Abraham Whitesides (Reedy Fork

History of Buffalo Presbyterian Church and Her People (Rev. S.M.Rankin) page 30:"Robert Thompson secured two grants of 640 acres each, one on Buffalo and one on the Reedy Fork. He lived on the Reedy Fork. He witnessed the deed of John McKnight and others on North Buffalo. On the day of the Alamance battle, May 16, 1771, he went with his pastor, Dr. Caldwell, to Governor Tryon's camp to try to effect some kind of a compromise to avoid a battle. Dr. Caldwell returned to the Regulators to deliver his message, but Robert Thompson and Robert Mateer, of the Haw River Church, were detained. Later when Thompson started to return to his men he was shot down by Governor Tryon. (Life of Caldwell, page 153.) His was the first blood shed for the rights of the American Colonies. Robert Thompson left two sons, Samuel and John, and a daughter, Samuel married Margaret, daughter of John McClintock, Sr.; the daughter married Abram Whitesides, and their daughter married James Cannon, the grandfather of Congressman Joseph G.Cannon, of Illinois, and father of Governor Newton Cannon, of Tennessee."
