Synopsis: Clement Wragge leaves Adelaide to head up Queensland Meteorology

Summary:

Queensland Meteorological Department. —In the Queensland Assembly on Thursday the Government announced that the Meteorological Department of the colony would be reorganized, and it was intended to appoint to the position of Government Meteorologist Mr. Clement L. Wragge, F.G.S., F. Met. Soc, of the Torrens Observatory, near Adelaide.

(ed. Wragge, a very competent meteorologist, was a thorn in Todd's side and antagonised all colonial meteorologists by branding his Queensland office as the National Weather Office and issued forecasts for all the other Colonies)
