ED TINSLEY COLLECTION

The collection includes a typewritten and audio diary (on CD-ROM), Portrait of a Disaster, chronicling the destruction in Nelson County, Va., from Hurricane Camille in 1969. Also included are video diaries (on videotape and video DVD-ROM) of the demolition of Williams Viaduct in Lynchburg, Va., first opened in 1919, and the construction of the replacement John Lynch Memorial Bridge, which opened in 1988. Also included are photographs and PowerPoint presentations of the building of Tara, the Tinsley home in Amherst County, Va., constructed from materials from the demolished Boys Building of the Odd Fellows Home in Lynchburg.

Also included is a collection of photographs of the damage done by Hurricane Camille, as well as more recent photographs of the same areas (on DVD) and the Camille 40th Anniversary program held at the Nelson County High School, 20 August 2009 (on DVD).
