Grants enhance employee knowledge in their fields

This fall, five scholarships were awarded to Colonial Williamsburg employees from the Mary and Donald Gonzales Field Experience Fund. The fund provides individual grants of up to $5,000 for continuing education opportunities for non-management employees within the public history, historic trades, historic sites, historic events, coach and livestock, conservation, collections, museums and landscape departments to pursue educational opportunities.

Lee Ann Rose, who portrays Martha Washington, and Katharine Pittman, who portrays the young Martha Washington, will visit Mount Vernon, the Washington Library and Woodlawn to inspect items from their collections in the fall/winter 2015.

"We want to have a chance to look at Martha's letters in her own handwriting," said Lee Ann. "We also want to see her wedding shoes. We would like to see about making Martha's wedding gown for a program in April 2016."

The visit will include Woodlawn, the home of Martha's granddaughter, Eleanor "Nellie" Parke Custis Lewis. "We want to look at Martha's things on display in Nellie's house," Lee Ann said.

Katharine said the study visit will bring them closer to their characters. "Research makes them more three-dimensional," she said. "It's very striking. It brings them alive in a different way."

Layne Anderson, a livestock husbander-interpreter in the coach and livestock department in the research and historical interpretation division, will attend the Livestock Conservancy Annual Conference on Nov. 5-7 in Santa Rosa, Calif. She will take two half-day workshops - poultry breeding and agricultural tourism. "At the conference, I want to gain more information about breeding birds so we can breed better birds to show to Colonial Williamsburg's guests," she said. "From the agricultural tourism workshop, I hope to learn how to tie that programming in what we offer here."

Journalist Chris Henkels in Historic Trades in the research and historical interpretation division will examine the pre-industrial manufacture of English hand tools, agricultural implements and vehicle hardware at various British museums in March 2016.

He will explore the Ken Hawley collection of 18th-century tools at the Kelham Island Museum in Sheffield, England. "I've been thinking about this since I got here," he said. "I want to take a look at specialized goods such as measuring tools, pliers and saws. That's unique because these and other tools were not made over here."

Chris will examine vehicular hardware at the Museum of English Rural Life in Reading, England. "They have an excellent collection of wooden vehicles," he said.

He also will view the collection of tools belonging to James Watt, one of the people credited for developing the steam engine, at the Science Museum of London. "His workshop was very well preserved," he said. "Tools are still in their original cases. It will help us display tools at the Blacksmith Shop."

At the Victoria & Albert Museum in London, he will view decorative ironwork.

Linda Baumgarten, curator of textiles and costumes, and Kimberly Smith Ivey, curator of textiles and historic interiors, in collections, conservation and museums, will visit the "Asia in Amsterdam" exhibition and do research into needlework and African-American quilts at the Peabody Essex Museum and the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston in April 2016. The trip coincides with projects currently under way at the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg.

"Kim Ivey and I are honored to receive a Gonzales grant to view the 'Asia in Amsterdam' exhibition at the Peabody Essex Museum in Salem, Mass., and to study artifacts at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston including needlework samplers and the famous Harriet Powers African-American quilt," Linda said. "The exhibition, which opened at the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam, includes many export textiles that will enhance the cataloging and exhibition plans for Colonial Williamsburg's East Indian textiles and quilts. The chance to see the Harriet Powers quilt at close range will allow us to make comparisons with a closely related Georgia quilt by another African-American quiltmaker in the collections here. Our related quilt by Dora Smith goes on view in February of 2016 at the Art Museums of Colonial Williamsburg."

"In addition to viewing the exhibition, I am especially excited to have the opportunity to study needlework pictures and samplers in Boston museums that directly relate to ones in the Colonial Williamsburg collection," Kim said.

Tina Gessler, Samuel and Pauline Clark Conservator of Objects, in the collections, conservation and museums division, will attend the joint meeting of the American Institute for Conservation of Historic and Artistic Works and the Canadian Association for Conservation from May 13-16, 2016, in Montreal, Quebec. She will help organize and host a speaker session for AIC's Sustainability Committee.

Since its initial award in the spring of 2007, the fund has provided grants to 86 employees.

Volunteers sought for Haunting on DoG Street

Colonial Williamsburg is seeking exempt employees to volunteer for the first-ever Haunting on DoG Street event, Oct. 30-31. Based on the Ambassador program for Grand Illumination and July Fourth, Blackbeard's Crew should anticipate guest needs and deliver excellent, world-class service.

Each night, "Blackbeard's Revenge" will feature a free trick-or-treating for kids ages 12 and under, sponsored by candy giant Mars Inc., from 5-7:30 p.m.

Promptly at 8 p.m., the undead crew of the pirate Blackbeard—who were tried and hanged on Williamsburg's streets in 1719—will return from their graves to seek their revenge. Recommended for youth ages 13 and up, this ticketed attraction starts at 8 p.m. and lasts until 10. At 10 p.m. guests are invited to participate in a procession of the undead, led by pirate zombies, up the street to the historic Chowning's Tavern.

- Crew members will help with:
- Crowd control
  - Wayfinding
  - Guest services
  - Colonial Faire
  - Taverns

Blackbeard's crew can expect other specific responsibilities depending on their assignment location.

Blackbeard's crew will wear T-shirts that will be provided to identify themselves to guests.

Employees will receive training and additional material prior to the event.

Exempt employees who are interested in working under the pirate's flag can contact Penna Rogers by phone at 220-7121 or by e-mail at progers@cwv.org.

Open Enrollment 2016: Engage, Enroll, Evolve!

Open Enrollment only happens once each year. Open Enrollment for 2016 begins Oct. 26 and runs through Nov. 13, 2015. For eligible employees, this is your annual opportunity to engage and learn more about your benefit choices for next year. Each year, the array of benefits is evaluated to assure that reasonable cost-sharing is maintained between the Foundation and plan participants, and that the benefits are competitive with those offered by other employers.

This year some adjustments were made to the health plan offerings to comply with new federal regulations. The Cadillac Tax, a provision under the Affordable Care Act (ACA), is scheduled to be implemented in 2018. This provision is driving some of the changes that you will see.

Look for Open Enrollment packets to arrive in your work unit around Oct. 26 with the information you need to understand changes for 2016 and to make personal decisions on any benefit enrollment adjustments you need to make. Please review your packets for benefit changes that may impact you and your family.

In addition to your Open Enrollment packet, there are several other sources of information:

- The Benefits section of the Colonial Williamsburg Intranet site will be updated with new information by Oct. 27.

Open Enrollment information sessions will be held:

- Thursday, Oct. 29 in Bruton Heights School, Room 109 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Wednesday, Nov. 4 in the Lodge, Library Room A from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
- Friday, Nov. 13 in the Woodlands Conference Center from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Take time to understand the changes and ask questions. Whether your questions are about existing benefits or new changes for 2016, the Benefits team is available to help on extension 2265 or via e-mail at benefits@cwv.org.

Continental Army makes plans to meet Cornwallis in Yorktown during re-enactor weekend

Photos by Penna Rogers

The allied armies were under the command of Gen. George Washington and the Comte de Rochambeau. British Gen. Cornwallis has entrenched his troops at Yorktown, and Williamsburg is now in the hands of the Americans. Guests witnessed the extensive preparations of the Continental Army in Williamsburg as they prepared to lay siege on Yorktown during "Washington's Army Descends on Williamsburg" on Oct. 10 - 11. (1) Re-enactors set up camp at Palace Green. (2) A re-enactor from the 6th Virginia Regiment stoked a fire so could she prepare a sweet potato, apple and onion dish. (3) A young guest learned how to hand weave a belt from a gentleman in the encampment. (4) Guests had the opportunity to watch a group of re-enactors from the 7th Virginia Regiment demonstrate how to fire a cannon in battle. No powder was used in the demonstration. The audience said, "BOOM," when the cannon was "fired." (5) Guests talked with Major McHenry, portrayed by Dave Catanese, and discovered the many challenges faced in planning for the upcoming siege. (6) Michael Williams told guests how wounds would be treated with 18th-century medications. (7) Products employee Erin Duquette illustrated how trap ball was played to Colonial Williamsburg guests at Market House.

Your Story

Kajdas enjoys getting feedback from Chowning's Tavern guests

EMPLOYEE NAME: Chris Kajdas
POSITION: Guest services manager, Chowning's Tavern
YEARS OF SERVICE: Two-and-a-half years, all at Chowning's Tavern
WHAT I DO: "I am the guest services manager at Chowning's Tavern in the Historic Area. Unlike the three other dining establishments in the Revolutionary City, Chowning's is continually open throughout the day, beginning at 11:30 a.m. and closing each night at approximately 11 p.m. We are open seven days a week, and no reservations are required for guests who dine here. This is also unique among the Historic Area taverns.
"I supervise a staff of about 35 people including hosts, wait staff, bartenders and cashiers. During our peak times of year, usually in the summer, we have about 60 staff working at Chowning's, especially since we have an outdoor dining area and many special evening events.
"I do all of the hiring of the staff, the payroll and prepare weekly schedules for the staff. I also do some purchasing, plan special events and also manage the purchasing of liquor, wine and beer sold at Chowning's Tavern. We purchase a lot of Virginia craft beers and wines, especially those made by our Historic Trades staff.
"The cooks are supervised by the head chef, but I have a very cooperative working relationship with the food preparation staff. Meals are prepared right on site."
WHAT I LIKE ABOUT MY JOB: "I like the variety of responsibilities that I have as a guest services manager. I enjoy talking with our dining guests and learning something about them, without being intrusive. I also enjoy meeting with our chef staff and Historic Trades people who create different and unique recipes for food as well as beer. I have been a cook myself and have training in the culinary arts.
"On a regular basis, I do an analysis of my sales by each member of my wait staff, which helps me with my staffing assignments."
WHAT I DO TO IMPROVE THE GUEST EXPERIENCE: "I am continually seeking input from my staff, asking for their comments and suggestions on how we can make their jobs easier and how we can create a unique, positive dining experience for our guests. My staff is on the front line in dealing with our dining guests, and I desire to create a positive working environment for each of them. I am always open to suggestions offered by my staff.

"I also ask our dining guests about their experience at Chowning's, the service that they have been receiving, the amount of time that they have had to wait to be seated, and the quality of the food and their beverages. Since Chowning's does not take reservations, the amount of time that guests have to wait to be seated can be a problem, especially during the summer months when we have many families visiting Colonial Williamsburg. We make every effort to accommodate our guests in a timely manner. We are the oldest tavern in the Historic Area and have now been serving our guests for 75 years."
MEMORABLE EXPERIENCES: "Prior to moving to Williamsburg, I worked as a cook at a resort in Martha's Vineyard in Massachusetts for several years. On one occasion, I was able to prepare a meal and serve former President Bill Clinton."
BIGGEST ACCOMPLISHMENT: "As the guest services manager at Chowning's, I am proud to say that we have had a great year in our tavern. Our revenue has increased over the past year, our labor costs have been lowered since we have hired many J-1 foreign students for the summer, as one factor, and our food costs have also been reduced when compared to the prior year.
"We have already had four very successful events called 'Beers in the Burg' this year. Chowning's Tavern was also a part of Colonial Williamsburg's 'Taste Traditions' weekend, and we have many evening events which attract many visitors as well as locals to our tavern."
INTERESTS/HOBBIES: "I love participating in many outdoor activities, such as hiking and camping. I also enjoy playing soccer and am on a sailing team in Gloucester, where I reside. I also play a lot of golf on the weekends when I am not working."

The art of historic upholstery revealed in Leroy Graves' new book

During most of the last century, furniture curators and collectors paid little attention to historic upholstery. Not until the 1970s did The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation and several other museums begin to reconsider the long-held practice of removing and discarding original upholstery when they acquired seating forms.
For the next 20 years, Colonial Williamsburg's curators began collecting 17th-, 18th- and 19th-century seating that retained original coverings and assembled a noteworthy assemblage of British and American pieces. Together, these objects and their forensic studies answered myriad questions about early upholstery, from webbing patterns to bolster shapes to trimmings for show materials.
Now, in "Early Seating Upholstery: Reading the Evidence" (The Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, $65, October 2015), famed conservator Leroy Graves analyzes the objects forensically and illustrates his methods of non-intrusive conservation. The result is a significant contribution to our understanding of the field.
In sumptuously illustrated chapters featuring color photography as well as black-and-white line drawings, "Early Seating Upholstery" presents a brief history of upholstered seating furniture and discusses the 18th-century upholsterer and the structure and components of upholstered seating furniture (including sections on furniture frames, upholstery materials, and establishing the physical profiles of the objects). The book describes how to read the physical "evidence" on a bare frame in ways that will help readers make sense of what they are looking at. Many of the objects analyzed are bare frames that have been upholstered once, twice and up to seven or eight times. Never before has a book on the subject been written by someone who is both a craftsman and a furniture historian, qualifications that provide the author with a unique perspective.

Recognized as a leader in the field of upholstery conservation, Leroy first joined the facilities maintenance staff of Colonial Williamsburg in 1967 and was soon thereafter recruited to be an art handler in the collections department, a position he held for nearly 10 years. He joined the conservation department at its inception in 1984.
