

"... definitely the work of a major novelist . . . If its realism is extreme, so is its impact on the imagination . . . written by a man who is a novelist by instinct, endowed with a universal awareness . . . Almost from the first moment a reader is caught in the current of Mr. Jones' vitality and once caught there is no escape . . . The whole rises from depths to magnificent heights . . . it is in the realm of the impregnable."—JOHN P. MARQUAND, Book-of-the-Month Club News

"... it is impossible to indicate the variety of material in From Here to Eternity, the raw quality of its drunken comedy, the terrific excitement of its brawls and fights, its insight into the character of a variety of men . . . it is not just an explosion of talent. It is a mature achievement of impressive stature."—ORVILLE PRESCOTT, New York Times

"... a spectacular achievement: it has tremendous vitality and driving power and graphic authenticity. Prewitt and Warden are magnificent creations, who take possession of the reader."—THE ATLANTIC MONTHLY

"... the best picture of Army life ever written by an American, a book of beauty and power . . . a work of genius."—NED CALMER, Saturday Review of Literature

"... a dramatic, tension-filled, intensely human, bulldozer of a book! . . . It is moving, often reaching great heights of beauty and tenderness; it is filled with lyric and expansive prose; it is rich in humor, irony, pathos and human discernment."—PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER

"... bears comparison with the very best that is being done in American fiction today . . . in James Jones an original and utterly honest talent has restored American realism to a pre-eminent place in world literature . . . he does for our time what Stephen Crane did for his in The Red Badge of Courage . . . Make no mistake about it, From Here to Eternity is a major contribution to our literature."—NEW YORK TIMES

"I have eaten your bread and salt.
I have drunk your water and wine.
The deaths ye died I have watched beside,
And the lives ye led were mine."
