EX LIBRIS

EX LIBRIS

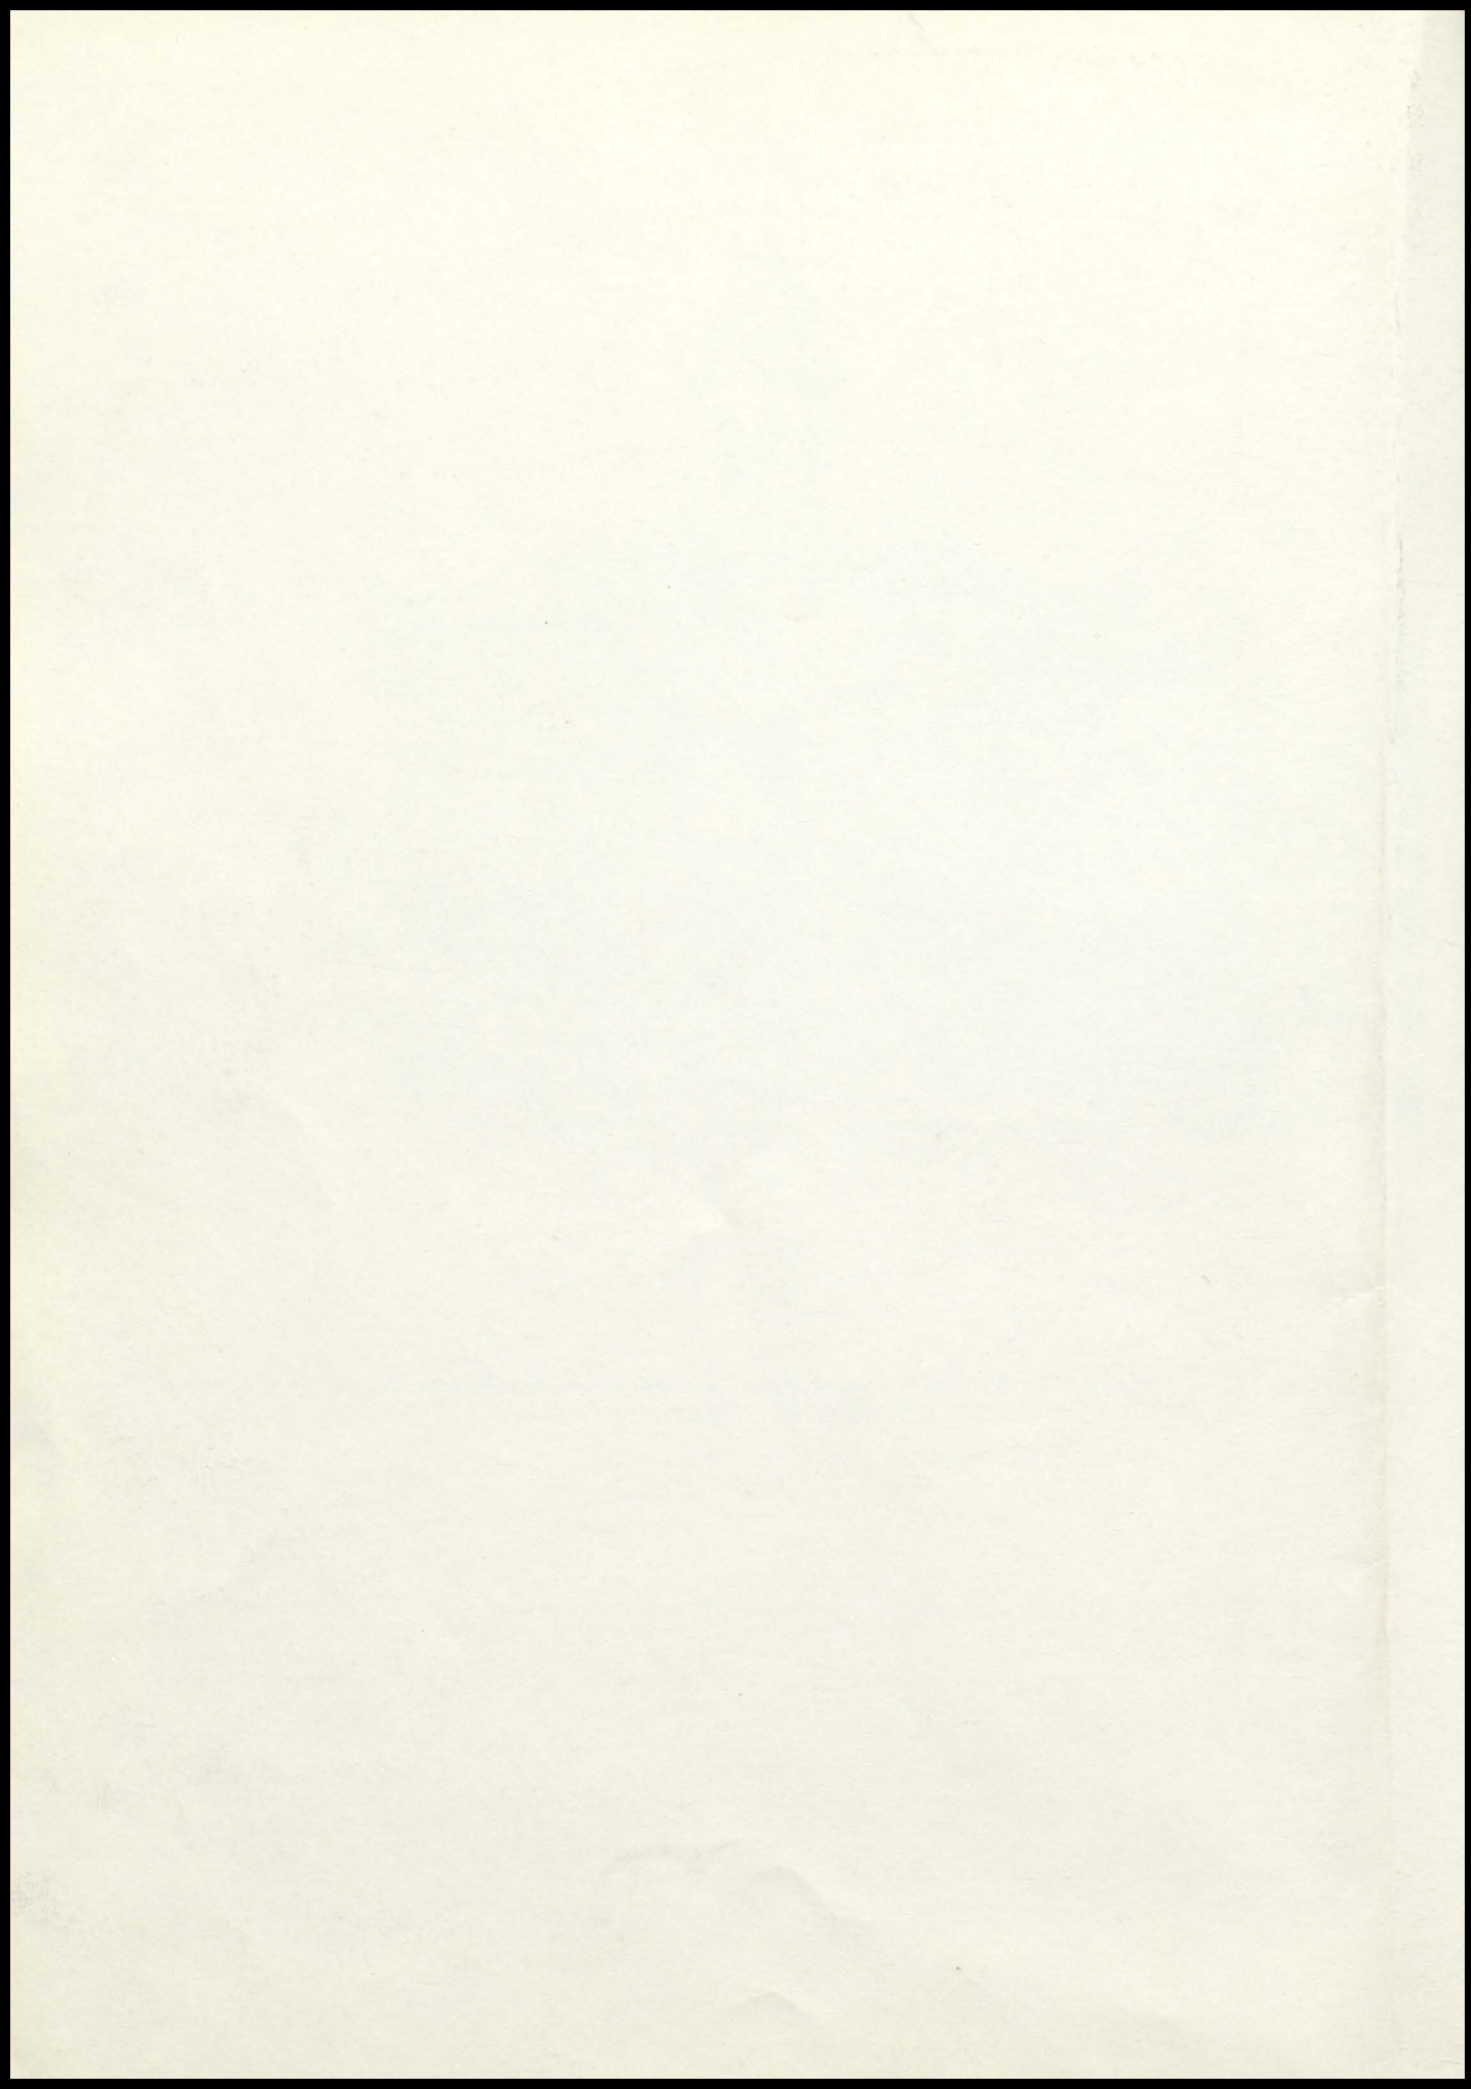

The Annual Staff of 1953 dedicates this yearbook to the Buena Vista Public Schools which shall ever remain as a monument of higher friendship, citizenship and education.

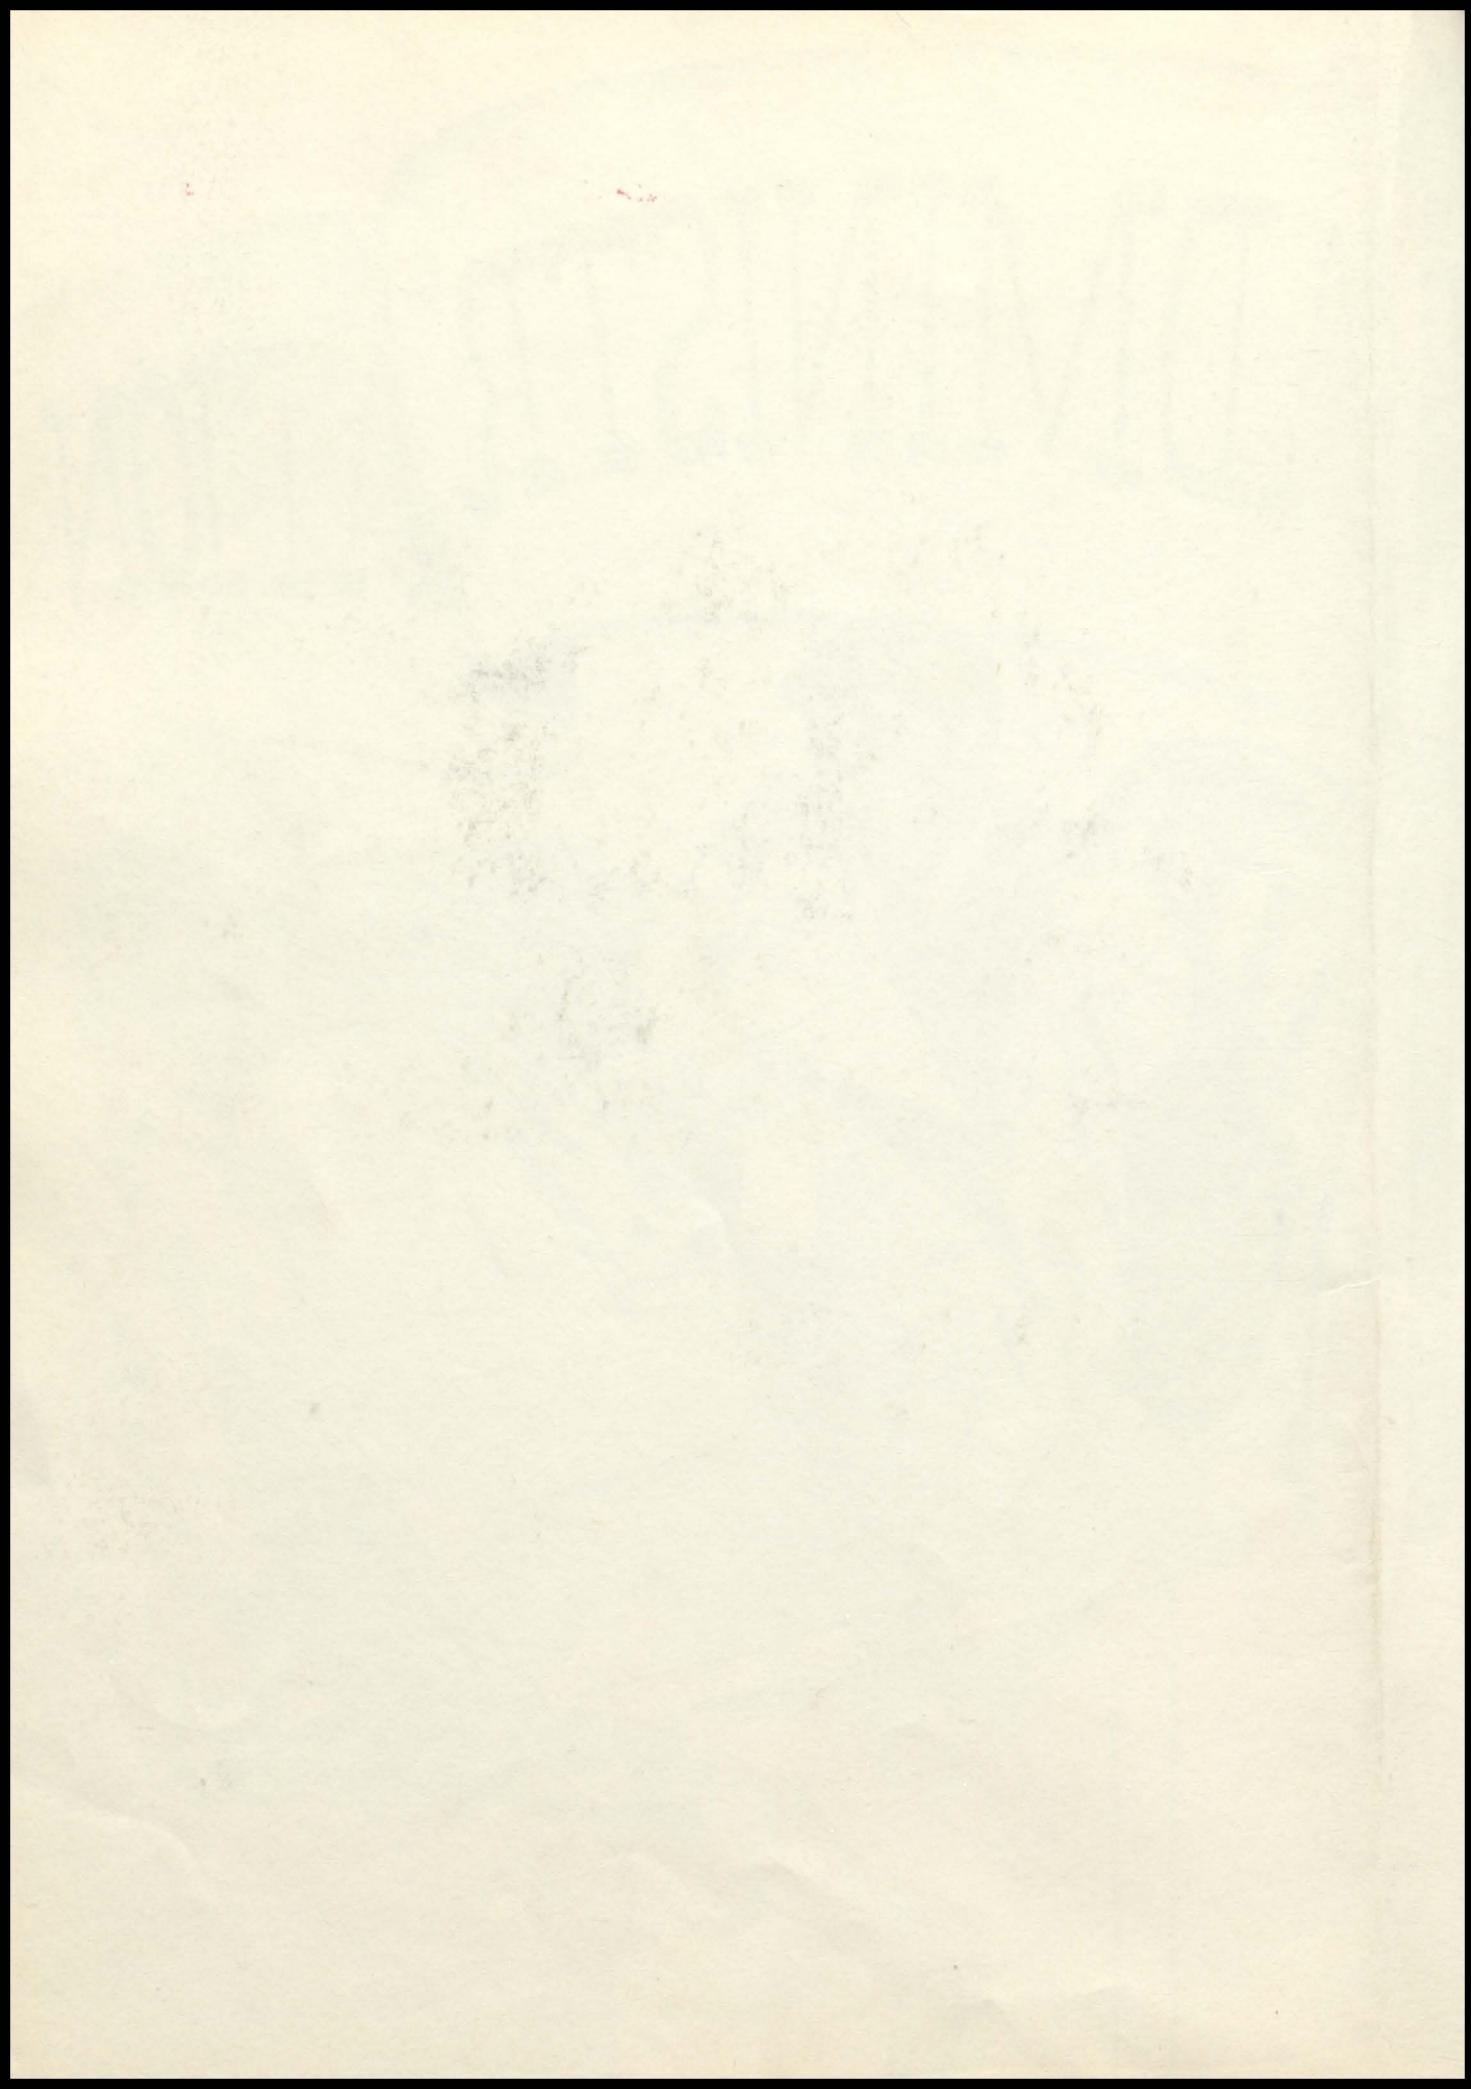

The Buena Vista High School is an accredited institution. This fact means that graduates of the school may be enrolled in colleges and universities of the state without an entrance examination, provided that they meet the entrance requirements of the college concerned. It means that the outstanding student in the graduating class is entitled, in accordance with scholarship rules, to a scholarship at any of the Colorado collegiate institutions.

It means that certain definite standards set by the University have been met. Among these are the employment of qualified teachers, maintaining the standard length of school, planning and carrying out a required curriculum, upholding desirable standards of scholarship and citizenship, maintaining an up-to-date library and science laboratory and a definite relationship between the school and the community.

At the end of each year each member of the faculty, I am sure, wonders to himself just how much his students have gained during the past year. As the Seniors leave the school for greater things each of us harbor the hope that he or she has benefited from the associations of the past years. It is our fond hope that each of you will "Take time for work- it is the price of success. Take time to think - it is the source of power. Take time to play - it is the secret of youth. Take time to read - it is the foundation of wisdom. Take time to be friendly - it is the road to happiness. Take time to dream - it is hitching your wagon to a star. Take time to love and be loved - it is the privilege of the gods. Take time to look around - it is too short a day to be selfish. Take time to laugh - it is the music of the soul."

Sincerely,
Bill Andreas

This year the annual staff got to work and started everything rolling early in the fall. They made several trips to Salida, Leadville, and Poncha Springs to sell ads. We found these people most cooperative. Through the money made from ads the staff has been able to produce the year book of 1952-53.

SENIOR'S LAST WILL

Robert Dunn leaves his Byronic ways to Donald Hoover, whom, they should fit like a glove tho' Bob stretched them a little.

Jack Acree (Black Irishman) awards his "Black Ways" to anyone who will have them so the Marines will let him in.

Kathleen Harms bequeaths her "Ability to do Algebra" to all prospective acrobats.

Joan Caughman leaves her typing speed to the typing Champion of Colorado.

Ginger Shields wills her artistic ability to Lafayette Garcia.

Jon Burke leaves his "(Einstien I. Q. -200)" to Ronnie Schutz and all other prospective engineers.

To all lower classmates who might become doctors Marge Morgan leaves her "cough" with this warning: Don't sprain your back.

Louise Avery leaves to next year's Typing 11 Class the gladness of finding the good typing chairs in front of their typewriters also the grief of finding the low ones. Oh! those chairs

Beth Cheeseman leaves her mannerly ways to those who go down the stairs.

Cecil Brown gives his "not to work" ability to all geniuses: Marge Shields, Joanne Johnson, Gary Merrifield, Kenny Oyler, etc.

All the shy lower classmen are to receive Buck Klugh's "way with the ladies" tied in a lovely bundle topped by a pink ribbon.

Frankie Barr's "plugging (push, pull) ability" goes to those who plan to go on radio.

Priscilla Gregg leaves her ability to get along without Larry to all the girls. What a laugh

To the teachers, who are inaudibly clapping their hands with joy, we just leave.

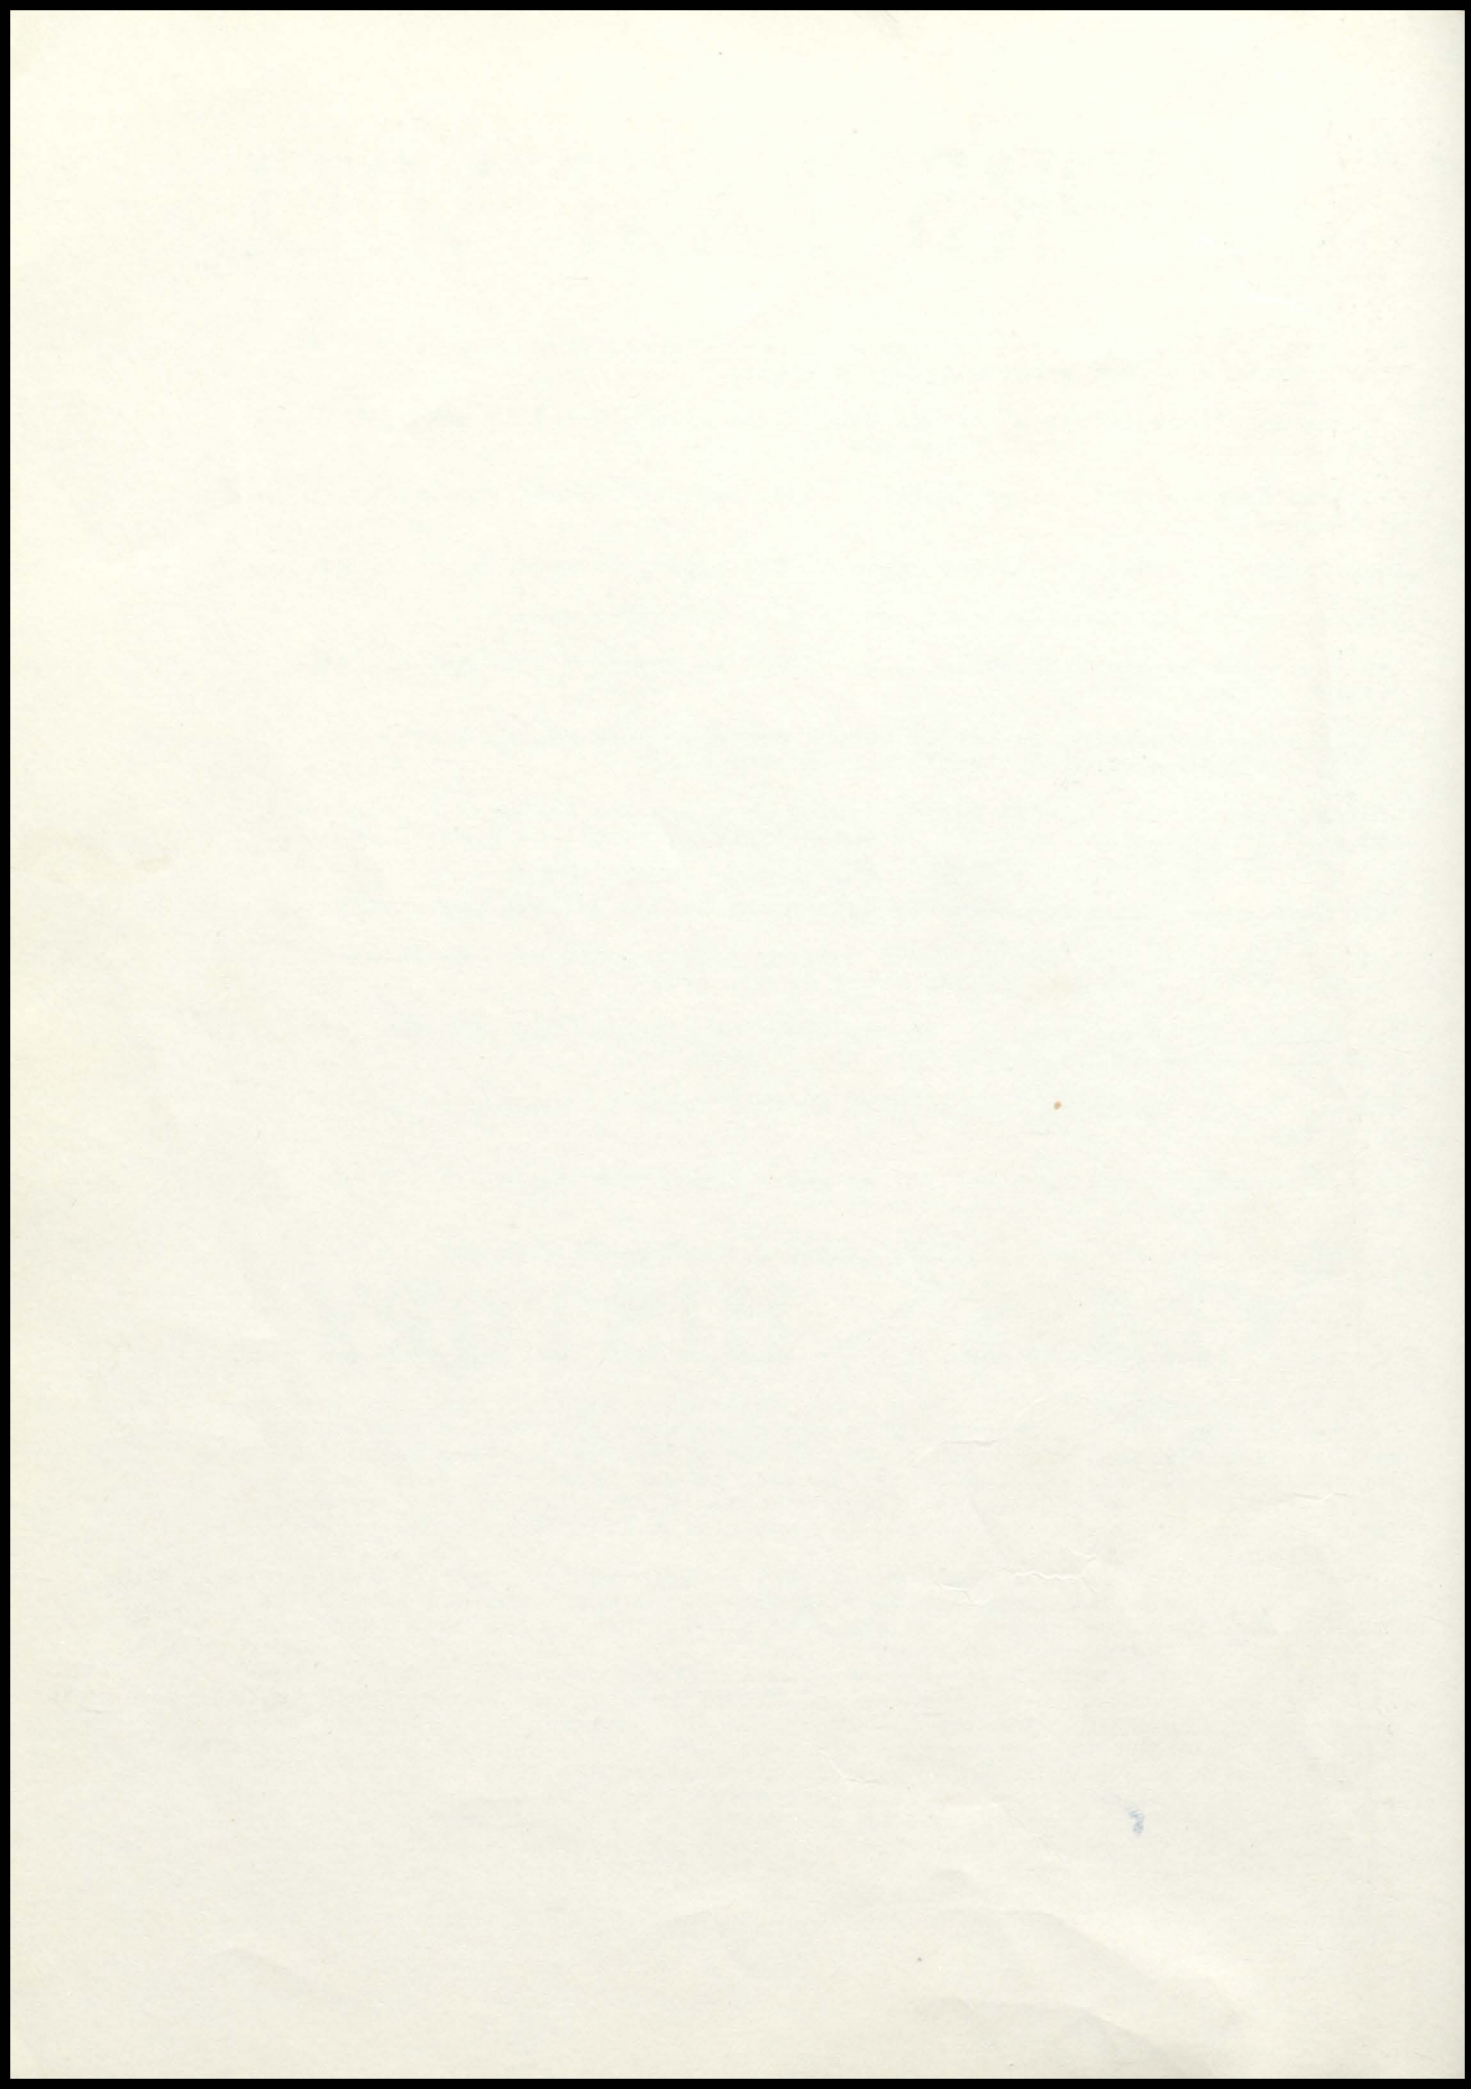

CLASS \ HISTORY

At the beginning of our Freshman year, September, 1949, 23 freshmen awaited initiation from the Sophomores. This was celebrated by carrying books home, giving upper classmen the right-of-way on the sidewalks, putting green ink Fs on our foreheads, and wearing big green bows in our hair. The Class took a great part in social activities of the school. Ginger Shields was our candidate for the Homecoming Football Queen and Louise Avery Candidate for the Junior Carnival Queen.

During our 10th year our Class enrollment dropped to 17. Beth Cheeseman was chosen Junior Carnival Queen. Ginger Shields was a Candidate for Sweetheart Queen. Buck Klugh was awarded an athletic pin for having the most improved physique after the summer vacation.

The 11th grade brought with it some of the biggest events of the year. We held the Junior Carnival in February and Ginger Shields was chosen Queen but due to her illness with the measles Jon Burke her manager was crowned. Rich Tinsley was elected Homecoming Football King. We worked hard on the Junior-Senior Prom which was held in May. We also purchased class rings.

Our last year in school was a very successful one. The Class worked hard on several money making projects during the year. The proceeds went for our Skip Day. Priscilla Gregg was chosen Football Queen by the team and Jack Acree as King. Priscilla Gregg was a candidate for the Junior Carnival and Jack Acree was chosen her manager. Our class play was held in April and the Senior Dance early in the Spring. Graduation exercises were held June 2, 1953.

CLASS PROPHECY '53

In a sumptuous palace on the moon, year 1975, the senior class of '53 is assembled for the reading of the last will and testament of Frankie Barr, the moon's richest woman.

Seated around the round table (all tables are round since Marge Morgan became a leading furniture designer) the seniors await the reading.

Robert Dunn, the lawyer, rattles paper officialy. Next to him is Jon Burke with his geiger counter. It is the same one he has been using in twenty years of prospecting. Louise Avery, "femme fatale" of the theater talks with Priscilla Gregg, the successful author of "How to Catch, Keep and Lose a Man". She gained experience from eight successful marriages. A policewoman, Ginger Shields, is contemplating the vacant seat beside her, not knowing that the parson who vacated it at Ginger's arrival was Kathleen Harms, a leading pick-lock. Jack Acree has managed to do as little as possible in spite of being the head of the mint for ten years.

al get a charge out of this

Beside Acree is Dictator Cecil Brown. Dictator Brown, ruler of the moon is here for the reason that his plans to control the United States needs financial backing. Brown whispers to Master Spy Beth Cheeseman:

"I probably won't inherit a cent, but my new law goes into effect tomorrow. It claims all inheritances for the 'National Treasury'".

Buck Klugh, president of Harvard, Marge Morgan, and Joan Caughman, inventor of the philosophy "Moderation in all Things" complete the group.

Lawyer Dunn speaks, "Quiet everybody," and draws out the will, "The will reads: All my property on moon and earth is to be divided equally among the Seniors of '53, except for Cecil Brown, to whom I leave a well deserved copy of Crime and Punishment."

"But here is the catch. Frankie Barr sold all her property and hid the money in this house. If we don't find that money before twelve tonight, Dictator Brown will claim all in taxes."

All is turmoil as the search begins. Jon Burke is frantically trying to adjust his geiger counter to the tune of money. With dainty motions Louise Avery lifts rugs. Buck Klugh forgets his scholarly dignity and rips open sofa cushions. Joan Caughman practices moderation in thinking as Dictator Brown and the Master Spy relax. Kathleen Harms searches for a handy safe while quietly avoiding the lady cop. Jack Acree has disappeared.

At eleven all is black despair. No money to be found. Then Acree arrives with his scent trained rabbits.

He announces, "I will, for 20%, set my rabbits on the trail."

Cries of mercenary arise, but the voice of wisdom speaks.

"I think it is better to give Acree part of the money than to give Brown all of it." thus says Marge Morgan, "So let the rabbits try."

The rabbits sniff the air and are off.

"I don't see how those ridiculous animals can find money", remarks Louise as she polishes her nails.

Quiet, demands Acree, "Of course they can smell money, didn't I train them myself?"

The rabbits return to the room and dramatically hop to the window seat occupied by the Master Spy. Underneath is found a large safe.

"But there is only ten minutes left and we don't have the combination." This intelligent observation was made by Ginger Shields.

"Tut" remarks the pick-lock, "May I offer my services for 25%?"

"Brigandage!" yells the always scholarly Klugh.

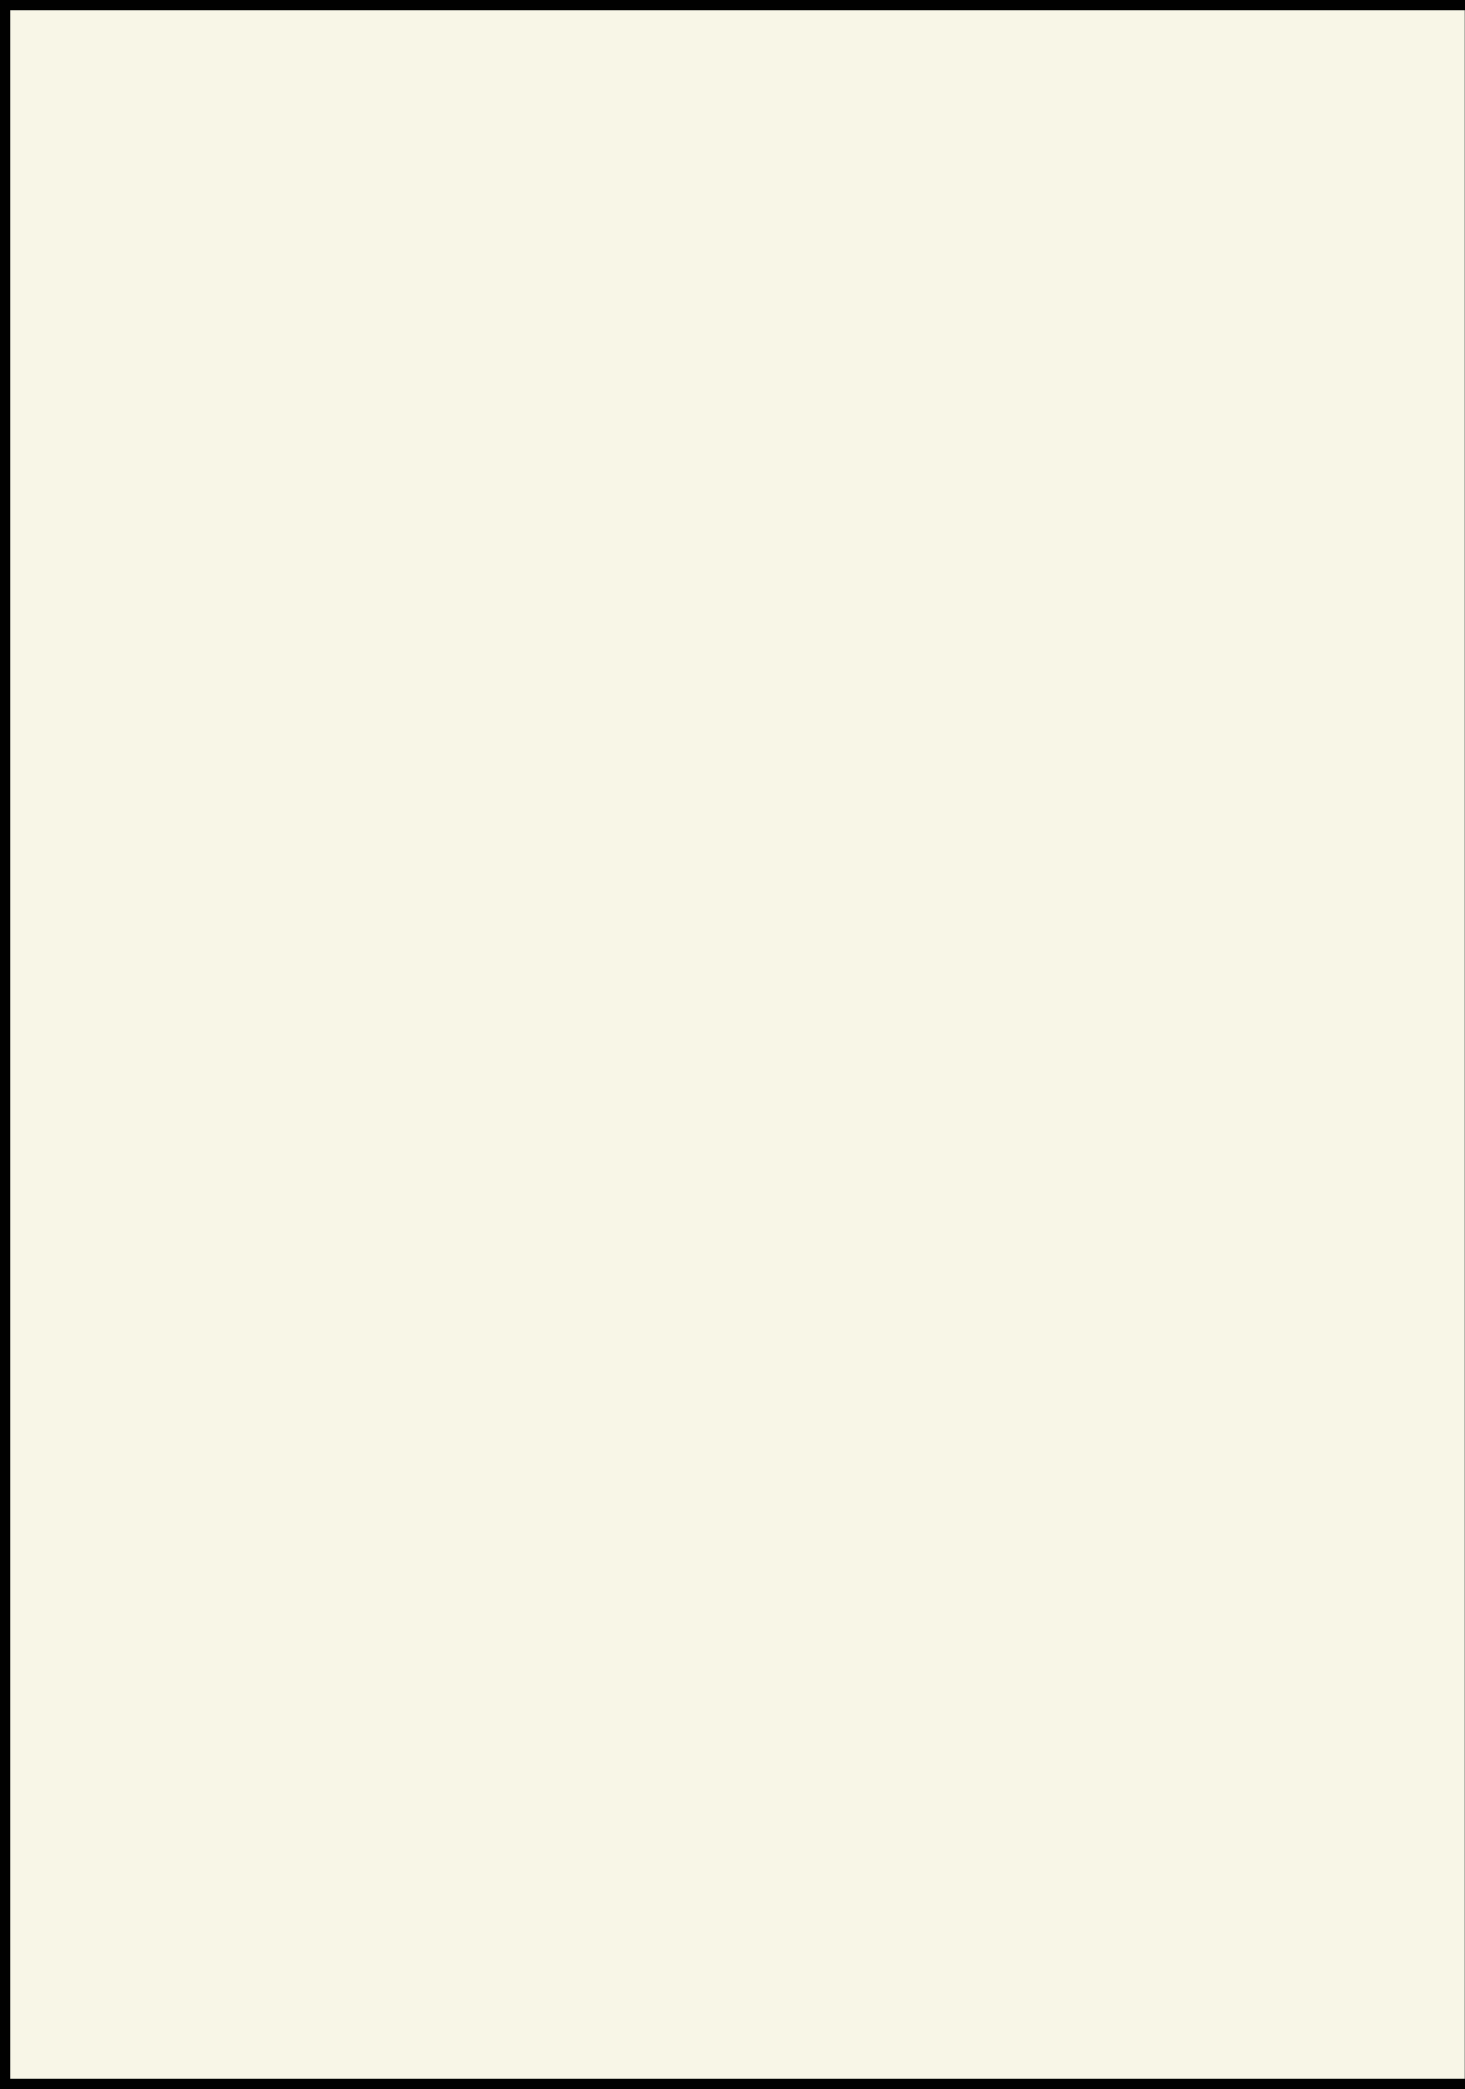

"Do we want part of our money or not?" asks Joan Caughman who believes in moderated money anyway.

It is reluctantly decided to hire the pick-lock. The safe is opened to reveal millions. Everyone is petrified, except the rabbits who manage a light lunch of bills before being restrained by some irate seniors.

The fees are paid, money divided, and a motion made and seconded that the class hole up so as to use combined brains and resources to give the red-horned gentleman a bloody bad time when he comes to burn it. They may not be able to take it with them, but they intend to stay with it.

All, that is, except a wealthy pick-lock who left shortly followed by one policeman and two money tracing rabbits.

THE MORAL IS: Money may not buy everything, but not many people are interested in just everything.

The story takes place in the Colorado mountains. The scene is Green Valley which is a paradise of nature. The land is owned by the Berry family and Grandpa Berry himself staked out the claim way back in the gold rush days. But it seems that Eldon Berry, who is the last of the family, is going to lose the land to the scheming Tobias J. Everheel. Tobias knows that if he gets the land, he is gaining plenty, because everything on the land is growing to excessive sizes. Even Minnie, Eldon's cow, is giving rare milk, Milk that makes those who drink it see people who were supposed to have been dead years ago. Namely, the old Berry family.

This seems hard to believe but Prim Stokes, Eldon's girl, is the first to experience the vision. The longdead Lonesome Berry abruptly materializes, plants a kiss on her lips, and beckons her away. Everheel didn't believe in the milk until Prudence, a witch-girl from the Golden Days led him to the Magic Garden of Green Valley. Martha Mears of the local Historical Society thought it was a farce until it was almost too late.

The story moves a disturbed life around Everheel's tractor,, which Tinker is continually fixing or finding the fuel pump for.

The family all comes back to help Eldon win his land from Everheel, which they do successfully to a happy ending.

ALUMNI

The Alumni Association was founded December 20th, 1932, when a group of Alumni who were enjoying a dinner dance decided to make it a permanent organization. They decided that the purpose of the organization would be to help and cooperate with the school in as many ways as possible.

The McGinnis Awards are presented each year at the Commencement Exercises to the outstanding boy and girl of the senior class. Scholarship, Effort, Cooperation, Athletic Value to the School, Sportsmanship and Popularity are considered when choosing the persons who will receive this high honor. A permanent record of McGinnis Award Winners is being compiled and following is a list, to date, of the available names of the recipients. At one time it was not necessary to be a senior class member to win.

All of the play-off games had their tense moments. Crowley was ahead of the Demons in the third quarter as was Carbondale. A tight game with Dolores was won in an overtime period. Buena Vista lost only one game to a superior and heavier Wellington.

This year the Demons started out in high with 22 boys, to set a new scholastic record for Buena Vista. Their first fourteen games were all victories and only two out of the remaining five games were defeats, which gave us a season record of seventeen out of nineteen games won.

The Buena Vista Demons beat Climax at Climax, Climax had not been beaten on their home floor for four years. The Demons then went on to win the West Central League Championship, for the first time since 1938.

The team went to Alamosa for the annual District and Regional tournaments, and after winning over Blanca, Creede, and Mosca, won the Championship and also the privilege to represent this Region in the Denver State Tournament. We were very proud of the honors our boys took at the tournament. Buck, Jon, Cecil, and Donnie were chosen to be on the All Star team, and Buck and Jon were chosen the most outstanding players along with one Mosca boy. The biggest thrill, however, was when Captain Roy Little stepped up and received the golden Championship Trophy.

This is the first time in history that the Buena Vista Demons have won the Alamosa Tournament, and we sincerely hope our team can win in the Denver State Tournament.

This Class has been handicapped throughout the year. The class is made up of five girls. With such a small number to work with, it is hard to have sufficient teams to play many games. The class went target practicing the first period of the year and played a little tennis. Later we learned a few things about football. The winter months were spent learning the fundamentals of basketball. Early in the spring, tumbling was started This class was directed by Mr. Andreas.

PEP CLUB

"A" Cheerleaders, Beth, Sylvia and Louise

"B" Cheerleaders, Kay, Winona, and Chee Chee

The first meeting of the Pep Club was held on September 8, 1952, at which time the activities of the year began to get under way.

During football season, the club staged several snake dances and rallies. Homecoming was held on October 10 and the freshmen were very nice to get wood for the bonfire the night before. Priscilla Gregg was elected football queen by the team. A Homecoming dance was held that evening at the Community House.

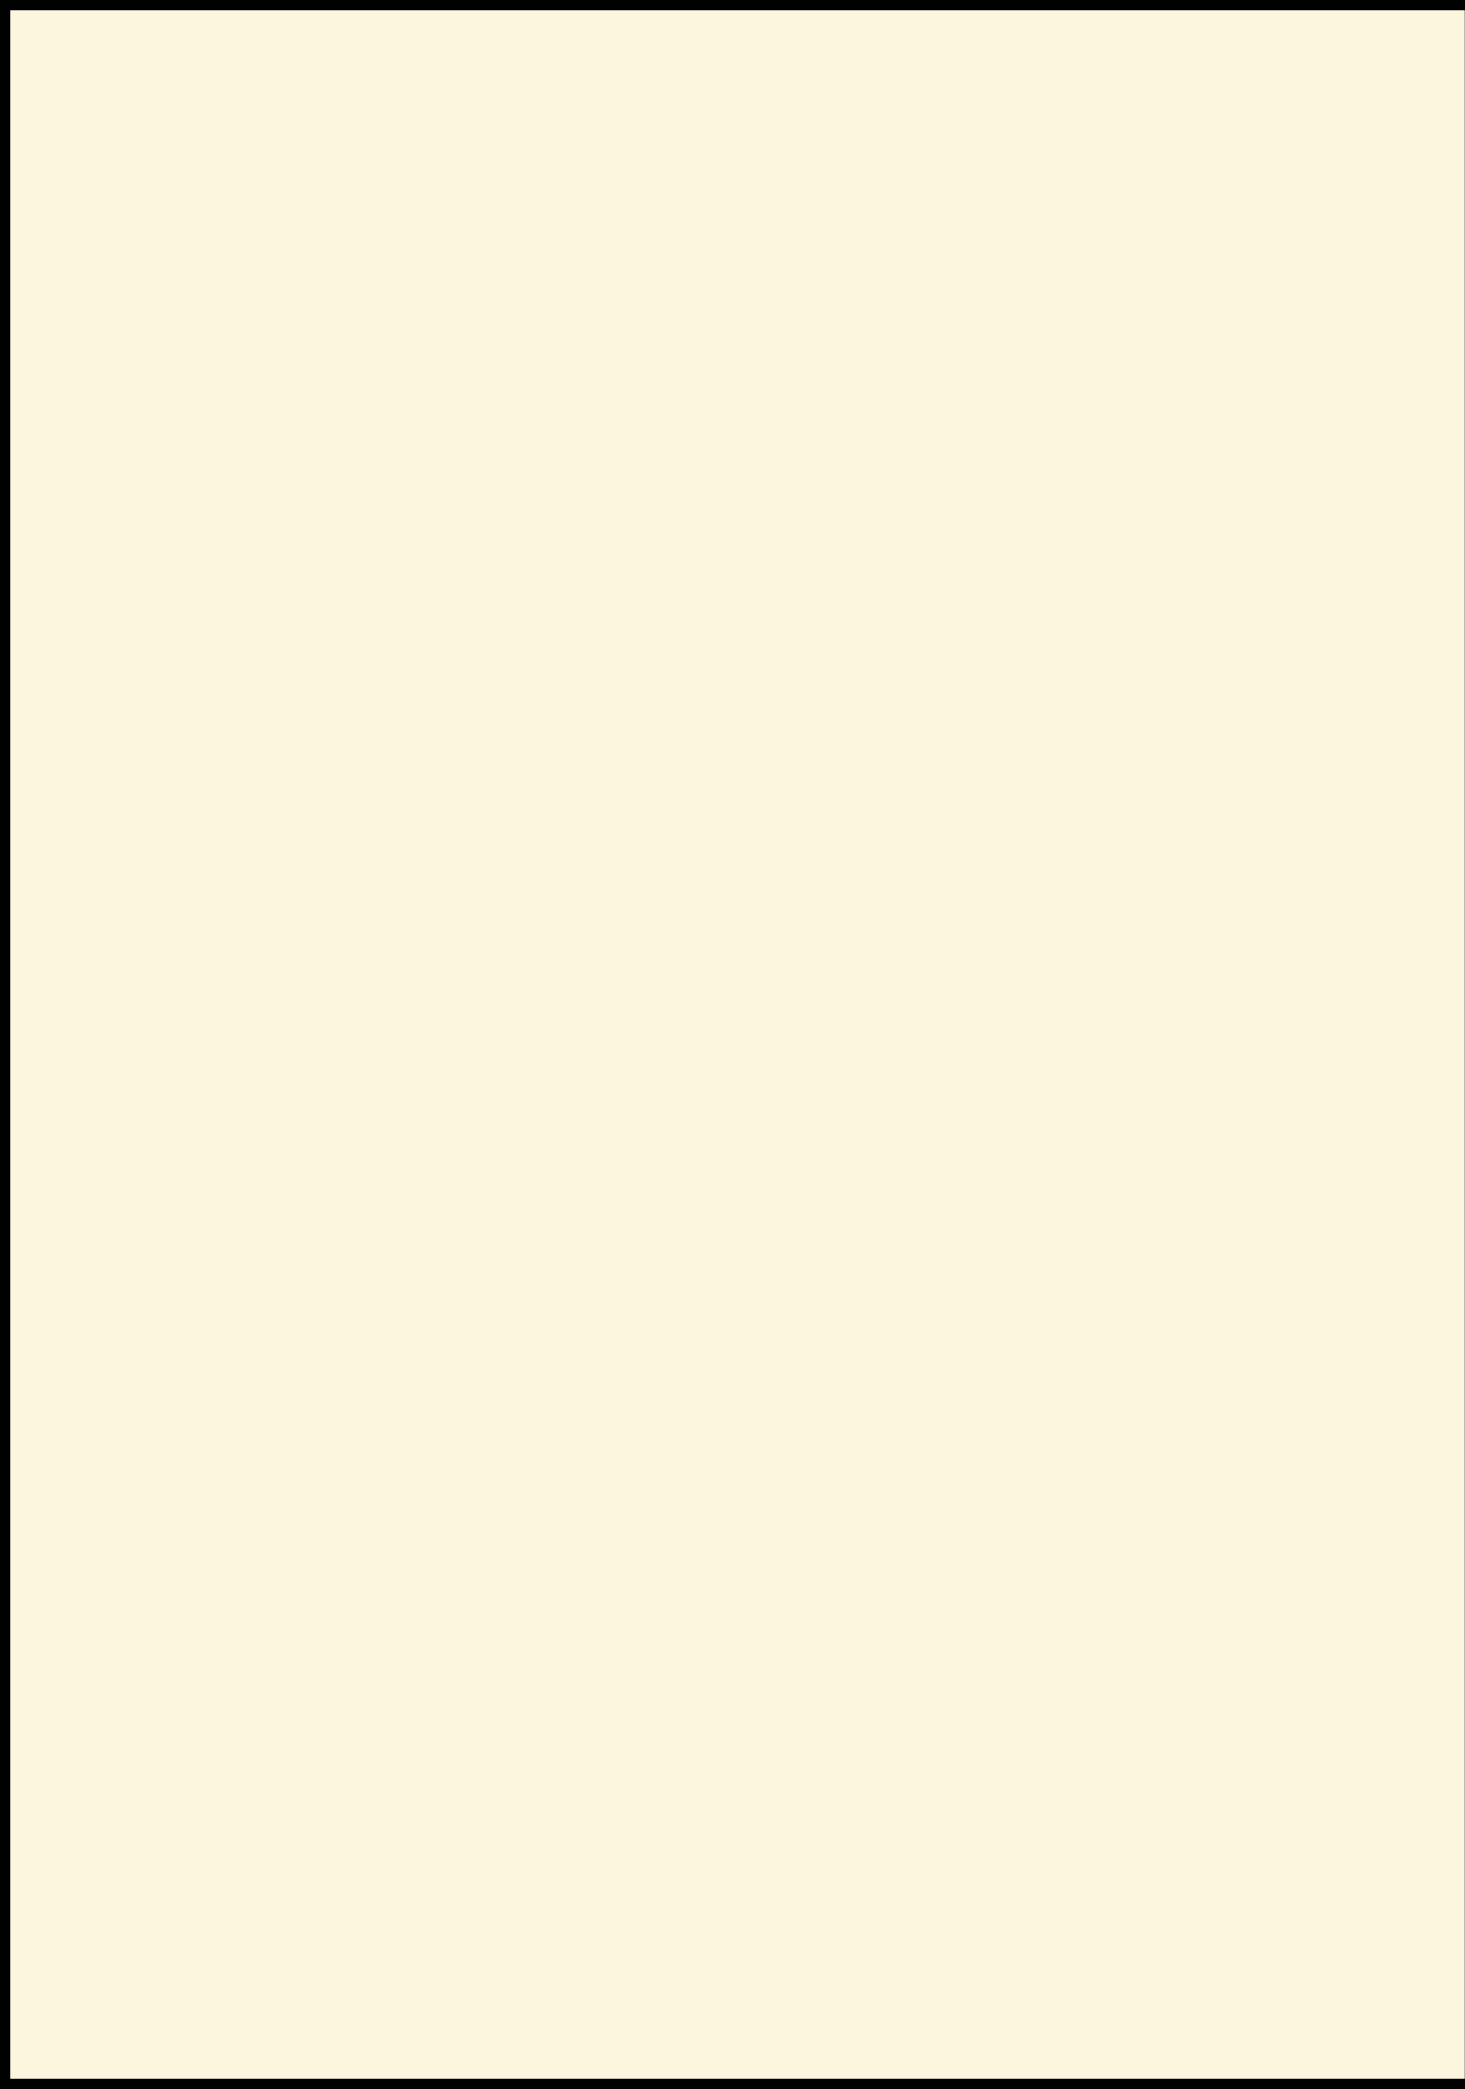

The Pep Club was very supporting at the games during the whole year.

RADIO CLUB

The radio club is primarily for those who are interested in the field of electronics. During the year, several boys began the construction of radio receivers. The purpose of the radio club is to teach fundamental theory and help develop a very interesting hobby.

LUNCH ROOM

The end of this year marks the fifth year of the hot lunch program in the Buena Vista Schools.

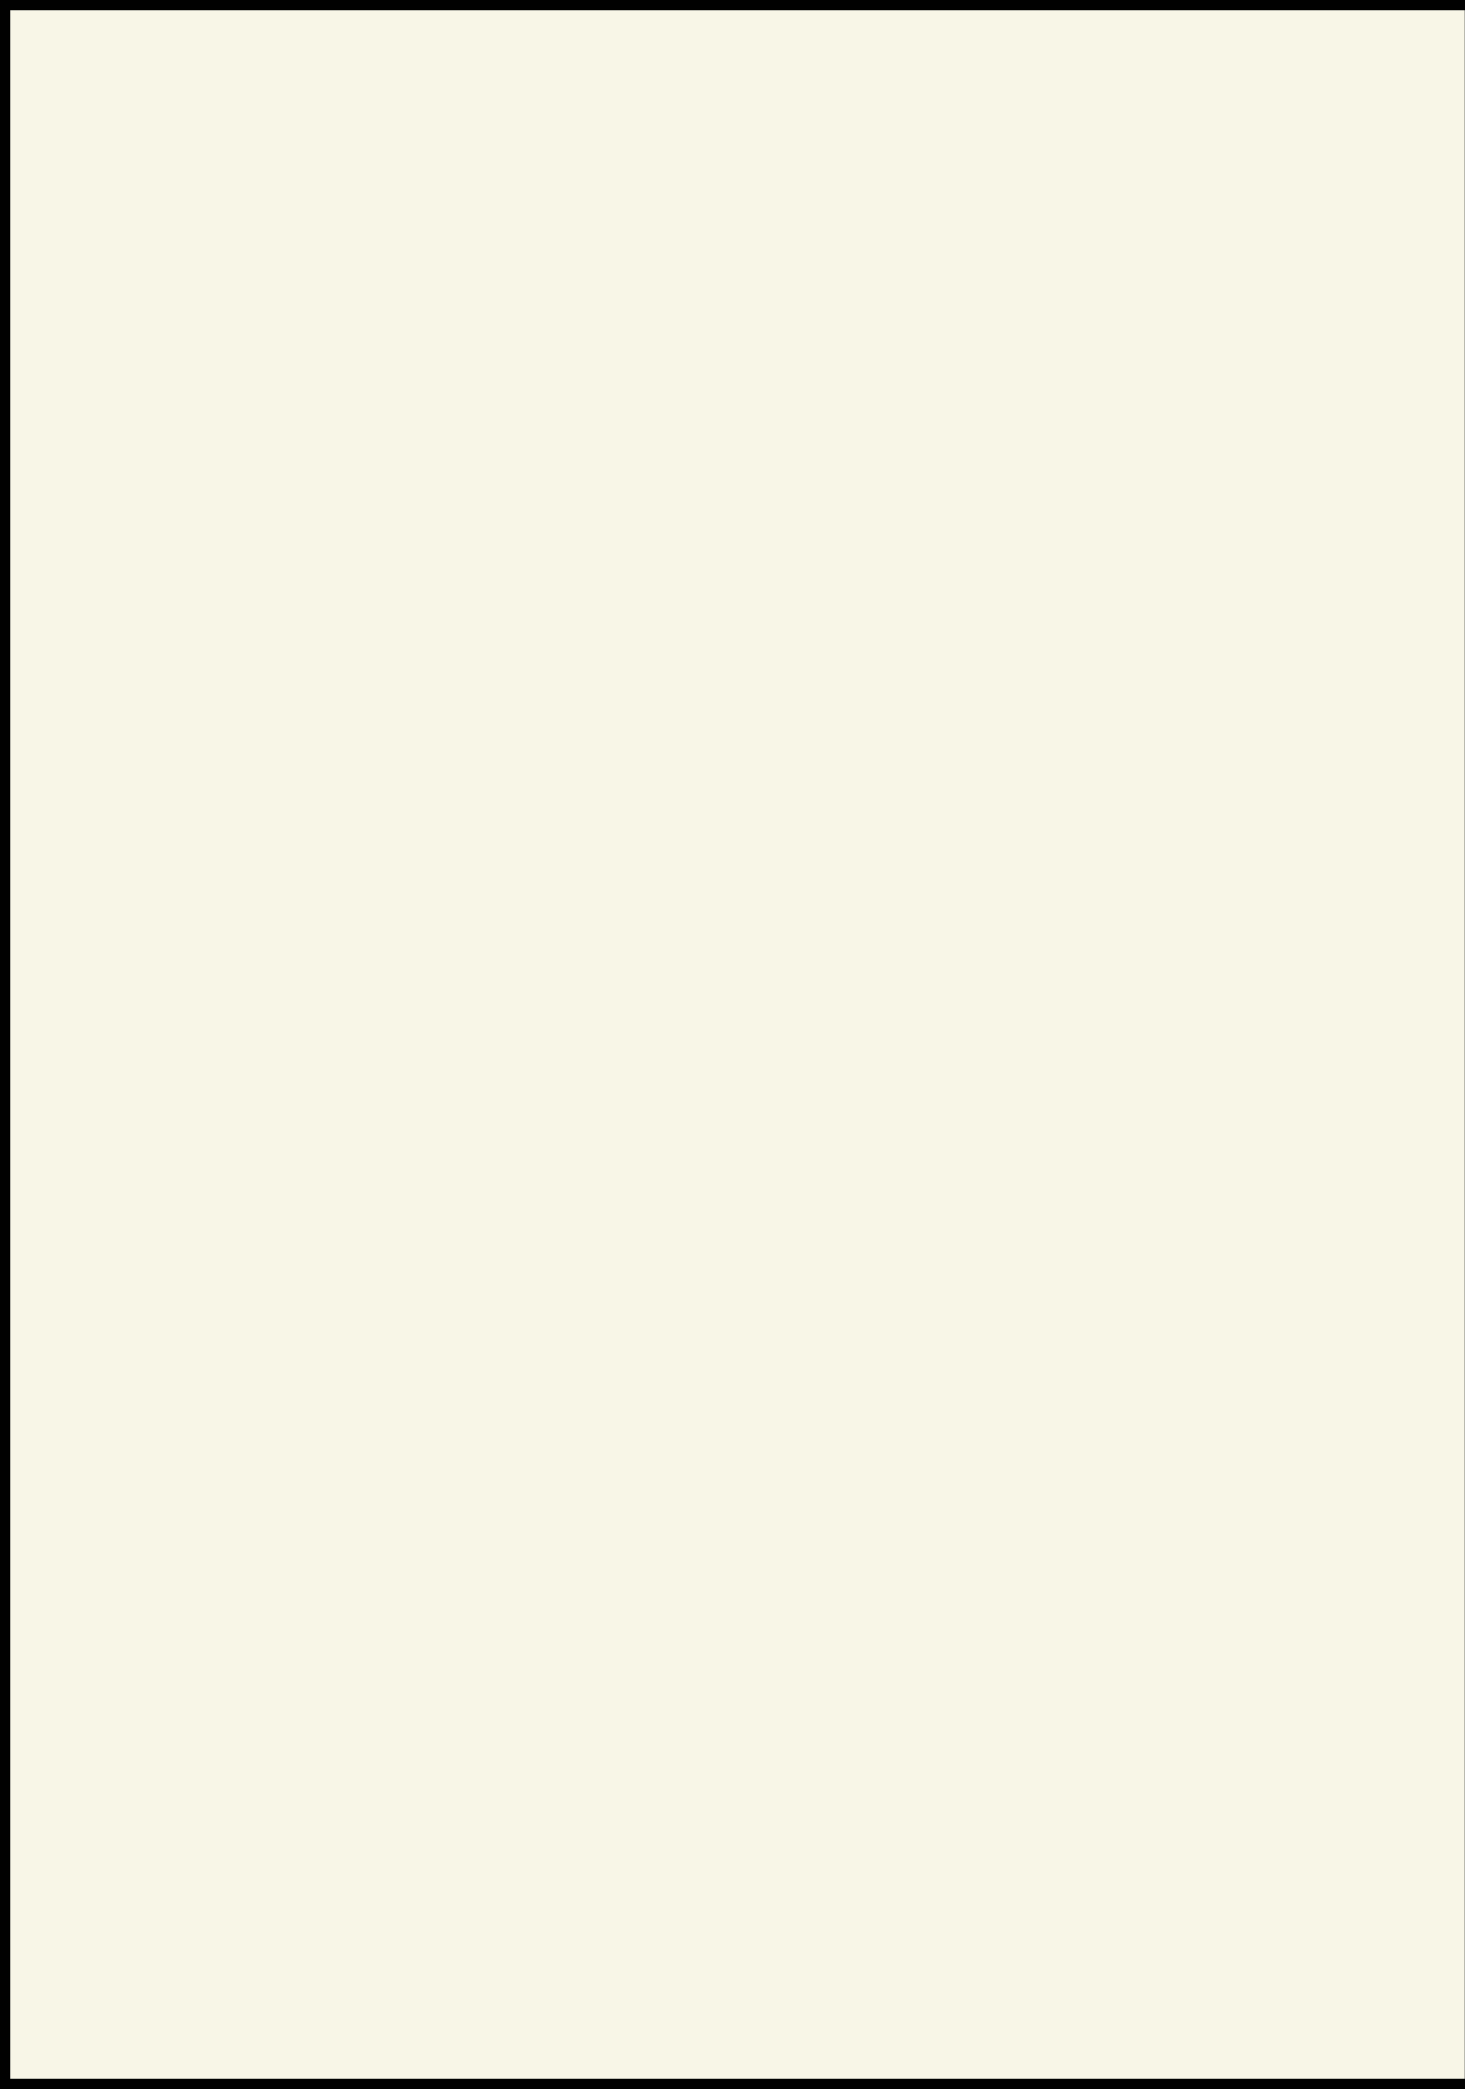

Mrs. Carl Schutz and Mrs. Howard Allinger are in charge of the department with Mr. Andreas as supervisor in charge. The Board of Education sponsors the project.

An average of 114 pupils and adults eat in the lunch room daily. The children pay 20 cents and the adults pay 30 cents per meal, which affords a well-balanced meal.

We wish to thank Mrs. Schutz and Mrs. Allinger for the wonderful job of cooking they have done for us during the year.
