WILLIAM SCOTT SMITH

An Amherst County native, Smith later moved to Campbell County and graduated from Rustburg High School. He earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Virginia and worked in politics before beginning his career as a community planner. Scott served as Executive Director of Bedford Main Street, Inc. from 2001- 2006, and in 2006, began working for the Central Virginia Planning District Commission in several roles, ending as Transportation Planning Director in 2020.

From 2005 - 2015, he and his wife Emily operated a historical and architectural research firm (first known as The Antiquaries and then as HistoryTech). Smith served on the Lynchburg Museum System Board of Directors followed by two terms on the City of Lynchburg Historic Preservation Commission. He was active in community affairs and worked with the Boy Scouts of America, Fifth Street Community Development Corporation, Marshall Lodge No. 39, AF & AM, and St. John's Episcopal Church. With his family, Scott now lives in Columbia, Mo.
