Taking inspiration from the novel Arus Balik (1995), that can be translated to "turning of the tides," by Indonesian author Pramoedya Ananta Toer, this exhibition will examine how the turning of historical tides form our personal and collective identities. The work of six artists, Ade Darmawan (Indonesia), ila (Singapore), Zac Langdon-Pole (Aotearoa New Zealand/Germany), Shubigi Rao (India/Singapore), Lucy Raven (United States), and Melati Suryodarmo (Indonesia) will guide and challenge us on a journey, probing how social, geopolitical, economic, and cultural transitions influence our concept of who we are, where we come from, and where we are going.

Saturday, 6 April 2019, 3.00 – 5.30pm
