School is a game. Everyone at Ridgeview plays the game though no two people play alike. The attendance game is compulsory while the diversion game is played for enrichment and involvement. Some games are open while others are more select; the rules are usually simple, but shortcuts flourish. The 1972 VIEWPOINT focuses on individuals by identifying the numerous games they play.

SMILE ...
It makes people wonder what you've been up to!!!

The Stock Market Game

Each year something changes at Ridgeview--the mood of the school and the factors which compose it rise and decline in value as do the shares in the favorite game of the worldbe millinoaire, The Stock Market Game.

Early trading this session was less disorderly due to the withdrawal from the market of 350 North Springs Brokers. A definite trend in the market was indicated by the figures at the close of the first quarter of trading. In inter-personal relationships, student-to-teacher ratio gained four points and student harmony advanced three, while cliques and rivalries showed a marked decline. School spirit, after showing signs of an impending drop at pep rallies and rainy football games, made strong advances as a result of homecoming. The rumored release of a new product to be called "smiles" spurred happiness on to a ten point increase. Market analysts predict that the general trend toward a more healthy atmosphere will continue.

CH2Fedes

The relaxation of the dress code has led to as many styles of clothing as there are styles of people. The students use their clothing like they would use their bodies in a game of charades. The street people's clothes clue us to say "Beverly Hillbillies". Still others wear clothes symbolizing the "typical Ridgeview student". Even the band is in on the game, trying to get us to say "NBC Peacock".

Bridging the Gap

"I am yesterday.
You are today.
Let us join to make tomorrow.
The faculty and administration are playing a new game with the students- "Bridge the Gap." During the week of October 25, student and faculty joined forces to celebrate American Education Week and Ridgeview's first Homecoming. The faculty presented the student body with a lounge, conducted a "rap" session, and mingled among students during lunch. As a result of the faculty's efforts, the student-teacher relationship has improved to the extent that we are playing still another game this year...the game of mutual respect.

The Homecoming Game

This October we played a new game . . . the Homecoming Game. It was the most popular game ever because participation was open to everyone. Long before the kickoff, the activities began in five neighborhood garages used to build the game pieces for the individual classes. For the game, the players crept 2.3 miles in a motorcade to Sandy Springs Stadium, congesting the 7 o'clock traffic. Other players transformed the school halls into crepe paper tunnels. More participants released helium balloons at the first touchdown and danced to "TAXI". When the Homecoming Game was boxed up, Ridgeview clearly emerged the victor.

Easy Money

The "typical Ridgeview student" will graduate with a degree in commercial science because hawking is big business at Ridgeview. As an eager eighth grader Ronald the Redskin sells 17 magazines subscriptions. For the B-team, in ninth grade he sells tickets to the pancake breakfast and buys stationery and megaphones from the drill team. In tenth grade Ronald sells lightbulbs and buys a helium balloon for his date who is selling mums for the Anchor Club. Next year, our Redskin junior sells sweatshirts while he buys a spirit ribbon from Veronica the cheerleader. As a member of Student Council the senior Redskin has his last chance to sell doughnuts. Although "Easy Money" is the name of the game, our graduating players know it's not so.

The Diversion Game

We are required to participate in the attendance game but that does not mean that we must obey all of the rules. To break the monotony of daily routine, we don't have to BREAK the rules, just BEND them. Any diversion is welcome, whether it be a fire drill, the PSAT's, a secretly sent note, or a clown act. The school game certainly can be boring; a little change every day makes participation more enjoyable.

Let's Make a School Administration

One of the more exciting games at Ridgeview is Let's Make a School. In this particular amusement, a smiling emcee, called the Principal, and his pals in the office tempt an oddly and variously dressed crowd of students with prizes such as extended homerooms and frequent assemblies. If penalties are necessary, the principal has several "zonkers", for the students such as detention. The purpose of these manuevers is to coerce the student body into some semblance of order so that daily attendance can be computed.

The Aiding Game Counselors

Due to the failsafe nature of the administrative processes of a school, help is rarely needed by the student. However, should you, by some odd coincidence, find yourself in need of help, you must participate in the Aiding Game. This game is of the standard question-and-answer variety, except that you, the player, question rather than answer. If your question relates to schedules, classes, testing, jobs, or colleges, go to the counselors' office. There the counselors, armed with pamphlets, college catalogues, #2 pencils, and a bottomless pit full of administrative wisdom, will either solve your problem or make you forget about it.

Book or Consequences Library

Questions referring to the completion of your occasional report or paper should be taken to the library where the librarians will guide you in the use of the card catalogue, the Reader's Guide To Periodical Literature, the Book Review Digest, and the electric pencil sharpener. Be aware, however, that the penalty for not returning any of these invaluable sources of information on time is harsh. Negligence may result in a mounting fine or even school suspension, in which case you would have to buy your own electric pencil sharpener.

The Ridgeview "Variety Pack"

Arts and Skills

For those who want the out of the ordinary, for those who stray away from the crowd, Ridgeview offers a number of interesting games in the 'Variety Pack'. The list includes, at no extra charge, Band, Art, Chorus, Industrial Art, Home Economics, Driver Education, and Business Education. Each of these unique games offer the player a different interest, whether it be musical, mechanical, artistic, domestic or practical.

You Don't Say

Language

How do you learn a foreign language? It helps to have a rudimentary understanding of English. Assuming that you meet this confining qualification, move on to the foreign language. Of what does it consist? Words. Words, in turn, lend themselves handily to use in games. Therefore, the language department makes liberal use of word games in crossword puzzles, dialogues, and memorization to teach you how to talk. Why do you need to know a language other than English? Even the most fluent English would not get Julius Caesar to show you the way to a telephone.

The Lab Game

Science

The activity unique to the science classes is The Lab Game. The object of this game is to salvage a fourth of your science grade. Equipment in the game includes a civilized form of candle known as the "Bunson burner," various grades of colored sand described as "chemicals," and the immediate predecessor of shattered glass, the "test tube". Most players excel in the art of pretending that the Bunson burner they were bending over was not on. The best players can explain how their blazing clothing is the result of acute heartburn. However, the ever-alert science teachers are rarely deceived.

Concentration

 EnglishConcentration is the name of the game in English classes. Although the activities may vary from time to time, participation is compulsory throughout high school. Concentrating on the definitions of words, on the structure of a theme, and on the performance of an improvisation is required. The equipment for analyzing the deeply hidden significance of great and near-great literary works includes a well-exercised imagination and an authoritative critic with whom to agree, in addition to the raw material. Anyone can play this game of "find the symbolism" who is not affected by vices such as considering a halfdollar to be a half-dollar, rather than two dimes, three nickels, four pennies and a bad economy

Ridgeview Roulette

Social Studies

Occasionally you read in the obituary column about a Cossack who had the misfortune to lose at Russian Roulette. We at Ridgeview have our own form of this dangerous game, social studies. At the start of the student's high school career, he is given a gun loaded in one chamber only. The game moves in a tricky pattern: the first time a student pulls the trigger, the noise of the click scares him. That's Anthropology. The second time, three puffs of smoke (Geography, Economics, and Political Systems) cause him to sneeze. With the third squeeze, some stray powder in the gun flashes and pops. The student receives from this phenomenum (known as World History) both a slight burn and forewarning of impending doom. But he nonetheless must raise the weapon to his head once again and pull the trigger. Herein lies the difference between Russian Roulette and Ridgeview Roulette-no ordinary gun can affect the body and mind so long and so miserably; only a gun loaded with a U.S. History bullet has that power. If the student survives this assault, he can be sure that no more ammunition is in the pistol because the only chambers left contain twelth grade social studies electives. For anyone who made it through Foreign Policy, these senior electives are far from lethal.

The Numbers Game

Math

Every student at Ridgeview plays The Numbers Game but the length of the game depends on the individual's desires and abilities. It is not a shady operation but certainly can be confusing at times. At the start of the game, each player is given an "Algebra card" on which are written many strange symbols and letters. Twelve weeks later the student is given another card marked A, B, C, D, or F. The lettered card, along with the original "Algebra card", then may be turned in for a "Geometry card." On this, yet more symbols, shapes, and equations are written. In a similar way, Geometry cards can be cashed into Trigonometry cards which can be cashed into Advanced Math cards, but most drop out earlier in the game. The purpose of this game, of course, is to enable the student to find the cosine of the fly which has landed on his hamburger.

The Game Game

Physical Education

Games play a major part in the curriculum of some classes and a minor part in others, but games are the curriculum in Physical Education classes. These courses prepare you for such things as a rewarding career in professional gator ball or crab soccer. Many a pro calisthenics player got his start in his high school P. E. class.

LET'S MAKE A SCHOOL (BETTER)

STUDENT COUNCIL

To every institution of higher learning, infallible though it might be, a minor degree of improvement could be added. With this purpose in mind, the student body formed the Men's Glee Club. However, this measure inexplicably failed, and, so, the students resorted to a Student Council. The objective of this organization is to do everything possible, within the realm of student power, to improve the school environment and the rights of the students, and to make sure that each and every doorknob opens with a clockwise, as opposed to anticlockwise turn. The council consists of eight elected members from each class and four incidental extras called officers. The head of the student body is Bobby Carpenter, a skilled artisan quite capable of building a better school. During the course of this school year, the council has accomplished many things, including: organizing the first homecoming; starting an inter-club council; sponsoring a variety show and a multitude of dances; running elections; and improving student administration relations. A Glee Club certainly could not have accomplished all this. Indeed, even a barber-shop quartet would have had difficulty; and we should hate to think how badly a jug band would have done.

Student Council Officers: Lynn Slocumb, Secretary; Claudia Hill, V. President; Bobby Carpenter, President; Sally Conlin, Treasurer.

Viewpoint: The Name of the Game

Object of the Game: The assembling of 3000 pictures and infinite number of words into a 200 page yearbook with the least amount of effort possible on the part of the opposing teams.

Players: As intimated above, this is a game involving two teams. One is composed of the sponsor and editors; the other, of the various staff members. Generally speaking, the editorial team members possess a superior capacity for responsibility, while the staff team is superior in both number and in schemes for avoidance of labor

Strategy and tactics: Since this game is a test of skill in avoiding labor, the strategy for both sides is to dump the workload on each other. Tactics for the editors and sponsor include assigning responsibilities for copy layouts to the staff members. The Staff can retaliate by sending the responsibilities back dis guised as pleas for "help" in preparing the various sections.

Probable Outcome: The Viewpoint game will usually end in the completion of the yearbook by a mutual effort of both teams. However, the end also brings a high degree of sadness at the passing of the game and much anticipation of next year's season.

DIPLOIVIACY

INTER - CLUB COUNCIL
The high tension game of inter-organizational diplomacy is the exciting activity of the Inter-Club Council. A typical session:
Chairman: I recognize the representative from chess.
Chess: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. In reply to the outrageous proposal by the honorable representative of Latin, I must say that we will not, under any circumstances, give up our territorial rights to Thursday morning. However, my people have authorized me to lease certain areas on Wednesday to F.B.L.A.

National Honor Society: Ha! We remind the gentleman from chess that the people of the NHS have a right to Wednesday which dates back to our founding.
Chess: And we remind the porcine gentleman from NHS that we of chess ceded Wednesday after your weeks of neglect indicated it was free.
NHS: And what gave you the right to decide when our territory was free, you imperialist day-monger? Mr. Chairman, we feel that chess's efforts to build an empire out of week-day mornings should be cured.
Chairman: That's enough of that!
And thus another diplomatic conflict rages as we leave the thrill-a-minute world of Inter-Club Council.

VARIETY PACK

RIDGEVIEW SCIENCE SOCIETY

The Ridgeview Science Society is quite like those big 40 -in-1 game sets (which may be purchased for an arm and a leg from various establishments of thievery). It is big and it has a little something for everybody. If a student is interested in oceanog. raphy, he may further this interest in the science society. If an overpowering affection for electronics is the particular vice of a student, he may indulge in his passion in the society. In the same manner, the ecology fanatic, the future doctor, and the would-be astronomer, can find stimulation and enjoyment. The only kind of science student who could not possibly find a place in the Ridgeview science society is the disinterested one, who, we know, of course, does not exist.

Club International Officers

FRENCH-FRIED FRITOS

CLUB INTERNATIONAL

The French-Fried Fritos Game is of the standard jigsaw puzzle variety, except it is a bit more difficult. In this, the players are given the pieces to a puzzle of Ridgeview High School, which they are supposed to put together to form a picture of Charles DeGaulle fighting a bull. Carving of the pieces is not allowed, but a superior degree of imagination may be used in conjunction with visits to French and Spanish restaurants to pretend that the puzzle has been put together correctly.

The Brain Game

 Beta ClubType of game: Service game
Playing pieces: Participation is limited to a few students who have already won previous academic dis. tinction.

Instructions: Enjoy the rewards of good grades and serve the academic community's needs by offering free tutoring and by planting pansies in the courtyard.

MEET THE PRESS

TORCH AND HATCHET

 "CRASH FLOOD KILLS THOU SANDS"; "JAPAN DECLARES WAR"; "PLANE CRASH CALLED WORST IN HISTORY." Oh! What fun it is to run a newspaper, telling the people all the latest frivolities of the world situation. The future surveyors of pleasant periodicals have gotten together at Ridgeview to play the Torch and Hatchet newspaper game. The object of this game is to take "Top Teen" and make it sound like the Nobel Peace Prize; take a B-team soccer game and make the reader think it's the F.A. Cup final; to make "Lemons and Lollipops" seem like the Academy Awards. Failing in this, players can always fall back on true attention-grabbers like "OVERFLOWING SINK GETS FLOOR ALL WET"; or "JAPAN, DECLARES NARVELL"; or "SAT SCORES CALLED WORST IN HISTORY"'
LET'S PLAY HOUSE

FHA
Let's Play House! Let's do all the keen things that we see big people do. Let's sponsor a Thanksgiving Turkey Contest just like mommy does. Let's have a Sadie Hawkins Dance just like my Aunt Aristotelia in Detroit. And when we do all these things that grown-ups do, we'll be just like grown-ups. Won't that be fun?

MONOPOLY

F.B.L.A.

America's future business will be in good hands, for its leaders are being trained with the finest business education tools ever known. Indeed, the current state of affairs (in which the question "Do we want Park Place or Pennsylvania Avenue?' is too often answered with "I don't know.") will be replaced by an eternal prosperity which can only be gained through an intimate knowledge of how to land on Free Parking while avoiding Go to Jail. Who needs Phase II when he can have a hotel on Boardwalk?

The Jumping Jacks Varsity Cheerleaders

Type of game: Action game involving practice, patience and endurance.

Object of the game: To raise and maintain school spirit at pep-rallies and to cheer the teams on to victory at games.

Playing pieces: Eight Junior and Senior girls all dressed alike in crimson and navy.

Instructions: Smile, yell, perform gymnastic stunts in order to turn a standful of passive game watchers into one massive embodiment of spirited support.

The Pride and the Practice

The Jr. Jumping Jacks

Object of the game: A second edition of the Varsity Cheerleader Game designed for play by younger participants. Nonetheless, it is equally as demanding an activity.

Playing pieces: Eight Sophomore girls, once again, all dressed in the same manner.

Instructions: Practice, skill, pep and a dynamic pair of vocal cords are required. The techniques and challenges of play are much the same as the senior version, although the audience is commonly smaller.

Drum Major and Majorettes

Object of the game: The Drum Major's objective is to be the "pride of Ridgeview" while the majorettes participate in a game of coordination, applied concentration, and luck.

Playing pieces: These four are optional playing pieces of the Marching Band. Though they are separate from the band, both in identity and performance, they all possess musical talent.

Instructions: The Drum Major and Majorettes play by the same rules as the band and are under the direction of the Music Man himself, Mr. Dan Smith.

Drum major: Bruce Bickley Majorettes: Holly Hogan, Pam Jurczyk, Cindy Galloway.

Let's Play Dolls

 Kachina DollsObject of the game: To entertain spectators at half-time shows with the execution of precision marching patterns.

Playing pieces: 32 dolls gaily adorned in crimson uniforms, with feathers and fringe.

Instructions: To synchronize 32 left feet to an eight count, to maintain a straight line throughout an entire performance, to keep 64 gloves white, and to arrive punctually for 7:00 A.M. practices.

Variations: The 1971 edition of the Kachina Dolls added Bongo drums, maracas and claves.

Bonuses: Standing ovation from audience.

Drill Team Officers: Charlotte Greenway, Cocaptain; Teresa Arnold, Captain; Carol Schwotzer, First Lieutenant.

The Music Men Marching Band

Object of the game: To gain musical knowledge and maintain school spirit by participating in pep-rallies and half-time shows.

Playing pieces: Each piece represents a different sound. These participants are easily recognized by their brightly colored uniforms, high stepping march, and a large "R" on their chests.

Instructions: Participants give their undivided attention to the carefully detailed instructions given by Mr. Dan Smith. Proceed through the game by learning new musical techniques (e.g. playing with chapped lips and cold hands) and gain coordination by marching through endless drills. Be very careful not to bypass any 7:00 A.M. practices on the field or the player will neither pass nor collect five hours credit. This game develops individuals' talent and boosts school pride.

PING-PONG

CONCERT BAND
Concert band is a classic example of adaptation to environment, a sterling specimen of the creative changeability of the patterns of human existence. This is the concert band, better known as the Ping-Pong of Band-Dom. For, just as man has made tennis an indoor and more sedate game in the form of ping-pong, thus has he adapted the marching band to indoor use. A lower form of intellect would, no doubt, maintain the spirit of marching band during indoor concerts. The vegetable mind would have the concert band march around and among the people of the audience. The flashy uniforms and the percussive beat of the outdoor sport would remain. But man, with an ingenuity unknown to even the highest chimpanzee, has put the indoor band into seats, has given its members less flashy, bui more appropriate. suits, and has even gone so far as to change the repertoire. Indeed, Ping-Pong is but a trivial matter in comparison.

Upon the symbolic opening of the door to musical enjoyment (that door being the one to room 104), the first thing that catches our attention is the symbolic independence of the singing artists. So independent is the harmony of these talented musicians that none of them seem to be dripping their vocal brushes into the same paint-jar of good sound. We seem to have caught them on a bad day. A man in a tie down front seems to have trouble with his eyes; he tells the boys to look at a picture on the wall that isn't there; he orders the piano to give him an A , and then, mixing in a little geography, asks everybody where their minds are today. If they do know, everybody makes a contest out of trying to throw the music into one persons lap, and that's the most exciting of all the games found in the mixed chorus.

THE SUZY  HOMEMAKER GAME

GIRL'S CHORUS
Contrary to popular opinion, room 104 is not a chorus room. Nay, rather, it is a kitchen in which Chef Roberts cooks great 40 -ingredient dishes. His specialty is Girl's Chorus A La Mode, an interesting combination of vocal chords and music, which may be tasted at many assemblies and other gatherings of humanity. He also makes a good hamburger.

ROLL OVER BEETHOVEN

ORCHESTRA

The progress of mankind is directly proportional to the quality of its music. Thus, it is no surprise that civilization has taken a marked turn downward since the inception of rock and roll music. In order to stay this plunge toward oblivion, we must take direct action-we must fight this insidious hepcat music. With this in mind, certain interested parties at Ridgeview have come upon a novel idea-form an organization to revive "good music" by means of playing it. How unique! How clever! We hope that some other schools will follow this lead.

HIDE AND SEEK

LIBRARY CLUB

Since the dawn of time, man has loved the thrill of the hunt: the incredible excitement of stalking down a notoriously misplaced Time magazine; the throbbing tension of spotting a 920.14 on the 920.15 shelf; the fervent ecstasy of discovering The book which has a paragraph on pneumonultramicrascopicsilicovolcanoconiosis. Thus, it is no wonder that a special group of students, called the Library Club, has been established to engage in this time-honored pursuit of the lean and leafy prey.

"NOT ALL FUN AND GAMES" KEY CLUB

Ridgeview's Key C'ub does a lot of fun things: having meetings, watching the refreshments, imagining itself to be a turnip. But it's not all fun and games, as the Peruvians would say. The members have assumed a big load for charity and underprivileged people this year. By means of the Empty Stocking Fund, the Thanksgiving baskets, the March of Dimes Walk, and the cleaning of the Northside Hospital grounds. The Key Club has greatly aided the community as well as many nameless individuals.

Officers: Jim Cade, secretary Walt Casteel, treasurer: Mr Frank Biggs. sponsor; John Clark, president; Rick Seay, vice-president.

THE SCHOLAR-SHIP GAME

ANCHOR CLUB

As fate would have it, the object of the Scholar-Ship Game is to raise money for a scholarship fund. The girls who engage in this activity are collectively known as the Anchor Club. Their means of securing money for the fund are all very scholarly-what could be more befitting of a scholarship fund than money earned through a pretty legs contest or a powder puff football game? But, alas, such serious endeavors get tiring, and the Anchor Club must resort to some trivial silliness, just for fun, once in a while-such things as collecting for UNICEF or the Empty Stocking Fund.

Caesar says, "Do not throw grapes during the Latin Club banquet." Caesar says, "Be sure to wear something under your toga." Caesar says, "Continue to support an Italian orphan." Caesar says, "Sell gum." Mrs. Tyler says, "Attend meetings".

OUIJA

PEP CLUB
What better way could there be to bring spirit into Ridgeview than with a Ouija board? With this in mind, a group of spiritualists, known as the Pep Club, has sprung up at our fair school. When this more practical method of spirit enhancement fails, the Pep Club turns to more mystical activities, such as the decoration of athlete's lockers and the sponsorship of Tacky Day.

OLD MACDONALD

AF

We need never fear for the maintenance of American fields. Indeed, we should stand amazed as the bountiful crop of good will-the wheat of peace and the cantaloupe of human empathy -bursts forth out of the ground of international relations. This flavorful produce, grown from the seeds of youthful vision and watered with the rich streams of cultural exchange, will soon become the vegetable soup of good beginnings in the A&P of world politics. The AFS sponsors the Miss RHS pageant, too.

Ridgeview Fields Smallest Team In Region

Name of game: Football game Purpose: To provide pleasant recreation for boisterous young gentlemen, an evening's entertainment for fun-seeking lads and lasses, and monetary gain for the school.

Playing pieces: Depends on the version played. In the 1971 version, the key pieces are 32 skilled individuals who compose the team and 3 noticeably more authoritative pieces who guide and train those thirty-two. Secondary pieces earned by means of good play: abundant school spirit, and effective public relations include up to 987 student spectators. These pieces serve to urge on the key playing pieces. The more secondary pieces earned, the more likely the chance of success.

Historical analysis: The 1971 version of the football game is based on actual historical events. In the real season, Ridgeview's team won early notoriety as being the smallest team in the 4-AA region. Despite this, the team fought its way through the tough competition to a 3-3 record and 4th place in region play.

Varsity football is for young gentlemen, but B-team football is for younger gentlemen, not fully versed in the art of crunch. In this game, the future pieces of the Varsity football game are carved out of the rough material provided by 8th grade football. In 1971, the playing pieces yielded less than spectacular results. Observers felt that the dice must have been loaded against us. These observers were quickly made to understand that dice are not used in football, at which point they made some rude comment about the goalposts being too near to Park Place.

8th Graders Prepare for Gridiron Competition

Playing 8th grade football is a big step up from YMCA. The board is bigger, the opposing pieces are bigger, and the coaches are bigger. In every game there are winners and losers. This year the team came out the losers, but a few losses are excusable. Consider the fact that our 8th grade team might have won 99 games if it had played a hundred. It's possible.

Roundball Triumphs Over Ecology

NamE: Outcoor Roundalal

OBJECT: Ostensibly, the object of this game is for each of two teams to attempt to put the roundball into the other team's goal; however, the actual object is far more complex. The object and its line of reasoning follow: lawnmowers cost money as do the manipulators of lawnmowers; multitudes of trampling feet can devastate a field of grass as effectively as a lawnmower: therefore, convince a group of students that running around on a field kicking a ball is a form of creative expression and you will get the grass on the field cut free.
PLAYERS: Players of outdoor roundball must have the following qualifications: (1) an utter lack of affection for plantlife; (2) a desire to run hither and thither for an hour or two each day; (3) a pair of shoes with little bumps on the bottoms, which can more efficiently defoliate the land than can bare feet. (4) In addition, the ability to fall down at strategic times and places is helpful.
SPECIAL BONUS: The razing of a field of little green plants is greatly speeded up if the field is cooperative. This cooperation comes in the form of either an utter inability, on the part of the field, to support plant life or an utter ability, on the part of the field, to soak up a few million gallons of rain water and, thereby, more readily bid adieu to its bladed covering. Ridgeview has been blessed with many a helpful special bonus.

HISTORICAL ANALYSIS: As can be guessed after a quick look at our field, this was a most successful year for our outdoor roundball team. Any grass which remained after fall plowing died a horrible death at the hands of the roundballers. When the hour of victory seemed distant, the team called on its allies - horses, motorcycles, P.E., and rain - to press the foe into the ground. The sterling trumpets of triumph spewed out their cheery message of floral demise as the valiant victors stomped with a great collective foot upon the lowly vegetation of the field.
Pa

NAME: The Grappling Game
OBJECT: Cultural enrichment through close personal contact with persons from other places and backgrounds. PLAYERS: Strength of character and a powerful personality are the primary qualifications for playing this game.
HISTORICAL ANALYSIS: The $1971-72$ version of this game included a win-loss record. Outstanding players were Darrell Tidwell and Otis Bell, for their wrestling ability, and Rick Vasquez, for his devotion in coming to practice day after day even though his status as an eighth-grader prevented him from participating in matches.

ROSTER

NAME: Advanced Indoor Roundball
OBJECT: In the beginning, there was concession stand, an institution with the expressed purpose of making profit by purveying sundry edibles to the masses. On its own, it failedthere was no profit because there were no masses. Thus, something had to be done to attract the crowds which would insure pecuniary advancement. This"something" eventually was found to be the invention of an exciting (and crowd attracting) game called indoor roundball.

PLAYERS: Even though the game itself is secondary to the refreshment sales, the skilled and artful playing of the game is important in that a superior exhibition attracts a superior crowd. Therefore, the players of indoor roundball must possess a degree of playing ability which will please the pickiest crowds. The indoor roundballer runs like a gazelle, jumps like a kangaroo, handles the ball like a trained seal, and converses with the referee like a retired Ambassador to France.

HISTORICAL ANALYSIS: Concession stand sales were rated as very good during the 1971-72 season, indicating that a superior quality of crowd-pleasing roundball was being played. Team captain Jim Sutterfield was held responsible for the sale of an undetermined number of Cokes, while leading scorer Bryan Ellis was credited with inspiring the purchase of countless bags of popcorn. The seventy-one per cent accurate free throws of Bryan Lockett and the expert rebounding of Martin Lamb led directly to the consumption of approximately fifty pounds of candy. The team as a whole was given credit for the sale of programs and Ridgeview auto tags.

NAME: Intermediate Indoor Roundball
OBJECT: In its vain desire for further monetary gain, the concession stand instituted a further crowd-attracting activity-B-team Roundball. Its purpose is to attract the masses earlier and to keep them near the place of business longer.

PLAYERS: The same general qualifications apply that do for advanced, indoor roundballers. The only major difference is that intermediate roundballers are younger and tend to inspire the purchase of Sprite rather than Coke.

HISTORICAL ANALYSIS: The B-team roundball team tried something new in 1971-72. They experimented with winning. This was disasterous. People began watching the game more and going to the concession stand less. Sales dropped terribly. However, general public opinion tended to favor the team's experiment, so the people at the stand generously declared it all right.

NAME: Beginning Indoor Roundball OBJECT: The major object of beginning roundball is to train the roundballers so that their play will attract more people in later years. Beginning roundball, as a crowd-attracter in itself, brings relatively few sales, but the few it does bring are greatly appreciated.

PLAYERS: Beginning roundballers must be in the eight-grade and must possess a capability for developing good roundball skills.

HISTORICAL ANALYSIS: In the 1971-72 roundball season, the expressed objects of beginning roundball were achieved-future roundballers developed their skills and a few sales were chalked up at the stand.

NAME: THE TRUCKIN' GAME
OBJECT: Communion with nature by means of brisk strolls through the forests and hills
PLAYERS: The strolls are generally taken in conjunction with other schools (this makes for more varied and interesting conversation). A minimum of five players from each school is required. These players' lungs should be in good condition so that they can converse with vigor throughout the stroll, and their legs should be strong so that they can jump over (and, thus, keep from trampling) any intervening shrubs or bushes.
OPTIONAL RULES: Since this is America (home of the free and land of the competitive). an innovation in this game which has caught on is to turn it into a race. This makes for less chance for enjoying the beauties of nature, but it does make it a more exciting game.
HISTORICAL ANALYSIS: Ridgeview, in its 1971 playing of the game, used the optional "race" rule. Apparently, most of the other teams didn't because our cross country team out-raced seven of ten teams it ran with. However, the opposing team usually learned more about the wonders of the woods since it took so much more time to run the, course. That evens up the benefits which each team received from the game.

NAME: Liberation Game
OBJECT: To show the male chauvinist pigs that they aren't the only ones who can play volleyball, basketball, and softball.
PLAYERS: Female only. All grades are acceptable, but a willingness to participate is necessary.
HISTORY: Foreseeing the dull drudgery of a future in housewifery, the feminine population of Ridgeview cried out in a great voice, "Zounds. We foresee the dull drudgery of a future in housewifery. We must stop the oppression by men even before it begins. A sign, good gravies! a sign." And lo, a sign appeared in the form of a volleyball. And thus began the intramurals program at Ridgeview.

The Games People Play

"Oh the games people play now. ev'ry night and ev'ry day now. Never saying, what they mean And they while away the hours. in their ivory towers
'Til they're covered up with flowers in the back of a black limousine. Talkin' 'bout you and me and the games people play

'People walkin' up to you
singin' Glory Hallelujah!
And they're tryin' to sock it to you.
In the name of the Lord.
They gonna teach you how to meditate. read your horoscope, cheat your fate.
And furthermore to hell with hate,
come on get on board.
Talkin' 'bout you and me
and the games people play.

"Look around, tell me what you see, What's happening to you and me?
God grant me the serenity, to remember who 1 am .
'Cause you're givin' up your sanity, for your pride and your vanity.
Turn your back on humanity. And you don't give a da, da, da, da, da. Talkin' 'bout you and me and the games people play.

Homecoming 1971

Logic tells us that floats belong in rivers. But logic is falliable, for Ridgeview's Homecoming floats remained on dry land as did the entirety of the Homecoming motorcade. Give the theme of "WE'RE #1" and a space of time which went by at an incredibly fast pace, the various classes devised and constructed five excellent floats. In the competition between them, the junior class float emerged as the best.

What would Homecoming be without queens? A queenless Homecoming. But who ever heard of a queenless Homecoming? Not Ridgeview. We had our proper share. In a compelling example of living democracy, the class representatives were selected by the votes of their classmates. The eighth grade selected Mary Brock while Leiza Jessee was the choice of the ninth. The Sophomores selected Sue Jordan and the juniors chose Libby Lloyd. The seniors were allowed three representatives, thus bending the basic tenets of democracy, but the twelfth graders showed their intellectual maturity by a swift completion of the complex balloting. Sally Conlin, Mary Connelly, and Cathy Key were their selections. Each of the class representatives received a single rose. Out of the three senior girls, the entire school picked a queen for all Homecoming. The choice was Mary Connelly. She received a dozen red roses, a satin sash, a rhinestone crown (the diamond one was at the cleaners), a trophy. and the honor of being Ridgeview's first Homecoming queen.

Mary Connelly Crowned First Homecoming Queen

American Education Week

The acknowledgement that Americans are indeed educated, if not learned. is an annual tradition. The acknowledgement of a crevasse separating the generations is another. What better thing to do than combine these and hopefully aleviate the less positive of the two This is what we at Ridgeview did during Homecoming/American Education Week. "Bridge the gap!" we cried as we dashed forward to find now a crevasse, but a well disguised indentation. In the cafeteria, students and teachers studied each others feeding habits to find quite a few similarities. At a student-teacher forum, organized by the faculty, school issues were discussed with no reported outbreaks of violence or rudeness. In return for the faculty's gesture and as a recognition of a long-standing amicable relationship, the students honored two teachers each day with words and carnations and made Mr. Boyd the grand marshal of Homecoming. Apart from the "Bridge the gap" activities but still part of American Education Week was Ridgeview's nightly teaching demonstrations at Perimeter Mall, whereby the general populace was again assured of the existence of American education.

The students didn't give the faculty their lounge so why should the faculty give the students theirs? Just an effort to bridge the proverbial gap. Since floors are commonly believed not to be conducive to lounging, chairs, tables, and carpeting were strategically placed throughout the area of the student lounge. The presentation of the lounge to the students, attended by Mr. Boyd, the student council, home room representatives, the administration, and the counselors, was a ribboncutting ceremony which again attested to the dominance of steel over paper.

Sally Reigns Without Snow

Above: Nancy and Phil Erickson and Bill Sims of the Wit's End Players entertain the student body at a Junior class fundraising assembly.
Right: Dr. Russell Dilday moderates the FacultyStudent forum for the eight and ninth grades.

Assemblies are an integral part of the education of a Ridgeview student. The subject matter presented offers not only a contrast to what is taught in the classroom but gives everyone a chance to relax on the super soft Ridgeview bleachers. They also make money. They also are a lot of fun. And no one has more fun sitting on the bleachers than the Juniors as they watch their coffers fill.

Banquets and assemblies are much alike. But, they differ on one vital point. Whereas any student may go to an assembly, a student must be invited to go to a banquet. If assemblies were the K-mart of student gatherings, banquets could be considered the GEX. Those who shop at Ridgeview's banquets are presented with a large selection of fine foods and numerous trophies or words recognizing an individual's accomplishments. Viewing the many awards received, it is easy to see that Ridgeview students will have an easy time in the long checkout line of life.

Our Man in Japan

Tiring of jeans and bell-bottoms, Ridgeview has sent Bill Narvell on an expedition to Japan to find out the latest fashions for the well-dressed young man in Japan. Bill's findings can be seen in the accompanying pictures.
Bill called Gifi-Shi home while participating in the AFS program in Japan. All six members of the Fukotomi family labored consistently to improve Bill's chopstick technique. Within a month, Bill was feeding himself.

Our Man Down Under

While Bill Narvell has gone to Japan to study fashion, Kilton Kingsman has ventured to Australia to do scientific research. It is his objective to find out whether water goes down the drain clockwise or counter-clockwise in the southern hemisphere. His hosts and scientific assistants for the year are the Neil Guerins. Kilton has three sisters and a brother within his Australian family and undoubtedly has plenty of help collecting his data.

The Next Best Thing to a Volkswagen

Ridgeview's students got a taste of something German, besides strudel, with the arrival of foreign exchange student Astrid Haase. Driven by an insatiable curiosity and armed with her handy pocket dictionary, Astrid has become a blessing for teachers and a pleasure for students. With her excellent English, Astrid has had little difficulty fitting into the Schwotzer household. Hopefully, Ridgeview boys will always have the good fortune of a beautiful foreigner in short skirts.

The game of "Drama" starts in a class in the Little Theatre. The players begin with simple exercises such as: be a mirror image, begin a game and have others join in, pantomine an activity and have others join and complete your scene. Procede to improvisations: Given a particular scene, create an interesting performance, improvise a story with one person given a first line and another, the last. Learn to portray different moods, ages, characters. Culminate with a memorized, practiced scene. Not only do you learn about acting, but also people, having to meaningfully relate to those on stage.

Well, Seniors, we've almost finished the game. So let's look back and see how we played. "I can'! believe I have to leave my school and go to Trimble? Ridgeview?' "Well, where are the elevators?" "I don't see all the carpeting." "I don't care if there is a swim-ming pool under the gymfloor, there better not be co-ed P.E. classes, I refuse to go to class with wet hair."

"If a man does not keep pace with his companions, perhaps it is because he hears a different drummer. Let him step to the music which he hears, however measured or far away."

Henry David Thoreau
The Senior Superlatives of the Class of '72 were chosen by their classmates for the beat they set, for the music they made.

SALLY CONLIT
"She's a lady.
John Sebastion

Senior Superlatives

DAUID SAMPSON

"There's a mountain over there I have got to climb. There's a sea over there that I must sail.

Ray White

"You can do whatever you want to do; Whatever you want to do, you can try.

Marc Benno

Senior

Superlatives

BOBBY CARPENTER

"And try to live in song and silence With no ideals of violence.
Tryin' to stay 'live
Buddy how 'bout you
Tryin' to stay 'live
You gotta keep real cool.'
Leon Russell and Marc Benno

MARY CONNELLY

"You just call out my name And you know wherever I am I'll come running to see you again Winter, Spring, Summer, or Fall All you have to do is call And l'll be there.
You've got a friend."
Carole King

BILL HANKINS

"You see it's my thing to be
Part of someone
As a true friend is
Part of me.
Stephen Stills

LUCIE McGEE

"I want to be strong
I want to laugh along
I want to belong to living.'

Joni Mitchell

SENIORS '72 A CLASSOF BEAUTIFUL PEOPLE

"Beautiful people

You look like friends of mine,
And it's about time
That someone said it here and now-
Beautiful people
Never, ever, have to be alone.'

"Beautiful people

You ride the same subway as I do every morning.

That's gotta tell you something-
We got so much in common-
Igo the same direction that you do.
So if you'll take care of me,
Maybe I'll take care of you."

"Beautiful people

We share the same back door,
And it isn't right
We never met before today, but then,
We may never meet again.

'Beautiful people

He may be sitting right next to you.
He may be a beautiful people, too.
And if you take care of him,
Maybe he'll take care of you, Cause all the beautiful people do, And you're all beautiful people, too.

School is a game but the Ridgeview campus does not limit our play. Though the game may start in the classroom, it does not remain there because Ridgeview's students scatter after 3:30 to pursue their individual interests. Industrious students head for the library while others satisfy their hunger pains. Sundown does not restrain our activity as students are frequently seen at Young Life or the numerous sport events. Whatever his interest, the Ridgeview student can identify with and find a place in the game called schooldays.

Like all the enjoyable aspects of life, the ' 72 game must end. When we tally the score card we must consider the many bonuses and penalties of the ' 72 game. Playing the game was a learning experience. We found it was no fun to play alone, and we discovered each other. We learned to laugh at ourselves and with others. As we re-examine the ' 72 game we clearly emerge the victor as we have definitely Attention please. You loitered in the halls and took more than $30 \mathrm{sec}-$ onds to report from page 15. Go to detention im mediately. That is all.

Cafeteria offers chocolate milk but we still are not sure about the soybeanburger. Stay where you are.

The Junior class earns enough money to have the Jr.-Sr. at the Top of the Mart. Cancel the reservation at BaskinRobbin's party room and advance 5 .

Every Ridgeview student is an interor decorator as the lounge gets rearranged daily. Move back 3 .

One decorator is partial to three legged chairs. Return leg to office and plead for forgiveness.

Many students become celebrities on the six o'clock news when they tell all of Georgia that the corner of the building is like a drugstore.
