

Welcome to the Black Cultural Center

Tennessee Technological University

FROM THE DIRECTOR

"Welcome to Tennessee Technological University. On behalf of the faculty, staff and administration, I'd like to applaud you for choosing one of the finest universities in the state.

"Welcome also to your Black Cultural Center. The center opened a little more than a year ago thanks to the efforts of the Black Student Organization and the Division of Student Services.

Mayme Martin
Director

"The center is located in Room 258 of the University Center.

"Although we're still growing, I believe that the center offers students an opportunity to learn more about the African American culture through its many books, photographs and works of art; a place to study; a place for fellowship with friends and a place to unwind after a full day of classes.

“Please mark your calendar for Sunday, August 26 — that’s when we’re having our grand opening. It’ll be held at 3 p.m. on the second floor of the University Center in the Multipurpose Room.

“During your stay at Tennessee Tech, please take advantage of the resources available to you. Make friends, not only with other students, but with faculty and staff. We want you to succeed. We want you to be able to say 'I attended Tennessee Tech and I'm glad I did.'”
