Christopher McIVER was apparently a tailor or clothing merchant in Lynchburg, Virginia, from ca. 1838 until ca. 1860. In 1846, he entered into partnership with Charles W. LOVE in the firm of McIVER and LOVE. The firm advertised that "our business will be carried on in a tenement immediately opposite my [McIVER's] former Shop, where we are opening and receiving a fresh supply of Cloths, Cassimeres, Vestings, Handkerchiefs, Stocks, Bosoms, and a variety of other articles usually kept by Merchant-Tailors." [Lynchburg Virginian, 19 March 1846, p. 1 col. 3.] In 1847, the firm was "dissolved by mutual consent." [Lynchburg Virginian, 25 January 1847, p. 3 col. 3.] By 1 April 1847, Charles W. LOVE advertised a "spring supply of new goods" in his shop "at the old stand of McIVER and LOVE." [Lynchburg Virginian, 13 September 1847, p. 4 col. 4.]
