

WRETCHED THOROUGHFARE.—We have tried in vain to call to mind a thoroughfare in any of the cities or towns of the States in so bad a plight as the principal thoroughfare of Steilacoom. Commercial street is made up of hills, holes, stumps and mud. Its grade is so bad that the lives of pedestrians are nightly endangered. The property owners would lose nothing by its speedy improvement.