New dean stresses citizenship

By JENNIFER NOER
Wagnerian Editor

Tina Crayton is all about citizenship. "The RA's will probably laugh at that because I say it all the time, but building good citizens is my main focus in this position," she said. Newly named Associate Dean of Students for Residence Life, Ms. Crayton comes to Wagner with six years of residence life experience at Syracuse University, where she was in charge of two residence halls containing more students than all of Wagner's population. She sees the need for solid citizens "because if educated people are not good citizens, and I am talking on a global scale, not just at Wagner, then we are going to have no chance of having a better future in this country."

Ms. Crayton thinks the key to creating good citizens at Wagner is through the Resident Assistants. "The way I see it is if you don't train the RA's correctly, the rest of the residence hall will fall by the way," she said, "I am lucky that I have a fantastic, dynamite staff that has strong leadership skills."

"One of my main priorities in Wagner's Residence Life program is moving it forward to be proactive," she said, "If students have constructive feedback, then I encourage them to give it, but if there is a problem, they need to be part of the solution."

"That is part of my main focus, to let people know that there are policies and procedures in place, not because the RA's and staff have nothing better to do than document people, but because if we don't have discipline, if we don't have people creating a critical mass of positive citizenship, then we have nothing," Ms. Crayton said. "Students, this is your home for nine months out of the year," she said, "Be respectful to each other, to yourself, and to your surroundings." Ms. Crayton concluded, "I have been impressed by the residents I have met so far and as long as we all work together as a team, as one cohesive unit, it is going to be a really spectacular year."

ATM debuts in the Union

The long awaited automatic teller machine has been installed on campus. It is in the Union, in the wall next to the telephones near the Bookstore. The machine will be in operation seven days a week, but only when the Union is open, for security reasons. The ATM is a branch of the Richmond County Savings Bank, which welcomes new student accounts. The ATM will also service the usual array of bank cards, like MAC, PLUS, NYCE, AMEX, as well as some credit cards.

There have been many renovations in the residence halls. This summer new beds, desks and chairs have been added to all Towers A, B & C rooms, giving the rooms a fresh, modern look. In addition, new carpeting has been installed at the Towers entry way. In Guild Hall, all of the windows have been replaced, and next year the building will be reserved completely for undergraduates with high academic standing.

Our faculty has been updated as well. Ten new faculty members, with impressive backgrounds have signed on at Wagner, for the upcoming year. The Wagnerian will profile each of these professors in the near future.

Sophomore Kathy O'Keefe tests the new ATM

Need a job? See Maria Giura

By JENNIFER NOER
Wagnerian Editor

Maria Giura has recently been named Director of Career Placement, a new position at Wagner College. "Essentially I will be working with each and every senior to determine what their aspirations are and to guide them in locating career opportunities," Ms. Giura said. She will be utilizing the experience of Professor Tony Carter and Dr. Walter Rohrs, who have been working with students in career development. Ms. Giura will help students match their interests and talents with future career goals. "If I had to describe this position in one word it would be promotion," she said, "I will be promoting Wagner students, matching their talent and knowledge base to employers."

Promotion is not a new idea to Ms. Giura. After six years in the admissions office marketing Wagner to prospective high school seniors and guidance counselors, this Wagner alumna will now "market Wagner to employers, so it is a very natural transition." "I will be spending much of my time visiting the human resources departments in companies in Manhattan and northern New Jersey," she said. While Ms. Giura will be working closely with Wagner alumni, a large part of her job will be finding new people and new companies to broaden the possibilities for students. She will also draw on the faculty's knowledge, as "they are experts in their field and are aware of the most suitable graduate and professional schools for their students." Ms. Giura hopes to "help students develop their job preparation skills, such as writing cover letters, resumes, follow-up letters to employers, and refining their interview skills." Ms. Giura plans to work together with students "to help get them prepared for the rigors of the job search, because it is rigorous and competitive."

Ms. Giura will send a questionnaire to junior and senior students in mid-October which they will need to complete before registering for spring semester classes. The questions will deal with past internships, studies abroad, and schedules, as well as future plans. "I'll use the responses from the questionnaire to familiarize myself with the students and in developing a framework and guideline to work with them," she said. "Our success in career development and placement is dependent on how accessible students make themselves to us, so we are encouraging upperclassmen to get in to see us," she said, "I am looking forward to being much more involved with Wagner students, and encourage students, particularly upperclassmen, to visit the office often." "I look forward to hearing from students to find out what they feel they need, as I am going to be learning along with them," Ms. Giura added.

Ms. Giura's office will be in Campus Hall, room 101, with tentative office hours from 8:30am to 5pm during the week, and numerous seminars and guest lectures to be announced.

Louis Hardee: From the South

Professor Louis Hardee

By NICOLE LISZANCKIE
Wagnerian Staff Writer

Professor Lewis Hardee, the head of Wagner's Theatre department, is thrilled with his recently published book, "Three Southern Families- A history of connecting Hardee, Jones and Davis Families of Coastal North Carolina."

The book is a written compilation of Professor Hardee's impressive family history, from the 1850s to the present, including an uncle who was a General Commander in the Civil War. Professor Hardee began this undertaking as part of his grandmother's 90th birthday party in 1972. He originally set a slide show to music, composed of facts of his grandmother's life. He soon realized that a lot of the dates and facts about his family were incorrect, and he began the task of correcting them. It became this book.

The book has received wonderful reviews in newspapers near his hometown in North Carolina, where the book is sold. He is currently awaiting a review in "The North Carolina Genealogical Society Journal."

Professor Hardee's future plans include another book, this one about the history of the Lamb's Club. The Lamb's Club is an extremely popular theatre club which heralded such members as Fred Astire, Irving Belin and George Cohan. Professor Hardee, who is also a member, will research the 75 year history of the club, including its origin, problems with bankruptcy and its fight back to where it is today.

Closer to Wagner, Professor Hardee is excited for the new year. He hopes to stress diversity in the department, and has new plans for an interesting year in the Dance Department. In the near future he hopes to incorporate film projects into the curriculum. He is pleased with the success of last years shows, and encourages students to support the Theater Department this year as well.

A copy of Professor Hardee's book is available in the Hormann library.

Summer scandals: Hugh Grant, Al D'Amato, Michael Jackson et al

By JASON BORELLI
Wagnerian Staff Writer

I've been with The Wagnerian for two years now. I've done some good stuff in its pages. Of course, there's always room for improvement, and that's why I'm penning my own column.

This column will give me license to go nuts. Sometimes I'll be serious. Sometimes I'll go for laughs. Maybe I'll write about world events, local stuff at Wagner, or stuff from my personal life, but let's hope it doesn't come to that!

But now it's time for:
SHORT SHOTS

Senator Al D'Amato has a new book out, "Power, Pasta and Politics." This is D'Amato's second book after his literary flop, "1,001 Japanese Judge Jokes."

Seems the marriage between Michael Jackson and Lisa-Marie Presley is on the rocks. Big surprise. I always knew the marriage was a scam to draw Elvis out of hiding. By the way, for lasting a full year, the marriage should get 11 MTV Video Music Award nominations.

Say what you want about Hugh Grant. He embarrassed himself, committed a sin, and is probably going to hell, but he has such nice hair. And of course, getting punched 30 times by Tom Arnold is penance enough. The good news is that Hugh now has a one-year pass to Buckingham Palace, when the car just isn't enough.

Consumer Warning: Exposure to "The Brady Bunch Movie" will rot the brain. Stay away! For the love of God, man, stay away!

Ditto "I'll Be There For You" by the Rembrants, both the song and the video.

Also, watching "Clueless" and "Kids" back-to-back has been proven to cause the human head to explode due to the pressure change.

Ok, Steve Howe and Darryl Strawberry are on the same team. Great idea. Game 7 of the World Series the Yankees enter the clubhouse and find the refrigerator empty and a note saying "Guys, Went to Mexico. Hope you don't mind."

Peter McNeeley made $800,000 getting smacked around by Mike Tyson. That's roughly $8,000 per second. Are you reading this, Gerry Cooney?

Also, Don King has promised the Tyson will take on a champion in the near future. That's why Tyson will take on the dug-up corpse of Joe Louis in March.

GREEK NEWS

Gail Kelley, president of the Alpha Delta Pi Sorority at Wagner, attended the 144th Anniversary Convention of ADPi in Cincinnati, Ohio, June 26-July 5, 1995. She was joined by over 600 sisters from the United States and Canada to carry on the business of the sorority and to attend workshops pertinent to college women.

Wagner's Gamma Pi Chapter was pleased to win the following awards at the convention:

- Open Rush Ribbon
- Abigail Davis Emergency Grant
- Gift Mart Ribbon
- Van Akin Resident Counselor Fund
- Donor Ribbon
- Philanthropy Ribbon
- Quota Ribbon

Katherine Kendall, president of Alpha Omicron Pi, Theta Pi chapter at Wagner, attended the 1995 AOPi International Convention, held this year in Scottsdale, AZ. Katherine was a featured soloist, performing the "Star Spangled Banner" for chapters from the United States and Canada.

Wagner's Theta Pi chapter was honored with the 1995 Scholarship Cup and a number of other awards, including Rush, Quota, Philanthropic and Outstanding Chapter.

Alpha Omicron Pi is looking forward to another successful year, and welcomes students back to Wagner.

Could you be an Ambassador for Wagner College?

The Admissions Office is currently accepting applications from upperclass students who would like to volunteer as Student "Ambassadors."

As an Ambassador, one is asked to give tours to prospective Wagner students and their families, make phone calls to interested candidates and host visitors to the campus. Ambassadors must be articulate, energetic and willing to volunteer specific set hours for the entire school year.

In addition to the prestige of being selected as an Ambassador, this position offers very important experience and enhances the resume of any graduate.

Currently there are eight Ambassadors, each of who volunteers 1-2 hours per week and at all Campus Visit Days. We are looking to increase our Ambassador membership to 15 this year.

The application process is very competitive. We are looking for as diverse a group of Ambassadors as possible. To apply, please pick up an application either in Admissions House #1 or from the Student Activities Office and return it to the Admissions Office by September 8th. The name and campus phone number of at least one reference (a faculty member or administrator) must be included in your application.

We will respond to all applicants by September 15th.

Foo Fighters is no Nirvana

By TONY CORRENTI
Entertainment Editor

Welcome back to another exciting year of useless information that most people disagree with. Let me make some new enemies by stating that I still hate Pearl Jam. I now call them "the band that killed Rock n Roll." All right. It's out of my system.

Okay, who started the comparisons of Foo Fighters with Nirvana? There is no comparison. The songs are different. The singing is different and the guitar playing is different. The drum playing is the same. I wonder why? Dave Grohl does not sound like Kurt Cobain. I saw them playing on Letterman (don't ask me why I was watching Letterman) and I found two similarities. Dave Grohl jumps around on stage like Kurt Cobain and also the fact that Pat Smear and Dave Grohl were in Nirvana. Case closed...

The original members of Kiss were recently reunited during a Kiss Unplugged taping. Paul Stanley and Gene Simmons were joined by Ace Frehley and Peter Criss, and Ace and Peter each sang one of their signature songs. Then, current members, Eric Singer and Bruce Kulick came on stage and all six performed "Rock 'n Roll All Night." Look for Kiss unplugged this fall...

I'm glad I saw all of you at the record release party for the new NELSON album called "Because They Can." It was a great idea to buy it before it sold out...

It made me happy to meet so many Dream Theater fans this past week.

I'm not the only one. Remember to pick up their E.P. September 26 called "Change of Seasons." D.T. fans unite!

Music Notes

TIDBITS...MTV still sucks...My new nickname for Bush is Grunge-lite...Saturday September 9th at Limelight, Skid Row is playing with four other bands including the ever popular Clutch and also Warrior Soul. Doors open at 6:00!...On September 29th, Wagner's own Vacant Seas plays at The Spiral in Manhattan and the next day From Good Homes plays at Irving Plaza...Mark your calendar for October 10th because the "retired" Ozzy Osbourne releases his new album called "Ozmosis," but there is no word on the release date for POISON. Sorry to disappoint you...There is just one more thing I must mention. A recent one year anniversary article on Woodstock '94 put Metallica in the category of disappointments. You must be kidding. Their album hasn't dropped out of the album charts since its debut in August of 1991. Whenever their new stuff comes out, I'm sure it will exceed expectations...I'll be back next time with album reviews of Dream Theater, Bruce Jacques, Klover and other cool stuff. Until then?...

Nirvana: Chris Novoselic, David Grohl and the late Kurt Cobain

Kiss: Paul Stanley, Gene Simmons, Eric Singer, Bruce Kulick

7. We're not sure why, but even the women's bathroom have urinals.
8. Here's a fun fact. The garbage dump on the island is 25 times the size of Egypt's Great Pyramid.
9. The three most annoying sounds at Wagner:
Lawnmowers at 7am Crows at 7:10 Garbage trucks at 7:20
10. Four words: Wagner Accepts Channel Rock?

Jerry Garcia: Tribute to a legend

By ROB SMITH
Wagnerian Staff Writer

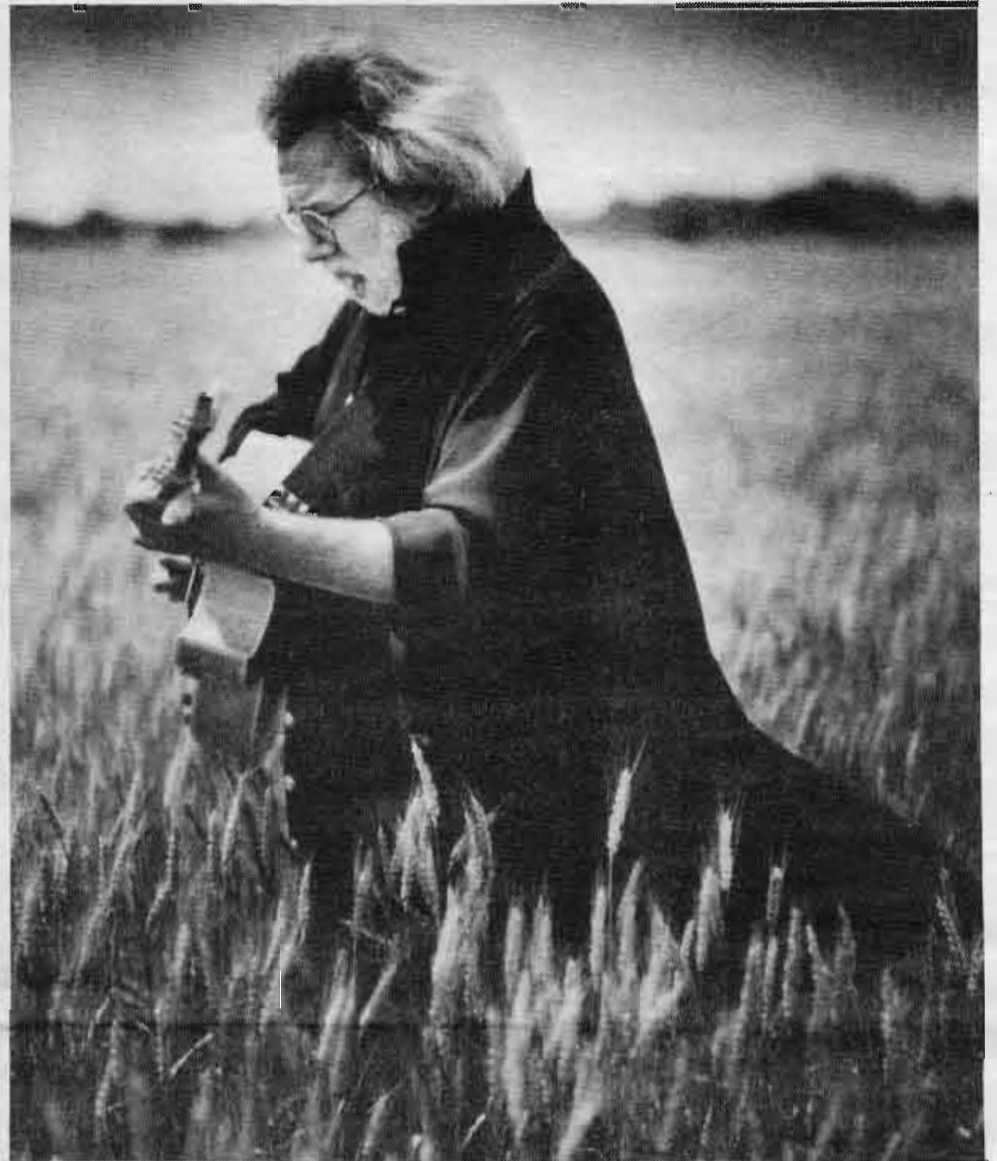

"He's Gone."

A statement of disbelief and sadness left my lips the morning of August ninth when I heard the news of Jerry Garcia's death. I'll never forget that moment, I was driving home when the local radio station announced it in their twelve o'clock news report. It was hard to swallow so I quickly switched to another station to see if it was true. I didn't understand, he sounded fine to me when I saw them this summer. I hadn't heard anything about Jerry being sick. When I got home a friend stopped by to see if I had heard the news. We talked for a while remembering some of the high times we had at the shows. That's when it really sank in, there wasn't going to be a fall tour, no more trips.

"What a Long Strange Trip Its Been." Since 1967 the Grateful Dead, with their fearless leader Jerry, have campaigned through history touching countless lives. Although Jerry didn't like to be called a leader, undoubtedly he was. True he had several drug problems but at least he had the courage to fight them. He was in and out of rehabs regularly. Fortunately it has been confirmed that he died of natural causes, likely a heart attack, which wasn't drug induced. Generation upon generation of fans have lived by the lyrics of the Dead.

I think it's safe to say that Jerry's ideals will live on in the hearts and minds of anyone who ever listened to him. True Jerry will be missed by all but it is relieving to know he will live on in the hearts and minds of his fans forever. We'll miss you Jerry!

Now the big question: What are the millions of Dead Heads going to do now? Does someone smell Phish? Phish has already picked up some of the Dead's following and now Dead heads will flock to their shows in droves. So what do we call them now Phish heads? Phish's style is similar to the Dead's and will surely attract the same fans. If you listen to the Dead and haven't checked out a Phish show I recommend them highly. All you dedicated Phish fans better start mail ordering your tickets for next century's shows now! On a brighter note Bob Weir and Rob Wasserman have rescheduled some of their upcoming concerts after they were abruptly canceled due to Jerry's death. This is exciting news for me and fellow Spartans because From Good Homes is the opening band for these shows. They have a show coming up in the end of September in nearby Red Bank, N.J. and tickets are on sale now. So if you have the opportunity to see them, take it. I'll sign off by saying, "My love is real, not fade away", see you in a few Jerry!!

7 ways to fix our national pasttime

By JASON BORELLI
Wagnerian Staff Writer

1995 will go down in history as the worst year for baseball. Stadiums are roughly 51% empty. Five divisional races have already been decided, leaving behind a complex wild-card race that has to be followed every day in order to be understood. And most baseball-related games don't come from the actual games, but rather by injury (Ken Griffey, Jr., Matt Williams), retirement (John Kruk), being a foreigner (Hideo Nomo), being obscure (Jack McDowell), and death (Mickey Mantle), just to name a few.

Clearly, changes are in order. If baseball doesn't improve in the next couple of years, the varied clubs will be swimming in a sea of red ink.

So, here are nine ways to "fix" the national pasttime:

I. GET A NEW COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AGREEMENT

Many fans are still miffed by last year's strike. The worst part is that a strike is theoretically possible in the near future. Therefore, to appease the fans, a new, long term CPA should be hammered out.

II. BRING BACK THE COMMISSIONER'S OFFICE

The owners have had too much power for too long a time. A new commissioner, with as much power as the office once had before Bud Selig (owner of the Milwaukee Brewers) took owners. One possible candidate would be NBC broadcaster Bob Costas, who is knowledgeable about the game, and who has two Mickey Mantle baseball cards in his wallet at all times.

III. NO MORE EXPANSION

In 1998, the Arizona Diamondbacks and the Tampa Bay Devil Rays will push the club total to 30. Clearly this is more than enough teams. The pool of good players has been severely diluted after each round of expansion. If cities like Buffalo, Orlando and Washington D.C. want big-league action, they should wait for a team to move, which isn't far-fetched as it seems, considering that many teams may have to move to make money.

IV. DOWNSIZING THE PLAYOFFS

With expansion, the owners are looking to add to the number of playoff spots. Why? Wild cards are overkill. The worst part is that the first round of playoffs are aired regionally. This is inconvenient, especially with a match-up like Braves-Dodgers, with Greg Maddux going against Hideo Nomo. All games have to be seen. If past playoffs were regionally shown, many of us would never have seen Game Six of the 1986 National League Championship Series, where the Mets beat the Astros in 16 innings. Or Game 5 of the '76 ALCS, where Chris Chambliss homered to put the Yankees in the World Series for the first time in 12 years. Simple remove the wildcard. Then have the best team in each league take a bye while the other two division leaders face off in a best-of-five series. Then the winners of those series take on the bye teams in a best-of-seven series, and so one up to the World Series, with every game, up to 31 televised to a nationwide audience.

V. RETOOL ALL-STAR GAME

Why does baseball have its' Midseason Classic on a Tuesday? Put it on a Sunday. Start the game at 7:40 instead of 8:40, this is possible due to the extra hour of network broadcast time on Sundays. In addition to holding the old-timers game and the home-run derby the day before add a skills competition, like the NHL. Finally, cancel the All-Star game once every four years. This would send some major leaguers to the Olympics, like their basketball counterparts. The rub is, with all the different countries represented in the big leagues, a gold medal is NOT guaranteed.

VI. PROMOTING THE PLAYERS

Outside of Ken Griffey Jr., Cal Ripken and Frank Thomas, can you name any other players? Baseball needs to hype up their star attractions. Where are the Shaqs, Mikes and Hakeems? The Troys, Emmitts and Steve Youngs? If baseball stars don't get recognized, then who'll come to see them in the ballparks?

VII. APPEASING THE FANS

Make tickets more affordable to the public. After the strike, massive resentment washed over the fans, who stayed away from the parks. The owners should not forget this. Ticket prices have to go down, and soon. Either drop the prices, or the fans drop the game.
