Wagner College Guild To Present Concert Series

Thursday, November 13, will mark the opening of the Fourth Annual Concert Series, sponsored jointly by the Staten Island Chapter of the Wagner College Guild and the music department at Wagner.

Dr. C. A. Parmentier, well known organist, will present a program of "longhair" and "jive." The recital will start at 8:30 P.M.

All concerts will be given in the College auditorium, where tickets may be purchased before each concert, all students are admitted free. Subscription tickets for the entire series may be obtained by writing to the music department.

Christmas music will be the theme of the second concert on Dec. 14. Under the direction of Mr. Bainbridge, the College Choir, orchestra, and Glee Club will join forces in producing a Yuletide atmosphere.

The third recital will feature Mrs. Marion MacIntyre, lyric soprano, and Julius Hegyi, concert violinist.

Starting at the close of the current series will be the two-piano team of Raymond Burroughs and Anthony Loudis.

These concerts in the past have proved to be highly popular, and have always drawn large audiences. They are being offered as a continued effort on the part of those concerned to bring good music and fine artists to the Staten Island community.

John G. Wagner Portrait Unveiled

Many of us have often wondered just who the Wagner in Wagner Memorial Lutheran College is or was. The answer to that perplexing question may now be found in the office of the president of the college. Therein a portrait of the late John G. Wagner, benefactor and namesake of the college, was unveiled on October 1.

Mr. Wagner, of Rochester, N.Y., was originally a contractor. In June, 1886, he contributed $12,000 as a memorial to his son, George Wagner, to aid in the purchase of a building for the housing of the school. He was also one of the earliest presidents of the board of trustees. Thus the name of the institution appropriately came to be Wagner Memorial Lutheran College.

The portrait was presented to the college by Mrs. G. Clark, Geneva, N. Y., the only granddaughter of the late benefactor. It was accepted by the Rev. Frederic Sutter, D.D., chairman of the board of trustees and pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church.

The unveiling ceremony was small and informal.

Wanted—One Tuba; Clarinets, Trumpets

Are you an accomplished musical artist? Can you play music? Are you interested in music? If you are enthusiastic about music the band wants you! Beginner or experienced, you can help build up our band.

Already numbering fifteen pieces, Mr. Elsworth is trying to expand the band further. Particularly needed are clarinets, trumpets, and tuba.

Rehearsals are Tuesdays and Thursdays at 3 P.M. in Cunard 5.

Registration Plan Devised For Speed

Preliminary registration for the spring semester will begin October 13. Miss Marguerite Hess, Registrar, has announced a new plan which will speed up the mechanics of registration.

The six faculty members appointed by the Registrar as her assistants in registration are Mr. Giese-mann, Chaplain Kirsch, Mr. Kraemer, Dr. Stern, Mr. Sutter, and Dr. Wayland.

The new plan is as follows: Students are to report according to the schedule printed below, to the department head of their major subject. The department head will advise the student as to course of study for the spring semester. After consultation with the department head, the student is referred to anyone of the assistants to the Registrar with the preliminary registration card bearing the signature of the major professor.

Students are to arrange appointments with their major professor as well as with the assistant to the registrar during the time schedule allotted to each group.

The schedule is as follows:

Seniors—October 13-22 — A-Z.

Juniors—October 23-November 3 A-Z.

Sophomores — November 4-10 — A-D; November 11-17 — E-I;

November 18-18-25 — J-M;

December 1-8 — N-R; December 9-15 — S-Z.

Freshmen and other students who have not chosen a major, December 16-19, and January 5-16.

Class lists are posted on the bulletin board.

Dr. Gould Wickey To Address Wagnerites

Dr. Gould Wickey, executive secretary of the Board of Education of the United Lutheran Church in America, will be the guest speaker in chapel, Wednesday, October 15.

The pre-theological students will have an opportunity to meet with Dr. Wickey to consult with him, and ask him any questions they may have. This meeting will be held at 3:15. The place of the meeting will be announced before Tuesday.

Varsity Players Plan Extensive 47-48 Program

The Wagner Varsity Players, college dramatics group, mapped an extensive program for the 1947-48 season at a meeting held recently in the school auditorium. Miss Claire St. Leger, a sophomore, was elected secretary of the organization.

The group decided to present major productions in December of this year and May of 1948; radio plays in Chapel periods; and to witness several Broadway plays. Last season the group attended performances of James Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" and William Shakespeare's "Henry VIII," American Repertory Theatre productions featuring Miss Eva Legalliene.

The thespians, in the 1946-47 season, presented Chekhov's comedy "My Sister Eileen" and the Nugent-Elliott seriocomic, "The Male Animal," each of which drew throngs of over 800 people. The group also gave a scene from a passion play during a Chapel period.

Aside from Miss St. Leger, the other officers are hold-overs from last year. They are: Miss Coline Innes, president; Bob Carey, vice-president; Walter Reichelt, treasurer; and Carl Cash, historian. The Player's administration advisers are Mr. Virgil Markham, along with Mr. Nicholas Moss and Miss Jeanne Sellars, who intends to lecture on stage technique. Director Ronald T. Hammond is now on tour in the Dakotas and his position is open.

Along with their presentations, the 42 members attending the meeting expressed the desire to study "the stage" from all angles. There is still an opportunity for others to join. Whether interested in acting, designing, writing, carpentry, or in merely observing, everyone is welcome.

Dr. Crawford and Mr. Ellsworth Are Among 17 New Faculty Members

To maintain Wagner's policy of high scholastic standards through small classes, it has been necessary to add seventeen new members to the faculty and staff. This article, one of a series of articles designed to acquaint the students with the new faculty members, introduces Dr. John E. Crawford, and A. Eugene Ellsworth.

Dr. Crawford, a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., has had a diversified experience as a psychologist and educator. After receiving the degree of Doctor of Education at the Univ. of Pittsburgh, he spent eight years in personnel administration in industry. A former member of the faculty at Rutgers Univ., and, recently, a lecturer in guidance at NYU, Dr. Crawford is the author

Freshman Week Program Features Sports Events

Committee Sets Up Point System; Winning Class To Receive Trophy

Each year the College admits a new class of Freshman. They come from far and wide, from a great diversity of homes and churches and high schools;—in these days, many of them reach college only after long years of military service. We should welcome them, make them feel at home, and help them adapt themselves to a situation new to them. This we have begun with the class of 1951. The orientation period which preceded registration was a great success, thanks to the careful planning of the Traditions Committee and the splendid teamwork of the student counsellors and the Faculty coordinators and the cooperative spirit of the new students themselves.

Scholarships For Graduate Work To Be Awarded

The Board of Trustees of Wagner College has announced that two members of the graduating class will be eligible for scholarships amounting to $250 each. These scholarships are being awarded to help "defray the cost of the first year's graduate work at one of several specified universities."

A committee composed of President Langsam, Dean Bacher, and Mr. Cook, Comptroller of the college, shall select and announce the names of the winners on February 1st, of each year. Character, academic standing, and a willingness to pursue graduate work leading to a degree of Ph.D., shall be the bases for selection.

The universities to which the scholarships will be awarded are: Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pennsylvania, Princeton, Rochester and Yale.

Applications by prospective candidates should be made to the office of the President by January 15th of each year.

Traditionally, the next step is Freshman Week, which comes after the new students have had a fortnight or so to settle down to their school work and the routine of college life. The activities of Freshman Week are in the nature of an initiation of the new members into the college community. When Grandfather was an undergraduate, the initiation was pretty rough, and lasted intermittently throughout the Freshman year. Most colleges have long since abandoned hazing, and the attempts to revive it at Wagner after the war were unsatisfactory both to the partisans and to the adversaries of hazing. In consequence, the Board of Traditions, which is required by the College Council Constitution to "supervise and establish the rules for Freshman-Sophomore activities and enforce penalties for violation of these rules", worked hard all last year to prepare a Freshman Week program which would preserve the good features of Freshman-Sophomore class rivalry and eliminate the objectionable features. The results of this planning are to be found in the new Student Handbook, pages 42-45.

The new program outlaws hazing in any form. It provides for a series of sport events between the Freshman and Sophomore classes, which will be held during the week of October 20. The details of this program will be announced shortly by the Traditions Committee of the Student Association, it is expected to include such events as a men's basketball game, a girls' softball game, a track and field meet, including novelty races, a tug-of-war and a flag rush. Points will be Holding the first meeting of the new semester, the International Relations Club elected officers for the coming year. Frank Kaiser was chosen president, Wesley Geigel, vice-president, and Gene Feretti, secretary-treasurer.

The next meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:10, in Cunard Hall. A discussion period will be held on the question, "Should we strive for more permanent military bases outside the continental U. S.?"

Make Ours Music

We often hear the comment that Wagner is a musical college, and we are justly proud of that fact. But, unfortunately, it seems this talent has been limited to voice and piano activities. At just such times as we need music most we have had to resort to the "canned" variety. Specifically, at varsity athletics events.

Once again, at our football games. We have had to endure uneventful intermissions without the benefit of ringing martial band music to keep our support of a fine-spirited, fighting team at a high pitch. The lack of a band is a big factor in the second half let down of spirit which has on occasion caused the team to ask itself whether the student body was really behind it.

Without some between-the-half pageantry our field takes on the appearance of any local sandlot with youngsters overrunning it. The resulting confusion dispels the collegiate atmosphere completely and makes our non-college friends wonder if it was worth the seemingly exorbitant $1.20 assessment for admission.

Suggestions were made before last year's season started, and again this year, that some kind of a band should be started, even if it meant only ten or twelve pieces. The reaction on the part of the college was apathetic. The same spirit prevailed as in other student activities, that if the students wanted something they must do it themselves. But students, no matter how interested, or talented could not shoulder such a responsibility, any more than could individual athletes organize varsity teams without adequate supervision and coaching.

Now, at last, comes the welcome news that Mr. Bainbridge is busy working on the problem. He has a small group already hard at work. It isn't very large; but what it lacks in size it will make up in spirit.

We heartily welcome our new band to an ever-growing list of activities and wish it all the luck in the world. We hope that every student will support it all the way, for we have been without one for too long a time.

It would be wonderful to hear the theme of our "Alma Mater" roll out to the towers of the Ad building on Homecoming Day with real, live sound effects.

FATE

One evening last week the sad and dejected remnants of a man staggered out of the bookstore and fell to the floor. Donny O'Hare and I stopped in our tracks. Never had we seen a more pitiful sight. At first the stark creature looked like an infantry veteran, but when we drew closer we recognized the woeful one.

"Dano McPowell," I gasped, "what have they done to you?" "Alas, alas," he moaned, "it's fate." And then I knew. Dano McPowell had played the game to the last out and now he was just another fallen angel from Brooklyn. The Dodgers had done it not again. Fate was indeed a Yankee fan.

"Dano," I said, "lose not your courage, chin up chum, there'll always be a next year." And as I said these words I thought of a cool October evening in 1941. Carefree and convivial, I was then out on a date with a fair frill from Flatbush. I was eager for fun and frolic, but what I got were the following funereal phrases:

All night long I stood on line To see those "Beloved Bums" of mine.

Alas! Alas! They lost that day In their inimitable Dodger way.

Had La Dame Fate but looked our way, We'd have knocked the Yanks across the bay.

Walker and Reiser were great to see

And rhyme or not, I'd include Pee Wee.

JUST ASKING

QUESTION:

Question:

Will there be a war between Russia and the U.S. within the next five years?

Location: Ad. Building

Bertie Walbert: Senior

Yes. Russia's criticism of us on a whole, and President Truman in particular, seems to indicate that the Russians are "looking for a scrap." After the last war they got a taste of power, and I think they want another war to increase their power and influence, rather than to spread their Communist doctrines.

Ed Megerian: Sophomore

No. Not unless it's part of Russia's next Five Year Plan. They'll have to start it if it comes. Our actions in the past would seem to indicate that we will adopt a "wait and see what happens" policy, until it's too late.

James P. Kelly Extension

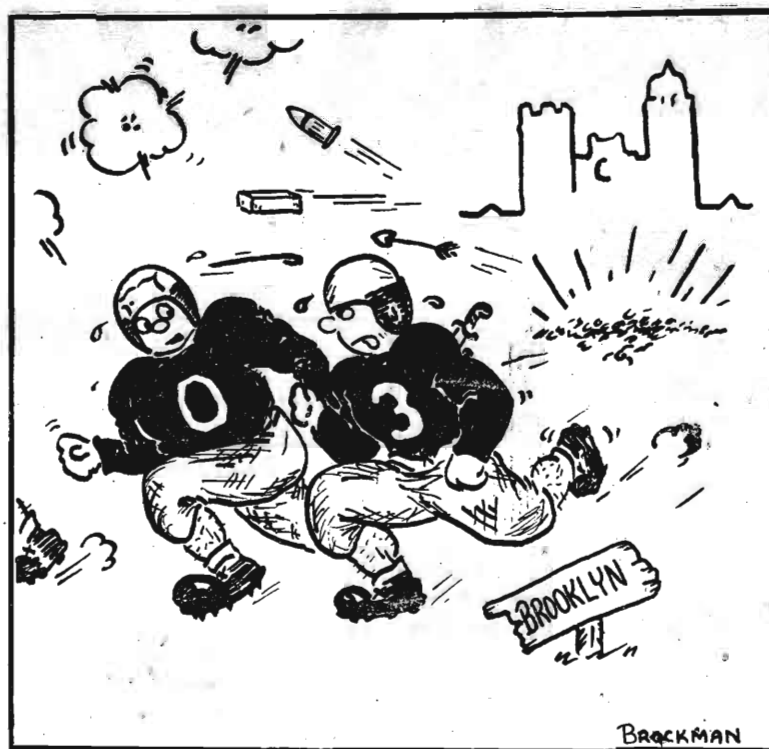

In the light of any analysis, this question is taken too seriously. From a purely economic standpoint it is impossible for Russia to start even a rocket war for ten or twenty years. The bogey is raised by political experts who place America and Russia into two spheres of influence and into two opposing ideological camps. Actually, aside from debunking theories of "war in five years" hysteria, I think the more ironic note is this. In the interests of security, German scientists are working in Russia to perfect rockets to attack America, while at the same time German scientists are working in America for presumably the same reason—at a time when both Russian and American veterans are still dying from wounds inflicted by the Germans. [Ed. Note: Whew!]

Margaret Christe: Junior

No. I don't like to be pessimistic, and besides, Russia is in no position to carry on a war without our supplies.

Jo Mann: Sophomore

No. I'm one of the few people who don't think there will be a war. I think the U.N. will be able to settle all difficulties peaceably. War will come only if we start to build up our forces, and thereby cause Russia to follow suit.

"Boy, the students sure give us a sendoff"

THE HILLTOPPER

By Richard Forster

Profs Keep Smilin'

The professors of ancient, modern, and romance languages are walking around the halls of Wagner these days with pleased expressions on their respective faces. It seems that Greek and Latin, which most people consider dead means of vocal and literary communication, are once again coming into popular usage. It pleases the scholars like a revival of the "Jazz Singer" would send the remnants of the flapper girls into ecstasy.

Two of Wagner's most important publications have already been cast under a classical spell. The Yearbook (which comes out yearly) is known as the Kallista. Of course, everyone recognizes this Greek word to mean "most beautiful." The new literary magazine has been appropriately dubbed the Nimbus, which means "cloud." All writers for this group must be meteorology majors. They promise to get down to earth soon and come out with the first issue.

When in Rome do as the Romans do!

As yet the Wagnerian hasn't found a fitting title for the paper. (No suggestions from laymen will be accepted.) However, the editorial staff promises to wear green and white togas draped fourteen inches from the floor. Everytime an issue is delayed, our editor-in-chief will fiddle while our subscribers burn.

The four frats and two sororities on the Hill have strange names, but it's all Greek to me. If the students start a new brotherhood we hope they call it Tappa-Halfa-Kega. This would show competent organization.

All Roads Lead To Rome?

Even the International Relations Club is getting on the bandwagon (more violins). We understand the most debated subject is about the messed up situation in Greece. It's quite slippery and illusive. Perhaps, the club should also change its title. An over-the-shoulder reader just suggested calling it "the Poor Relations Club." That's one gag which is a classic.

According to the latest reports economic students come out of Mr. Kraemer's classes jubilantly shouting, "Veni, vidi, vici," whenever he neglects to give them one of his infamous short quizzes.

The Road Back

The Dramatic Club is following the trend also. From now on, comedies are out unless they were written by Plautus or Terence. An occasional "Et tu, Brute" may be allowed to resound through our spacious auditorium. We hope that a gal basketball player won't be accused of grabbing her opponent if some thespian yells out, "Caesar, Caesar."

Yes, the ancient Greeks and Romans have taken over. Most of the jokes in the Hilltopper are as old as Plato and his idealists.

—by Omar Kelly

The score board read: Brooklyn 4, Yankees 3. And thrilled the very heart of me; Casey was leading and breezing through. But it was a cold, ill wind that blew . . .

Strike three! Glory be! Henrich's out!

Up from the stand sorse the victory shout.

Ye Gods! What's up? Owen's dropped the ball!

And in the gathering dusk of fall . . .

The Yanks went out to beat the "Bums"

Scoring seven to our four runs . . . I'll tell you this, as man to man Fate, I'm sure, is a Yankee fan.

SPORTS CORNER

By Laucella

Intramurals

This week marks the beginning of a full season of intramural activities. From now until the end of school all of you play-for-fun students who are athletically inclined will find a full schedule of major and minor sports activities on the agenda.

The best part about intramural activities is the fact that those of you who are interested may enter into the sports with the knowledge that you don't have to give your utmost for the glory of the school. In short, you may play entirely free of pressure and indulge in the sport for the sheer fun of it, rather than press for fear of dropping a pass, missing an easy basket, or committing a harmful error.

Perhaps the prime incentive for entering into intramural activity, aside from the fact that it's an easy method of rounding into physical shape, is the individual trophies which are awarded to the members of the winning teams. Last year, handsome, bronze-colored metal "W"'s, coated with green and white enamel served as the prizes.

At the present time, football is on the verge of getting under way. At the close of the pigskin season, basketball, which proved to be the most popular of intramural sports, takes over the limelight. Following closely on the heels of basketball are volleyball and bowling. The intramural season draws to a close with softball and tennis sharing top billing.

John "Bunny" Barbes, who is now in his second year as physical instructor, is the man responsible for reorganizing the system of intramural activities at Wagner. Consequently, he deserves the lion's share of the credit for the splendid manner in which it has worked out. His efforts have created a source of much enjoyment and friendly rivalry for all who have engaged in intramural sports.

To all you new students at Wagner, remember, you don't have to be a star athlete to participate in intramural activities. The main assets are enthusiasm, and a desire for good clean-cut competition. If you are interested, sign up with some team, or better yet, make up a club of your own and join in the fun. You won't be sorry!

The co-eds of Wagner needn't take a back-seat when it comes to displaying their athletic wares in the field of intramural activities. In season, they may engage in basketball, volleyball, badminton, archery and tennis.

Wagner II Crosses Narrows to Play Brooklyn College

With a gleam of revenge in their eyes the Wagner football team will cross the Narrows next Saturday afternoon to the land of the Brooklyn Dodgers, to do battle against the highly touted Kingsmen of Brooklyn College. The kickoff at the Brooklyn field is slated for 2:30 P.M.

Last year the Brooklyn gridders topped the Green after a terrific struggle which saw a Wagner pass from deep in its own territory intercepted, and converted into six points to give the Orange and Gold a 25-19 victory. It was an unfortunate break for the Hilltoppers and they will be more than eager to even the count this season.

The Brooklyn eleven opened the current grid season two weeks ago against New York University and not only suffered a 19-0 whitewashing at the hands of the Violets but absorbed a terrific physical beating as well. As a result Ed Bishop, first string quarterback and who played quite a game against Wagner last year will probably be sidelined this Saturday.

Expected to jump into the vacated position however is Norman Weiner who is reputedly the best passer on the squad and is well versed in directing the Brooklyn eleven from the "T" formation. In addition to Weiner coach Lou Oshins will probably start Sam Bottone at right half or Milt Sirota at right half, Abe Bressler at left half and Shelly Steinberg in the fullback position.

Varsity X-Country Squad in Training

Meeting in the gymnasium last Monday afternoon a group of twelve Wagner students made plans to reorganize the Green and White cross country squad. Discontinued throughout the war the last team ran in 1941.

The services of Mr. Carl Jung, track team coach of Curtis High School have been secured to provide instruction and guidance during practice sessions. Practice is held every day and it is hoped that several dual meets will be scheduled this year.

New members are needed and requested to help make the revival of the sport successful. All interested students are asked to report to Clove Lakes Park every afternoon at 4:15.

Among the candidates are Earl Arnold, captain of the cinder squad, Remi Baechtold, Henry Sheppard, Harry Schott, Valdimir Lubin, Fred Witte, Don Maher, and Larry Fauber.

Green Tops Lowell For 2nd Win, 7-6

Hilltoppers Score in Opening Quarter At Lowell, Mass; Grosz and Scaffa Star

Seeking their second win of the current season the Wagner football team invaded the New England area of Lowell, Mass. last Friday evening and defeated a spirited Lowell Textile eleven by a score of 7-6. The contest was an arclight affair staged in Lowell Memorial Stadium.

The Hilltoppers wasted little time getting down to business as they marched 62 yards early in the first quarter for a touchdown. Taking over on their own 38 yard stripe the Green moved into enemy territory on a 7 yard thrust over right guard by Bill Thompson and a line plunge by Milt Grosz for a first down on the Lowell 49 yard line. Matty Scaffa then faked a handoff to Thompson, tucked the pikskin under his own arm, and cut through the left side of the Lowell line for 39 yards to the Lowell 10. Milt Grosz, then took over and on successive plunges battered his way to the 2 yard line. With last down coming up Grosz then circled right end for the score. Bill Clause, Wagner's conversion specialist, booted the all-important extra point.

In the third quarter Wagner staged what appeared to be another scoring drive only to lose the ball on the 6 inch line. With Matt Scaffa spearheading the attack the Hilltoppers marched from their own 10 to the 30 yard stripe of Lowell. Here Scaffa hit "Whitey" Drown with a pass on the 18 who then lugged the leather to the 3 yard line before being tackled. Grosz carried the ball to the 1 yard line and Bill Thompson circled his own right end for what appeared to be another score. The officials, however, ruled that Thompson had been forced out just before crossing into the end zone and gave Lowell the ball on downs.

Early in the fourth period Lowell penetrated Wagner territory for the first time and went on to score.

Fifty Candidates Try out Today For Basketball

Approximately fifty candidates are expected to turn out this afternoon in the gymnasium for the 1947-1948 basketball team. Five lettermen from last year's varsity, the majority of the excellent J. V. squad, and about five or six name players from high schools and other colleges are expected to form the nucleus of the two teams for the coming year.

Naturally Herb Sutter, Director of Athletics, and coach is noncommittal about the chances for a successful season. However, it is the opinion of this observer and others that the squad will fare very well in competition.

Heading the list of returning lettermen are Wilson Gearhart, John Thompson, Bill Willets, Carl Fugelstadt, and Edward Gowski from the 46147 varsity. Although it is a bit early to make forecasts about other members, the word is being passed around to watch Jay Quintana transfer from Williams, Ray Doody, St. Peter's High star, Arthur Levinson, Curtis set shot artist, and Swede Nelson, member of the state championship team of Ohio. As already stated, Coach Sutter is looking forward to a great deal of help from the J. V. squad.

Intra-murals

An extensive intra-murals program under the direction of Bunny Barbes will be getting under way shortly. Touch football, tennis, volleyball, inter-class and inter-squad basketball, and softball are scheduled for competition.

Touch football squads are limited to eight men, with the deadline for entries being October 13. The tennis deadline is also October 13. Volleyball teams are similarly limited to eight men. Basketball will be run off in two leagues, inter-class and inter-squad.

Hilltoppers Lose to Hamilton, 13-7; Oetjen, Hanssen Defensive Stars

Build a better mousetrap and the world will beat a path to your door. Wagner tackles and ends will testify that Head Coach Earl G. Swensen of Hamilton has devised his own clever version of the house trap. His interpretation, however, applies to that particular play on a football field which his Hamilton team used so effectively against the Hilltoppers Saturday, October 5.

Presenting a light, but fast and charging squad, the men from Clinton, N. Y., rode to a 13-7 victory over Wagner on the basis of their strong finish in the second half. Using a series of ground plays, designed for use against a hard charging line, the upstaters rolled up a total of 163 yards, while holding Wagner to a total of 35 in the last half.

The first half was fought on even terms with each team attempting to capitalize on long punts to put the other in a hole. Hamilton held the upper hand until the closing minutes. At this point the accurate left arm of Matt Scaffa came to the fore. Pitching to Jim Gilmartin, Matt's tosses enabled the Hill men to move from their own 49 to Hamilton 15. With one minute left to play for the half, Matt faded to pass, but seeing the entire upstate team drawn over to the right side he dashed around his own left end to score standing up. Bill Claus threw a key block on the Hamilton right end. Claus also kicked the extra point.

Wagner received the second half kickoff, and returned it to the 19. Three ground plays gained little, and the quarterback elected to kick. This marked the turning point because the pass from center was bad. Hilfinger, right end for Hamilton, crashed in and recovered the loose ball on the Wagner 10. With fourth and nine to go it appeared that the Hilltoppers might stave off the drive. On the next play, however, Warren, on a delayed handoff, carried around his own left end to the half yard marker. The same man bucked over left tackle for the score. The point after touchdown was no good.

The remainder of the third period saw Mamilton pile up plenty of yardage; but when the chips were down severe tackling by Wagner men caused fumbling, which were recovered by the Hilltoppers. An attempted lateral play also caused Coach Swenson to lose some hair, as the lateral always seemed to be thrown to the invisible man.

Finally, the men from Clinton capitalized on a short Wagner kick off. With Digregorio, Kelly, and Warren carrying on handoffs from Crew, Hamilton moved to a touchdown in four plays. The advance covered thirty-nine yards. This time the conversion split the up-rights, making the score 13-7.

The rest of the fourth quarter was spent in Wagner territory. Using a man to man assignment on pass defense the Hamilton backs were able to bottle up the Hilltopper's passing attack which was so successful in the first half against a 6-3-2 defense.

Outstanding for Wagner was the sterling defensive play of Don Hanssen and Ken Oetjen. On the Hamilton side of ledger a group of sixty minute men exhibited tremendous stamina and drive as they outlasted their heavier opponents. DiGregorio, the left half, was a mite of 2a fellow, and reminded spectators of Jimmy Peters from Susquehanna.

Freshman Week Progm Planned

awarded to the class winning each contest. Friday, October 24, will be the big day. Classes will be dismissed at the close of the fifth period (1:10 P. M.). The afternoon will be devoted to the final events of the program. In the evening, the Freshmen will present their show in the auditorium, a trophy will be awarded to the class which has won most points in the sports contests, and the Week will end with a formal initiation ceremony for the Freshmen.

Though no mention is made of these points in the Handbook, Freshmen are expected to wear the traditional Freshmen cap beginning October 20, and all students are expected to be familiar with the contents of the Handbook, including in particular, the Alma Mater. This is simply a matter of college spirit. Every Freshman will surely be proud to wear the green and white of Wagner. Every Wagner student has enough school spirit to want to participate fully on the life of the College, and to make himself familiar with its organization, its operation, and its traditions. To misquote Walter Scott,

"Breathes there a man with soul

Who never to himself hath said,

Dr. Hackman Talks On Race Problems

Concluding that "the race problem is essentially a religious one," Dr. George Hackman, Pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church, the Bronx, and instructor of religious studies at Wagner, expressed confidence that hard work, determination, and far-sightedness will prove the eventual cure.

Dr. Hackman delivered his address here, Oct. 7, before an audience of one hundred at the first meeting of the Student Christian Association.

"The church has been lax in dealing with this problem," he stated, "and it will be several generations before any marked improvement can be expected."

Following Dr. Hackman's talk a question and answer period was held

Wagner Vs. Lowell

With Sid Rudes passing, two successive aerials carried the ball from the Lowell 48 to the Wagner 29 yard line. Another pass, Rudes to Huf was good to the 10 and a moment later Rudes pitched a pass to Al Gelline in the end zone. Leitgeb failed to convert however in what later proved to be the margin of Victory.

OVER THE HILL

by Ed Megerian

Skirts and the new gal students are longer this term.

Went to a movie the other nite and believe it or not the hero was not a private eye.

Overheard at the Wagner-Panzer game: C'mon white, c'mon red—C'mon Panzer, drop dead!

Had a "Guil-den Zombie" (only one to a customer) yesterday. Coke spiked with 7 Up.

And what did you do during the summer? I had a job turning back mileage gauges for a used car dealer.

Touch Football is with us once more. Unfortunately I've already been rejected by my team as physically unfit . . . Short finger-nails!

I wouldn't say that being on probation has played havoc with the choir, but does anyone have a booking for the Wagner a cappella quartet?

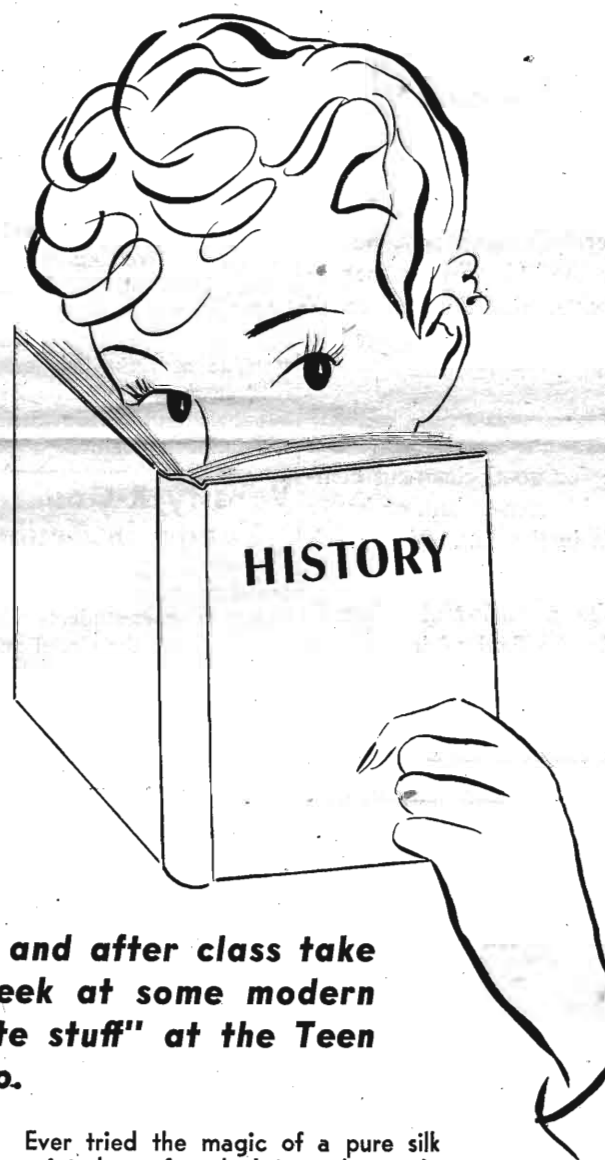

Last Sunday night as I listened to the President's plan of no poultry consuming on Thursdays, I could just picture about 50 million happy turkeys sitting around planning their own Thanksgiving.

Looks like the only turkey we get this year will be from the Dramatics Club.

I just bet on the Dodgers to take the series. I know the Yanks won it, but I got such wonderful odds!

Wonder where some people get all of their ability. At the Hamilton-Wagner game, we found our ears being blasted by a world-series game coming out of a portable, and our eyes being filled with a football game. Maybe we need a course in dual-concentration.
