(Mayflower line - see below.)

Page 1028: William Wattle Jones Warren was born in Lyme, Conn., April 13, 1844. The son of Dr. W. W. J. and Maria E. (Peck). The name of Warren seems to have existed as far back as the time of Pepin and Charlemagne, and was borne by the French nobility previous to the Norman conquest of England. The first of the name in England was William, first Earl of Warren, who rendered such valuable service to the Conqueror at Hastings. That nobleman chose for his seat the beautiful village of Lewes, in the County of Essex, and was afterwards made Earl of Warren and Surrey. The American ancestor was John Warren, who arrived in New England in 1630, settling in Watertown, Mass. Moses Warren, the first, was commissioned a captain in the Revolutionary War by Governor Jonathan Trumbull in 1777. Moses Warren, the second, great-grandfather of the subject of this sketch, was made a deputy land surveyor of Connecticut in 1796, and assisted General Moses Cleveland in laying out the city of Cleveland Ohio. The towns of Wabrock, Trumbull County, and Euclid, Ohio, were named in his honor. Mr. Warren's mother, Maria E. Peck, was a daughter of Ezra Peck, granddaughter of Joseph Peck, who served as second lieutenant under Captain Dan Dueson and General Waterbury's Brigade during the Revolution, and a descendant of William Peck, one of the founders of the New Haven Colony.

William Peck of Connecticut

The Warren family is also descended from Richard Warren, the Mayflower pilgrim. Mr. Warren is a descendant, on the maternal side, of Captain Benjamin Church, the conqueror of King Philip.

PECK-FARRAR.
Answer to Query 566, J. H. H., December 21, 1930—William F. Farrar and Sarah Deming Peck were my great-grandparents. I am great-granddaughter of William Powell Farrar by his first wife, Hannah Minter Farrar, and of John Peck and Sarah Deming. Sarah became the third wife of William Powell Farrar, and their oldest daughter, Sallie (Sarah), married J. N. Hall, of Decatur, Ala. I have much Farrar data and the Deming line to immigrant ancestor, John Deming; also Peck data to Joseph Peck, of Milford, Conn., in 1693.
