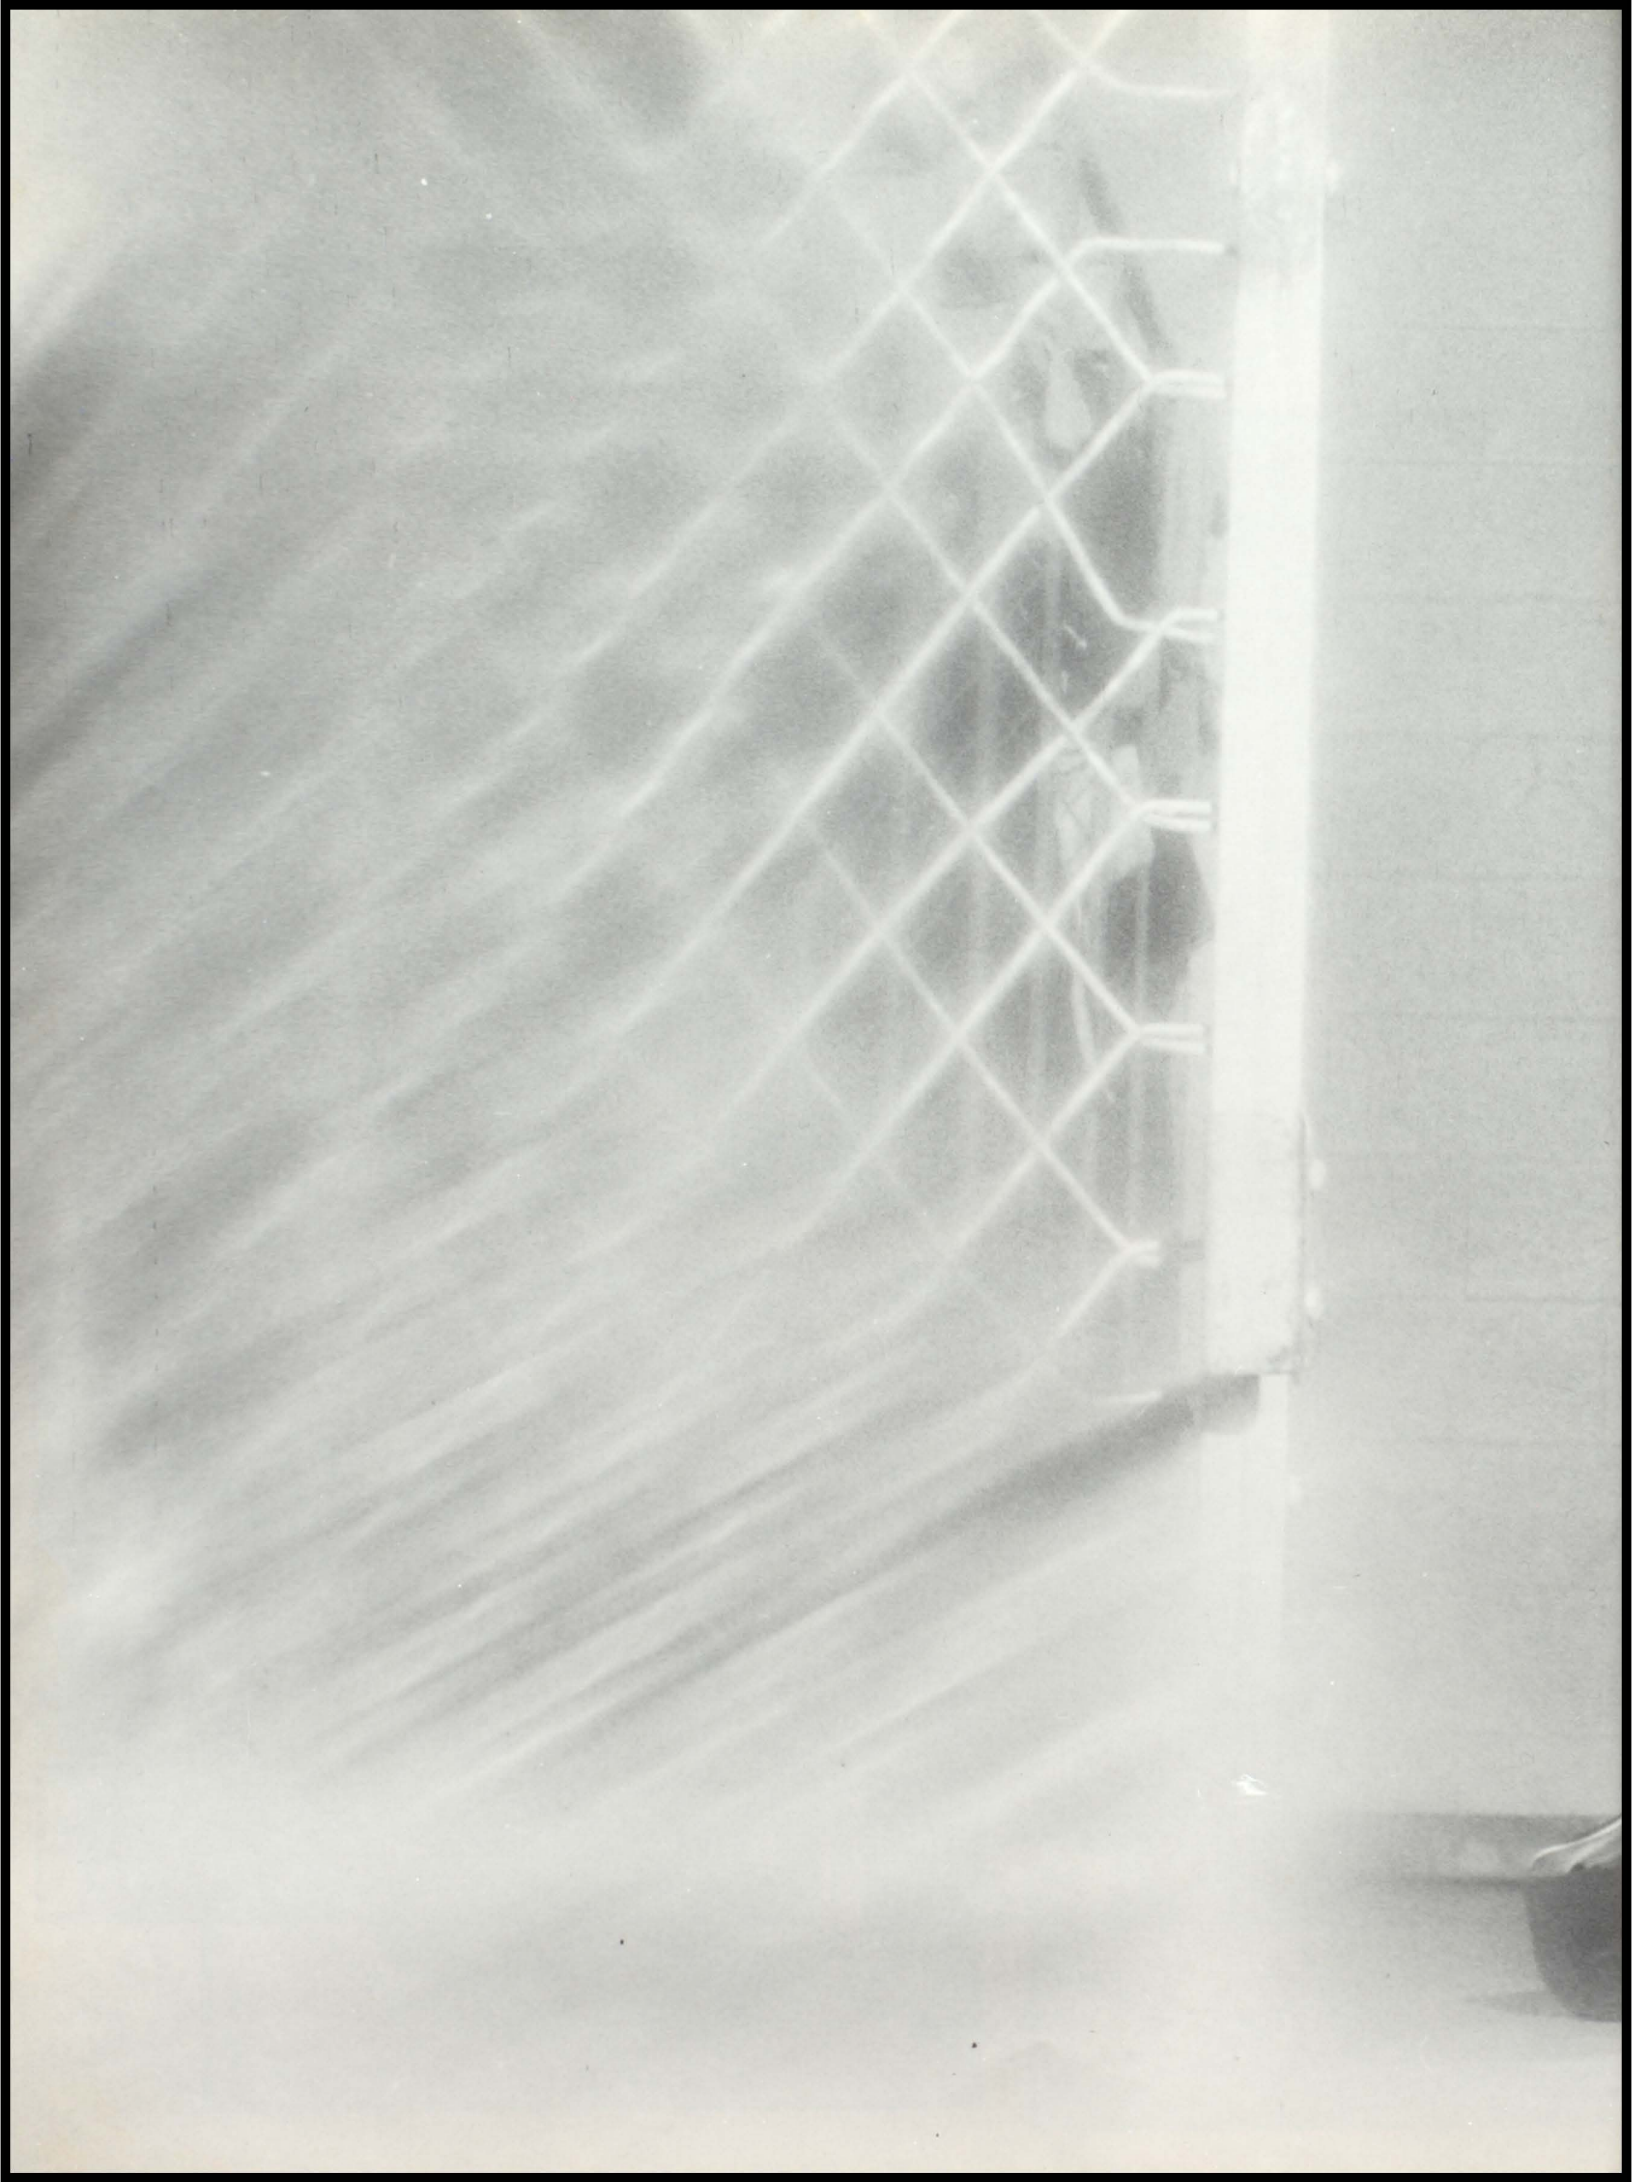

Another quirk in the personality of 1978 was a strange and fascinating substance, sold at every retailer's cash register—Green Slime. It . . . oozed . . . all over . . . the year . . . 1978.

The year . . . 1978 just kept spreading out, progressing and sometimes retreating. Time's skillful hands scooped up . . . molded . . . transformed what was into what is.

ACTIVITIES

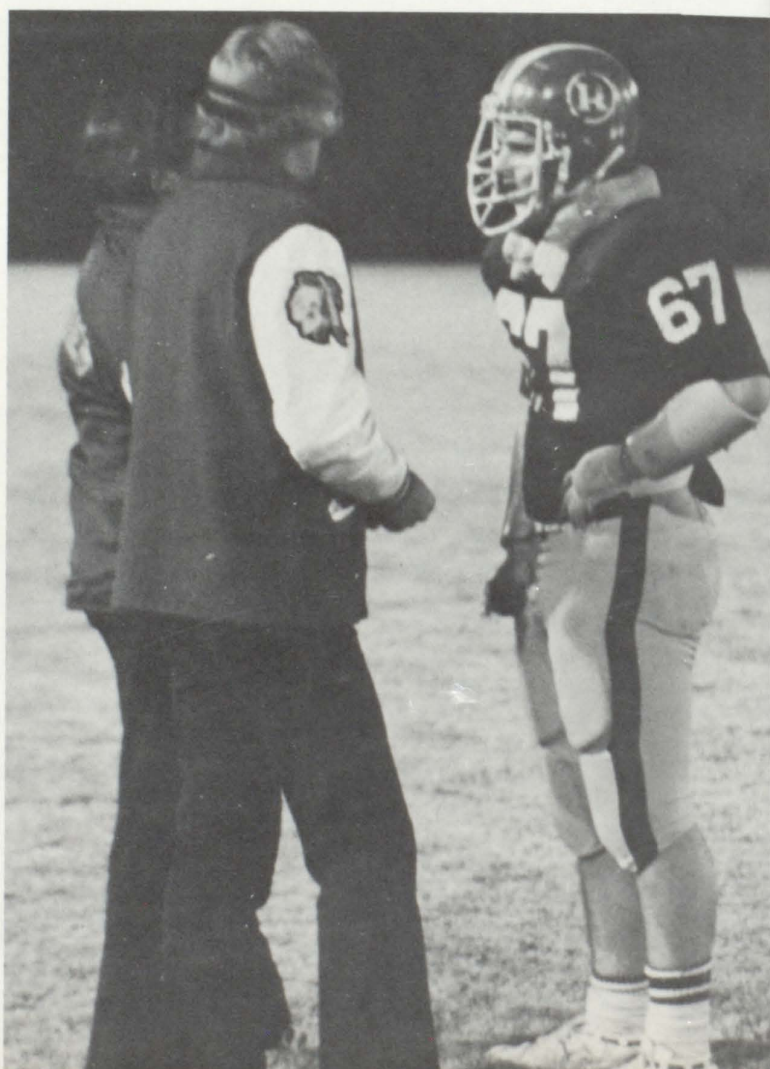

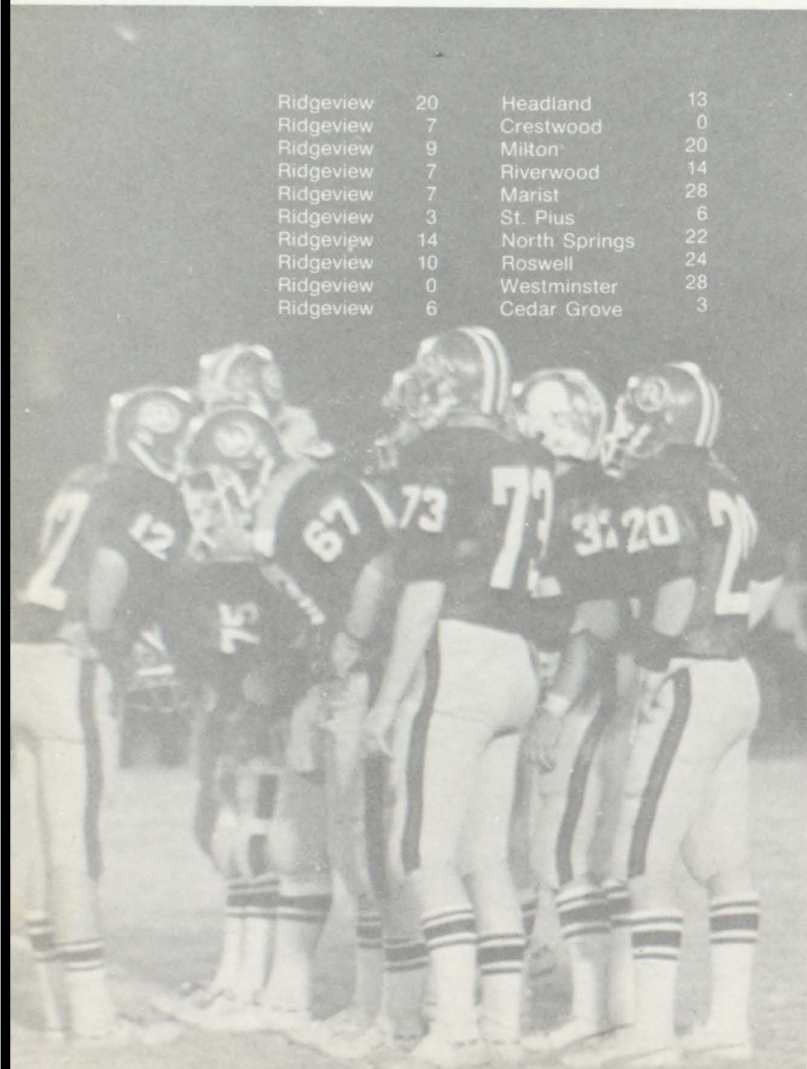

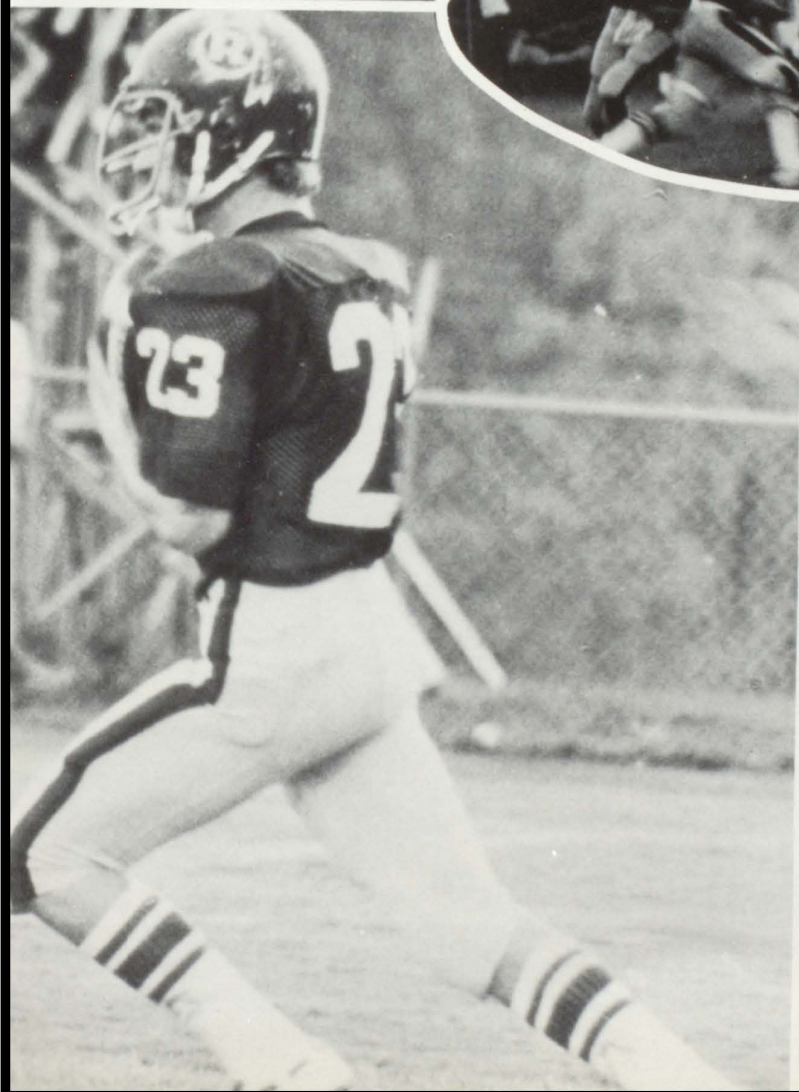

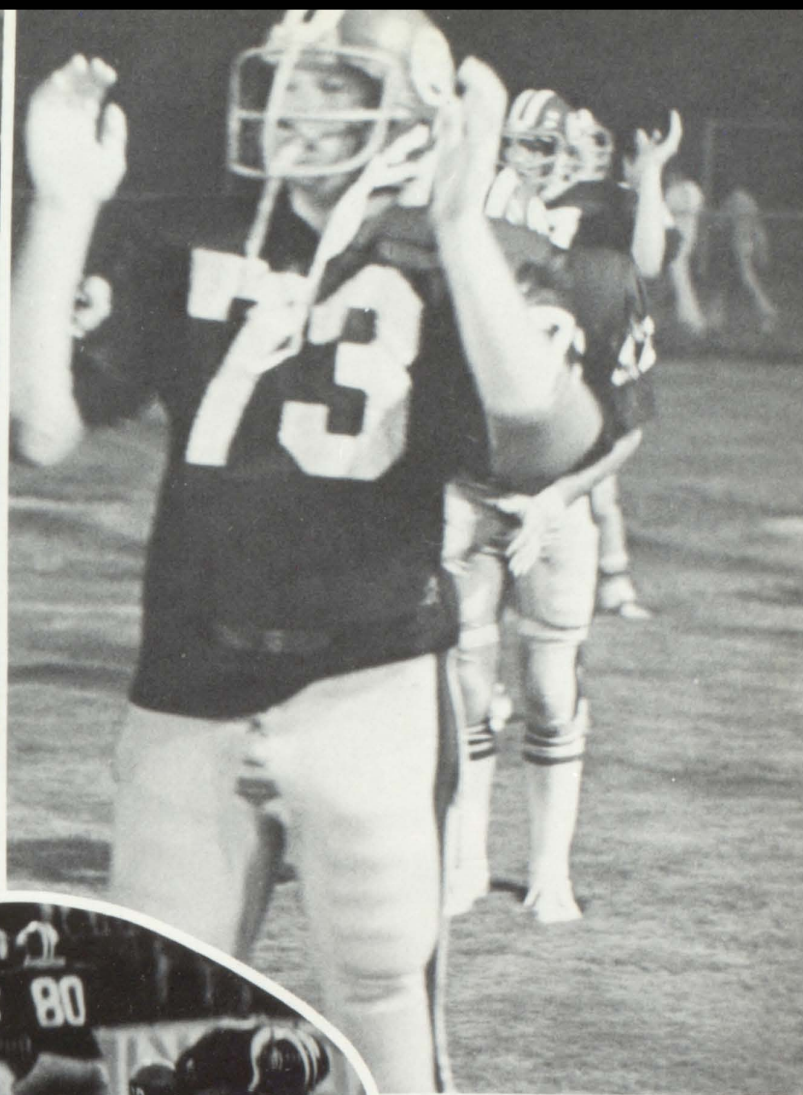

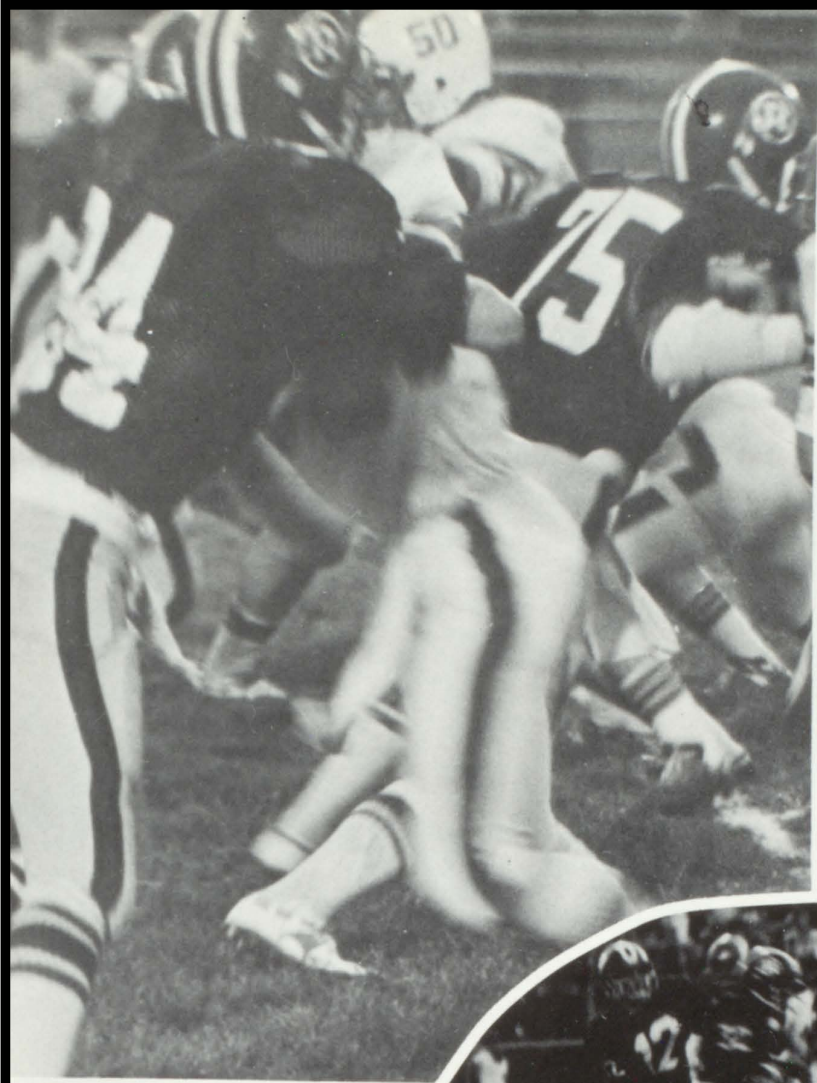

A black and white photograph of a high school varsity football team. The team is posed in three rows on a grassy field. The front row consists of players sitting on the ground, wearing dark jerseys with white numbers. The middle row has players standing, also in dark jerseys with white numbers. The back row includes several players standing and a few adults, likely coaches, on the far left and right. A scoreboard is visible in the background, showing 'DOWN', 'QTR.', 'GUEST', 'TO GO', and 'HOME'. The title 'VARSITY FOOTBALL' is printed in large, bold, serif capital letters across the top of the image.

THE GRIT . . .

Participation in sports is not all glory and success. For every victory, a team must put in many hard hours of practice learning fundamentals and repeating drills. For every achievement, there are moments of pain; for every success, some failure. And for every superstar who gets his name in lights, there are other athletes who ride the bench. Every member of a team must sweat, drive and push himself until he feels he can go on no longer. Sports isn't just scoring a touchdown, being cheered by fans, or winning a contest; sports is also practice, pain, failure, and most of all, sheer determination to succeed.

AND THE GLITTER

But the most satisfying aspect of sports is found in actual achievement when perfect execution and the cheers of the crowd make the long hours of practice worthwhile. The ultimate goal of an athlete is found at the end of a contest when he raises his hand in victory, when he crosses the finish line first, or when he sees the scoreboard acknowledging his team's supremacy. He knows at that instant a moment of glory: he knows he is number ONE.

STUDENT LIFE

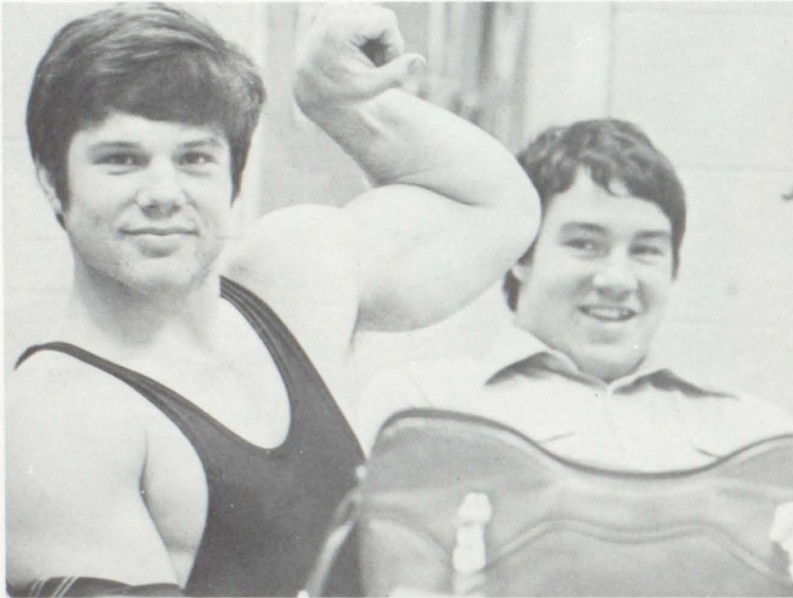

1978 AT RIDGEVIEW

You want to say that to my face?

The Redskins are here!

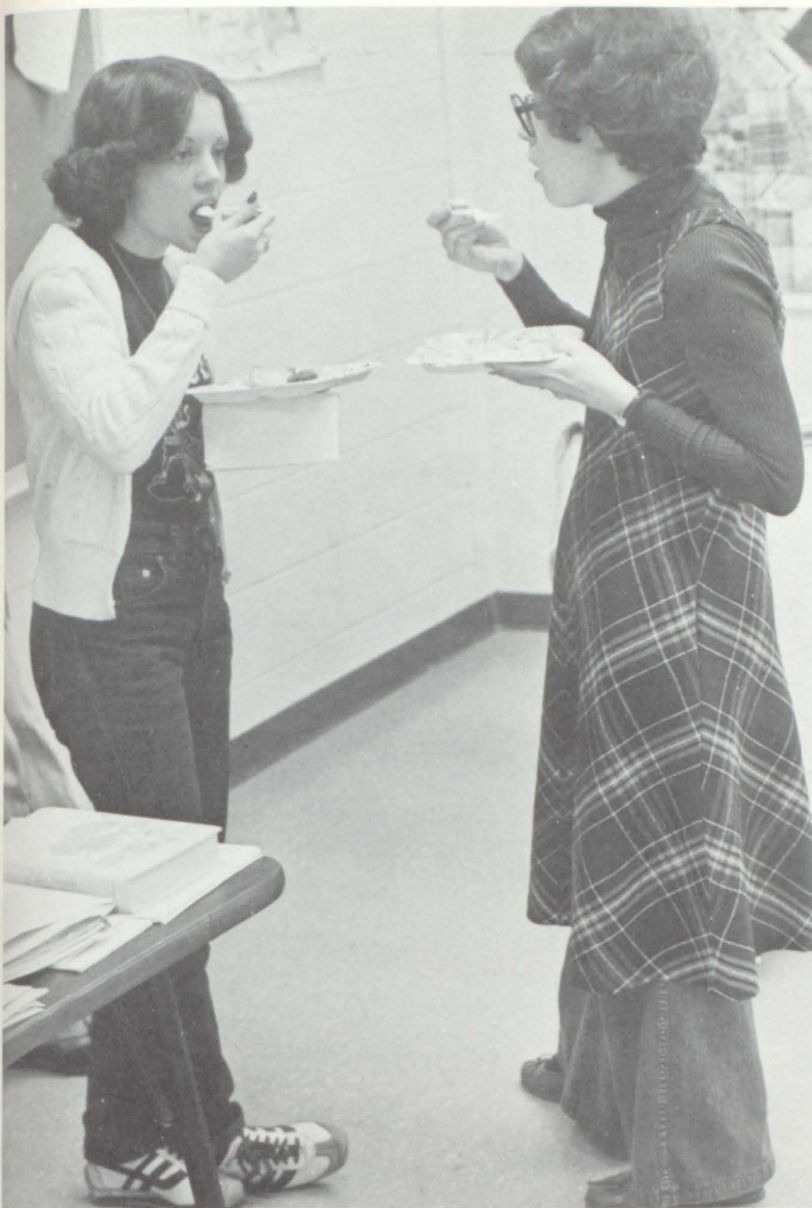

I ate my Wheaties today

You're steaming up my goggles!

Another exciting lunch at RHS

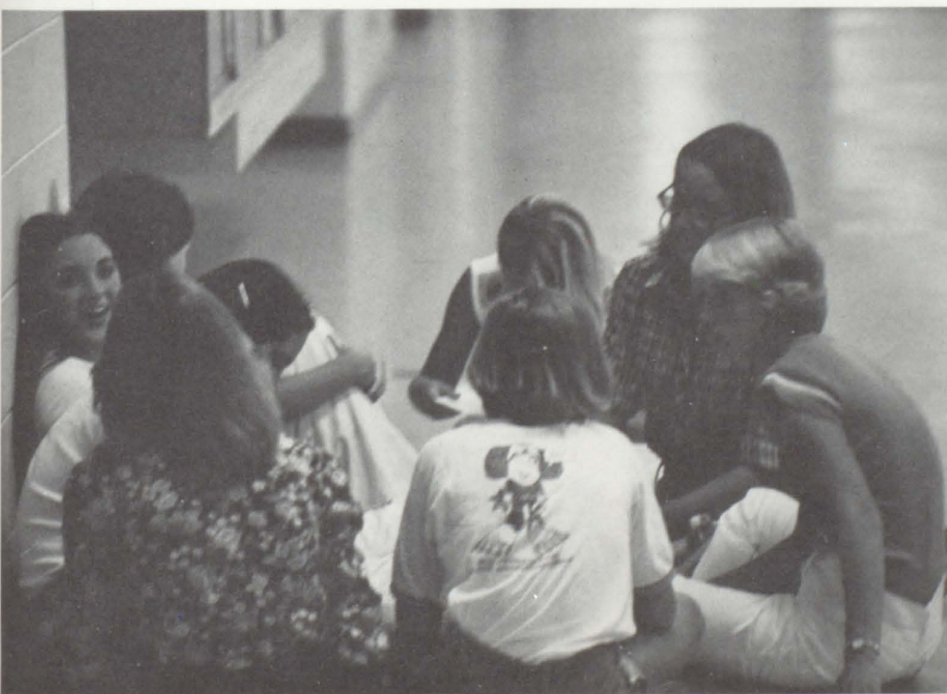

You put WHAT in it?

Does he or doesn't he?

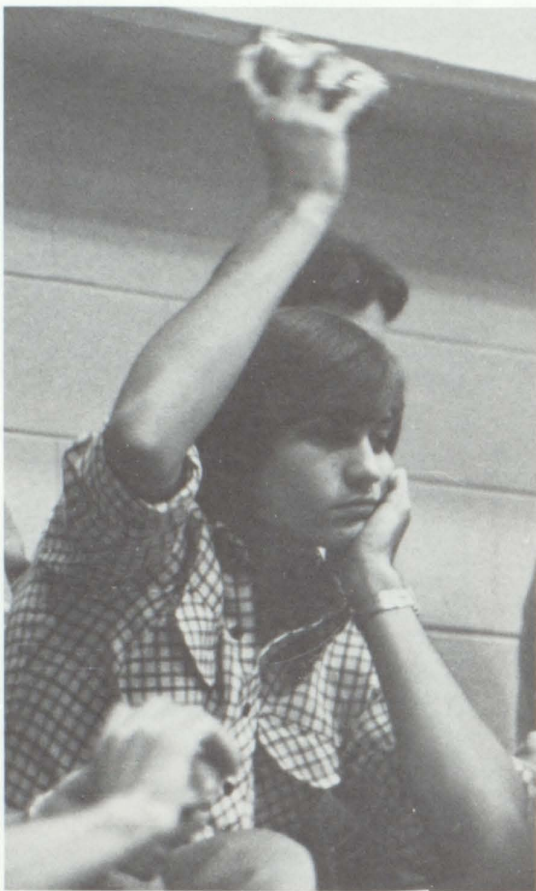

I swear, I didn't do it

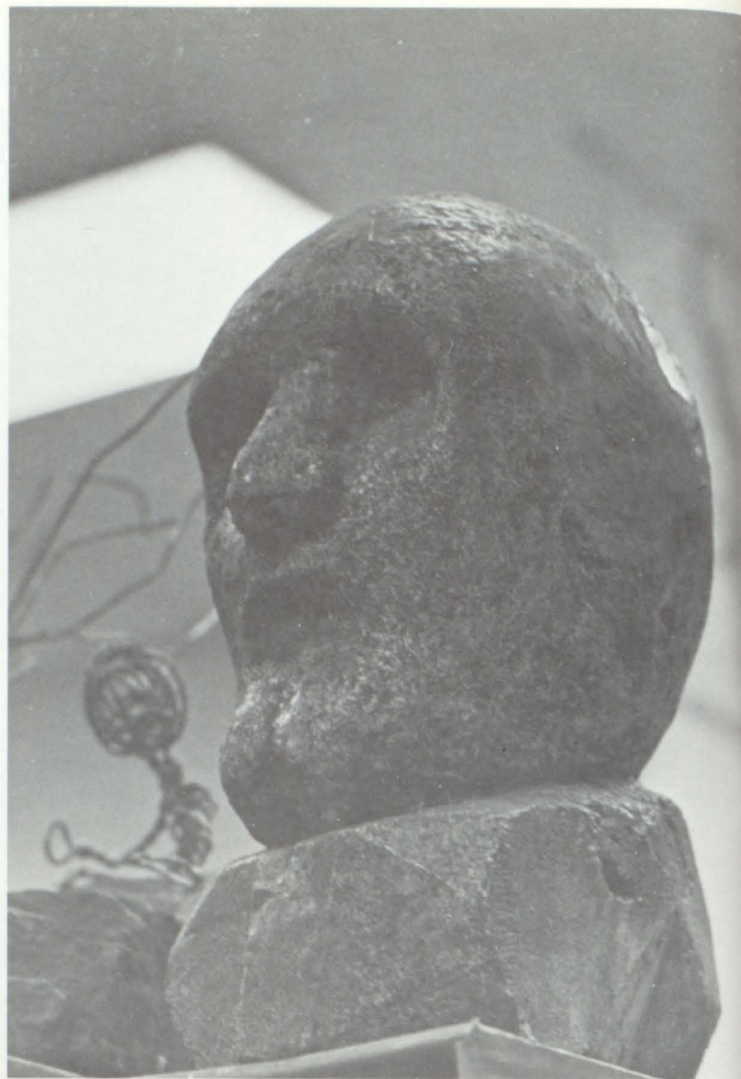

Hey man, pass it this way

We should be in the book, too

Rah!

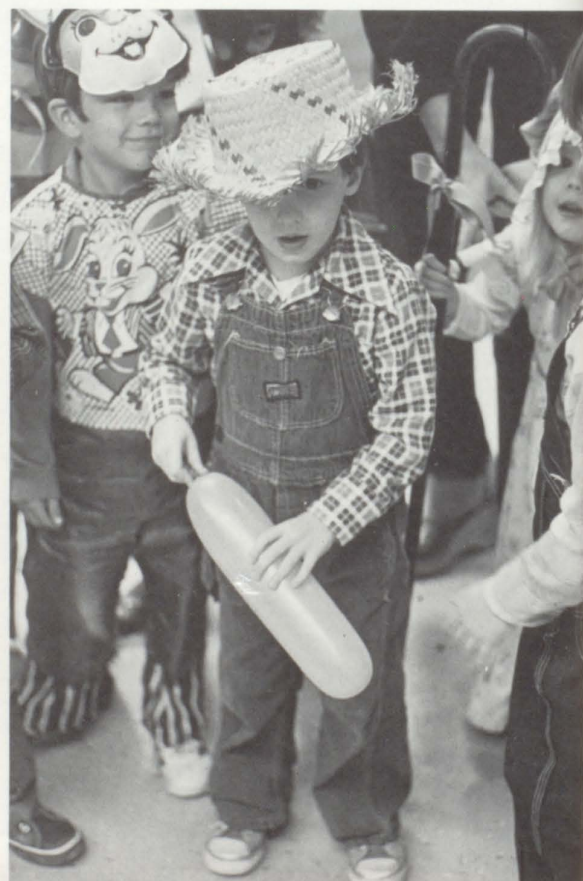

Get Stoned

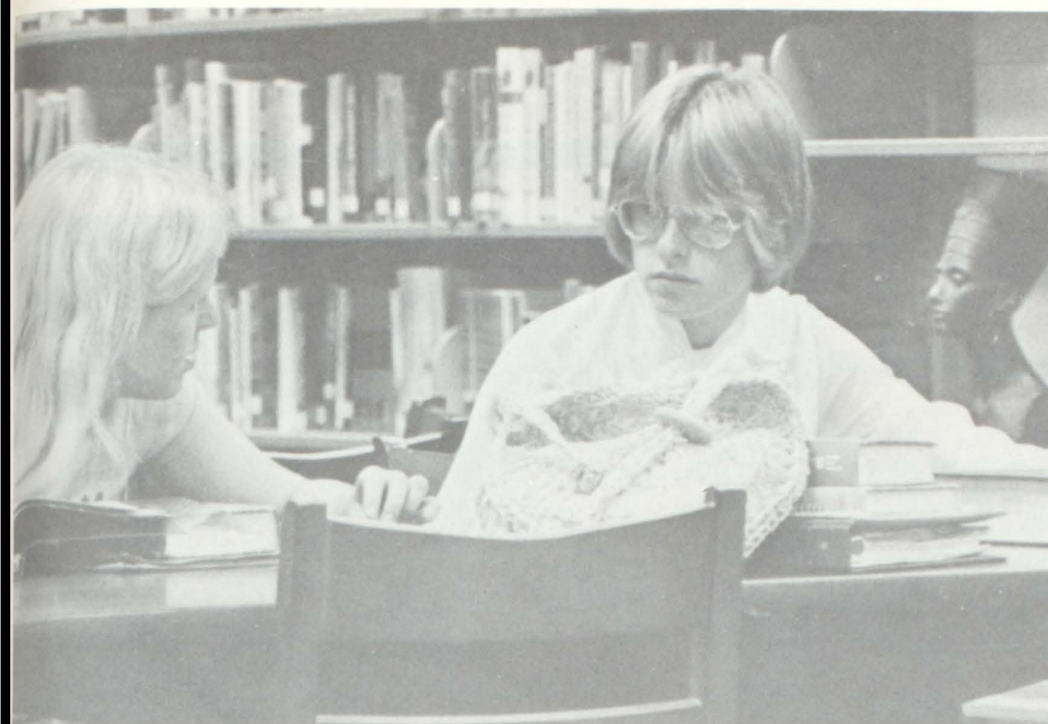

... and we're not coming back!

Sweet dreams of Calculus

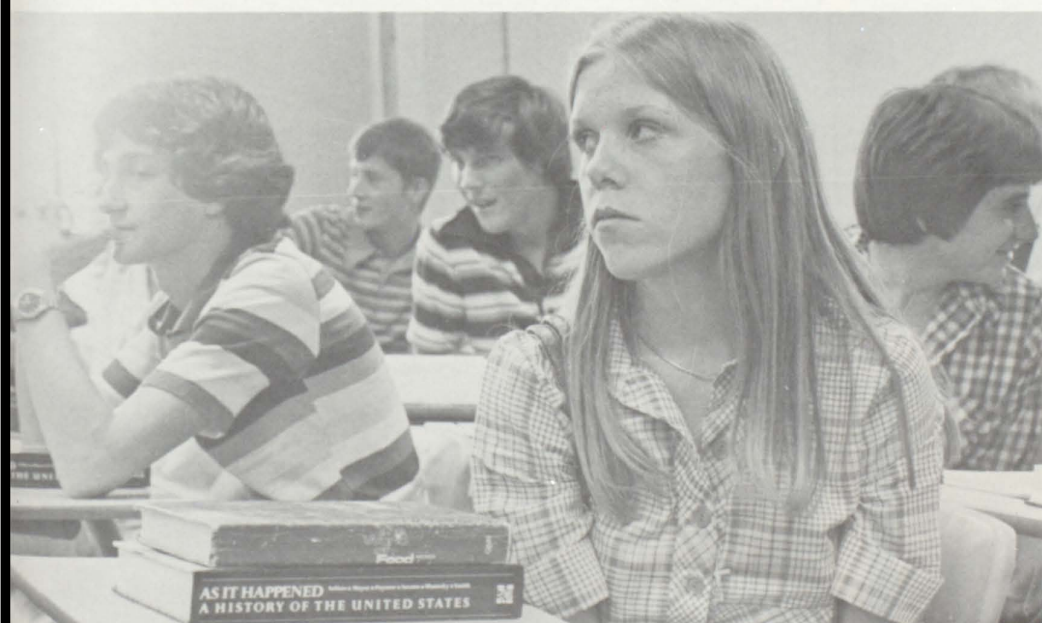

Those freshmen get smaller every year.

I can't believe you júst said that.

Ridgeview students are so bright!

That lady has got to be crazy

1977 HOMECOMING

Hollywood hit high school during homecoming this year. The theme for the week was the movies of 1977. The week before the big game and the dance was filled with festivities: T-shirt and hat day, and movie-star day on the Friday of the game. Dulce Kingsman was crowned Homecoming Queen. The senior class won first prize for their float depicting Ridgeview on one side of a bridge and the world on the other side with the caption, "Is it a Bridge Too Far?" the consummation of the week occurred at the dance with music from Circus.

THE YEAR 1978
REMEMBER?
DAY ...

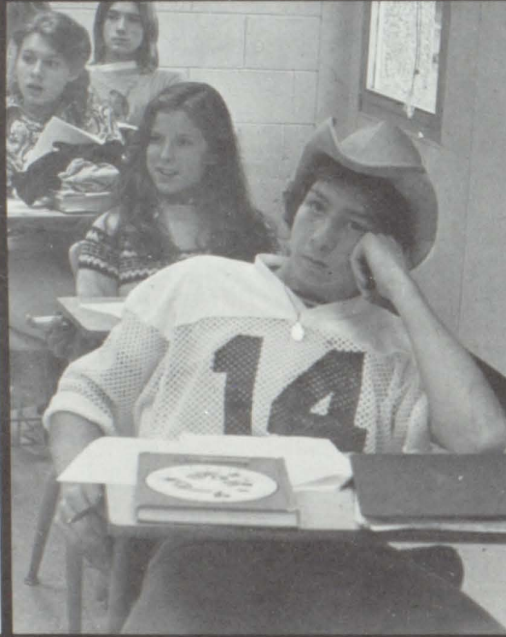

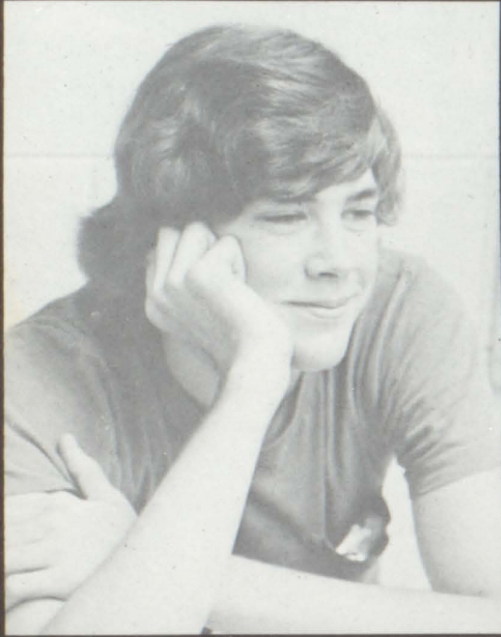

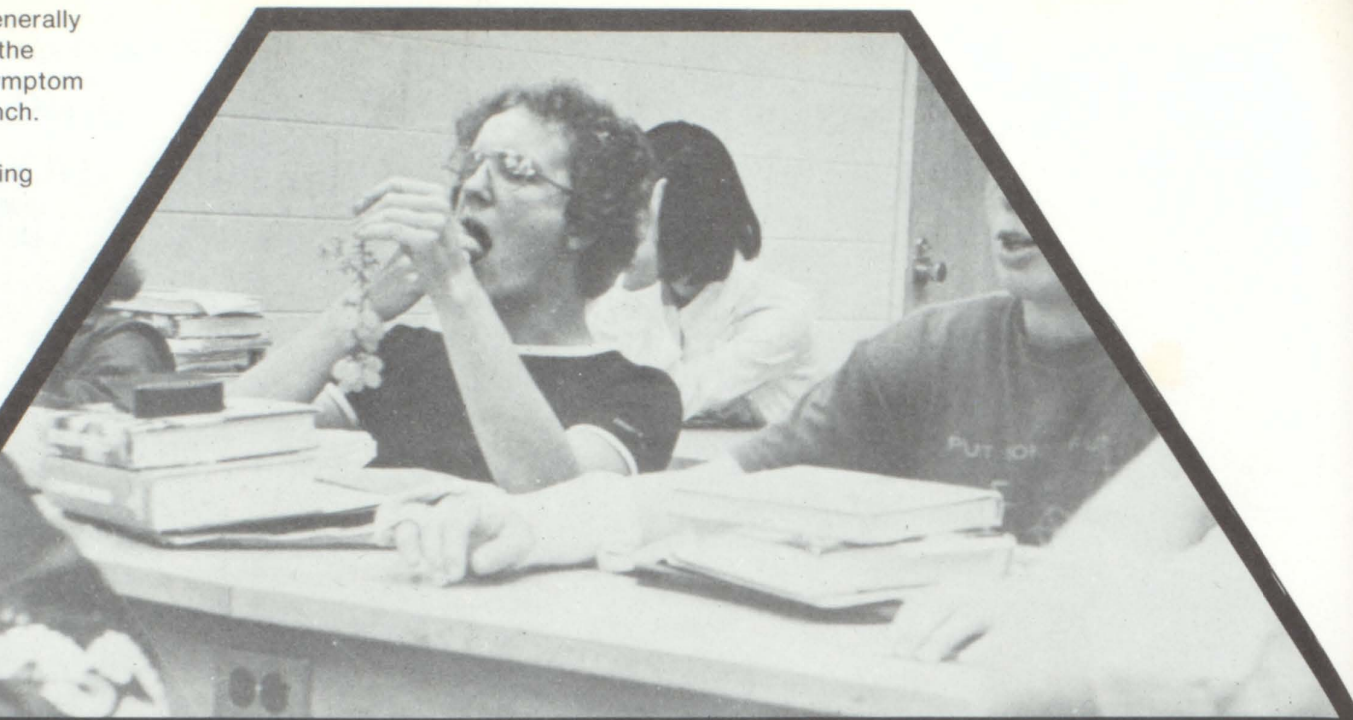

During first period a student might be overcome by an overwhelming sense of sleepiness, rendering him unable to concentrate. He experiences this feeling because he was up so late the night before laboring studiously over his work . . . or some such activity.

Second period is the class in which a student can work for an hour. He is now awake enough to perceive that the figure at the front of the room is a teacher and that all the other masses in the desks are fellow students.

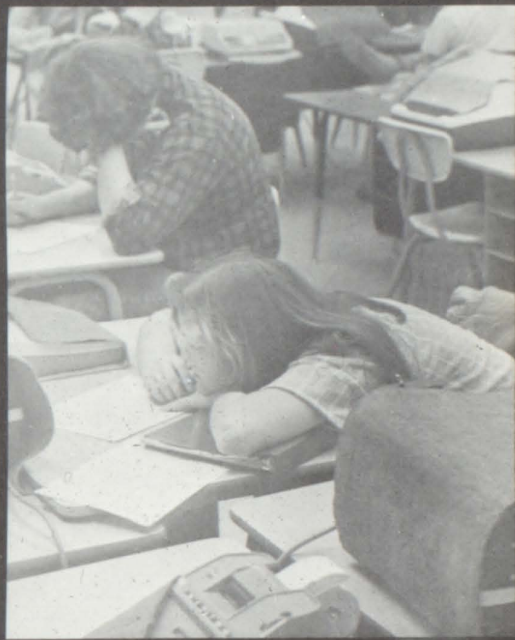

As he switches his brain from sleep into gear, he notices the students shifting doorwards, indicating that second period is over. His feet barely touch the floor, and he is carried by the crowd to third period.

Third period is generally characterized by the "grumbles," a symptom of anticipating lunch. This symptom is often too distracting for the student to concentrate on working.

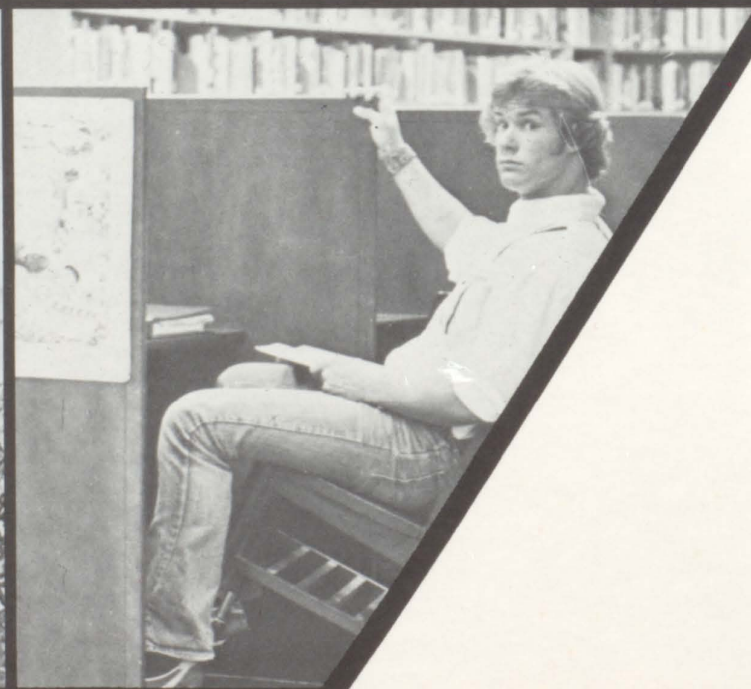

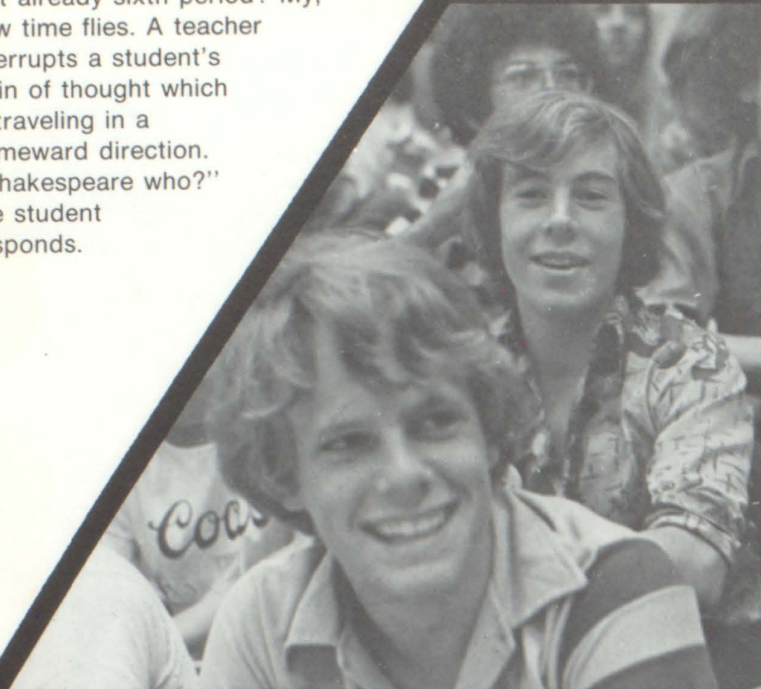

Fourth period — Lunch! Charge! Riot! "Now all we have to do is convince this substitute that our lunch period is really an hour long," reflects an ambitious student.

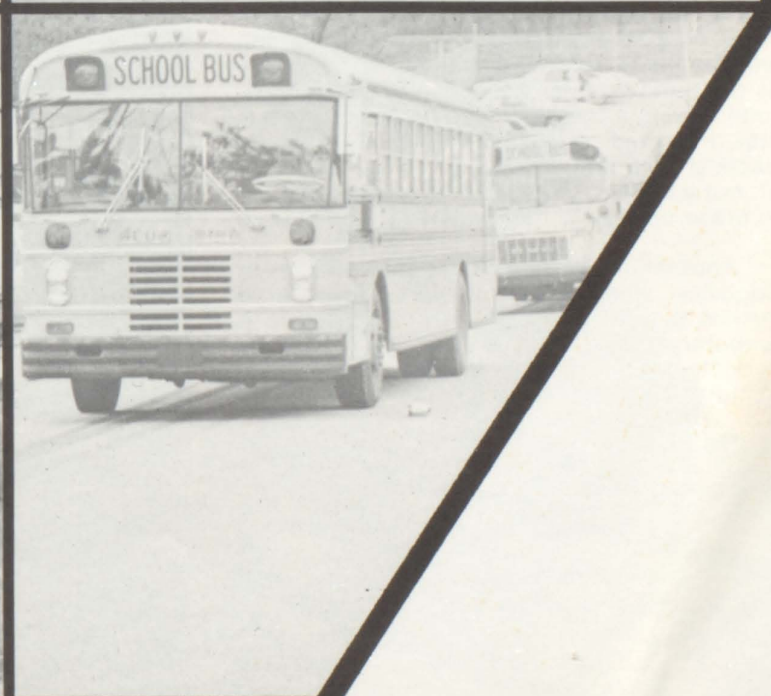

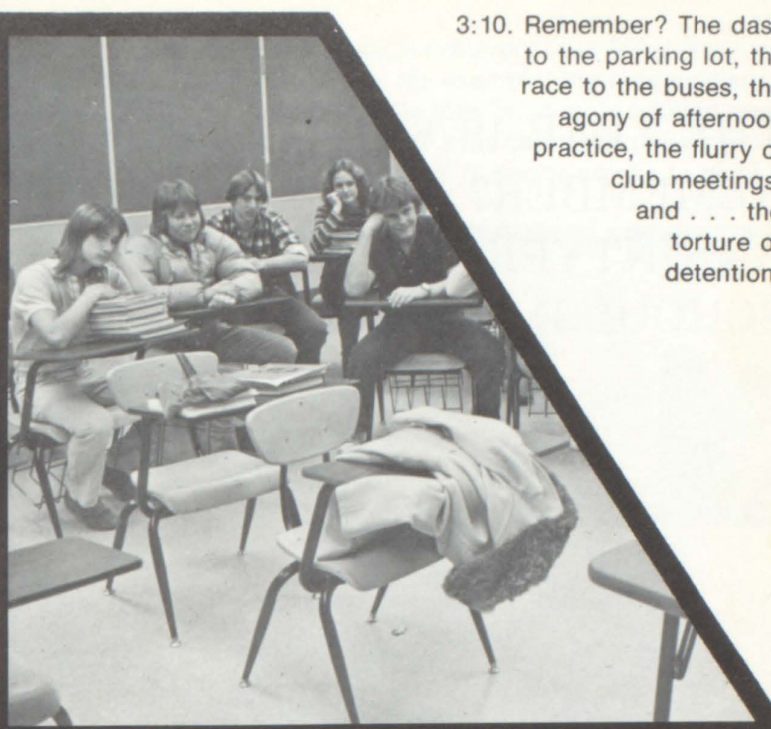

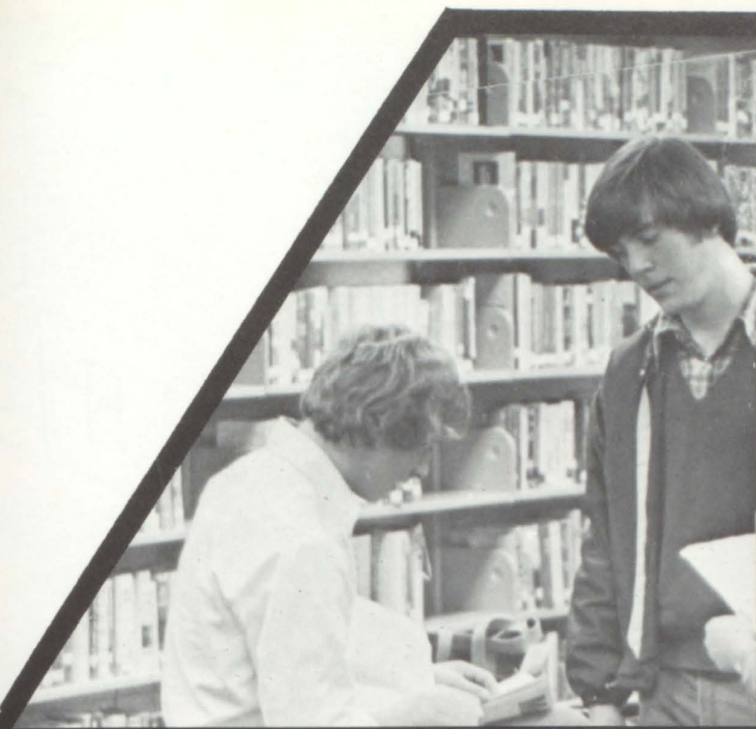

Fifth period
 . . . ah . . . laziness.
 Time for a little afternoon snooze . . . zzzzz.

Is it already sixth period? My, how time flies. A teacher interrupts a student's train of thought which is traveling in a homeward direction. "Shakespeare who?" the student responds.

3:10. Remember? The dash to the parking lot, the race to the buses, the agony of afternoon
practice, the flurry of club meetings,
and . . . the torture of detention.

THE YEAR 1978. REMEMBER? AN UNTYPICAL SCHOOL DAY . . .

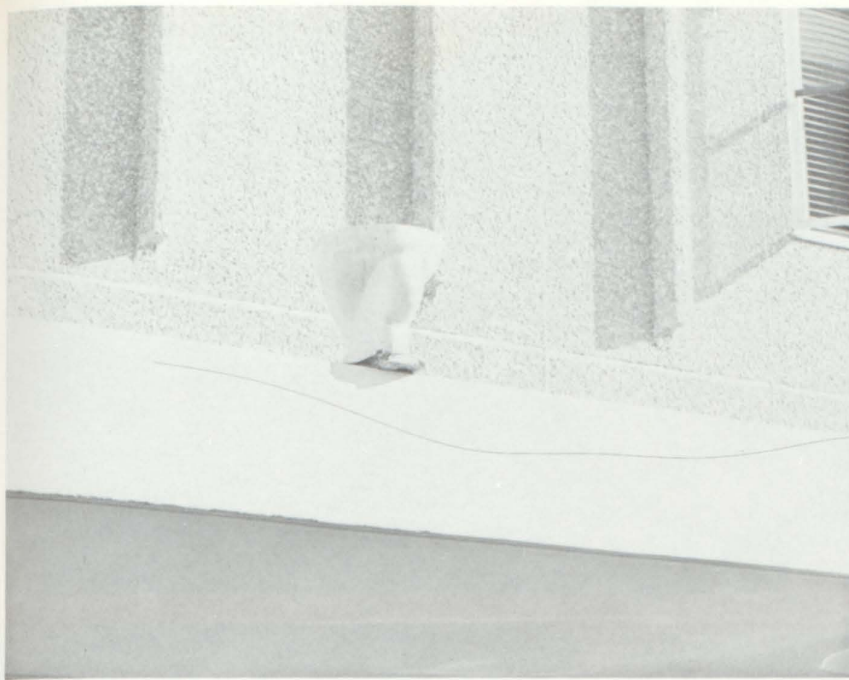

It would be a gross misrepresentation to say that every day at Ridgeview passes in a usual manner. This year, a few atypical events occurred to break the monotony of the typical days. Let us examine how one student discovered something different about a school day.

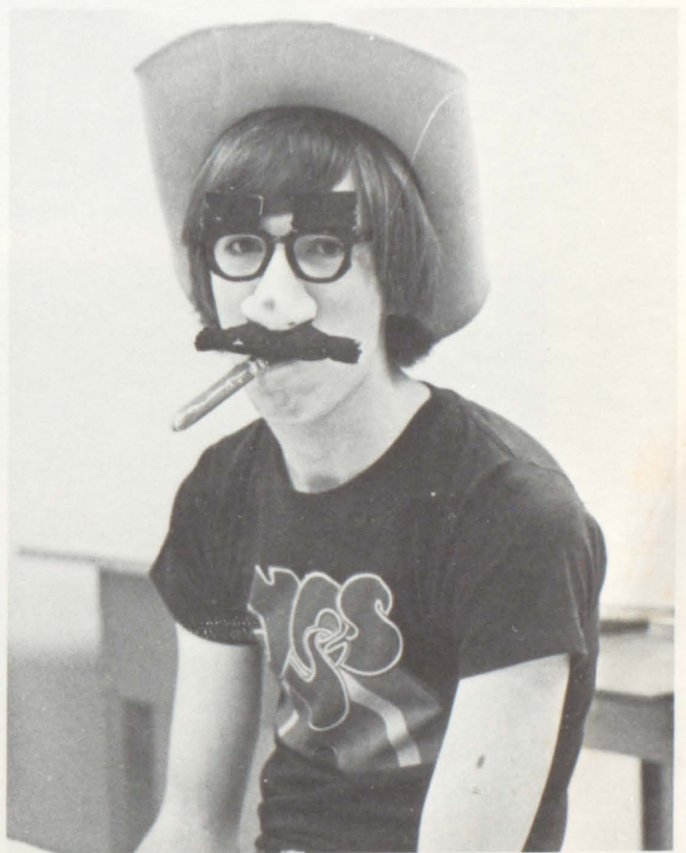

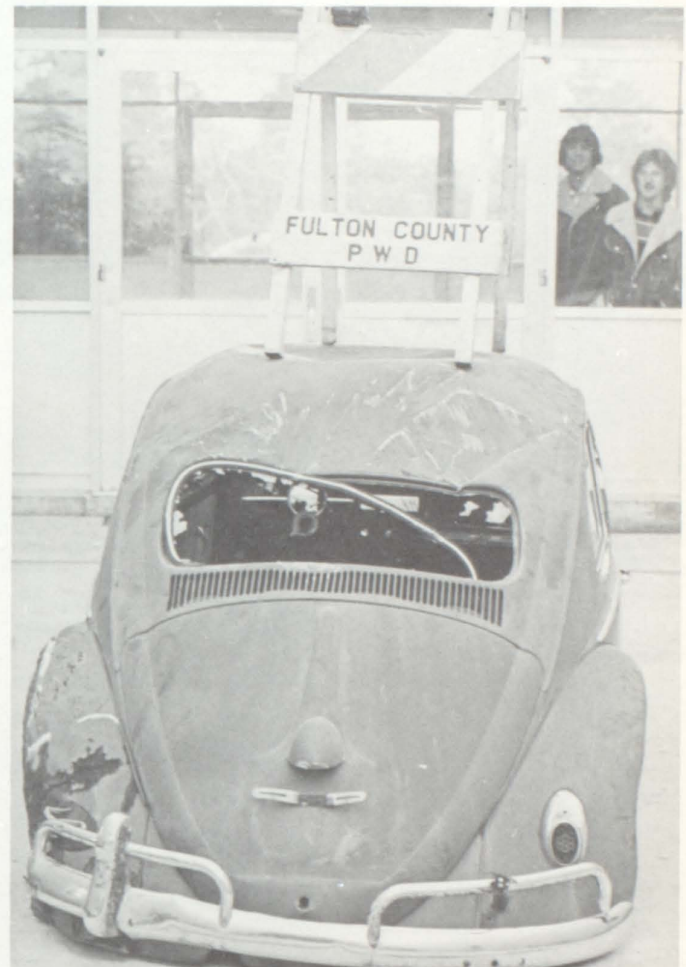

Ring . . . The alarm jumps up and down on the night stand. 7:00 A.M. (This is what appears to be the start of another ordinary work day for a student, but little does he know.) He rolls out of bed, eats, brushes his teeth, dresses, gathers his books and what he can of his brain, and rushes off to school. He pulls up to the gate, and before he notices that there are no cars in the parking lot and no lights on in the school, he observes a cardboard sign haphazardly slung over the fence: NO SCHOOL TODAY. Instantly his car turns around as he tears down Trimble Road leaving a trail of smoke behind him. He is later informed that it was not a fantastic practical joke that got the whole school a day off, but a broken water main. And the day must be made up before the Thanksgiving holidays.

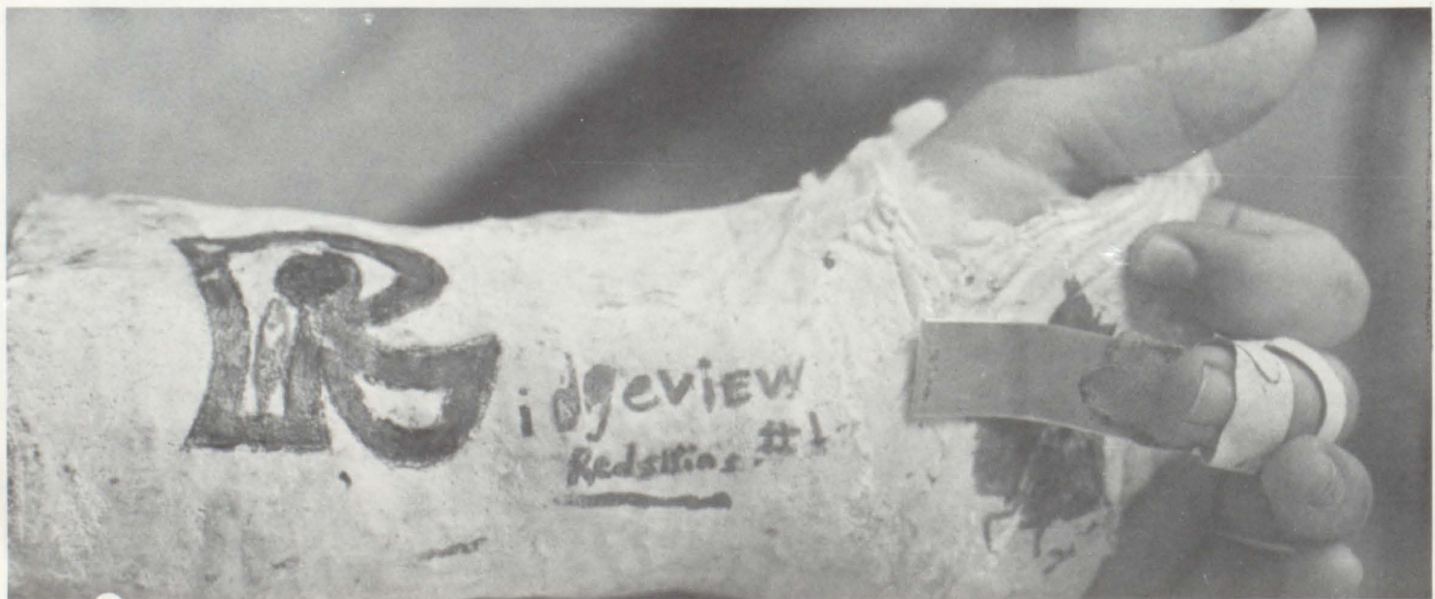

Another unusual event occurred one day at Ridgeview when 800 students conducted a musical assembly in the dark. There was a temporary loss of power that day, and the students did not hesitate to take advantage of a chance to amuse each other.

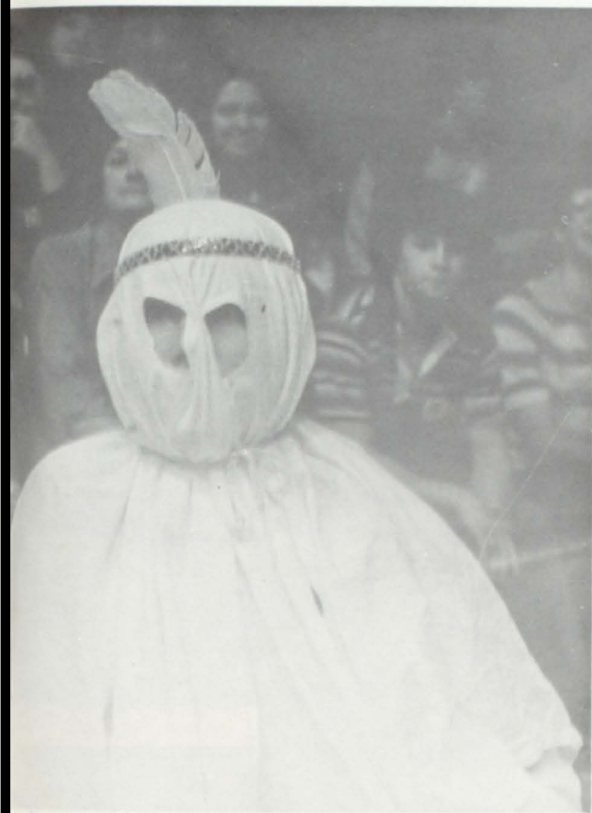

Among other atypical occurrences at Ridgeview a few are outstanding. Take, for example, the unprecedented discovery of a toilet on the roof, or an incapacitated body of a Volkswagon deposited in the courtyard, undoubtedly, in fact admittedly, a preview of senior pranks to come.

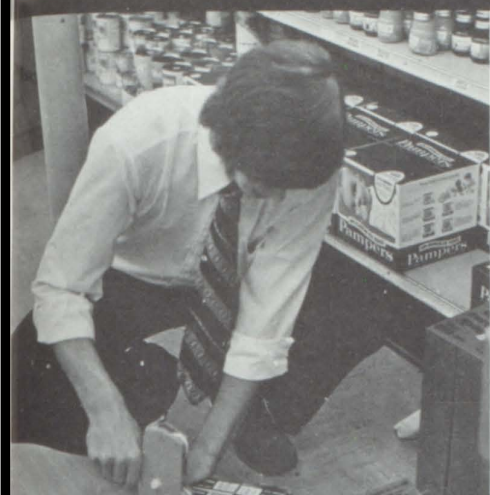

School is hard work, but not so hard that students can't find time for other activities. Some pour their energy into sports and organizations. Others find time to hold down a job after school. The money they earn is used for many important necessities: weekends, clothing, parties, personal needs, weekends, candy parties, gas, and weekends.

MISS RHS

MISS DULCE KINGSMAN

Faye Rosing; 4th runner-up

The theme for last year's Miss RHS pageant was April Showers. The lovely Miss Dulce Kingsman was the winner -- when it poured, she reigned.

DeLissa Brooks; 2nd runner-up

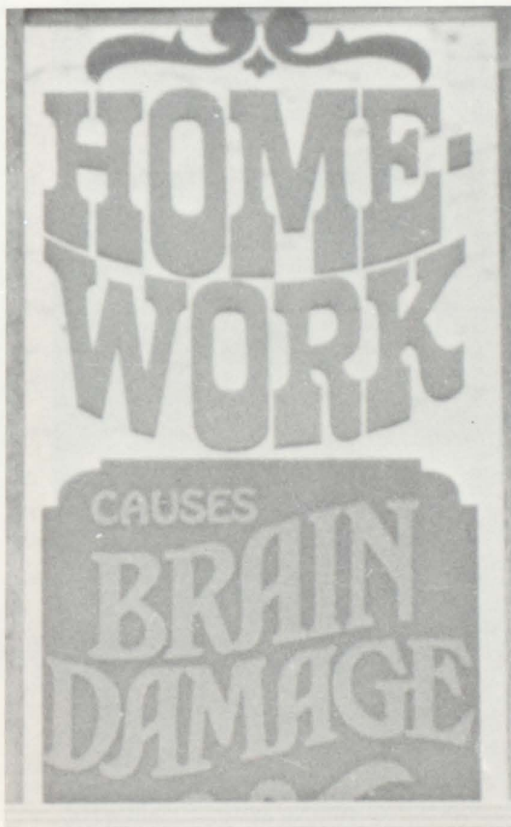

Lynn Garretson; 1st runner-up

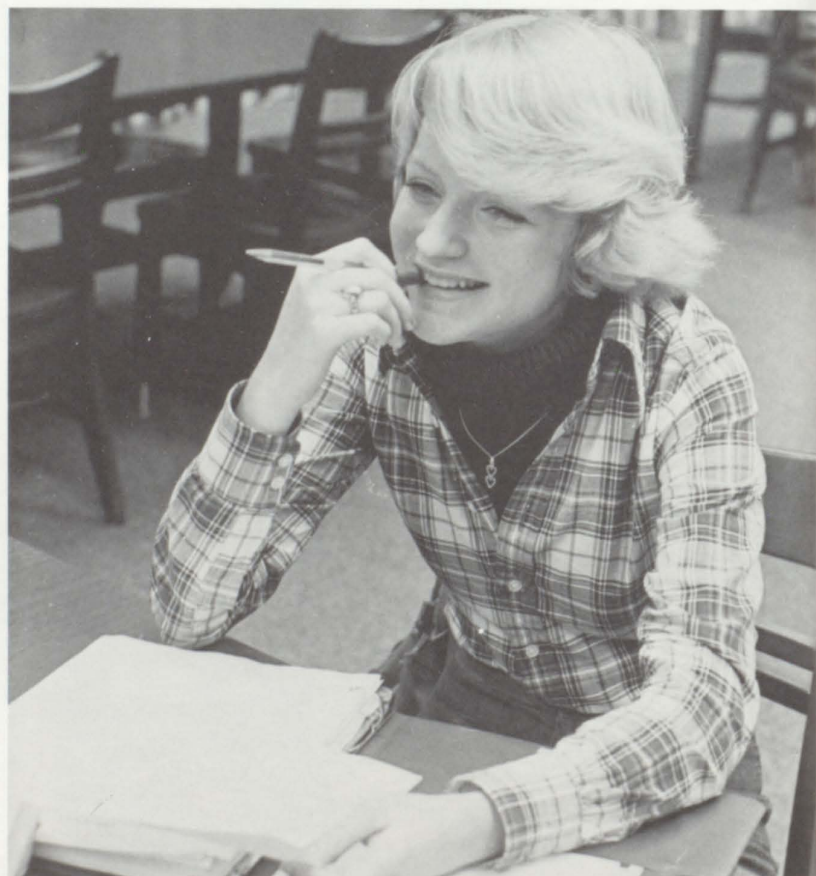

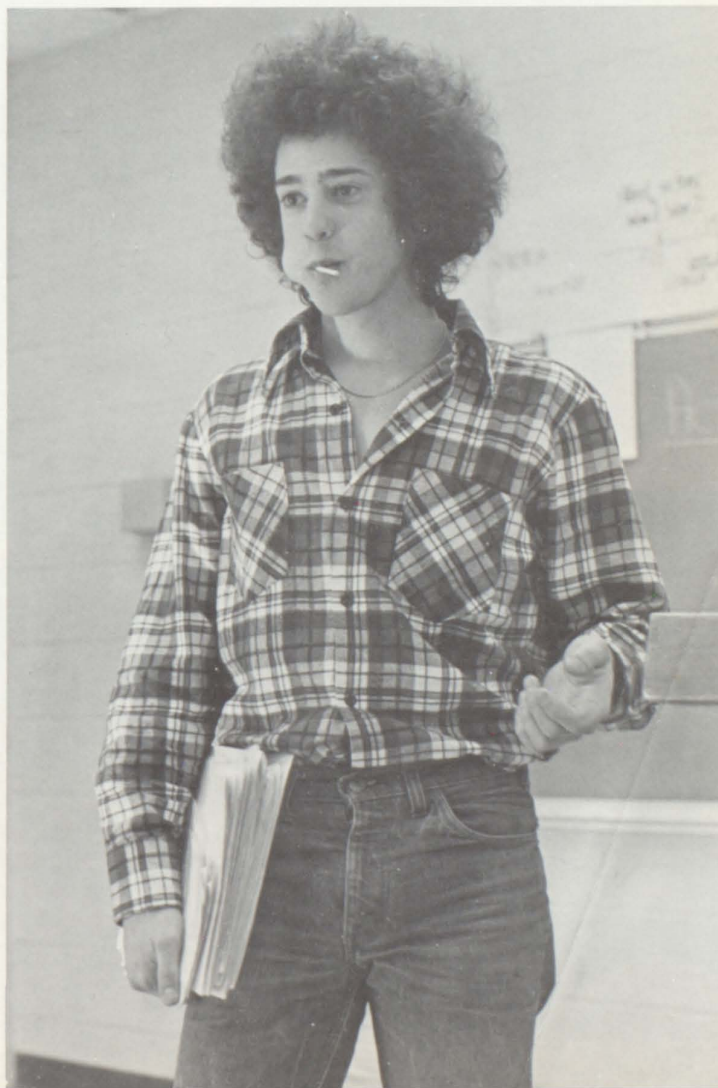

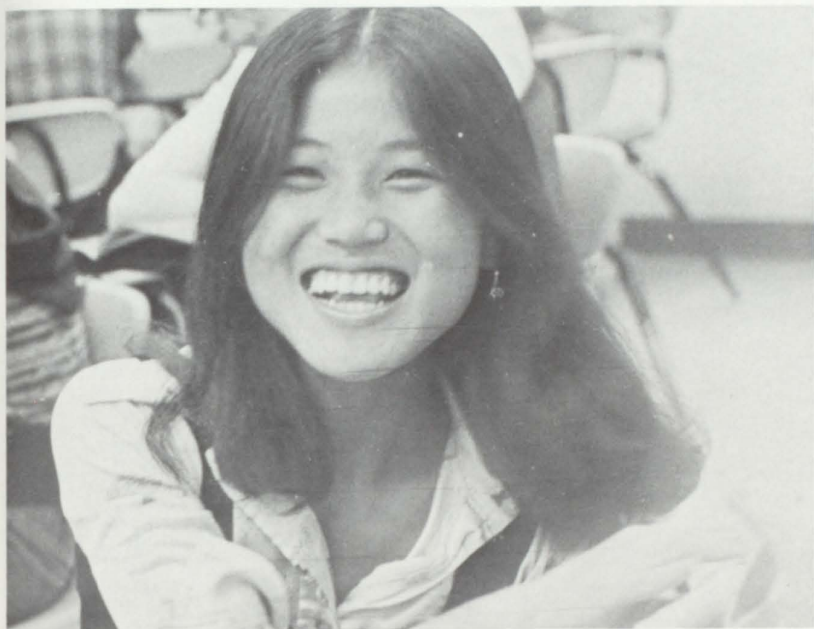

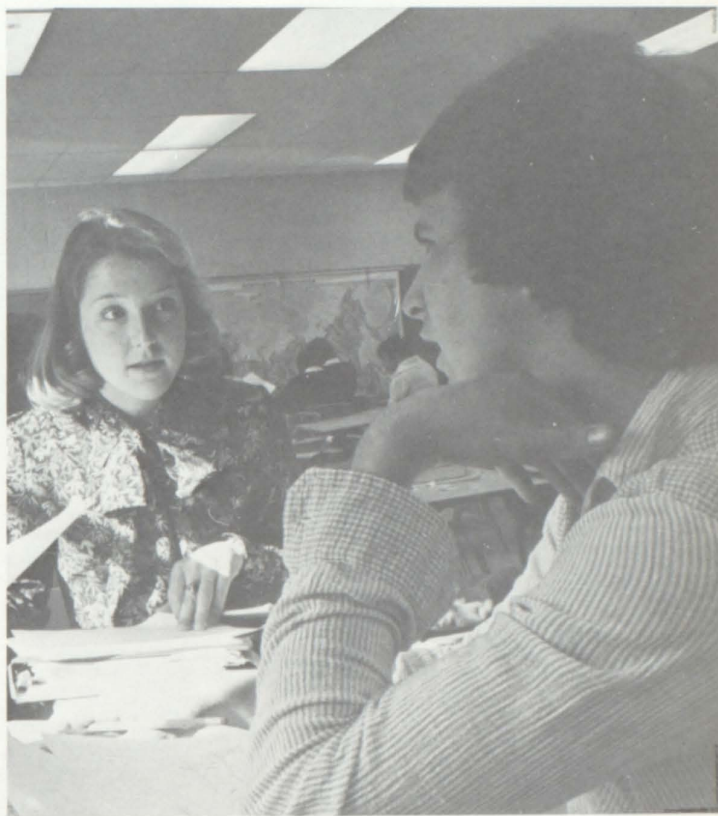

Carlyn Rosenberg; 3rd runner-up

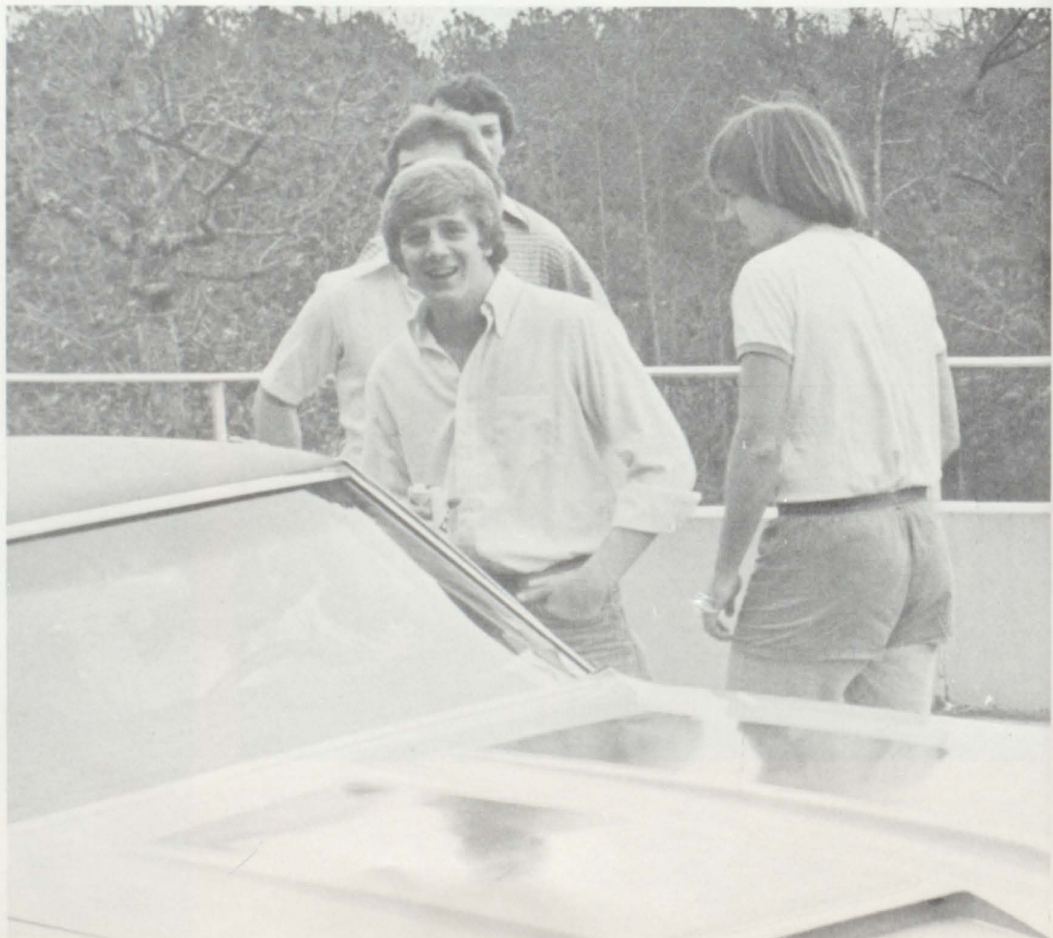

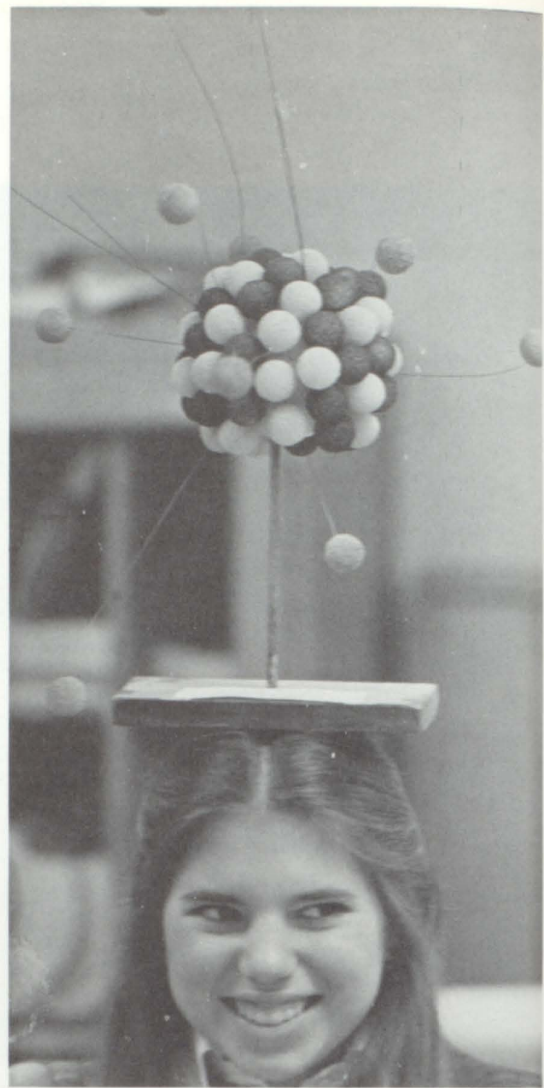

You have to admit you've had a lot of fun here. Your high school sweetheart, the bulletin board you decorated, your artwork that made it to the front display case, the anxieties, friends, and craziness that characterize Ridgeview High School . . . altogether these have become indelibly imprinted in your heart. Under this roof you've laughed, and you've cried, and you've worried, and you've grown. If this building could only talk.

The year 1978.

Remember?

Students review the events of the past year. With a feeling of nostalgia, Ridgeview's teachers remember their school days too, but their memories are of a different time. Theirs was a time of . . . bobby socks, crinolines, hamburgers at the drive-in, letter sweaters, Elvis Presley, Wee-juns, dungarees, button-down collars, the malt shop, moon discs, '55 Chevy's, fender skirts, ration stamps, victory gardens, Glenn Miller, jitterbugging, and streetcars.

The International House of Pancakes Restaurants

How the man of 1000 faces keeps five great Restaurants great.

W. D. Crowley visits each of his restaurants in disguise, to keep an eye on quality. And he always leaves with the same happy complaint.

"Too generous with the portions of food as well as the portions of potions."

There are five great friendly neighborhood Crowley's restaurants, located in neighborhoods all over Atlanta. With personalities that vary as much as their locations.

The menus might vary a bit depending on a certain chef's favorites, but the quality is so consistent we turn strangers into regulars. Regularly.

W.D. Crowley's

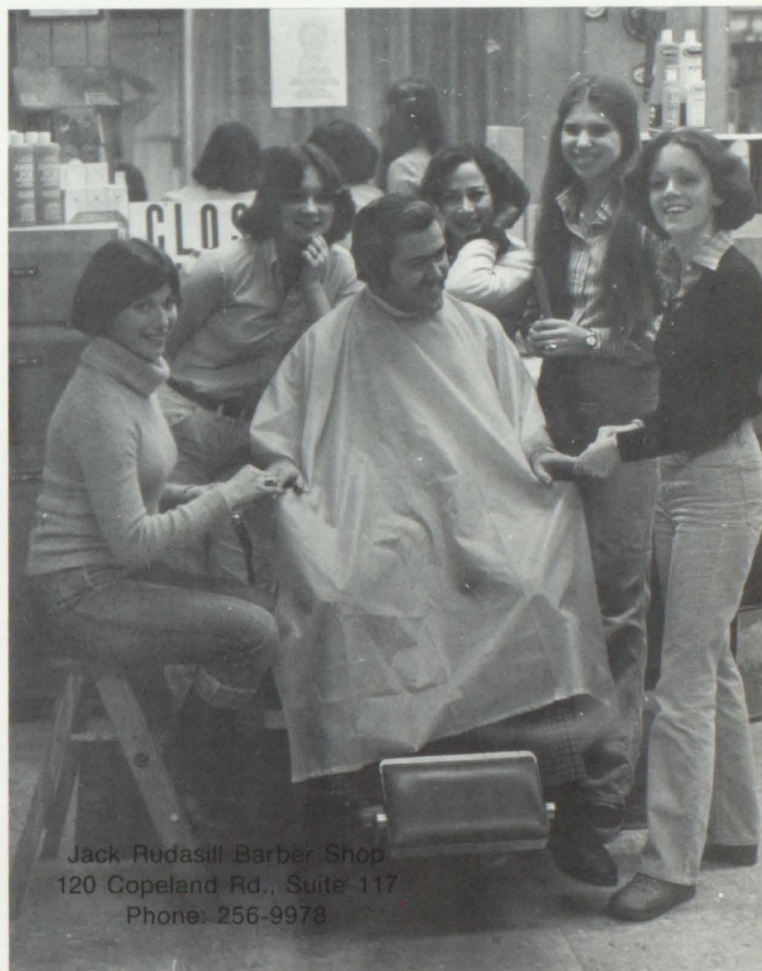

So good, you'll be coming in for dinner on weeknights.

The year 1978 . . . During the course of the year, many things have changed.

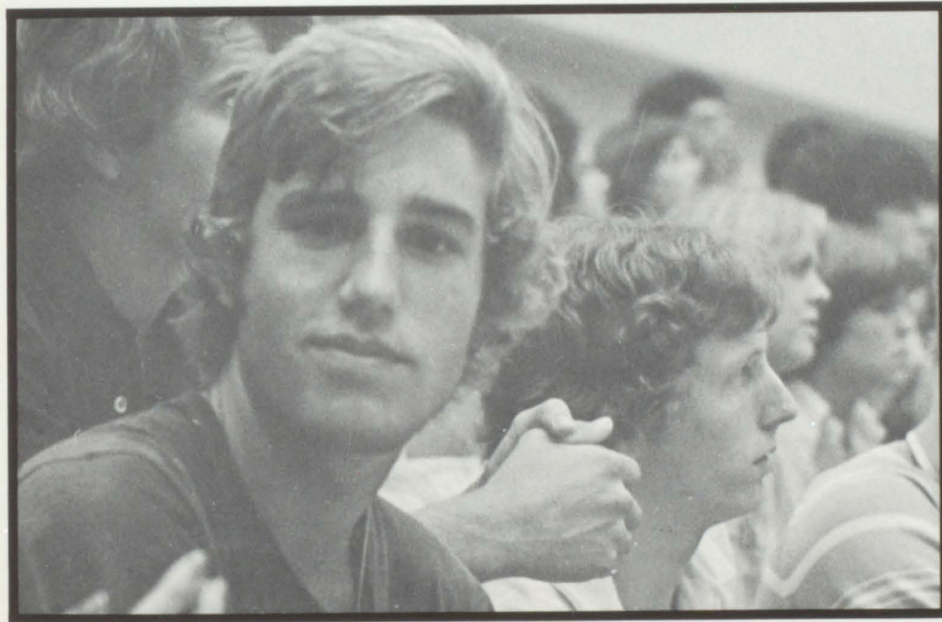

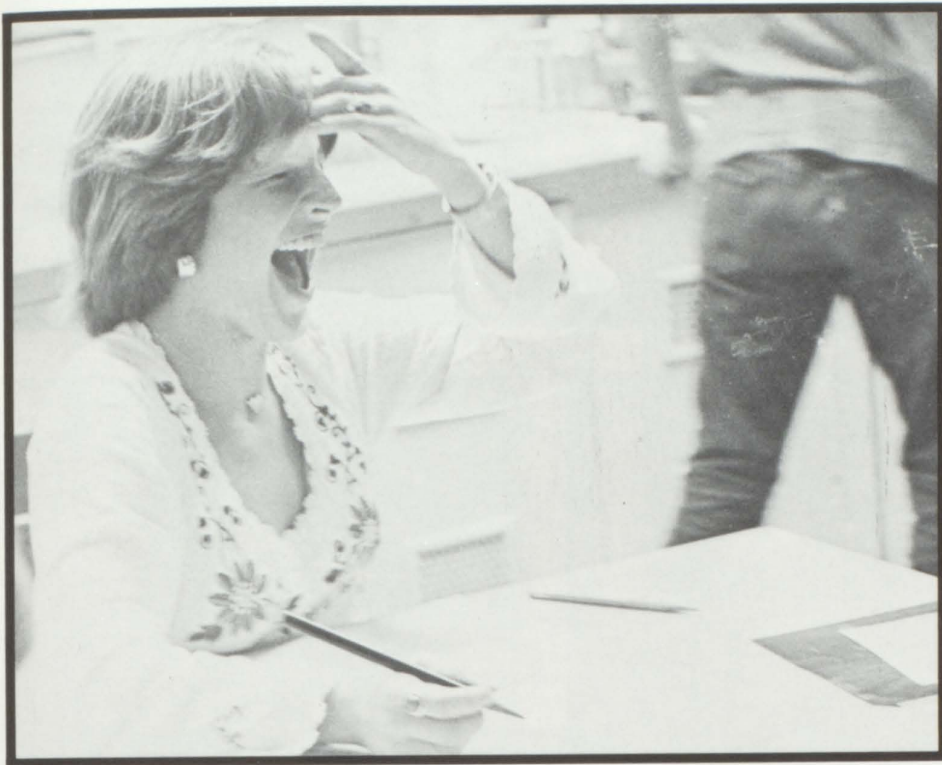

We grasped new ideas and improved upon old ones. We lived, and we learned, and we grew. Our outlook on life became more realistic. And now we can look back and see how it happened, the process through which we've changed. We participated in school activities. And then as our minds and outlooks broadened, we touched the community. We went into the heart of Atlanta, and we watched our city grow. We grew to the beat of her pulse here at Ridgeview.

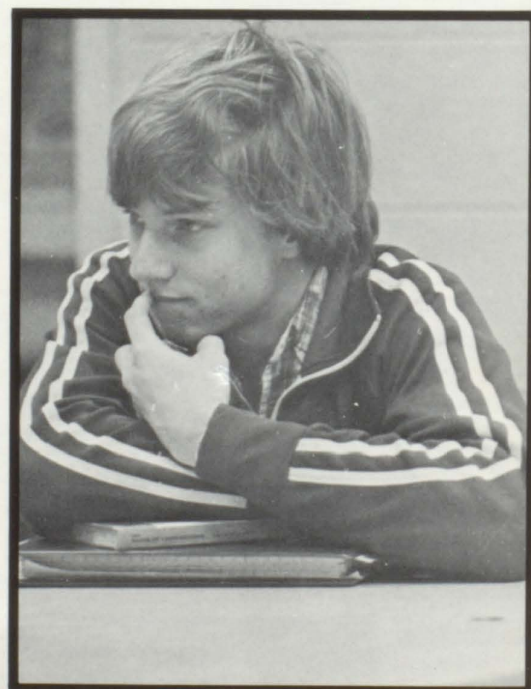

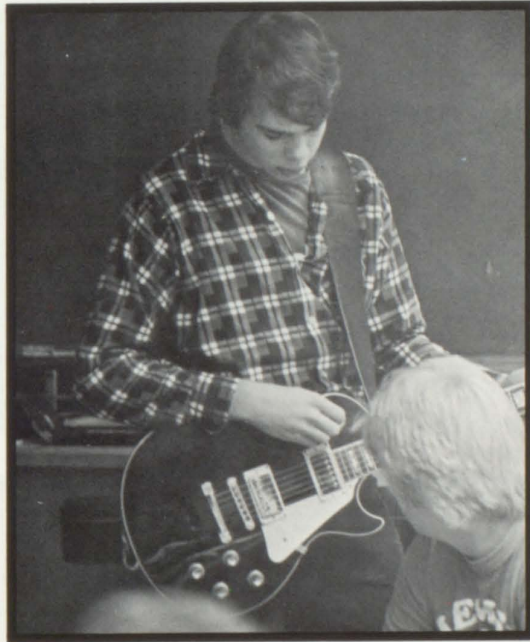

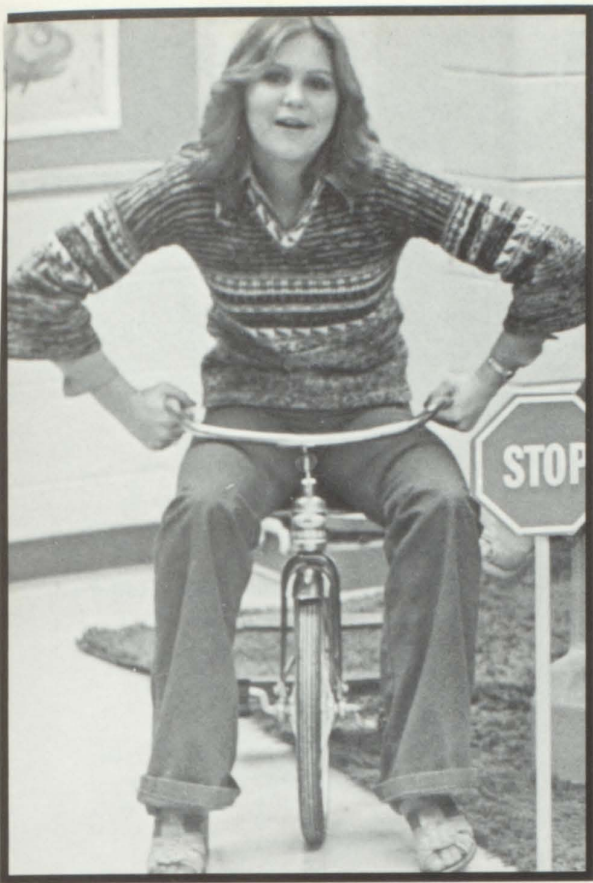

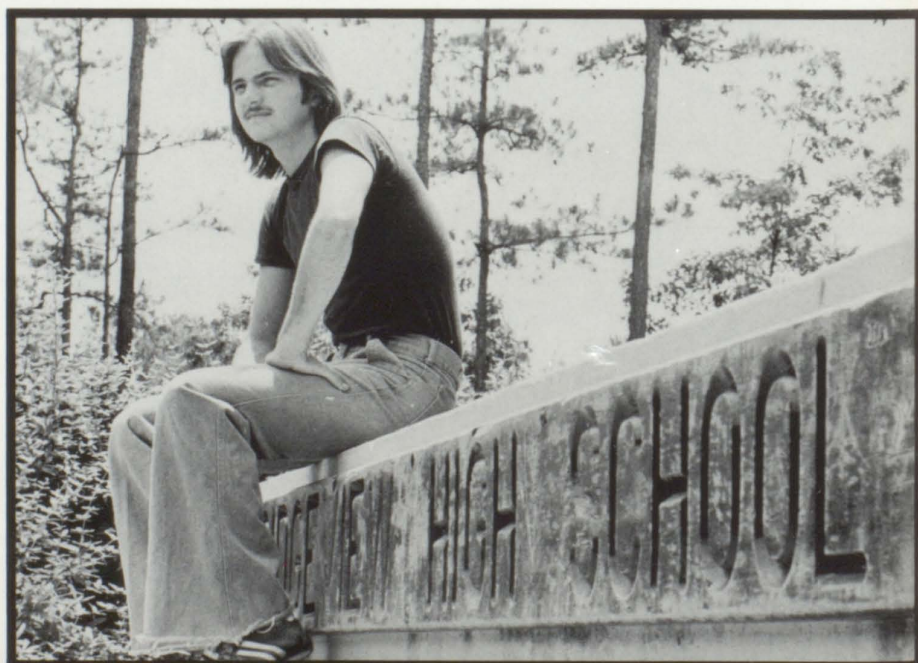

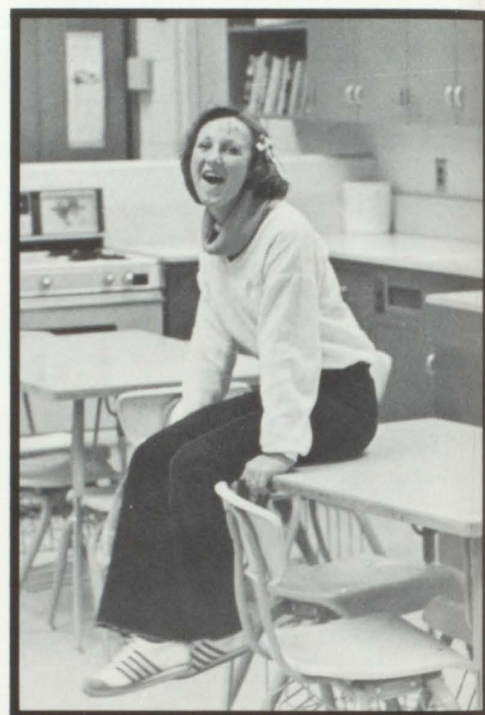

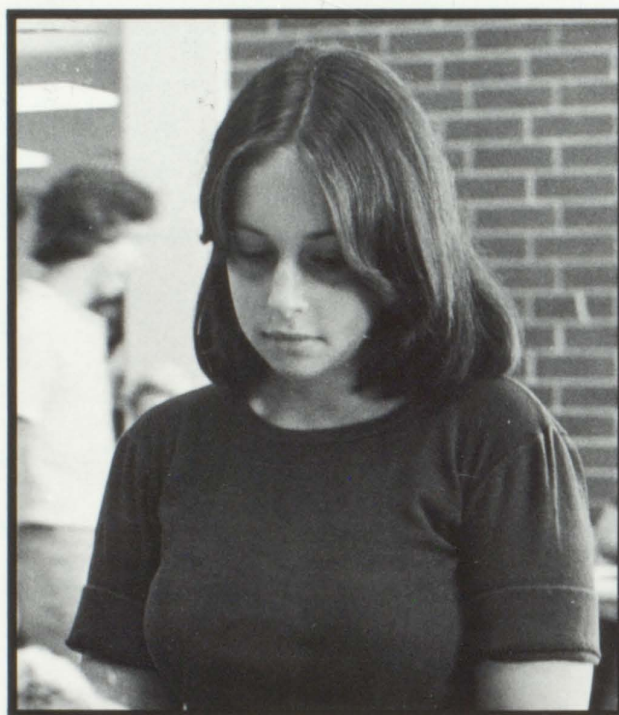

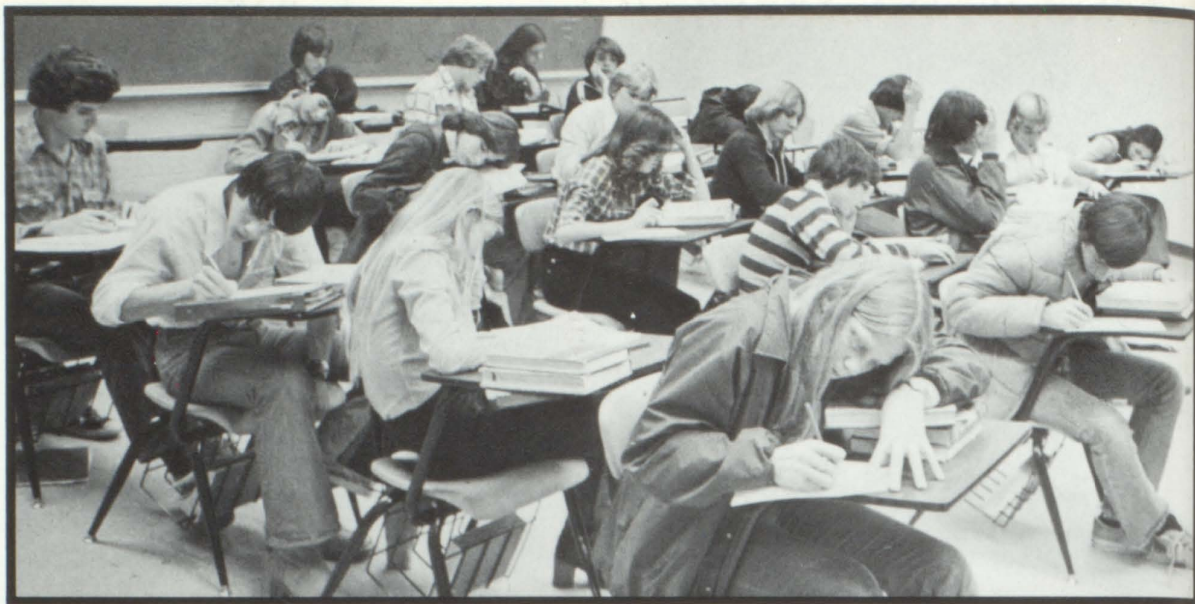

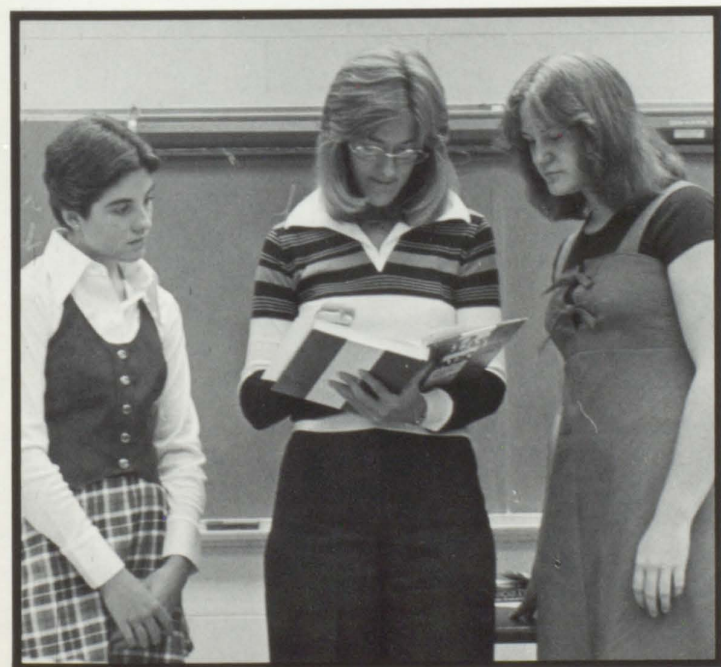

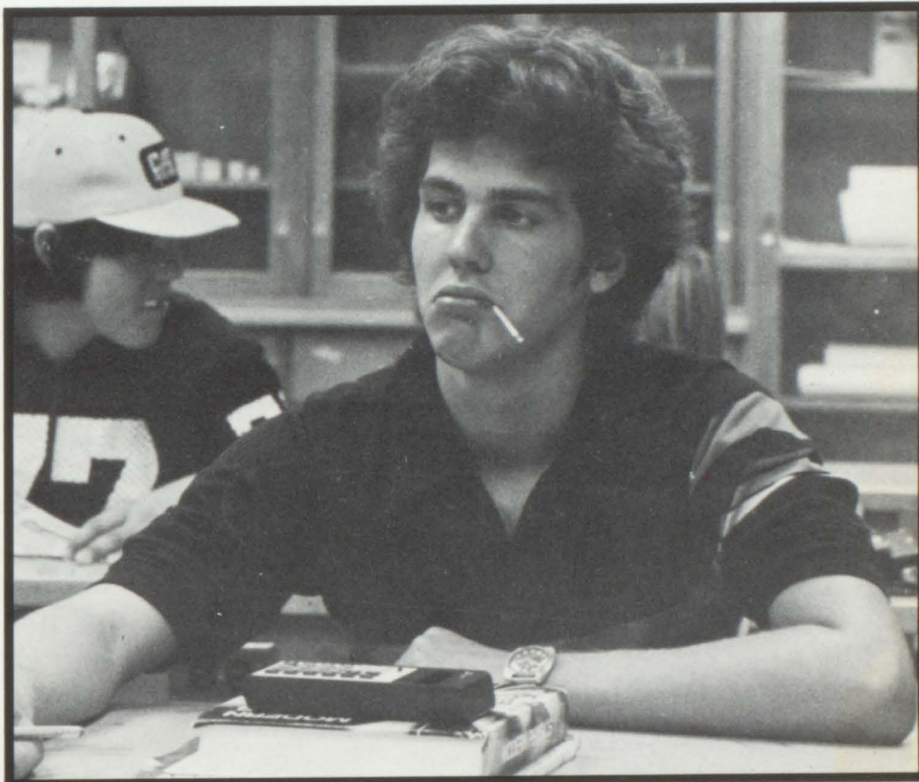

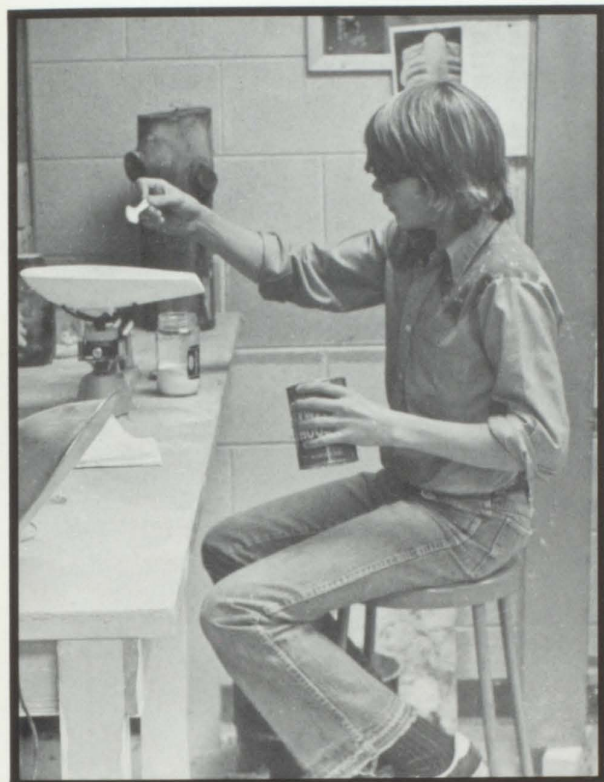

The year . . . 1978

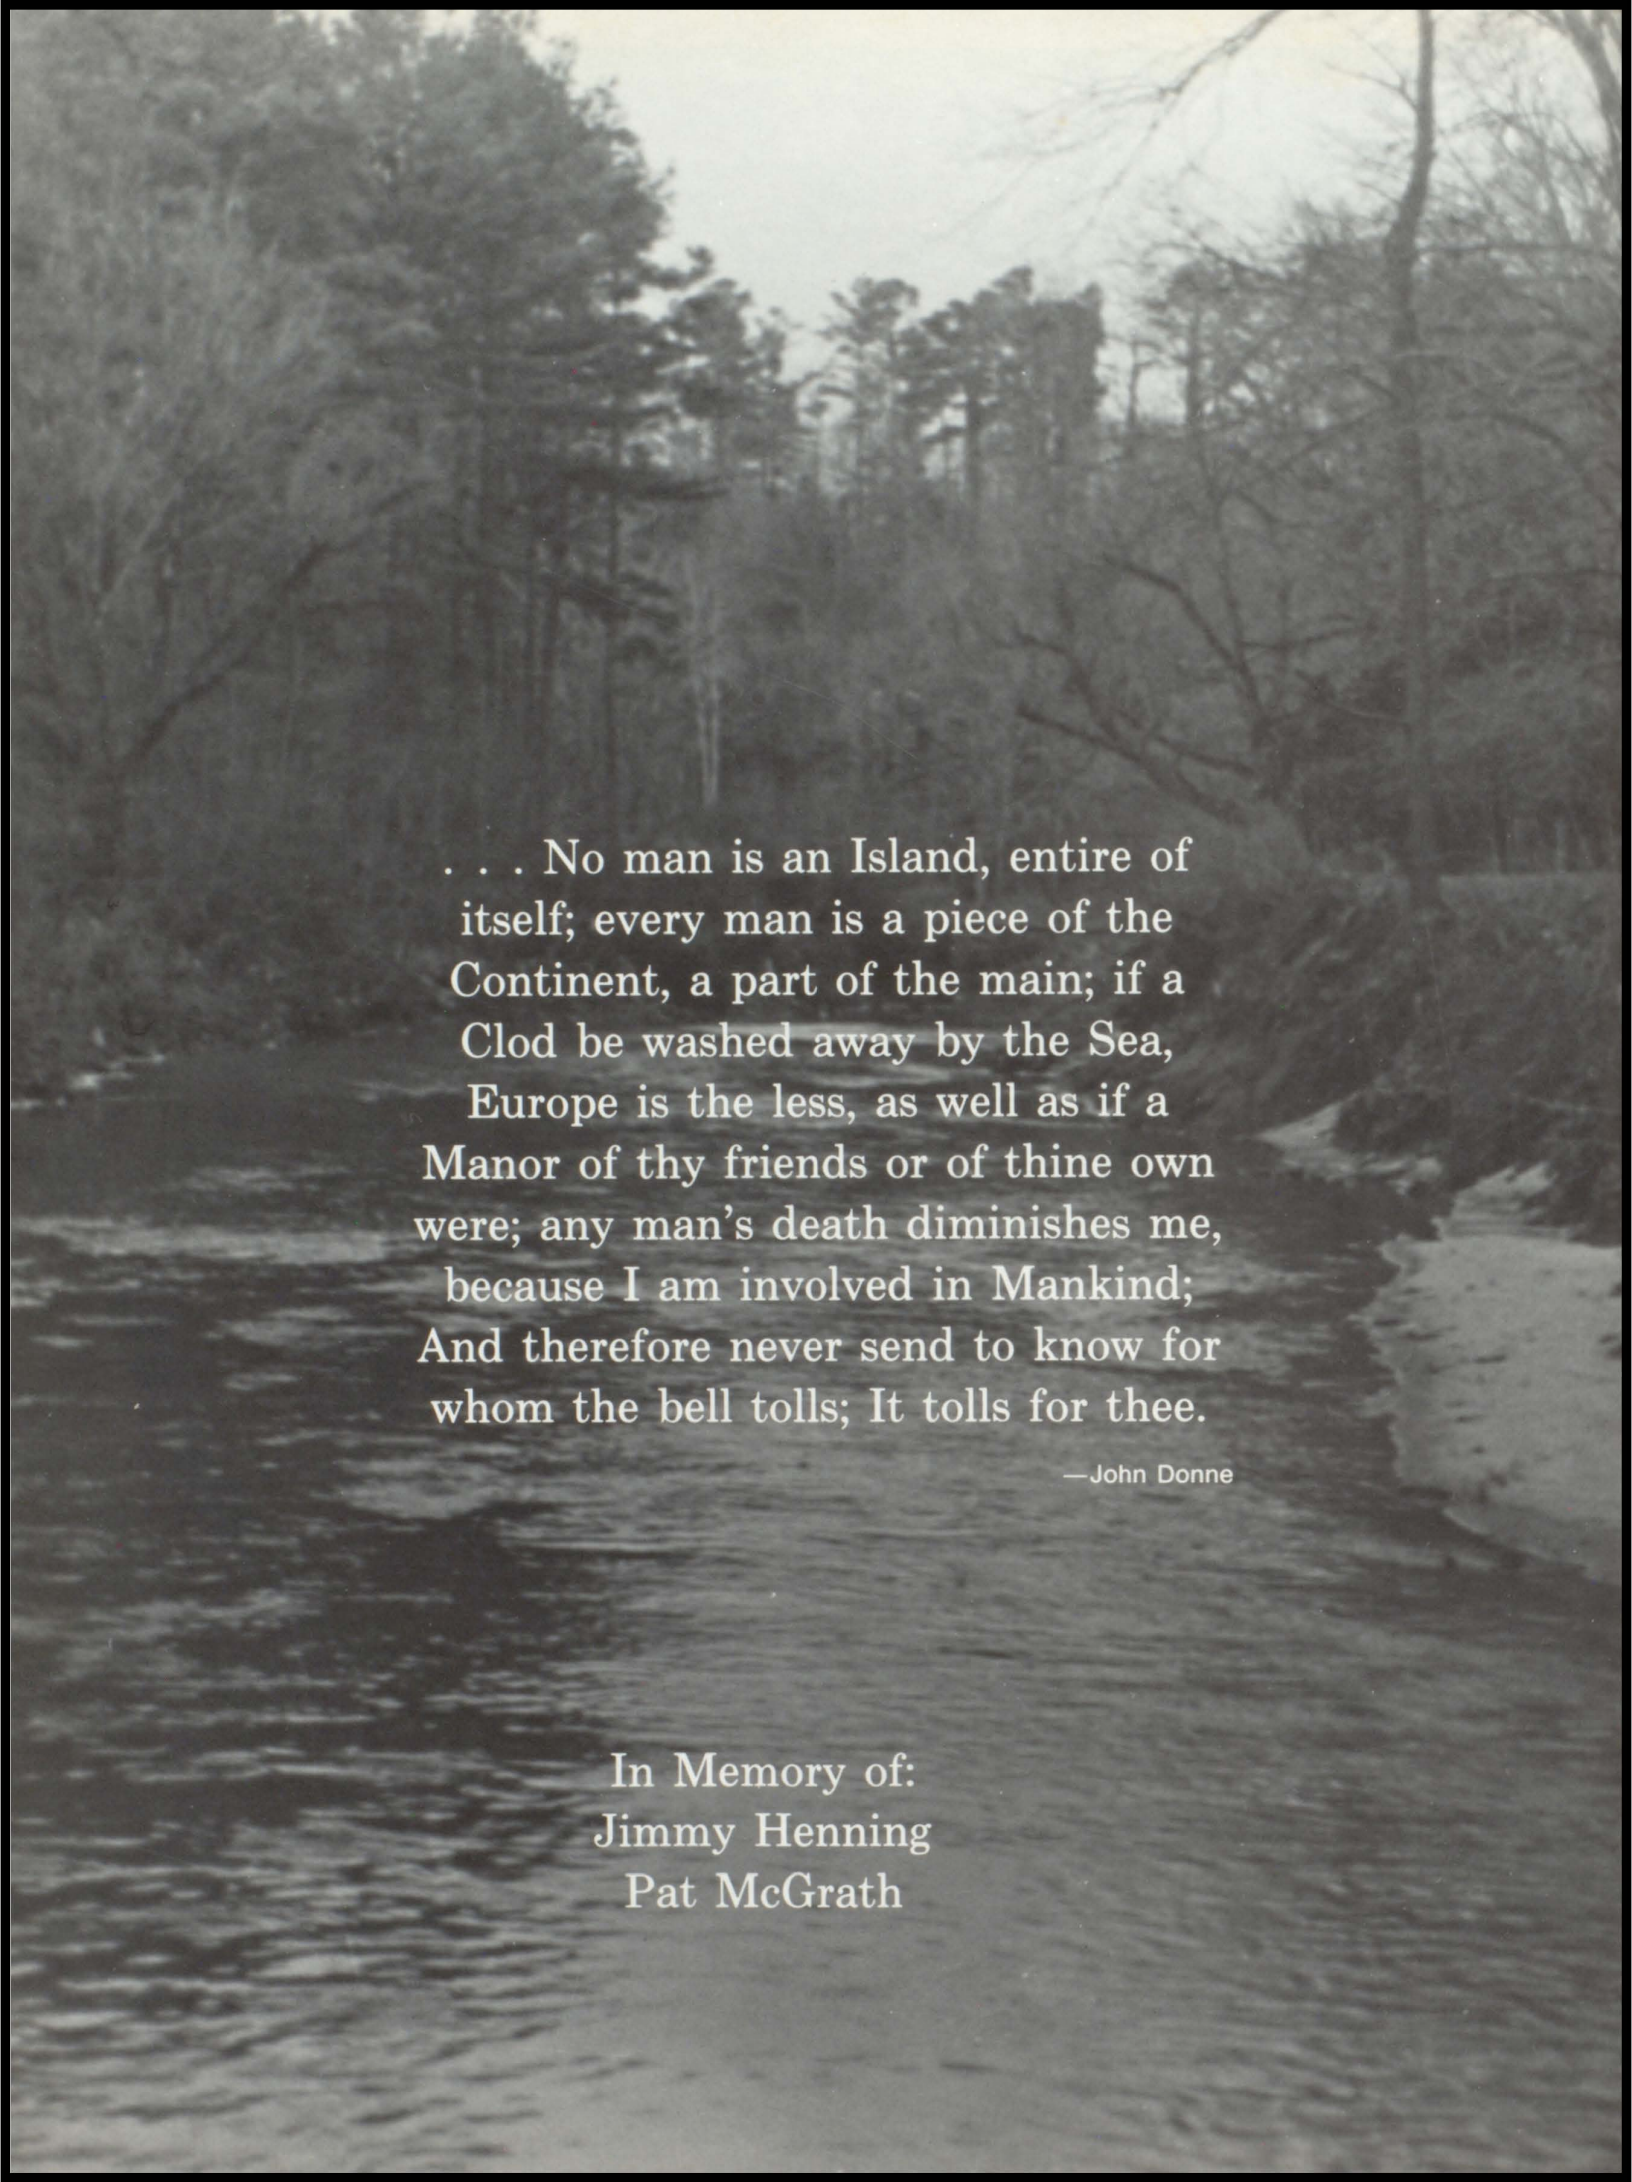

Dallas won the Super Bowl, but the world lost Charlie Chaplin, Guy Lombardo, and Hubert Humphrey. Sadat made noble moves toward peace, and something moved towards us called CLOSE ENCOUNTERS OF THE THIRD KIND.

The Atlanta Rhythm Section rock and rolled in the New Year; Jackson Brown sold out the Civic Center; and the Sex Pistols were Rotten in America. Torn T-shirts; pierced cheeks, crimped hair, Space Dust, and stick pins debuted among us.

We saw THE TURNING POINT in our lives and the prolific Neil Simon produce yet another funny and touching story, THE GOODBYE GIRL. But . . . "good-bye doesn't mean forever."

There have been many changes in the year 1978, but some things never change . . . like memories.

. . . No man is an Island, entire of itself; every man is a piece of the Continent, a part of the main; if a
Clod be washed away by the Sea,
Europe is the less, as well as if a Manor of thy friends or of thine own were; any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in Mankind;
And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls; It tolls for thee.

—John Donne
