2023:
FOOD

NANYANG TECHNOLOGICAL UNIVERSITY, SINGAPORE

NTU CCA IdeasFest, created in 2017, is a platform to catalyse critical exchange of ideas and encourage thinking “out of the box”. It links the academic and artistic communities with grassroots and self-organised initiatives and small-scale entrepreneurship. Following the global call for an ecological turn in art, architecture, and design, NTU CCA IdeasFest 2023: Food presents projects that engage, investigate, and aim to ensure food security on a healthy planet. The vitality of food poses a wide-ranging set of questions and problems when confronted with nature’s diminishing capacity to nourish life as a result of harmful anthropocentric activity. Such challenges demand that we rethink our modes of production and consumption. As a platform to feature new initiatives, NTU CCA IdeasFest 2023: Food is an invitation to share and engage in cooperative projects and collective experiences through workshops, site visits, screenings, performances, public installations, participatory projects, and a summit.

NTU CCA IdeasFest 2023: Food, conceived in partnership with Future Cities Lab Global, Singapore-ETH Centre, contemplates on sustainable food systems, climate awareness and solutions for a more sustainable future.

Curated by Prof. Ute Meta Bauer (NTU CCA and NTU ADM), Magdalena Magiera (NTU CCA), Assoc. Prof. Laura Miotto (NTU ADM) and Prof. Thomas Schroepfer (ETH FCL and SUTD)
