College Park, Georgia
Volume X*

Tears and fears and feeling proud,— to say "I love you" right out loud,—
Dreams and schemes and circus crowds,—
I've looked at life that way.
But now old friends are acting strange,— they shake their heads, they say I've changed—Something's lost but something's gained—in living every day.
I've looked at life from both sides now,—
from win and lose- and still somehow—it's life's illusions I recall;
I really don't know life at all.

The grand essentials to happiness in life are something to do, something to love, and something to hope for.

Joseph Addison

A brook is going somewhere. It is water-on-a-mission. About to present itself to other waters at its destination, it never neglects little wayside opportunities. On its way to make its final offering, it gaily gives itself all along the way. Deer drink of its refreshing coolness with a deep content. Boys of seven years and of seventy probe its pools and eddies with their lures and return home at day's end with the brook's gift of speckled trout. Fish, crustaceans, mollusks, and water insects are given a home in its swirling currents and tranquil pools. From its birth in the bubbling springs to its arrival at its final goal the brook is selfless and a happy appearing thing. Service and happiness belong together.

Harold E. Kohn

My bounty is as boundless as the sea,
My love as deep; the more I give to thee
The more I have, for both are infinities.

If you think you are beaten, you are;
If you think you dare not, you don't.
If you'd like to win, but think you can't,
It's almost a cinch you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you've lost,
For out in the world we find
Success begins with a fellow's will;
It's all in the state of mind.

If you think you're outclassed, you are;
You've got to think high to rise.
You've got to be sure of yourself before
You can ever win a prize.
Life's battles don't always go
To the stronger or faster man;
But soon or late the man who wins
Is the one who thinks he can.

Soon to be the mighty Lancer Varsity, our "Baby Lancers" strived toward perfection. Both the Eighth Grade and the B-Team worked hard all week under the hot sun only to perform for a small crowd of faithful parents and under-spirited students. Actually, they've only just begun.

A flower unblown;
 A book unread;
 A tree with fruit unharvested;
 A path untrod;
 A house whose rooms
 Lack yet the heart's divine perfumes;
 A landscape whose wide border lies
 In silent shade beneath the skies,
 A wondrous fountain yet unsealed;
 A casket with its gifts concealed
 This is the year that for you waits
 Beyond tomorrow's mystic gates.

Strange—to grow up and still be wondering,
Reverent at petals and snow,
Still holding breath,
Still often tiptoe,
Questioning dew and stars,
Wanting to know!

A lily of a day
Is fairer far in May,
Although it fall and die that night—
It was the plant and flower of Light.
In small proportions we just beauties see;
And in short measures life may perfect be.

I wish your locker were next to mine,
 Stuffed with books, creased and torn, old book covers,
 Crumpled papers, and the New York Times.
 In the morning I would watch you push
 Your heavy coat into the narrow slot
 To hang above the black cinders and
 Dead Kleenex that lie upon the floor.
 And when school is over, then I could catch
 Your scarf, your gloves, and the paperbacks
 That all fall out when you open the door.

May your hand be full for always
if only with another hand.
May your heart be empty only long enough to give you cause to fill it up again with love.
May your soul be lost by you only to be found by God.
