Day Session Enrollment Near 1000

Campus Slated For Additions; New Dorm and Gym To Be Built

The Wagner campus has cocked a wary eye at various and sundry surveyors and engineers in the past year, and has figuratively fingered its face, looking forward with some trepidation to the rumored changes in its contour. For almost a year, the status quo of the Grymes Hill topography has been menaced by the threat of new construction. The threat, however, is still confined to the drawing boards of the engineers where final blueprints are still in the process of evolution.

Plans for future buildings are being approved by the Board of Trustees as fast as the engineers can turn them out. The Board recently passed a priority for an annex to Cunard Hall. This annex will enlarge kitchen and refrigeration facilities, and will provide more dining room space.

Final plans for a new gymnasium and a new women's dormitory are being completed. When the new gym is constructed, the present one will be used exclusively for chapel. South Hall, originally intended for the use of the men, will be made available to them upon completion of the new women's dormitory.

Foremost among the changes in the interior and on the exterior of the present buildings is the rearrangement and refurnishing of the Guild-den. The counter has been moved forward several feet, and the partition has been removed. (Now Mr. Viohl knows what his right hand is doing.) New tables have been added, and the room has been considerably brightened up.

Aspiring athletes need no longer suffer the mental hazard of an uphill climb on the athletic field. The weary sag in the south corner of the field was buoyed up in the grading process which leveled the field. A further improvement included the construction of a baseball diamond at the north end.

Cunard Hall was dressed up in a new coat of paint and the surrounding grounds were landscaped. A few other minor repairs have added to the durability of our oldest building.

Space-minded Wagnerites are looking forward with longing to the advent of the new buildings. Ground-breaking ceremonies can't begin too soon to please them.

Notice

The first meeting of the Wagner College Student Association will take place in the Wagner College Auditorium, Wednesday, October 6 at 09:45.

All students are urged to attend and take an interest in affairs which directly concern them.

10% of Students Make Dean's List For Spring Term

The Dean's Honor List for the 1948 Spring Semester was released last summer, and it was revealed that more than 10% of the students attained a grade of B or better in all their courses.

A total of 123 students who carried 12 or more semester hours earned the honor of having their names placed on the list.

Drop In Enrollment Of New Students Caused By Quota Cut, Qualifications; Dormitory Facilities To Be Expanded

Approximately 1000 students were enrolled in Wagner day session in September, 1948. Enrollment figures show a slight drop in the number of new students. According to Dean Bacher, the drop in enrollment was caused by the reduction of the new student quota.

The pressure of enrollment, evidenced during the last two years, is still straining the facilities of Wagner as hundreds of new students were admitted this term. In addition to the class of '52, which accounts for most of the new registration, many transferees from other colleges and universities throughout the country have been admitted. In the nursing division, a new class of 15 students has started training.

College Council Apportions Funds For SA Subsidies

The College Council, at its first meeting of the year held last Friday, succeeded in apportioning to the organizations subsidized by the Student Association their share of the SA Fund.

Mr. Laucella made the following appointments of student councilmen to the respective boards: Traditions, Ken Salvesen; Dramatics, Margaret Christie; Publications, Gerry Chirumbolo; Debate, Robert Winckler. The Councilman for Religious Activities will be the Freshman Councilman, who is yet to be elected.

Under the heading of unfinished business, the matter of expenditures by subsidized organizations for the entertainment of their members was brought up. A committee set up at the end of the last year made the following recommendation for a policy to be followed in these matters: "Only such student expenses as are related to the activities of the board shall be approved by the board."

Chaplain Kirsch was elected President pro tempore of the Council until such time as a successor to Mr. Markham can be elected.

Graduate Record Exam Scheduled; Registration Deadline Next Thursday

A graduate record examination, to determine the standing of a graduating student in his major field, will be given in Wagner College Oct. 25 and 26, it was announced today by Dr. John Crawford, director of guidance in the school.

Registration for the exam, which is required by a great many businesses and graduate schools, may be made with Dr. Crawford, in Room 7 between 10 A.M. and 3 P.M. The deadline for registration is Thursday, Oct. 7, 12 M.

Given every three months on a nationwide basis by the Educational Testing Service of Manhattan, it consists of one advanced test in the major field of study of the student and eight profile tests covering German, French, agriculture, mathematics, physics, chemistry, biological, engineering, fine arts, geology, government, history, Spanish, philosophy, and sociology.

The tests will be given in four parts covering six hours actual working time over a period of two days. They will be scored in comparison with the thousands of others taken at this time or previously. As a result of this exam, for which there is a basic fee of $10, the participant will receive a personal report; and the marks scored, upon the request of the student, will be sent to three institutions or businesses to which he or she wishes to apply.

The new enrollment figures indicate a drop in veteran enrollees. There are now 514 veterans enrolled at Wagner. There are, at present, 67 eighteen year-olds enrolled (in good physical condition). The males still greatly outnumber the females.

The social and educational aspects of college life were explained in lectures by upperclass students and faculty members. The functions of the fraternities were explained and the traditions of the school emphasized. A picnic and dance were also featured.

Vet Village Menaced by Federal Law; Langsam Appeal Upheld by City Board

Dr. Walter C. Langsam has succeeded in his first step for saving the Wagner campus homes of 115 student veterans and families from demolition as required by federal law, when the Board of Estimate passed a resolution to ask the government to transfer ownership of its buildings to Wagner.

Under the Lanham Act, all buildings constructed as temporary housing for veterans of World War II must be destroyed not later than June 1, 1950 unless transfer of the buildings is supported by the local governing body upon the request of the school; however, before Wagner can assume ownership of the building on its grounds, the Departments of Fire, Housing and Buildings must approve the change. President Langsam stated in his written request to the board that destruction of the buildings under section 313 of the Lanham Act would work "... tremendous hardships ..." upon the occupants.

The president urged the board to adopt his proposed resolution in time for a copy to be filed with the Federal Housing Authority before Oct. 28, 1948, the deadline set by federal law. The college feels that under present conditions the buildings will be needed to house veterans for some time to come.

Other colleges in the metropolitan area are faced with the same problem, and having filed similar claims with the Fire, Buildings and Housing Departments along with that of Wagner's; and, if these departments find no objections, action on the resolutions will probably begin early next month.

Debate Society Discusses Plans

The Debate Society held its first meeting of the year on Tuesday, Sept. 28, in the Ad Building to discuss plans for the coming season.

A committee consisting of five members was chosen to draw up a tentative schedule for the 1948-49 season. The Debaters hope that they will be able to debate all the colleges in the New York City area.

The topic this year for the colleges throughout the country is, "Federal Aid to Education." In conjunction with the national topic, the group will discuss the question, "Should Parochial Schools receive State Aid," at the next meeting to be held October 7. Bob Vetter and Alan Leidig will discuss this question before the group.

Twenty students attended the first meeting and the Society hopes more students will be present at the next meeting. Faculty advisers are the Professors Giessman and Moss.

Alpha To Sponsor Annual Free Formal Tomorrow

Alpha Sigma Phi Fraternity of Wagner College will sponsor its traditional Free Fall Formal which will be held tomorrow night, October 2, in the Auditorium. The theme of the dance will be "Cardinal and Stone."

"Lefty" Gearhart, president of the fraternity, announced that music will be furnished by the Modernaires. Dancing will begin at 8:30 P.M. and will continue until midnight.

This dance has been an annual Alpha affair for the past 20 years.

Editorial

Registration Snafu

Most of us are profoundly glad that registration comes but twice a year. After being exposed to the atrocious mis-management of the last registration, we think we are due for a solid reform.

We can all acclimate ourselves to necessary evils, but the evils of registration are completely unnecessary. It is not hard to understand why. Prior to registration, each student receives notification of the time he or she is to come. If this notification were followed, registration would proceed smoothly and efficiently with a minimum of delay.

Yet, inconsiderate students, ever obsessed with the insufferable notion of primacy, rush to be the first to enroll in their various classes. This inconsiderate attitude gives rise to a distinct unfairness to seniors and juniors who often find needed classes closed, and to others who appear at their scheduled time only to find a horde of "first signers" blocking progress.

The students are not alone to blame. The administration's laxity in enforcing the schedule it creates is as much a cause of the confusion and delay as is the students' attitude.

The reform is a simple one. An administration representative can control the entrance of students to the auditorium, admitting no one who attempts to register before the scheduled time without special permission.

Let's hope that this Spring we can register without unnecessary, unpleasant delay.

Bouquets and Discomforts

It is not often that we get a chance to toss editorial bouquets, so we will take advantage of this one to laud the administration on the intended and effected campus improvements and to sing the praises of the students who quietly put up with inadequate facilities.

Last December, the Board of Trustees announced an ambitious program for the construction of new buildings at Wagner. This action was highly commendable, for, with the burning of the last mortgage at Commencement, the Board of Trustees found the college free of debt for the first time in its history. It would have been a simple matter for the Board to maintain the status quo. However, they chose to remove the limitations imposed upon the college by space and to allow it to expand. Expansion will add materially to the educational possibilities of the college and to the comfort of its present student body. By voting for expansion, they performed a service to higher education in making the college available to more students in the future. We are also grateful to the administration for its attempts to beautify the campus. Hats off, then, to the administration!

Our hats are also off to the students who quietly endured the discomforts caused by a lack of adequate facilities. We all know that we are cramped for space, and it is nowhere more apparent than in the Guil-den. However, the arrival of a shipment of chairs now permits the opening of the Guil-den annex. With the opening of the annex, crowded conditions should be considerably lessened. We still admire the admirable, patient submission of students to an heretofore uncomfortable situation.

JUST ASKING

Question: What was your opinion of last week's football game between Wagner and Panzer?

Claire St. Leger: The team was very promising and we should have a good season.

Richard Debus: It was a very good game and the errors made were natural under the circumstances. It looks like the best team Wagner has had in a long time.

Lefty Gearhart: It was a well played game, and with improvements, the team will be a lot tougher for their opponents than they were last year.

Flo Kaldin: The team looked better than it did last season and there was a great deal more spirit. Jim Lee looked as if he had had just as good a workout as the team.

Trygve Tonneson: I thought the line was very good both defensively and offensively. The pass defense was weak and nearly cost us the game.

John Thomson: The team needs bigger and taller men in the back-field. The running and passing plays should be better distributed.

CLUBS

Inter Frat

The Inter-Fraternity Council met this week and set Monday, December 13, as the tentative date for the Council's annual Christmas party.

The group announced that "Silence Week" a period set aside in which there is to absolutely no contact between fraternity-sorority members and non-members, will fall this semester from November 29-December 3.

It was also decided that there would be a pre-homecoming game bonfire on Friday night, November 5. The council discussed improvements for the Inter-Fraternity room in North Hall.

The council will meet next on Thursday, October 14, during Chapel period.

Cercle Francais

The Cercle Francais will begin meeting next Tuesday, October 5 at 7:30 p.m. in Cunard Hall.

The organization will follow last year's format of entertainment and education, with the accent (French, of course), on movies at school and in Manhattan, lectures, games and dancing.

Mr. Gerald E. Dalton, member of the English department and instructor in French will give a brief talk about Egypt, where he lived recently.

Deutscher Verein

The Deutscher Verein invites everyone to its yearly kick-off party at the Stork's Nest on Tuesday, October 5 at 8.30 p.m.

Most of the hill's fraternities and sororities have started the season's activities, while the remainder will be off and winging this week.

All organization representatives are urged to put information about their group's activities in the Wagnerian mail box.

THE HILLTOPPER

My Friend, McGonnigle
by Ed Megerian

During the recent fracas, my childhood friend, with mentality to match, was stationed for a time near Madison, Wisconsin. The boy was attending radio school and the post exchange where he majored in Morse and Maltededs respectively. Although Ralph had been in the service for less than a year, and already had one furlough behind him, he was sure he was due for another. After hounding his first sergeant until that brave man began thinking he should have enlisted in the German army, Ralph received permission to speak to the C.O. about a furlough. Soon Ralph was ushered into the presence of the important man.

When Ralph decided the session was ended, he and his three day pass withdrew from the office leaving behind a weak, nervous, and badgered Captain of the United States Army. Ralph now prepared to go home to mother and dad and an attractive little blonde who got that trapped feeling whenever he came into view.

In the afternoon Ralph had one last bit of preparing to do. A week before he had taken the uniform he intended to wear on his journey to a dry cleaning establishment in Madison. This afternoon he would pick it up.

By now Ralph was standing in the Orderly Room before the sergeant's desk wearing that "I'd like to have a pass" look on his smallish face.

"No, McGonnigle! No pass! Why man, you're gettin' a three day pass startin' tomorrow. Ain't that enough? Seems to me you . . ."

"But sergeant, I got to have my uniform. It's all pressed. It's waitin' for me. I won't have time tomorrow. Got a schedule to keep. Everything's all planned out. No wasted movements. Gotta go in today. Why can't I have a pass? You buy that shirt in town?"

"No, at the P.X. It cost me . . . never mind my shirt! You already had your quota of passes for the month. I can't give ya a pass everytime ya want one. Where do ya think you are, at some Country Club?"

"I'll go talk to the C.O. Can I have a pass if he sees things my way?"

Ralph was headed for the door when the man behind the desk broke down.

Private McGonnigle was almost ready to journey into Madison when his brain cells came up with, what Private Mack thought, was a brainstorm. The month was September and the weather was as hot as the mid-west could make it. If he went into town the way he was dressed, by the time he returned to the Post the shirt he was wearing would be soiled. Why waste it? Ralph took off the shirt, folded it carefully and stowed it away in his foot locker. From that same foot locker he took a T shirt and put it on. Then he threw a towel around his neck and donned his Eisenhower jacket pushing the towel down into the jacket so that he resembled a prize-fighter wearing half a bathrobe. He placed his garrison cap on his head and set out for Madison.

Twenty minutes later, McGonnigle came within sight of his objective. The shop which housed his uniform lay just across the traffic-mad street. Ralph had the traffic light with him so he stepped off the sidewalk and started across. Just then, somewhere behind him, he heard a deep voice boom, "Hey soldier!" The light began to change from a protective red to an "open season on pedestrians" green, so Ralph broke into a run wondering if that shout had been meant for him. When he reached the other side he turned to look back across the street, but his vision was cut off by arm bearing the message "M.P." The message and the arm ultimately delivered him to the goal.

That same evening, a happy sergeant trumpeted the good news to his companions and shouted, "Boys, everything ya eat and drink tonight is on me."

McGonnigle was gone!

SPORTS CORNER

by Ken Laucella

As autumn takes over where summer left off and the pig-skin replaces the horsehide in the hearts of sports-minded fans, the legends of countless gridiron greats are brought to mind and told and then retold wherever football fans congregate.

Who can ever forget the almost legendary stories about Red Grange, the swift, illusive Illinois back who blazed up and down gridirons with flashing broken-field pyrotechnics that many say have never been equaled, especially in that memorable game against Michigan, when the "big red" just about singlehandedly ran roughshod over a great Wolverine eleven. He personally accounted for six touchdowns on runs varying from forty to eighty yards. That day, more than any other, the Red was a gridiron phantom, a will-o-the-wisp in football togs who was unbeatable.

Who can ever forget the tales of the wild Bronc of the striped sod, Nagurski, who brought fear into the hearts of opposing linemen by his almost devastatingly inhuman plunging and blocking. When Bronco threw a block or gouged a line, woe be unto the unfortunate recipient of bodily contact with him. Nagurski hit with crushing force, utilizing all of the power in his thick, powerful shoulders, and stocky, driving legs. After leaving college, the Bronc became the most feared man in the Pro ranks, and was destined to inscribe his name on the role of Pro greats.

And then there was Charley Brickley, Harvard's "magical toe-man," thirty-five years ago, the game's greatest dropkick artist, and now, one of football's immortals. No one before and no one since has ever had Charley Brickley's peculiar wizardry; a magic which enabled him to stalk calmly to midfield, drive forward with his right foot and send the ball riding through the uprights.

Yes, a long time has passed since Charley was the toast of the Cambridge campus, but his feats live on. In the first three games of the 1912 season, Brick's ever-ready right toe produced a total of 21 points. The season moved on with Harvard prevailing over all comers and Charley increasing his point total with each game. He beat a stubborn band of Hanover Indians in the closing minutes 3-0, and the next Saturday against Harvard's arch rival, the Yale Bulldogs, he twisted and squirmed 62 yards through the New Haven eleven to score a touchdown. The Brick's unbelievably reliable right foot was also in precision working order as twice he split the Yale posts with his long drop-kicks. The final tabulation showed that the grinning Irishmen had totaled 12 of victorious Harvard's 20 points.

Many later day fans are prone to think of Charley Brickley as nothing but a big right foot; especially after his great day against Yale during the 1913 season. All he did on that day was to kick five field goals out of five attempts; and this, with an eye injury which hampered his vision no end.

Well, Walter Camp had the answer for fans with one track minds concerning Brickley's all around football ability. When Camp compiled his All-American team, he selected Brickley for the fullback post.

Camp's comment is interesting: "Charles Brickley's wonderfully accurate dropkicking record speaks for itself. But on top of that, in the opinion of this observer, Brickley's line plunging, particularly off-tackle, compares favorably with his team mate, Wendell."

Incidentally, Wendell was Harvard's captain and hard-charging line plunger, whom Camp chose for one of the halfback spots on the 1912 All-American team.

As each successive football season makes its bow, more and more pigskinners are added to the already impressive list of gridiron greats; to name them is a task for a compiler of encyclopedic material, but it's great to be young and in love—with football.

Gamboling on the Gridiron

The first football game to be played in America took place in 1869, with twenty five men on each side. This contest saw Rutgers defeat Princeton 6 goals to 4. The Scarlet didn't win another game for the Tigers until Nov. 5, 1938, when captain and right end Paul Harvey, from Lynbrook, N. Y., sparked them to an upset victory.

Seahawks Open Season With Win Over Panzer

Pass From Kartalis To Drown In Final Period Wins, 14 - 12

By Lou Gianvito

Wagner College's football team christened their new Athletic Field last Saturday by coming from behind to down Panzer College, 14-12.

Jim Lee's men definitely outplayed the Panthers in the field; however, a few bad breaks cost the Seahawks at least three touchdowns and made the game uncomfortably close.

Panzer Scores First

A fumble on Wagner's first attempt to run the ball, set up the first touchdown. Recovering the ball on Wagner's 25 yard line, the Panther's took to the air, and scored with a flat pass from Dalessio to Kerr. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

The game had just started and Wagner was losing already—but how those Seahawks fought back!

Miscue Stops Wagner

Bad breaks caused the Seahawks to lose a few touchdown opportunities. A fifty yard drive led by Loggia, Sellitto, and "Choo-Choo" Scaffa was halted on Panzer's 20 when the Staten Island boys were penalized 15 yards. The same trio brought the ball to Panzer's 2 inch line on the next series of plays, but a fumble gave Panzer control of the ball. Again, a touchdown pass from "Choo-Choo" to Loggia was called back because of "illegal use of hands."

However, the Seahawks were not discouraged. A bad punt by Panzer gave Wagner still another opportunity to score and this time they capitalized. A pass from Scaffa to Drown carried the ball to the 10 yard line, from where "Big Milt" Gross, making his first appearance of the day, crashed through the middle of the line for a touchdown. He had a hole big enough to drive a herd of "Big Milts" through. Goetze converted for the all-important extra point.

Just before the end of the first half a field goal attempt by Panzer was blocked by "Forever Ample" Saks. Half time score: Wagner 7, Panzer 6.

Panzer Goes Ahead 12-7

Having found the one weak spot in Wagner's defense, Panzer began to fill the air with passes at the start of the second half.

They moved to Wagner's 30 from where a nicely executed reverse, with Koronokos carrying the ball, earned the Jersey men their second touchdown. Again the kick for the extra point was blocked—this time by towering Jim Gilmartin.

Kartalis to the Rescue

After taking the kick off, Wagner rolled to Panzer's 2 yard line, but once again failed to score. Then Chris Kartalis made his debut. He completed three out of four passes—one to Gilmartin for a first down, one to speed merchant Joe Roggenburg which brought the ball to the 4 yard line, and the last to Captain Drown for the winning touchdown.

Hawks Bid For Second Straight, First Win Over Hofstra Team

Wagner's Sea Hawks will be seeking their second consecutive victory of the 1948 season when they tackle the powerful "Flying Dutchmen" of Hofstra College here tomorrow afternoon. This will mark the third time the two schools have met on the gridiron, with the invaders boasting a record of two wins and no defeats.

Coach Jim Lee Howell and his grid team are eager to atone for the 34-0 defeat administered to Wagner by the Long Islanders last season, the only game in which Wagner failed to score a point.

Last year, Coach Jack Smith's rugged crew was simply too strong for the Green and White, as they combined a fine running and passing attack to whitewash the Howell men.

This year, however, the Dutchmen have been forced to rebuild, having lost the services of 17 members of the 1947 squad which captured the mythical metropolitan "small college" and Nassau County "Little Three" crowns. Coach Jack Smith and his assistants, "Babe" Gagemi and Harry Kurz, are confident that the veterans and newcomers from last year's frosh, plus several transfer students from Associated Colleges of Upper New York State can be welded together into a strong first eleven.

The Long Island team is sparked by a 22-year old junior, Harley Ellis, whose signal calling, running, and sharp passing were instrumental in last years' winning efforts ever Wagner, Adelphi and Kings Point. Walter Peterson, a 210 pound, six foot three end is another starter who performed brilliantly on both offense and defense last season. Teaming with him at the other flank, will be Andy Reinesch who came along fast last season. At the tackle slots are Dave Wham, a 190 pounder, and 205 pound Lester Shaffner, both veterans who saw much service last year.

The starting guards will be scrappy Tom Pierce and Martin "Red" Beckwith, Hofstra's outstanding lineman who attracted considerable attention as a candidate for "Little All-America." A converted fullback, Hy Kaplan, will hold down the regular berth at center, replacing last year's pivot man, Al Mead.

In the backfield along with Ellis will be Tom Pierce, a hard, smashing type of halfback, playing his third

X-Country Squad Lists 7 Contests

A veteran cross-country team will inaugurate a rough seven meet schedule when they go up against St. Johns and Iona in a tri-team meet at Van Cortland Park Saturday, October 9.

The Harriers compiled a perfect record in dual meets last season, winning four out of four from Brooklyn Poly, Newark College of Rutgers, C.C.N.Y. Evening Session, and Montclair Teachers. In the C.C.N.Y. Invitational meet Wagner finished third in a field of six.

Winner of all five races was Larry Fauber, the diminutive speedster from Virginia. Whether Fauber will run or not this season is to be determined as it seems he posses football aspirations. Larry has yet to finish second in any kind of race at Wagner, including the one to the bus after football practice.

Hal Scott, Fred Witte, and Remi Baechtold who all did fine work in compiling the afore-mentioned record will be back. Among the missing are Earl Arnold, last season's captain and Don Haher. Bob Mulaney and Ted Lovington, two newcomers, seem likely to take their place.

The schedule:

Oct.
9	Iona-St. Johns	Van Cortland
16	Adelphi	Clove Lake
22	Montclair	Clove Lake
30	Open
Nov.
2	Newark of Rutgers	Clove Lake
6	Brooklyn Poly	Clove Lake
11	CCNY	Van Cortland
20	CCNY Invitational	"

Pictures for '49 Kalista To Be Accepted in Nov.

Student pictures for the 1949 Kalista will be taken starting November 29, it was announced today by the Editorial Staff of the yearbook. Schedules will be posted on the bulletin board two weeks in advance.

Seniors are asked to turn in their informal snapshots as soon as possible. If you have no suitable photo, it would be greatly appreciated if you would have some taken and brought into the publications office.

Choir To Sing At Convention

The Wagner College Choir, directed by Mr. John L. Bainbridge, will be featured at a convention of the United Lutheran Church at Philadelphia on Monday, October 11.

Dorothy Krimerer, Frank Collura, and Richard Lindenberg will be the soloists. Mr. A. Eugene Ellsworth will provide the organ accompaniment.

A few of the selections will be, "Go Tell It On The Mountain" solo by Frank Callura, bass; "Lord God of Abraham," solo rendered by Richard Lindenberg, baritone; "Oh Saviour Sweet Oh Saviour King," solo sung by Dorothy Krimerer.

Mr. Bainbridge also announced that the Choir had been augmented by the admission of twenty seven new members. For the first time in the history of the college, a Second Choir is being formed. Mr. Bainbridge will be glad to see all those interested in joining the choir during the ninth period on Mondays' Wednesdays, and Fridays at Choir rehearsal.

Panzer . . .

The extra point was also scored by Kartalis, who was forced to run with the ball instead of holding it for a placement, when the whole right side of the line broke in.

Varsity Players Formulate Plans

The Varsity Players held their first meeting of the year on Friday, Sept. 24, to formulate plans for the Fall semester.

There are several plays, submitted by Mr. Moss, director of the group, that are under consideration for the Fall production. They are:

- The Front Page
- The Importance of Being Earnest
- Nightmare Alley
- You Touched Me!
- All My Sons
- Biography
- Alien Corn

Roy Mabrey, president of the Varsity Players, extended a message of welcome on behalf of the club to the prospective members. He informed them of the requirements of the Dramatics Club's honor society, "The Masque."

It was decided that an informal gathering will be held back stage on Friday October 1, after the meeting at 3:00 P.M.

year of varsity football, and Perry Watts, a 155 pound speedster with a good reputation as a runner in high school. The remaining job is a toss up with either Bob McDonald, starting wing-back last season, or Nick Pedicini, a transfer student from Sampson College, battling it out.

In last week's curtain raiser, the Sea Hawks unleashed a powerful ground attack and a more than adequate passing game. Fumbles and a rather flimsy pass defense resulted in a final score closer than the statistics would seem to indicate. The coaching staff consequently has been concentrating on these two weaknesses during the daily practice sessions this week.

Pick SCA Theme For Coming Year

The Student Christian Association of Wagner College held its first meeting last Monday night, Sept. 27, in the co-ed lounge.

Pastor Kirsch introduced the theme for the year with the subject, "If we obey Him." Singing and refreshments followed.

Among some activities planned for the year are speakers, movies, and programs of general spiritual value.

The Association officers for this year are: President, Stanley Knoll; Vice-President, Bill Rowen; Recording secretary, Lydia Peters; Corresponding Secretary, Esther Savacool; Treasurer, Bob Reisch; and Student Advisor, Ted Weiskotten.
