

PARENTS' DAY 1974!

SEAHAWK Tri—Captains: Tony Parisi, Ed Westwood, John Backes

IT'S WAGNER VS. UPSALA'S VIKINGS

The Seahawks enter today's contest with a 1-1-0 ledger after an opening day win over Gettysburg (20-7) and last weekend's 24-7 loss to powerful C.W. Post.

Wagner At Gettysburg

Head Coach Bob Hicks' preseason outlook listed the Wagner offense as his most valuable asset, and the season kickoff with Gettysburg seemed to support his belief. The Hawks rolled 55 yards for a touchdown on their first possession and marched 80 yards for another TD on the fourth series. Wagner's final tally came on a one-yard run by tailback Chuck Grevious following an interference penalty against the Bullets.

Grevious scored twice for Wagner — his first TD was a 3-yarder — and wide receiver Bob Grady added 6 more points on a 12-yard pass from Andy Uske.

Wagner At Post

Wagner's second road game began well enough with a 97-yard scoring drive engineered by Uske midway through the first half. The impressive march began on the Wagner three yard line after a brilliant 29-yard punt by Post put the Hawks in a real hole. Running back Tim Vorhies picked up three yards to get the Hawk offense rolling, and Andy Uske hit Ron Howard for a 7-yard pickup in the left flat to notch the first down.

Wagner later moved into Post territory for the first time on a 9-yard pass from Uske to Greg Lindsey. Another pass from Uske to Ron Howard and runs by Grevious, Vorhies, and Bellamy brought the Hawks to the Post 19-yard line as time ran out in the first quarter.

On the first play of the second quarter, Uske rifled one over the middle to his big tight end, Rich Slizewski, who was all by himself in the end zone. Lindsey's kick was good, and the visitors were on the scoreboard with a 7-0 edge over the Pioneers.

But that was all the Hawks could muster, as Post — currently ranked 4th in Division II's Lambert Cup balloting — scored four times. Post set up the first touchdown after intercepting an Uske pass on the Wagner 27. A 15-yard pass for the TD and an extra point knotted the score at 7-7. Barely 25 seconds later Post was on the scoreboard again after an Uske Pass was picked off and returned 52 yards for the touchdown. Post scored twice more in the third quarter to put the game away.

The Pioneers are now 2-1 on the season, with wins over Wagner and Wilkes (a 44-7 rout) and an opening day loss to Western Kentucky (48-0).

On The Plus Side

Wagner lost to a strong team in C.W. Post, and the game did have its moments of promise. First, there were three "so near and yet so far" bombs that Uske fired to within inches of split end Ron Howard. While interceptions destroyed Wagner last weekend, the passing game is still a good bet for the rest of the schedule. . . . Punter Peter Brandefine had a couple of real boomers, including one that carried from his own end zone to mid-field. He averaged over 40 yards per kick on that day and looks to be a good one (and only a freshman). . . . the Hawk defensive unit learned its lessons the hard way against Post, but the future is, as they say, bright. Led by Tony Parisi, the Hawk defense held its own against what may be one of the finest offenses it will face this year.

Scouting Upsala

by Head Coach Bob Hicks

Upsala has always been a tough foe for us, and I know they will be ready to play today.

They opened the season last week (a 42-0 loss to Albright) and made a lot of errors that they will have corrected by game time today. Upsala has always been ready to throw everything at Wagner, and we are expecting a close, difficult game.

Upsala has a new coaching staff and many new players, so we are not absolutely sure what they will attempt to do against us. But I know Coach Hooper will have his players ready.

We are in good physical shape — no one was injured in the Post game — and we're happy to be coming home after having two away games.

Welcome Parents!

Welcoming you to this annual Parents' Day football game is always one of my most pleasant duties each fall. We are justifiably proud of what our football team has accomplished over the years, and we look for another fine season in 1974.

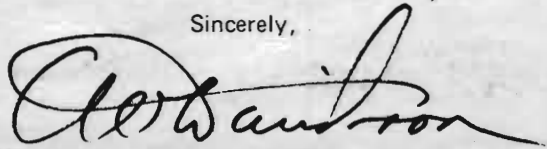

But today I want you to know that our pride in Wagner students extends far beyond what happens Saturday afternoons on Fischer Field. It extends to virtually every corner of the campus — in the Wagner College Theatre, in our new electron microscopy center, in the art studios, student government offices, and residence halls — and includes not just a handful of dedicated students, but all the students who are helping Wagner move toward tomorrow.

And it isn't just on Grymes Hill that Wagner students are making things happen. They're exploring ideas and developing skills that will benefit both the local community and America. We have Wagner students studying Staten Island's environmental hazards; we have students voluntarily serving young children in the Metropolitan area to provide recreational and educational opportunities many of them would not have otherwise; we have students raising funds on and off campus to help both local and national charitable organizations; and we have students leaving our campus and making names for themselves in business, research, industry and education.

We are proud of our students, and we gladly accept the challenge of providing them with an atmosphere that encourages the growth of knowledge and human understanding. At the same time, all of us at Wagner salute you, the parents of our students, for the tremendous role you are playing in this education process . . . and for your vast commitment to the future of our nation.

Please enjoy today's game, and visit us often throughout the year.

Sincerely,

Arthur O. Davidson
PRESIDENT

Athletic Director Larry Geraciotti

One of the top names in American coaching and a leading figure in international athletic competition, Larry Geraciotti is in his first season as athletic director for Wagner College.

Geraciotti came to Grymes Hill from NYU, where he was football coach, assistant basketball coach, baseball coach, chairman of the department of physical education, and assistant athletic director during his 15 years with the Violets. All told, he's been in athletics for 25 years and sports an impressive list of coaching and administrative positions both at the high school and collegiate level — including positions with the University of New Mexico, Boston University, and Columbia University.

Much of Larry Geraciotti's reputation in U.S. sports circles grows from his success as head baseball coach for NYU, where he molded the careers of 14 professional ball players, 3 All-Americans, and 3 Olympians. In his first coaching season with the Violets, 1964-65, he led his team to the Metropolitan Conference championship and earned Coach of the Year honors from NYU. Later, in 1969, he led his club to the finals of the National Baseball Championship college world series — the first time a District II team had gotten that far since 1947. NYU dropped that game to Arizona State, 4-1, but a brilliant coaching year earned Geraciotti Coach of the Year honors for the NCAA's District II.

On the international scene, he has been an instructor at the All Sports Clinic in Nuremberg, Germany (1960) and instructor and clinician for the Italian Olympic Committee (1973). He was also a member of the training and coaching staff for the U.S. Olympic Team competing in the 1955 Pan American Games. Last year he was coach of America's World Tournament baseball team that competed in Rome, Bologna, and Parma.

Mr. Geraciotti is chairman of the American Association of Baseball Coaches' television committee, a member of the NCAA District II baseball selection committee, chairman of the finance committee of the U.S. Baseball Federation, and a member of the U.S. Olympic Games Committee.

He's a 1950 graduate of Missouri State University and holds a master's degree from Boston University. He has done advanced graduate work at Teacher's College of Columbia University and has published a number of articles in professional athletic journals.

Bob Hicks

Through great seasons, lean seasons, and the seasons in between, Wagner football under head coach Bob Hicks has been big time. His 95—53—4 lifetime coaching record attests to the quality of his teams and says a lot, too, about the man who has molded the careers of countless All—Conference, Little All—American, and professional football players.

He learned his football at McCasky High School in Lancaster, Pa., and left there having captained both the football and baseball teams. He then entered Penn State on an athletic scholarship and starred at end for three seasons: 9—0, 8—1, and 6—3. A 1950 graduate, he captained the Nittany Lions during his senior year.

His first coaching job was with Albright as an assistant. He later was named assistant coach at Muhlenberg before moving on to the head coaching job at Juniata in 1954. He didn't stay at Juniata long, but while he was there he earned his keep: with a pair of 8—0 teams and a 7—7 tie in the 1955 Tangerine Bowl against Missouri Valley. Between 1956 and 1959 he was head coach of DePauw, where he led the Tigers to 7—1, 7—2, and 2—5—1 seasons, and in 1962 he came to Wagner after serving as backfield coach at the University of Detroit.

Bob Hicks' twelve year record at Wagner stands an enviable 62—45—3. And along the way he's had two undefeated seasons: 10—0 in 1964, and 9—0 in 1967.

To players and fans alike, he's known as a hard—driving, football—wise coach who uses a careful blend of toughness and compassion to turn the good football players into great ones.

coaching staff

RALPH FERRARO — Defensive line

Ferraro co—captained the Susquehanna University football team during his junior and senior years and was named to the 1959 Little All—American squad at linebacker. He has been Wagner's baseball coach for eight years and is currently president of the Metropolitan College Baseball Conference. He holds a B.S. in business administration (Susquehanna '60) and an M.B.A. from Wagner ('68).

RON MILLER — Offensive line

Coming off a 7—1 season as head coach of the track squad, Miller enters his third year with the football team's offensive line. He received his B.S. in 1964 from Cortland State, where he captained the football team and was a champion wrestler. A former player for the Westchester Crusaders of the A.C.F.L., he holds a master's degree from Syracuse, where he also worked as assistant offensive line coach.

GEORGE CRUZADO — Linebackers

Cruzado starred at Wagner for four grid seasons and in 1963 won the Robb Memorial Trophy at the annual Homecoming Classic. He went both ways in those days, as center and middle linebacker, and offers a lot of expertise to this year's young club. He received his B.S. in education from Wagner in 1965 and earned a master's in 1968.

RICH SALINARDI — Offensive backfield

Wagner's Outstanding Athlete of 1969, Salinardi was a standout in both football and baseball. One of the football squad's tri—captains in 1968, he played an interesting double: quarterback and defensive back. Wagner fans remember him as one of the Hawks' most tenacious workers and certainly he'll be doing some of the coaching staff's most vital work in 1974.

JOHN TOTO — Defensive backs

Toto is one of the finest defensive players ever to attend Wagner, and when he left in 1973, he took with him the school's record for most interceptions in a single season. A fierce competitor, the former Wagner tri—captain had to fight back from shoulder surgery to find his place in the Seahawk record books.

Herb Sutter To Retire

Herb Sutter, Wagner's athletic director since 1935, announced his retirement recently, to become effective at the end of the fall semester.

Wagner's "Mr. Athletics" has been a dominant figure on Grymes Hill for over 47 years: first as a student at Wagner's high school, then as a student at the college, and later as the school's first athletic director.

He took the AD part time job in 1935 and handled scheduling and athletic program chores two afternoons a week in addition to coaching the women's basketball team.

In 1937 Mr. Sutter left high school teaching to pick up his Wagner duties full time. "Those were the days when the Wagner population was about 200," he notes, "and I was the only member of the athletic department: athletic director and head coach of varsity basketball, jayvee basketball, baseball and women's basketball."

His professional responsibilities sounded very much like the busy days he spent as a Wagner athlete, when he quarterbacked the first Seahawk football team in 1927, played basketball in winter, and tripled with varsity baseball in the spring. In spite of that, he also picked up the head coaching job for a successful Wagner golf team that for years turned out many of the top names in local golf circles.

But it is basketball that has always been a special part of Herb Sutter's life at Wagner College, and when he retired from active coaching in 1965, he stepped down with a phenomenal 349-251 lifetime record and an even more phenomenal collection of plaques and honors, including selection to the Helms Athletic Foundation Hall of Fame. He has been president, vice president and treasurer of the Metropolitan Intercollegiate Basketball Association (comprised of Saint John's, Manhattan, Fordham, NYU, and Wagner) and for many years served on the selection committee for the National Invitational Tournament. For ten years he was also on the NCAA Eastern Regional basketball selection committee and served as president of the Metropolitan Baseball Conference. In conjunction with his retirement from Wagner, he will be stepping down as president of the Metropolitan Football Conference.

In addition to the Helms Hall of Fame award, he was honored by the Met baseball conference for distinguished service, and earned himself the title Dean of Metropolitan Coaches.

In all, he led Wagner teams to 18 winning seasons, and remembers especially the '55-'56 team that seemed bound for an NIT berth after wins over Manhattan, FDU, Saint John's, and Hofstra but lost a 79-70 heartbreaker to Saint Peter's in the season finale. And Staten Island sports fans will never forget the 1963-64 team that knocked off NYU 77-76 in one of the most spectacular home efforts in Seahawk history. The red-hot NYU Violets — led by All-American Barry Kramer — came into the game ranked third in the nation and dropped a double overtime shocker to a Seahawk team that roared past its first seven opponents of the season.

As Herb Sutter looks back over the years he has guided Wagner's athletic fortunes, he feels especially good, he says, about what he calls "the progression in the schedule." "We always played one third of our basketball games with major college powers, and our baseball team now plays one of the toughest schedules in the country. In football," he adds, "we actually played ourselves out of other schools our size with seasons like 1964 (10-0-0) and 1967 (9-0-0). And our track team — 7-1 this past season — is the highest peak ever and looking up."

Wagner's President, Dr. Arthur O. Davidson, has praised Herb Sutter as "a most influential force in the growth of this institution. His service as a student, coach, professor, and administrator has been truly outstanding, and when he steps down in January, he will leave behind an unforgettable chapter in the history of Wagner College."

Cheers!

Chris Buhlinger is a biology major who intends to enter medical school when she graduates from Wagner this year. She's a Dean's List student (her index is somewhere in the neighborhood of a 3.5) and a member of Alethea, the senior women's honor society. And — to list just a few of her interests — she's a resident assistant, a member of Wagner's Coffeehouse Committee (the folks who help liven up the weekend campus with informal entertainment), second vice president of Associated Women Students, and an active member of Zeta Tau Alpha sorority.

If she doesn't quite seem to fit your picture of a typical cheerleader (whatever that might be) we can add that she's also blonde, energetic, and, quite coincidentally, pretty. Still not convinced? Well, all we can say is that she's captain of the 1974-74 squad.

A senior from Sparta, New Jersey, Chris doesn't pay much attention to some of the cheerleader stereotypes people often invent. "I'm not out to be a sex symbol, or to be near the guys (I really don't know many of them), or to impress myself with whatever prestige or glory people associate with cheerleading. I'm out to have a good time and to have some exercise." But she is clearly concerned about her work as captain... and feels that cheerleaders at Wagner are better than ever. "We've changed technically in the time I've been cheerleading at Wagner (four years). And we've tried a lot of new things, including adding two males to this year's squad." Chris adds that she had been pushing for a long time to get some men on the squad, and now that they're a reality, campus response has been more than favorable. "They're good," she says, "and we're happy to have them."

We asked Chris what she does to stay in shape when she's not cheerleading. Jogging? Tennis? "No, I really don't have time for anything else. In fact, I often feel too involved, and sometimes have to skip one meeting to attend another." But she readily admits that she isn't disheartened by the hectic pace of campus life. "In fact," she confesses, "I guess I really like it better that way."

major; Louise Eckhardt, a junior education major; Janie Smith, a junior psychology major; Sharon Davis, a sophomore nursing major; Patty Van Lenten, a sophomore nursing major; Carol Salig, a freshman nursing major; Linda Marcario, a freshman education major; Tricia Kirk, a freshman nursing major; Bruce Ogan, a senior chemistry major; and Bill Paton, a senior theatre major.

New Science Facility Opens

More than 150 persons were on hand last week for the dedication of Wagner College's new electron microscopy center and heard Dr. Orlando Manfredi, the keynote speaker, hail Wagner's pioneering work in cancer research.

A nationally known expert in the field of cancer research and Director of the Department of Radiology and Nuclear Medicine at St. Vincent's Medical Center, Dr. Manfredi noted that "Wagner's research with radioactive gallium 67 uptake in human tumors is the first in this country."

Dr. Manfredi outlined the uses of nuclear medicine in cancer research and explained that since the electron microscope enables researchers to view the interior of cells, it is especially valuable in both the detection and treatment of malignancies.

He also praised the work of Dr. Edythe Kershaw, chairman of Wagner's department of bacteriology and public health, and Dr. Carl Larsen, who is in charge of the new center, adding that through their efforts there has been "a marriage of this academic institution with a health-related facility, St. Vincent's Medical Center of Richmond. It is apparent," he said, "that this association with Wagner College and the nuclear medicine department of St. Vincent's Medical Center has been a productive relationship benefitting patients, students, doctors, faculty, and the community."

He noted that Wagner and St. Vincent's are currently exploring a cooperative program through which students can matriculate in the field of nuclear medicine technology using both campus and hospital facilities.

Other featured speakers for the dedication included Dr. Arthur O. Davidson, president of the college, who paid tribute to all those who worked to bring about what he called "a most happy day in the history of Wagner College," and Dr. Carl Larson, who formally acknowledged the foundations and individuals who contributed to the establishment of an electron microscopy center at Wagner.

The Wagner electron microscopy center consists of a fully equipped microtomy lab, a dark room, a transmission lab, and a scanning lab. There are two electron microscopes available for student use, and both undergraduate and graduate students will have access to the center's sophisticated equipment.

While the new center is primarily an educational facility, it will also be available as a community resource for scientific research.

While the supply lasts, Seahawk fans can receive a copy of this year's Wagner College football press guide. The 24-page booklet includes more than 30 photographs plus all-time Seahawk records, coaching records, series records, and information about the 1973 and 1974 teams. It's all together in a pre-season guide that will be interesting reading for Seahawk fans who would like a souvenir of the 1974 campaign.

Cost is 50¢, and all proceeds will go towards publishing the 1974 game programs. Please send your check or money order to:

Wagner Theatre

From "Man of LaMancha"

The Wagner College Theatre has announced its 1974-75 production schedule, along with plans for a third season of a popular dinner theatre program.

According to Dr. Lowell Matson, chairman of Wagner's department of speech and theatre and director of the theatre, the busy schedule opens with a prior-to-Broadway production of "Hemingway," a new play that will run from October 21 through October 26. Written by Sam Smiley, professor of playwriting at Indiana University, the play is an experimental piece that reflects the life and works of the author. Dr. Matson calls "the most influential American writer of this century."

The second production, opening for a two-week run on Dec. 2, is the hit musical "Man of LaMancha." Dr. Matson notes that he will be entering the play in this year's American College Theatre Festival — an annual event sponsored by the American Theatre Association — and hopes it will be one of the eight American college theatre productions selected for staging at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C. later in the season.

The Spring semester will open with a two-week run of "No, No, Nanette" from March 3 to March 15 and will close with Harold Pinter's "Old Times" from April 28 to May 3.

In addition, the Wagner College Theatre has all ready begun taking reservations for a third season of dinner theatre programs. The programs include dinner in the Wagner College Union followed by a play in Wagner's Main Hall Theatre.

Underdog Role Leaves President Undaunted

EDITOR'S NOTE: President Gerald R. Ford, a center-linebacker on the 1932-33-34 football teams at the University of Michigan, often has drawn parallels between politics and athletics. As a freshman congressman, House Minority Leader and now President, he has maintained, "Thanks to my football experience, I know the value of team play. It is, I believe, one of the most important lessons to be learned and practiced in our lives."

Gerald Ford knew he faced a challenge. The scouting reports by the Michigan coaches left little doubt that Minnesota would be the finest team the Wolverines would meet all season. And the Gophers were a running team, a fact that particularly concerned him.

Six-foot-two and a deceptive 198 pounds, Ford was Michigan's linebacker and center. His prime assignment that Saturday against Minnesota would be to help contain the running of all-America Pug Lund and Stan Kostka, a sophomore sensation at fullback.

Ford had played on Michigan's two national championship teams of 1932 and 1933, but now in his senior year the Wolverines were struggling with just one victory in four games. The Gophers, headed directly for the Big Ten title, were four to five touchdown favorites.

The unbeaten Gophers had not defeated the Wolverines in Minneapolis in 41 years, and the Twin Cities were alive with a week-long battle cry of "Mangle Michigan." A record 60,000 fans turned out to watch their Gophers end that long era of frustration.

Michigan's Blitz

Michigan's defense, however, with Ford and his linebacking mate Cefric Sweet playing inspired football, continually stopped the Minnesota attack by using the new technique of blitzing. Surprisingly, the half ended in a scoreless tie.

"I knew how good they were," recalled Bennie Oosterbaan, Michigan's assistant coach who had scouted the Gophers. "They were heavy favorites and when I walked into the dressing room at halftime, I had tears in my eyes I was so proud of them. Ford and Sweet played their hearts out. They were everywhere on defense."

Minnesota eventually won that game, 34-0, and went on to the national championship, but that cold November afternoon in Memorial Stadium has remained very special for Ford.

"During 25 years in the rough-and-tumble world of politics, I often thought of the experiences before, during and after that game in 1934," Ford says. "Remembering them has helped me many times to face a tough situation, take action and make every effort possible despite adverse odds."

"I remember how Michigan students and people in Ann Arbor met us at the train station that Sunday. There was a rousing parade and this was a meaningful tribute to the fight the Wolverines had put up against Minnesota."

His teammates also paid Ford a meaningful tribute that season. Michigan won just one game, but Ford was voted the Wolverines most valuable player. As Francis Wistert, an all-America who played with Ford on two championship teams, later was to observe, "They felt Jerry was one guy who would stay and fight in a losing cause."

Rich Blood

Michigan coach Harry Kipke recruited Ford with the promise of a job. He waited on tables and cleaned up dishes at the University Hospital, washed dishes at his fraternity house and later became manager of the DEKE House. "I also was able to sell blood at $25 a bottle twice a month and that money came in mighty handy," said Ford of those depression years.

Ford played in the East-West Shrine and College All-Star games and received offers from two professional football teams. The young economics major, however, decided to study law, and Kipke helped him obtain a coaching job on the Yale football staff.

President Gerald R. Ford

"I was an assistant line coach and also head coach of the junior varsity," Ford offered. "And we had some pretty fine young men on that JV team, too. Bob Taft and Bill Proxmire, both now U.S. Senators, played on my JV team and later on the Yale varsity."

President Ford received a law degree at Yale in 1941, served four years in the Navy, then in 1948 started his political career by upsetting the incumbent Republican representative in Michigan's Fifth Congressional District. Again, he had faced long odds against success, but as his teammates knew years before, Jerry Ford was never intimidated by a challenge.
